"From the evidence shown at the trial of Labriola and Mrs. Buglio he only appeared after the murder was committed and may have assisted in disposing of the body. If he had confessed to the knowledge that we know he possesses of the crime he would have probably escaped with a very light sentence, as the accused has already been in jail over a year. He absolutely denies that he knows anything about the matter, and if we can prove that he does in the face of his denial it may go hard with him. The State has been ready for trial all along, and the delay in bringing the case to trial is not due to their official. Judge Higbee, in imposing a sentence of seven years on Peter Lombardi for atrocious assault with deadly weapons reaffirmed his policy in regard to those who resort to the use of dangerous weapons, a administered justice from the Bar of Atlantic County. His views on the subject are radical, and in every way to be commended. A first fight, while not comzation, has some of the elements of fair arbritration their hands, about it; but when a man uses deadly weapons he has transcended the endurance of the law, and his offence calls for drastic punishment. While the offence of Cozens was in some degree mitigated by intoxication, that of Lombardi was peculiarly vicious and had all the elements of a well planned and wilful murder. quicker he can be placed under the surveillance of criminal assault with murderous intent in Atlantic right direction.

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature requiring all third-rail electric railway systams to cover the rail carrying the current on all sides and further providing that anyone injured by contact with the rail may sue the company responsible for negligence. The third-rail system of the West Jersey Railroad is well protected at stations and it is further guarded at all points by heavy wire fencing and cattle brick at crossings; but the insurance of further safety by covering the rail at all points is commendable. The company has so far endeavored to accede to the public demand for protection, and it is only a question of protect passengers and those who are employed by the company. Already under heavy expenses by the hesitated to further increase expenditures. The thirdrail has not proved half so dangerous as it was at first considered. Like all innovations, it was regarded as over this broad land the people are awakening to the importance of a constant menace; but time has accustomed the civic beauty. There is no excuse for the average man or young man to carry a concealed weapon. Where discretion demands or duty requires, it is allowable; but usually it is unjustifiable and does not reflect credit upon those who resort to the practice.

Governor Fort said, if elected, he would favor the opening of water ways along the coast of New Jersey, and his attitude since election has borne out his promise on this important question. That the towns clustered along the State coast would be greatly benefitted by the proposed waterway no one for a moment doubts. It would mean increased trading facilities between the various seacoast cities and a market approach for the farmer. The dredging of rivers will be one of the chief features of the work, which is to unite every coast resort and those inland communities situated on navigable waters. A bill introduced recently in the Legislature will probably receive the favorable consideration of both houses of that body and in that event a sum will be appropriated There is no objection to voting by machine, but the voter asks to have to begin the work, which at first will be hardly more than an experiment. If successful, other appropriations will no doubt follow by succeeding legislatures to carry on a work that cannot but be beneficial to the entire State.

It is not an easy task to give up the life of a dog to which you have become attached, but if it has been bitten by one afflicted with the ables, it is the only right thing to do.

Dr. McClintock, discussing the subject of cauterization in the "Sun day Advertiser," gives us startling information of the power of resistance of the virus from which hydrophobia or the rables develop. He tells us that the virus can stand an application of five per cent lution of carbolic acid fifty minutes, and the ordinary one to one nousandth solution of corrosive sublimate three hours, while an application of the abnormal freezing temperature of liquid air does not effect after three months.

The prospect for an increase of the salaries of the public school teachers is good. The members of the Board of Education are, we believe, without exception, in favor of more pay for the teachers, and the Common council are willing, just as soon as they can get the money,

Prof. H. A. Howell, of Havana, Cube, Recom mends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "As long ago as I can remember my mothe was a faithful user and friend of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, but never in my life I realized its true value until now," writes Prof. H. A. Howell, of Howell's American School, Havana Cube, "On the night of February 3rd our baby was taken sick with a very severe cold, the next day was worse and the following night his condition was desperate. He could not lie down and it was necessary to have him in the arms every moment. Even then his breathing was difficult. I did not think he would live until morning. At last I thought of my mother's remedy, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which we gave, and it afforded prompt relief, and now, three days later, he has fully recovered. Under the circumstances I would not hesitate a moment in saying that Chamber lain's Cough Remedy, and that only, saved the life of our dear little boy." For sale by Morse ▲ Co.—Adv.

Unequaled as a Cure for Croup. Besides being an excellent remedy for cold and throat troubles, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is unequaled as a cure for croup," says Harry Wilson of Waynelown, Ind. When given as soon as the croupy cough appears, this remedy will prevent the attack. It is used successfully in many thousands of houses. For

Mr. Barnickel's Portrait

[Original.]

When Mr. Barnickel got rich the first thing he wanted was a crest, which he found, though his title to it was rather thin, and the next was his portrait to hang in his drawing room and to hand down to his descendants as the lineaments of the reinstitutor of the family. Arnold Elliott was at that time the principal portrait painter in the city where Mr. Barnickel lived, and to him Mr. Barnickel gave the order, agreeing to pay for the portrait

Now, although Mr. Barnickel had dealt in hides, an article not calculated to stimulate the imaginative faculty. his imagination was strong. get found the "imposition." But before he found this way he heard that a new feature had been at tached to the portrait. The artist Lac removed the bars and the title, replacfrig the latter with the words "Ye Want Too Much."

The title fitted the expression on the face so well and Mr. Barnickel's idiosyncrasies were so keenly appreciated that a new lot of people came pouring into the studio to see Old Scrouge, as they called him, buying hides, though some declared that he was disputing the price of his portrait. Mr. Bar mickel was made aware of the change by receiving an anonymous letter in quiring which of these two interpretations of the title was correct.

By this time the merchant had consuited his lawyer, who advised him that the most satisfactory way eat of the difficulty was to pay for the picture and take it away. Therefore on receipt of the anonymous note he drew his check for $500, jumped into his carringe and drove to Mr. Elliott's studio. On entering his eyes naturally sought the picture. The expression had been changed. Instead of Mr. Barnickel beating down a seller, it was Mr. Barnickel just having bought at his own price. There was no title attached to the picture. Instead a bit of cardboard rested upon it on which in big letters was inscribed "Sold." Mr. Barnickel saw the word and was seized with a new anxiety. He, and only he could not see its double mean-

His Correspondent.

In the olden times, when things were not all ready made by millions, Joseph Sanger stepped into a store where a varicty of things were kept on sale. There were embroidered articles for women, fancy articles for household use and lounging articles for men. The latter consisted of dressing gowns, smoking jackets, slippers and such other paraphernalia. "I'm a bachelor," said the young man -"a lone, lorn bachelor. I am obliged to spend a great deal of time in my room, and I may as well be comfortable. What have you in the line of wearing apparel for such use?"

The shopkeeper squared himself and surveyed his customer with calculation in his eyes. "Yes: I think they will fit you," he said at last. "The very thing a smoking jacket, cap and slippers, brand new, beautifully embroidered. I got them in only yesterday. but I will sell the lot very cheap." He

Their Wedding Silence.

[Original.]

This story was told to me by a crusty bachelor. "Listen to this, Alec," and Mabel Burnet read: "In Korea during the whole marriage day the bride must be mute. If she says a word she becomes an object of ridicule. It may be a week or even a month before her husband hears the sound of her voice. Singular custom, isn't it? How would you like to adopt it when we are mar-

Her father and mother were sitting near, the father reading his paper, the mother sewing. The latter said: "That reminds me of the night we became engaged. Do you remember 1 made you wait a long while for your answer? I kept you a whole hour without giving you a word."

"Happy day!" observed the husband dryly and without lowering his paper. A smile passed over his wife's face. and a tender light shone in her daughter's eyes. As for Alec, he cast a sus picious glance at his prospective father-in-law.

Nothing would do for Mabel but to introduce the Korean custom at her wedding. On account of the recent death of an aunt who had made her life miserable, but had left her $10.000, the ceremony was to include only the plain?" family. Alec protested against the introduction of a custom taken from a degenerate eastern race, but Mr. Burnet's remark, "Happy day!" had fastened the idea upon Mabel, and it could not be removed.

On the day of the wedding the bride awakening. After the ceremony she kissed the family all round, but spoke never a word. All agreed that her silence added a solemn charm to the most impressive occasion in a woman's

Mr. and Mrs. Alec Hicks started immediately after a wedding breakfast (at which the bride sat mute) on their wedding journey. Meanwhile there was much \talk among the women left behind in commendation of the custom introduced at ther in the matter he would like to the Hicks wedding. One elderly spinknow the lady's age. There was no ster of practical views declared that since men were forever commenting on women not being able to hold their tongues perhaps one man would get all he wanted of woman's silence. Many young girls said that they would adopt it at their own wedding. A few feminine gabblers dissented considerpaper in the smoking jacket was forty- ing it a shame that a man might say what he pleased to his wife without and forthwith committed the note to retort. No such silence for them. The matter brought about a number of marital differences where husbands took occasion to sneer at their wives under cover of this Korean custom. Great interest centered in how long the silence of Mrs. Hicks was to endure. The sneering husbands declared that the second hand to a watch would not divide time delicately enough to measure her silence after the first sign of independence on the part of her husband. Other cynical men said the whole affair was paradoxical, for instead of a wife muzzling herself her first act after marriage was to mussle her husband. One woman forgot herself so far as to remark. "How can she get him under"- but checked herself.

The wedding trip was to cover the turned, and instead of going to the Sanger was, troubled. It appeared house that had been prepared for and the groom to bachelor quarters.

"For heaven's sake, what's the matter?" cried the mother as her daughter "He's a brute."

"What has he done?"

"Is this all the complaint you have to make of him?" "Foolish child! You have a model husband. Would that your father were such a man! He could never have kept silence for a single day—no, not for twelve hours! Alec must be a wonder. Think of possessing a husband who is able to hold his tongue indefinitely and let his wife do all the talking!"

The good lady sent for her son-inlaw at once, and the quarrel was made up. Alec Hicks is now a middle aged man. He is dest in one ear. He says he finds it very convenient. When his wife talks to him, as she frequently does while he is in bed and she is doing her hair for the night, he turns over on the side of his well ear, and he doesn't hear her.

The trouble with most cough remedies that they constipate. Kennedy's Laxative bility of soul. And this man-how de Cough Syrup acts gently but premptly on the you know he had a soul at all? How bowels and at the same time it stops the cough by soothing the throat and lung irritation. Children like it. Sold by Morse & Co.-Adv. At times when you don't feel just right, when ou have a bad stomach, take something tight away that will assist digestion; not something would have as little soul as the myth that will stimulate for a time but somethin that will positively do the very work that the tomach performs under ordinary and normal conditions, something that will make the food digest. To do this you must take a natural ligestant like Kodol Foe Dyspepsia. Kodol is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids with natural digestants and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. Each dose will digest more than 3,000 grains of good food.
