Contractor Hilpott Ready to Begin eighteen inches deep at low water. Work This Month—Injunction In Shore Road Paving Project Responsible for Delay.

The improvement of the County road be ween this place and Tuckahoe has been temporarily held up by Road Commissioner Fred, Gilkyson, who will not approve the contract because the Supreme Court has granted temporary injunction in the Shore Road paving project.

Freeholder Anderson Bourgeois went to brief despatch sent at four o'clock, he said: date for an appropriation to dredge the "Everything seems satisfactory, but nothing main channel. definite."

Contractor Frank Hilpott, of Red Bank, who was awarded the contract for building the new boulevard, was here Wednesday and estabished headquarters at Estelville. If the conract had been approved by the State, work would have been started on the 20th inst. As the matter now stands it is impossible to say when the work will be started, but it is hoped that the Shore Road difficulty will be adjusted within a few weeks, in which event the contract will doubtless be approved and work begun at one s.

Announcement of the Commissioner's stand was made Wednesday at the meeting of the Board of Freeholders, when Representative Anderson Bourgeois, of Weymouth Township, who has been active in promoting the project, introduced a resolution authorising a committee of three to go to Trenton, and find out why the contract was not signed. It was then that Director F. Fraley Doughty instructed Clerk Fred. Schuchardt to read a communication from the Commissioner, which was as follows: Director F. Fraley Doughty, Board of Free-

"If the information which I have is correct, would seem ill-advised to approve any further contracts for work to be done in Atlantic County until the question mised in reference to the Shore Road is definitely adinsted, I will, therefore, temporarily withold action on the contract for the May's Landing and Tuckahoe Road.

MAYS LANDING, MARCH 12, 1910.

One of the largest lists of applicants in the history of Atlantic County will be examined next Thursday in Naturalisation Court, the "class" of foreigners numbering more than seventy. It is not likely that more than half this number will be admitted as citizens, as the examinations are strict and an accurate knowledge of the government is required before the right of franchise is graffled.

When you hear the blue-birds singing by day and the frogs in the meadows croaking by night, see the boys playing marbles and the girls jumping rope, the boatmen getting their craft in shape and the merchants putting away their cold weather goods, hear the Iceman whistling "In the good old Summer time" and observe a sad, regretful look on the face of the coal dealer, and that tired, indolent feeling comes over you, there is no longer any room for doubt that it is Spring time.

Atlantic City is a magnificent pleasure and health resort, unequalled in the world; but it lacks one feature, namely a large, up-to-date race track, where the modern craze of automobile racing can be indulged. OPTICAN.

My Specialty is to Fit Glasses and relieve Headaches. There is only one kind of glass that your eyes require. Any other lense is apt to do them an injury. With five of the costlicst Optical Instruments made, my knowledge of the human eye, supplemented with thousands of cases relieved in the 32 years of my experience, you are sure of getting here the relief that proper lenses will give. I measure each eye and fit without questioning. Let me examine your eyes. No charge for advice, and my charges for glasses are as small as the cost of lenses and frames you require will permit. Less here because I do my own lense grinding.

DREADNAUGHT CARS.

The nub of railroading is first-class equipment and reliable service. The Pennsylvania Railroad provides this for the public. For many months big all-steel coaches, built like Dreadnaughts, have been operated on all through trains. Their easy-riding qualities and steadiness of motion have been widely praised. The all-steel dining cars too have distinct advantages over the wooden ones. They are stronger and steadier, and the act of eating is made more enjoyable by the smoother movement.

There are also some steel Pullman Cars-Combined Parlor-Smokers and Baggage—in the service now. Travelers like them. They have plenty of elbow room and they glide over the rails. The Sleeping Cars are coming. Some four hundred parlor and sleeping cars will be in

These steel coaches and cars are the strongest vehicles ever built for passenger transportation. They fire proof, break proof and bend proof. They represent the climax of safety and the perfection of comfort in railroad travel. The Pennsylvania Railroad has always been the leader in all manner of improved equipment as well as in all methods of making their patrons more comfortable.

This is why it is known and honored as The Standard

"My dear," said Dr. Joe Bemerton as he threw off his coat and hat, tossing his heavy driving gloves into the latter, "I'll be hanged if I go out again tonight if I'm called by a multimillionaire."

"Oh, Jee, I'm so glad! You look awfully tired, and just think how long it is since we've had a quiet evening together."

"Right you are, Pol. I'll get on my velveteen jacket, put on my easy shoes, sit down before these blazing logs with you beside me, and we'll have a real old fashioned evening-like our courting days, eh, sweetheart?" He tweaked her ear and gave her a

AUNT SALLY, SHOWMAN

By ML QUAD Copyright, 1909, by Associated Lit-

Aunt Sally Benson had a farm near Bellport, and she was known the country over as a sharp old woman. There were so many anecdotes affoat of her getting the best of this one and that one that when her great trouble final- features were kept in the background.

and the advance agent contracted with questions about some point of expefarmers for forage for the elephants, camels and horses. The forage was to cilman, wishing to know if he intendbe paid for on delivery. Aunt Sally ed Abel Maxey, one of his characters, had an abundance of hay and straw for a good or a bad man. Mr. Sunand furnished the largest share of any derland replied that, ulthough Maxey one. The circus did not draw a very had poisoned three different people, large erewd and had met with poor he intended him for a good man. The business for several days before, and story had been written with a purthe upshot was that it could not pay pose, that purpose being to work out its bills. Aunt Sally had had enough a theory. law to know just what to do. She got out a writ of attachment on the big elephant at once. He was the biggest part of the menagerie, and she figured that the money owing her would be raised somehow. It wasn't, however, and the elephant was conducted out to her farm by a constable.

When an animal is attached the law prescribes that it must be fed and cared for and made comfortable. Nerq was devouring a haystack per week, and the circus men were adjourning the case in hopes she would return him and forgive the debt besides. That's where they made a mistake in Aunt Sally. Of a sudden it was announced that on a certain day the elephant would be driven over the highway from Bellport to Grimsby, a distance of sixteen miles. The farmers along the route raised a vigorous protest at once. Nothing will frighten a herse as quick as the sight of an elephant. Aunt Sally replied that Nero needed the exercise, and she stuck to it until nearly thirty farmers had contributed 50 cents each to have the beast driven another route. Then the farmers along the route came down, as also on the third, but those on the fourth made no move. On the day Nero started forth. His keeper was on his back, and Aunt-Sally followed behind with her old horse and buggy. Farmers tried to stop her in vain. If Nero stopped now and then to uproot or twist off a tree or to level a shed or twenty rods of fence, that, Aunt Sally affirmed, was a clear act of Providence for which she could not be held responsible.

The highway was cleared for miles for the conquering hero. Next day Aunt Sally was paid to change her reute. This happened so often that she finally found herself back at Bellport. There she notified the people for four miles around that she was not financially able to go to all the expense of feeding the beast and if he lacke loose because of hunger she would not be responsible. She was haughed at until Nero broke out of his bern one night and played high jinks. He left a trail behind him like a cyclone, and one of his trifling feats was tipping over a barn which stood facing the highway. The people wanted no more of it, and they brought in twice the quantity of forage he could eat. Aunt Sally was nothing out of pecket thus far. In fact, she was a little ahead of the game. This did not satisfy her. 17 farm was running be and while she was acting as showin: a She therefore advertised by posters and otherwise that she would nnich Nero to lick any bull in the state in ten minutes.

You have only to ask a lawyer to m - e sure that there is no law in any st o in the Union to prevent such a fig . Those in charge of the elephant ry st la responsible to the actual owner for any injury received by him, but the law can go no further. This challenge brought hundreds of strangers to look at Nero, and it cost them 25 cents a look. A hundred farmers, more or less, talked of accepting the defi, and this was mentioned in the papers and added to the general interest. As no one actually came forward with a Taurus, Aunt Sally bought a bull in another name and amounced the fight for a certain date. It was to take place on the county fair grounds, with admission at 50 cents a head. It was given out that if Nero did not lick the bull in ten minutes Aunt Sally was to forfeit $500 in spot cash.

The law was invoked in vain. There was no law about it. It depended on Aunt Sally, and she was there with the goods on, the date set. More than 2.600 people paid the admission fee. Some farmers drove thirty miles to be present. Newspapers a hundred miles away sent their sporting editors. There were women as well as men spectators, and the village of Bellport was a bustling lit le city for a day. Hundreds of photographs of Aunt Sally and of Ner sold at a quarter apiece. At the proper moment the elephant was turned out on the race track, and he received a tremendous ovation. Five minutes later the bull was turned loose. There were some who estimoted his age at thirty years and his strength and fierceness about those of e rabbit's. He uttered one bellow, mode one paw and was about to lie down and go to sleep when Nero came along, thrust his trunk under him and carefully carried him to the fence and h-aved him over The "fight" lasted hist three minutes. There were yells for Aunt Sally, but she had started for home. A week later the circus men hald the debt and took their property, not you have the widow's word for it that she made about $1,100 by the remanetion.

A Smooth One. "Why don't you prosecute the reamp? Didn't he work you for a lot cf credit?" "No. I can't say he did," admitted the truthful merchant. "He permitted nor to force it on him." I / 1

Mr. Sunderland

Miss Councilman doted on the novels of Clarence Sunderland. He had a faculty for taking a motif from the realm of sin and treating it so ingeniously that it held the reader spellbound and so deftly that the horrible ly came there were few to pity her. Mr. Sunderland received many letters A circus was to exhibit in Bellport, from readers of his works asking cial interest to the writer. Among

> Miss Councilman's admiration for the author was in proportion to her want of understanding of his meaning. There must be great depth to an intellect that could see good in a triple murder, and she knew there was profundity in the theory worked out in the novel, for she did not understand a word of it. She wrote again to Mr. Sunderland, and his reply, in which the word "ganglia" occurred several times-a word she had never heard before-increased her admiration for him tenfold.

The correspondence went on till a meeting was arranged between the correspondents. They were to meet at the office of Mr. Sunderland's publishers. Miss Councilman did not live in the city. She was a denizen of the country. So on the appointed day she took a train to keep the appointment. In seats adjoining hers were two men who from their rough costume looked as if they belonged rather in the bag-

"Spudgeon," said one of these men to the other, "what are you going to do with Harberg?"

The man addressed looked furtively about him, then replied in a low tone:

Miss Councilman started. She glanced at the speaker, and, whether he bore the marks of a villain or whether her imagination pictured him as such, he certainly looked murderous "How you going to do it?"

"I tell you, Krinkle," said Spudgeon, "the trouble in the way"-

Here the door was opened, and the rattle of the train prevented the listener from hearing any more of the reply The next bit of the conversation she heard was from Krinkle. "I've only been obliged to kill three
