Living on a Farm.

How brightly through the mist of years,
My quiet country home appears;
My father, busy all the day,
In plowing corn he takes his way;
My mother, moving with delight,
Among her milk-white, silver bright;
We children, just from school set free,
Filling the garden with our glee;
The blood of life was flowing warm
When I was living on a farm.

I heard the sweet church, going bell,
As o'er the fields to music fell;
I saw the country neighbors round
Gathering 'neath the pleasant sound;
They stop awhile beside the door,
To talk the homely matters o'er;
The springing corn, the ripening grain
And 'how we need a little rain."
"A little sun would do no harm."
We wait good weather for the farm."

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan 7, 1878.

The report of Mr. Slade, Collector of Customs at El Paso, to Secretary Sherman relative to the recent disturbances in that county, was ordered to be made public at the Friday Cabinet meeting and is substantially as follows: The origin of the trouble was mainly local, but many Mexican citizens unquestionably came across the Rio Grande and participated. Northern Mexican States adjacent to Texas have long drawn their principal supplies of salt from the lakes in that State, about 100 miles from El Paso. It has always been from here, and to all, and the traffic gave employment to many hundred people. In 1868 a clause was inserted in the Texas constitution, permitting private parties to locate salt lakes, a provision since utilized by politicians of El Paso county in obtaining the vote of such as could be tricked into the arrangement, on the promise to obtain for those thus voting, absolute titles to the salt lakes. Persistent office seekers have thus often been elected only to repudiate their part of the contract and to leave their dupes under the impression that they had been deceived.

These lakes fell into the possession of the Texas Pacific Co., when the State granted their right of way through it; and hence it could no longer issue letters patent for them nor could they be located on State certificates. The land having only been completed to Fort Worth the company could not obtain sufficient certificates to supply the trade, and they consequently command a high price. An Austin Company finally succeeded by some sharp practice (probably in locating the lakes in such way as to give it some shadow of a title, more or less valid, and extracted their share from a local agent. Government agents were sent and adapted to deter Mexicans from coming for further supplies of the saline product. The then highest authority in the county was the county judge, a Mexican, who is supposed to have been under obligations to the agent for his election, and decided every question relative to the property, in his favor. By his orders several parties were arrested on complaint of the agent, not for actual trespass, but because they had threatened it. The Mexicans were consequently much influenced against both in consequence; the agent claimed the sheriff's protection against the Mexicans, who had run down and imprisoned the judge, they then besieged the house of the sheriff, who temporarily left to put his wife in a place of safety, and who was not allowed to return. The agent was captured and given his choice to either sign a paper making the lakes free to all dealing in their products, until their ownership should have been determined by competent authority, and to leave the county within 24 hours after release, never to return, or remain in custody. After three days he complied with the conditions, being warned by a priest that he would be killed if he held out longer. They imposed no restrictions on the Sheriff's movements after the agent's capture. The agent soon returned to El Paso, and almost immediately met Cardillo, the leader of the Mexican mob, (American citizens of Mexican birth or extraction, with a few Mexican citizens) and killed him. It was generally believed that Cardillo instigated the mob in their acts. Howard ordered his pursuers to go to New Mexico, and returning Dec. 2, in November Mr. Jones, under no State authority recruited a company of Rangers (20 men) to aid the sheriff in enforcing law, and preserving peace. On 12th Howard left El Paso under Ranger escort, with writs of reparation against the salina contents of many Mexican carts returning to San Elizario from the lakes, and to arrest those found in possession of the salt. On his arrival Mr. Slade understood he conducted himself in a way almost certain to precipitate a conflict with the Mexican residents "calling them pro-se, and other opprobrious epithets" and daring them to combat. This exasperated conduct appears as unprovoked as his insult was gratuitous. This prompted by the previous indignities to which he was subjected, and acting under the supposition that his force was superior to any that could be mustered he defied them. In the morning they found themselves surrounded by the Mexican mob, and others came to assist. After a 4 days siege both parties displayed the white flag, the Rangers first. Howard, Atkinson and McBride (Howard's sub-agents) were induced to visit the Mexicans with the promise that if they should do so, matters could be readily adjusted. They were at once taken out and shot. The balance of the command had meantime surrendered, but were next morning released from confinement, and their horses were returned to them but not their arms. Killed during the 4 days fusillade, 2 Rangers and 3 or 4 Mexicans, several of both sides being wounded. At the date of the report the few American citizens had fled the town and the Mexicans were preparing to escape across the river, leaving the bats and ewls in possession.

The veterans and recruits of the female suffrage cause are gathering from near and far for their annual convention in this city, on the 8th and 9th inst. Nearly all the old pioneers and those who became prominent later, are here, entertained by their Congressional and other friends. Headquarters at Biggs House. Members of Congress may prepare for a vigorous assault as their morale is excellent. No sign of demoralization or discouragement, and the belief now of those most uncompromising in their opposition, grows more nearly unanimous every year that the cause will ultimately win.

The demand for postal savings banks or something equivalent, where the Government shall act as the responsible custodian of deposits, instead of irresponsible sharpers and thieves, becomes more pronounced and imperative as the number of bankrupt savings banks, wrecked insurance companies, and rotten private business concerns, is augmented by the failures reported from day to day. Even State rights, "local Government," Democratic demagogues, always loudest in denouncing paternal Government, admit that a change is inevitable, and yield their opposition as the victimized among the masses become more importunate for relief.

MAXWELL.

On Seaboard.

OPERATIONS OF THE SAVING SERVICE.

Mr. Sumner A. Kimball, General Superintendent of the United States Life-saving Service, has submitted his report of the operations of that service for the last fiscal year. The reports of the superintendents of the several districts show that there have been during the year 134 disasters to vessels within the limits of the operations of the service. On board of these vessels there were just 1500 persons. The estimated value of the vessels was $1,086,744, and that of their cargoes $1,208,588, making a total valuation of $2,295,332. The number of lives saved was 1461; lost, 39; 363 shipwrecked persons were sheltered at the stations. The total amount of property saved was $1,713,647; lost, $1,579,687. The number of disasters resulting in total loss to vessels and cargoes was 34. On nearly every occasion of disaster aid of some sort was rendered by the crews of the stations, either in succoring the shipwrecked or in saving property, and upon fifty occasions, by the use of the life-saving apparatus, an aggregate of 871 persons were landed. There were four fatal disasters within the limits of the operations of the service in 1876, and the same number has occurred during the present year. The four wrecks referred to have involved the loss of thirty-nine lives. Under the head of examination of keepers and crews, Superintendent Kimball says: "The condition of district No. 5 the Board of Examiners found quite unsatisfactory; of the eight keepers examined five were incompetent, and of the surfmen more than one-fifth were unqualified for their duties. At many places evidences of neglect and indifference were abundant, and the new apparatus in some cases had not been arranged and put in order for use, although it had been for some time at the stations. Upon inquiry into the causes of this unfortunate condition of the district it was found that it resulted generally from an utter misconception on the part of the superintendent of his duties and responsibilities, and that this misconception had been formed in his mind by the efforts and representations of certain small local politicians, some of them holding petty official positions, who had impudently claimed to represent the wishes of the Department and had contrived, by adroitly practicing on his fears, to secure the nomination and retention of incapable persons at the stations, both as keepers and surfmen, thereby producing a general misadministration of affairs in the district, their aim being to advance their own petty political interests through the patronage of their parasites and retainers. They had succeeded in obtaining control over the mind of the superintendent to the extent of making him believe that the security of his position depended upon his compliance with their desires, a belief fostered by frequent endeavors which were actually made for his displacement by local political factions. The report gives space to the important question of improvement in life saving appliances, showing that the efforts for such improvement have been continued during the past year and been rewarded with important results. An increased compensation in the pay of keepers and the erection of additional stations at different points on the coast is recommended and the suggestion made that the stations be kept open for service on the Atlantic seaboard annually from the 1st of September to the 1st of May, if not for the entire year.

South Carolina.

The work of conciliation goes on, and Wade Hampton will soon be explaining to the President that a recent occurrence in violation of the law was only a vindication of the self-respect of South Carolina. Some government revenue officers had arrested a chivalrous South Carolinian for illicit distilling and were taking him to jail in Union county, when two hundred "Sons of Carolina," the best and bravest of the land, set upon them. The officers were armed and equipped and compelled the officers to give up their prisoner and all the evidences of his guilt. This is done, we suppose, in comity. The Governor of South Carolina will assure the President that this incident was due, like the Hamburg massacre, to the chivalrous tone of his people and he will be willing to enter into treaty as to how, when, and in what circumstances the revenue laws may be enforced upon the sacred soil of Carolina. Such laws are disagreeable to those who violate them and their enforcement is impossible under what he calls "an indignant public sentiment."

Farther as to South Carolina, the Senate Committee to which was referred the title to a seat in the Senate of the exemplary M. C. Butler, the leader of the Hamburg massacre, have prepared a report taking pronounced position that the Legislature which elected Butler was an illegal body. But that was the Legislature which would never have existed except by the order of the President with drawing the Federal troops. It is time to face and rectify some of the fearful blunders of the last ten months.

—Sen. Freedom.

The Camden Press uses this highly complimentary and forcible language as an introduction to the extract appended, from the pen of the best female correspondent at the national capital, Grace Greenwood:

The instinct and perception of women is remarkably acute and seldom at fault. If they are not philosophers, as is claimed by some, they have a process of reasoning which enables them to grasp the truth as often as those who claim pre-eminence in all that pertains to philosophy. We are lead to this remark after reading a letter of Grace Greenwood's in the New York Times of Monday week. She goes carefully over the whole Southern question, the position of parties, the influence of the war on the South, the avowed purpose of the Southern leaders, the efforts at conciliation, and thus sums up her conclusions:

In view of all these signs of the times, of these significant indications, and bold avowals of a deep laid plan and purpose, not of accession, but of possession, not to break with but to capture the Federal Government through the Democratic Party, and to run it in the interests of the South till every Confederate defeat shall be avenged, a deep loss made up in spoils: till the North shall be paid back carpet-bagger for carpet-bagger; in view of all these things I have no reverence for that lax benignity which, in considering the woes of the South, forgets all we have suffered and sacrificed—and in admiration of her more melodramatic heroics, makes light of the bravery and devotion of our own loyal soldiers, leaders and men which was not a mighty preponderance of right, of patriotism, of humanity of eternal justice on our side, but only "the most Greeks." Least of all can I share in the comfortable faith expressed by our preacher, that the evils of arrogance, aggression, tyranny, and violence, born of slavery and nurtured by Democratic sympathy and Republican corruption and compliance, have all been swept away, never to appear again in this generation, at any rate.

The Philadelphia North American, in speaking of resumption, says that now as in the dark days of the rebellion, the bankers come to the relief of the government, and offer help to Secretary Sherman as they did to Secretary Chase.

They not only protest against any measure which tends to drag us away from the goal to which the Republican party has for sixteen years been leading the nation, but they call upon all financial institutions, merchants, manufacturers and traders to get their affairs on a gold basis as soon as possible. This means simply a scaling down of two and one-half per cent. in 12 months. Many a time has the greenback appreciated as much as that in thirty days. Surely it is not a long step to take in a whole year. On the first of January next every debt payable in the State of New York will demand so much gold or as much paper as will purchase the full amount of the debt in gold. On that day the Secretary of the Treasury will be prepared to pay gold for every fifty dollars in legal tenders that may be presented at the office of the sub-Treasurer in New York city. On that day the currency of the country will be inflated by two hundred millions of gold, which, instead of so much merchandise packed away in canvas bags, or adorning a broker's window, will become a part of the money of the country. After that day the one and two dollar bank notes will begin to disappear and silver must issue to the amount of thirty millions to take their place.

All this may be done without any shock to trade beyond the impetus that will be given to every branch of it if we all join in preparing for it. Then there need be no further fear of depreciation of values; the note of a national bank will be as good as if it were printed by the Bank of England. We shall know just where we stand, for we shall have no other currency but the best in the world—a currency that will pass at par all over the globe and command a premium in one-half of it. Is it not worth a little effort? With the end so near shall we falter now?

It is not often that a Democrat, and a New Jersey Democrat as well, says such a sensible thing as Mr. Hardenberg did yesterday: "The people want their industries revived and they are looking to Congress for help; they don't want to have the time taken up with fruitless investigations." Mr. Hardenberg is right, and if he will only persuade his fellow-Democrats in Congress to be of his mind he will have deserved well of the Republic.

The Trenton Gazette commenced the new year with a new dress, and it looks as neat as a new silver dime. It not only looks well, but it is an excellent family paper, and has a wide circulation, and is on the flood tide of prosperity. The Daily Gazette is one of the best in the State, but too much Hayes policy.

The SYMPTOMS of Liver Complaint are a bitter or bad taste in the mouth; pain in the back, Sides or Joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism; Sour Stomach; Loss of Appetite; Bowels alternately constipated and lax; Headache; Loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; Pidity; Low Spirits; thick yellow appearance of the eyes and face, a dry cough often mistaken for consumption.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few; but the Liver, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of the disease, and it is not regulated in time great suffering, with loss of sleep and DEATH will ensue.

I can recommend as an efficacious remedy for disease of the Liver, Heart, Burns and Dyspepsia, Simmons' Liver Regulator.

THE EATON GOLD and SILVER

REDUCTION COMPANY.

Office—No. 20 Church St., N. Y.

GEN'L JOHN C. FREMONT, President.

PROF. A. K. EATON, Vice-President.

W. W. HANLY, Secretary.

This Company is founded upon discoveries, inventions and improvements in the reduction and treatment of Gold and Silver and other ores, which have recently been perfected. It is intended that its business shall be conducted by works of large capacity, which, for governing commercial reasons, will be near the city of New York, as well as by branch works in the mining districts, and by sale of its patent rights to other reduction works in this and foreign countries. The discoveries and improvements upon which the Company is based, have been made by Prof. A. K. Eaton, one of the ablest chemists and metallurgists of the present day. They have been reached during a practical and personal experience in mining and kindred occupations extending over a period of more than thirty years.

Twenty six years ago Mr. Eaton invented and patented the Amalgamating Plates, which have ever since been in use at all the Gold and Silver Mills throughout the mining region. If the use of these plates were discontinued today, the yield of gold would probably be diminished one-half. In the same way his later discoveries are valuable and effective, and are marked by the same certainty and simplicity. The ores of nearly all the gold and silver mines are rendered more or less difficult by the presence, in combination, of zinc, sulphur, and other elements which gives them a refractory character, and which involves great expense and time in working, and great loss of gold and silver.

It is not too much to say that the great mountain region West of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers is occupied and populated only on account of its mines of gold and silver, and other metals. Over this whole country many of these refractory ores are left unworked and many hundred thousands of men are kept from pursuing their working, would be too difficult and expensive under present modes of treatment. To all these ores Mr. Eaton's processes directly apply. They render their working comparatively easy and inexpensive, and give immediate value to this idle property, and employment to many thousands of unemployed men. These processes increase the yield as at present had, by from ten to forty per cent. The reports of the Consolidated Virginia and California mines, for the year ending December 31, 1876, show that only 7 1/2 per cent. of the gold and silver contained in the ore is obtained by their present working, and the combined yield of these two mines for the year was $30,062,782.00—thirty millions, sixty two thousand, seven hundred and eighty two dollars. By the Eaton process, this yield could have been increased by six or seven millions of dollars. The gold mines of Senator James in the San Joaquin Valley, gave him only 60 per cent. of what the ore contains. These mines are quoted because they are well known, and because every applicant for money and art could devise, under the ablest management, has been used to increase their production. Under Mr. Eaton's process, it is claimed that out of most ores 97 per cent.—practically all—of the gold and silver can be obtained at much less cost of time and money than is at present required; that these Bullion can be treated and refined at one-third the cost, and one-fourth the time at present used. In reference to this latter process, Prof. Torrey, U. S. Mint, New York, says: "I believe it to be an entirely new and very useful process. Theoretically, the mechanical and chemical principles on which it is based are correct."

Large amounts of gold and silver ore are brought to this city for treatment and for shipment abroad, and also are large quantities of Base Bullion. The process of reduction is greatly facilitated by working together ores of a different character, and the Base Bullion now sent abroad, can be retained for treatment at the works in New York, under the improved process. For the purpose of a general demonstration of these processes, the Company has granted a limited right to a party in New York who is erecting works capable of treating twenty-five tons of ore and twenty-five tons of Base Bullion daily, and the building and machinery for this purpose are in greater part ready.

They now desire to provide for the immediate reduction of the large stocks of each of the different portions of their capital stock, and it is in order to procure the required means without unnecessary sacrifice, that their enterprise is in this way laid before the public. For this purpose a sufficient amount of stock will be sold at seven dollars per share, being 75 per cent. of its par value; and it is requested that persons who may wish to purchase, will apply personally, or by letter, to the Secretary of the Company, P. O. box 374, to whom all remittances for shares should be made, and from whom the Prospectus and other and more full information can be obtained.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and small dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. A prominent horizontal crease runs across the middle of the page. The right edge of the page is heavily shadowed, indicating it is part of a bound volume. There is no text or other markings on the page.

WANAMAKER & BROWN respectfully

announce that their Autumn and Winter

Fashions in Clothing for Men and Boys are ready. The great buildings at Sixth and Market are crowded from top to bottom with such Clothing as merits the confidence of the people.

WANAMAKER & BROWN'S Cloths and

Cassimeres are, in many instances, made expressly for them. No house in the trade confines itself so exclusively to the first-class manufacturers. Indeed, a long and mature experience is necessary to know just what goods to select and make up.

WANAMAKER & BROWN'S Order Department will be found full of fabrics of every good kind, either Novel and Fashionable styles or the plain and more useful things. Talented cutters, who have been successful for years in our service, are in waiting to make garments

according to the ideas of the people who are to wear the goods. Good hands are employed to make up, and only good trimmings used.

WANAMAKER & BROWN'S Ready-

Made Department offers every accommodation to those who do not care to go through the process of measurement. The stock in all Departments for Men and Boys is immense and complete, and does not lack in style, workmanship or finish,

while the prices can be proven to be nearly, if not quite, 25 cents on the dollar

lower than the market.

WANAMAKER & BROWN'S Little Boys' and Youths' Clothing has always been a well-cared-for and prominent feature of the business. All ages can be fitted, and the styles are not surpassed - the "fits"

have always been the subject of admiration.

WANAMAKER & BROWN'S Shirt, Neck-

tie, and Hosiery counters enable their customers to get complete outfits at more advantageous rates than they expect.
