Foreword: With the change in daily service from the Palace to the Bagle Theatre, comes the usual effervescence of small talk, this time Dame Rumor has it that I have sold out my interests in both theatres, and am simply a paid servant in the employ of a syndicate. There is meither truth, nor a semblance of the truth in any of these statements.

For two years I have given our patrons a service unexcelled in any of Section 1. Be it ordained by this side of the sentiary sewer of the street from Cottage Avenue to S meither truth, nor a semblance of the truth in any of these statements.

For two years I have given our patrons a service unexcelled in any of the larger theatres in America. I am jealous of that reputation to such an extent that the dollar sign will never hide from my view the good will of my patrons and my duty toward them. To a vast number of my patrons it will be gratifying to know that Mr John Price is no longer in our employ, he having tendered his resignation last Saturday. The change in time from 7.30 to 8 o'clock seems to have met with universal approval. Please bear in mind the Palace will open to-night at 6.15. approval. Please bear in mind the Palace will open to-night at 6.15, show commencing at 6.30, and the Eagle will open at 7.45, show comamencing 8 o'clock.

Palace Theatre To-Night.

William Russell, Children of Night."

This is a love story steeped in heroics of the right sort, and in its central character, William Russel, has a role fitting him as admirably as does the fighting figure of the open West. It is a stirring romance of evil plotting and fierce battles for life and love.

Torchey Comedy, "Mr. Fatima."

THURSDAY: Gladys Walton "Desperate Youth."

Our Usual Clever Comedy.

FRIDAY Special:—Nazimova,

"Billions."

In this story the actresa of a million monds is presented as a Russian Princess, living in America. She becomes interested in a poor poet, whom she has never met. The poet falls heir to a fortune and gives up writing. They meet and he falls in love with her. Reverses come, call ing for sacrifices. The end is very satisfactory and pleasing,

A Clevet Rolin Comedy. Admission 25c.

SATURDAY: - Will. Rogers, "Boys Will Be Boys."

The combination of such a screen actor as Will Rogers and such a master of story telling as Irvin Cobb makes one that is a pretty sure guarantee that an excellent picture will be the result. We leave it up to you see "Boys will be boys," and judge for yourself. You will probably remember Judge Priest, the kiently old justice of a small southern town, who is liable to put a man in jail, and then to go bail, for him. Come and meet Peep O' Day then, as he is portrayed by Will Rogers. It is a picture of wholesome consuce, quaint humor and faconic comedy. Chester Comedy, "Torchey's Knight Hood."

Charles Ray, — "Peaceful Valley."

The latest of Cheerful Charlie's screen triumphs unfolds a most absorbing story of love and adventure on the farm, when a villain goes to ruin others, and rues instead. When real human beings laugh and cry their way through true to life struggles, when a "hick's" brains prove a match for Wall Street. It will delight everybody, because it is 2 unother example of how a great stage success can be made into a greater "motion picture."
