ABOUT TAXES.

The new state tax law appears to be "as clear as mud" to the average man, and requires innumerable decisions and explanations when the officials attempt to enforce it.

One decidedly objectionable feature to us is the abolition of local Boards of Appeal. If a property owner feels that the assessor has done him an injustice, he is now required to appeal to the County Board, wherever they may be, or wherever they may choose to meet, probably in Maye Landing or Atlantic City. What man is there in Atlantic County who is familiar enough with individual estates in all parts of the county to properly adjust valuations? The best necessary Ham- monton ever had made mistakes in their work, and we venture to say that no County Board will ever be able to make proper adjustments, or correct errors.

Verily, "the world is governed too much" in some respects. Up to yesterday, neither assessors nor collectors had learned what our tax rate will be. This, too, is fixed by the County Board. Apparently, this will be about $1.75 on each $100. As valuations have been increased about twenty-five per cent, the rate named would make our taxes a trifle lower than in 1904.

From the First Ward.

Labor Day found many families celebrating their city friends.

Chris. Helzer and Miss Mitchell, from Philadelphia, spent Sunday at the Helzer home, 10th and 11th Sts.; also James Gortanfield, of West Phila.

The Davaports had for their family party their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Anstutz and children, a grand-daughter, Florence Davaport, and John Marjorim, of Germantown.

Mr. and Mrs. Welsch had friends from the city. Mr. and Mrs. Natt, at their Sunday dinner, had brother and sister from Fern Rock, Phila.

But the merriest party was at Mrs. Doerfel's. A husband, her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Tolater, Mrs. Lull Seely, Wm. Doerfel, Mrs. Easter and daughter, and Mrs. John Rothfus, took a ride through Folom, with Mrs. Doerfel as driver. How is that for a young lady of seventy years?

Mr. and Mrs. Ouburn, from Phila., are occupying the Lakeridge cottage, on Eleventh Street, on account of Mrs. O's health.

Don't lose ye forget, remember that the next temperance drama, "Ten Nights in a Bar-room," will be presented two nights only, Friday and Saturday next, Sept. 14th and 15th. If you want to laugh heartily, or if you want a little sadness, then this is the play to see, because it is a happy and humorous blend of humor and pathos.

A DANGEROUS CORNER.

Everybody has been expecting a bad smash at the County Road and Bellevue Avenue corner, and it came about 4.15 on Tuesday afternoon, though not so serious as it might have been.

It happened this way: Childs' wagon was backed up to the curb, unloading goods. Wm. Wescot, with Mart's heavy team, was going down Bellevue, and seeing an automobile approaching the corner from the south, pulled over to the left side of the street. The auto was going at a swift rate, so rapid that it missed Childs' horse, on his left, the driver steered to the right, striking the rear wheel of Mart's wagon. Two little boys, who were riding on the "sawed," were thrown off, bruising the chin of Mart, Jr. The wheel was badly damaged. The auto's steering-gear was jammed to one side, causing the machine to mount the curb, and only stopped by running against a shade tree. One axle was bent, and the tree barked. This proves that they were speeding; and had it not met with an obstruction, the auto would have carried its passengers into Taylor's eating-house.

The owner appeared to be a gentleman, except in stating that he was running only four miles an hour. He was taken by Mr. Bernshouse to Justice Garton's office, and, after hearing the evidence, the Squire required him to pay five dollars for the damaged wheel, and $250 costs.

Wescot was censured by some for not keeping to the center or right of the street; but any one who is at all observant can see that if he had done so, Mr. Mart might have been minus a pair of fine horses, and possibly a driver, for a rapidly moving automobile cannot turn a short corner, it requires fully half of the street.

Strange weather, last Monday.

Pouring rain and bright sunshine succeeded each other so rapidly that one scarcely knew whether to carry a sunshade or wear gum boots.

The ladies of Hammonton Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, had an interesting meeting on Wednesday evening. This order is composed of wives, mothers, daughters and sisters of Master Masons. Four officers of the Grand Chapter were present, and gave full instruction in the secret work. Of course, refreshment followed labor.

The stork paid its first visit to the Wheelock tract, Ventnor, August 22nd, bringing a little daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Victor S. Fisher. Mrs. F. was Miss Lulu M. Carson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. There was a runaway about noon yesterday, but luckily no one was hurt. The horse belonged to a transient guest at Hotel Royal, and while being fed his bridle was removed. Startled by an auto, he reared to the East, out Park Avenue to Central, thence to Orchard Street, down to the Punny's tracks, breaking the rear gear, and narrowly escaping death between moving freight trains. He was caught near Orchard and Horton Streets. The animal had kicked the steering-rod of the light wagon, cutting his foot and opening an artery, which bled profusely, but was relieved and dressed at Mart's stable.

FOR SALE—Five ten-roomed brick houses, on Pratt Street, between Second and Third Streets, four squares from Post Office. Easy payments, dollardown and dollar per week. If desired, THOMAS SKINNER.

Wednesday afternoon, several young ladies came into Laton M. Parkhurst's yard, very much excited, stating that a pedlar had insulted them on the street. Laton—hurried out, and found a much-the-worse-for-lounger individual from down-town, and ordered him away. But he refused, calling Mr. Parkhurst several names. Laton secured a revolver from the house, collared his man, and threatened him with arrest. Marshal Myers was phoned to, but the fellow had gone. About two o'clock in the morning, Laton was awakened by phone and summoned to town by Myers, to assist in gathering the man together (his car being missing) and send him from town. They found his car back of the school-house. The man was well stocked with whiskey, but they found him in one of the saloons, drinking. The pedlar was started out of the town limits, and the saloon-keeper given a warning. Another visit here may put the stranger where he will not alarm our women folk.

Popular Tour to Gettysburg and Washington. The annual six day personally conducted tour to the Gettysburg battlefield and Washington, via Pennsylvania Railroad, will leave September 25. One day will be spent on the battlefield and the great conflict will be graphically described in lectures by Capt. Long. Two days will be spent in Washington. The rate, $2 from New York, $1.00 from Philadelphia, and proportionate rates from other points, will include all necessary expenses. For literature and full information, apply to ticket agent or office of the Pennsylvania Passenger Agent, Philadelphia.

Obituary.

Mrs. JULIET BAKER, widow of the late Daniel Baker, died on Wednesday morning, Sept. 6th, at the home, on Third Street, Hammonton, aged a little over 95 years.

Considering her great age, Mrs. B. was remarkably well. Only last week she was reading a daily paper (with out glasses), and then discussed with interest an article she had read. The end came quietly, painlessly, as a child going to sleep.

The family were among the earliest settlers in Hammonton, always held in high esteem. Funeral service was held at the home, Friday afternoon.

A "FAKE" CAMERA

By Means of Which a New Jersey Man Scores Trains Awaits

A gentleman who fast week visited a train who was in the country near Burlington County relates the following experience:

"I was very much interested in a camera which stood on the lawn near the house, and which had a commanding view of the gates to the grounds. I asked my friend why he kept it there, and he said: 'Don't give it away, but that is only a fake camera. Come along and I'll show you the real one.' We went to the back of the house, and there was a tripod, and having an old silk spool fastened in front as a lens, the whole being covered by the usual dark cloth. To my question of what it was for, he said: 'It is the most effective means that I have yet devised for keeping off tramps. If there is anything new to soap and water that a tramp dislikes it is to have his picture taken, particularly when he knows it might be a means of leading to his identification. I tried dogs, but found they were no good. I used threats, but only to be blackguard and, as a last resort, I rigged up the camera; and it has proved a wonderful success. Last week a hobo came wandering along the road and gave me the first opportunity of trying the trick. He made straight for the gate, and was coming up the walk when I leveled the camera at him. The effect was magical. He took to his heels as fast as he could go, and I made believe to pull out a plate. Since then I have used it several times with similar results. In fact, some of my neighbors have adopted the plan and speak very encouragingly of it."

"We then sat upon the porch, and not long afterward my friend observed two seamy-looking specimens of the genus hobo coming up the road and said to me, 'Now watch.' Sure enough, the men came to the gate and were about lifting the latch, when my friend took his position behind the camera, threw the cover over his head, and tried to get a focus on them. With a look of disgust the tramps walked away, talking together. What they said, of course, I couldn't hear, but I am sure they were not very complimentary to my host."—Newark (N. J.) News.

MODERNIZING OF FLORENCE

Artistic and Historic Objections to Sanitary Improvements

Florence, usually the steepest, hottest and most indifferent town in Italy in the summer, is now actually excited. When I arrived here today I found there was only one word to be heard in the cafes, "improvements," uttered in such different tones of voice that my curiosity was aroused, and despite the heat, I investigated, with the following results:

It seems that the interest shown by the public all over the peninsula and abroad in the question of the "improvements" of Florence, so as to reconstruct the city, has led to the artistic and historic associations with the demands of modern requirements, has induced the Academy of Arts to invite a gathering for the presentation of different projects with this object in view. Certain citizens are well pleased; certain others cannot contain their disclaim. "Florence will be improved off the face of the earth," they exclaim, and certainly the problem is not an easy one. It is the most highly antiquated city which would seriously materialize that the people should be exposed to disease from want of sanitary precautions so that the tourists may continue to look at houses which Dante and Alighieri might have looked upon as filthy. "We have fought, or which even, 'Giotto' passed, the project of inducing artists, archaeologists and those who really love the past, to express an opinion on what may be done in the city, where the right beauty of medieval art and the splendor of the Renaissance forced themselves in so unobtrusive a connection in a very happy idea. Whether the city authorities will see their way to accept such suggestions is far from certain, but from what I saw I should say public opinion is sufficiently aroused to make itself clearly heard and that it will be on the side of the preservation, not the destruction of historic buildings.

Let me add my own humble note, says the writer in the Pall Mall Gazette. The Florentine shopman is intelligent and quite understanding that without his "old stores" the visitors would come and he would make his acquaintance with poverty. He, at least, may be trusted to keep an eye on any "improvements."

Some Swindlers of Commercial Rivals

Imitation is the sincerest flattery, says the proverb. It is also the most common method of swindling. In the world of commerce, there are many who will go to any lengths to make a few dollars.
