THE PATRIOT.

SAUNDAY, JULY 7, 1866.

The Finger-Boards of Fate.

The inevitable and speedy dissolution of the party in power is becoming more apparent every day. This conviction is forced upon many of its leaders...

Whichever class may be said of Wendell Phillips, some can accuse him of a want of courage...

After plotting his party to fortune, it is natural that he should be jealous of every class...

The finger-board of fate, however, points uniformly to radical destiny. The fanatics who have retailed in power and place...

The difference which now exists, seems to have divided the party in three parts...

An ENGLISHER. "The Secretary of the party is well illustrated in the expression of his feelings...

It is interesting to note the progress of the Radical papers...

THE DEMOCRACY. The Radical Republic appears to be well satisfied as to how to proceed...

A National Union Convention.

The following call has just been prepared, and has the approval of gentlemen of prominent position...

There is no right any more to displace the Union, or to separate States by the force of arms...

Slavery is abolished, and neither can nor will we ever again permit the re-assertion of the right of property in man...
