Lifting Franchise Limit Insures Construction of Delaware River Tube. After passing through the Senate the measure allowing the building of a tunnel from Philadelphia to Camden for the purpose of providing rapid transit from the Quaker City oall points in South Jersey went through the Assembly finally Monday last.

Projectors said that the tunnel could not be built with the present twenty-year franchise limit and this measure raises that limit to fifty years, under which capitalists will take hold of the proposition and make the Philadelphia-Camden tunnel a quick reality.

The bill was proposed by Benator Gaunt, of Gloucester County, and is the outgrowth of the demands of the residents of Bouth Jersey for better train connection with Philadelphia.
