Board of Trade Requests Railroad to Eliminate Death-traps-Act-Under Consideration.

Protection of the dangerous grade crossings on the electric railroad at this place has been taken under consideration by the officials of he West Jersey & Seashore R. R. Co., in conunction with the Board of Trade, and propoitions looking towards a solution of the quesion will be brought before the Township ommittee at its next-meeting.

In an informal way, Acting Supt. Wallis, of ie railroad, suggested to the Board that the cted in a thorough manner and that eliminaon of one or two of the less important roads ver the tracks, would help, in the solution o ie problem. This idea, however, does not neet with general approval, as there are valuole property interests on every highway ossing the milrond that would be seriously facted by such action

A committee of the Board of Trade will prent the matter to the Township Committee r its consideration and the project will be liy and fairly discussed. A Civic Cleaning Day Suggested. Editor of The Record.

DEAR SIR.—A number of towns throughout New Jersey, also in other States, have adopted what is known as a "civic cleaning day," when all the residents turn out to clean up public property and then clean up their own houses passing this place Easter Sunday from 7.30 and yards. What is the matter with having A. M. to 7.00 P. THIRD RAIL ABLAZE.

Woodbury Citizens' Eyes Injured by Intense Electric Discharge.

We are indebted to the "Constitution," o Woodbury, for the following graphic account of a peculiar accident:

"A blazing third rail, due to a shoe from an electric train dropping on the heavily charged steel, enused havoc with about a hundred pair of eyes on Sunday evening. About eight o'clock a brilliantly illuminated sky in the vicinity of North Woodbury attracted a large crowd of people to the railroad where the blueish tongues of fire leaped into the air from a point of contact, on the third rail with a piece of steel, evidently a car shoe. "Many of the spectators pressed close to the the electric fluid and soon after the display was over, both men and women in the crowd complained of their eyes hurting them. On Monday morning many of those affected could not get their eyes open. Some were unable to see at all and physicians were summoned. Some of the victims were ordered to remain in a dark room and others are wearing smoked glasses with badly inflamed eyeballs and suf. and the Finance Committee will meet in Atfering considerable pain. Employees of Pennsylvania System

Made Happy By Unexpected Increase of Six Percent. In Pay -Order Now Effective.

Employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad were surprised and made happy Tuesday last when the Superintendent announced that a general raise of six per cent. in the salaries of those receiving less than three hundred dollars a month would take place yesterday, April 1.

The increase was given voluntarily, and the first intimation that the men had of it was when the notice was placed on the bulletin boards in the employees' waiting rooms. The first notice was posted at the Camden station and the good tidings soon reached this and other places along the railroad lines. Between 180,000 and 190,000 men will be affected by the general increase, which will amount to $7,500,000 annually. This includes all the employees connected with the company, whether employed in the offices, on the trains, along the tracks or on the ferries. Those whose salaries are three hundred dollars

"Effective April 1, 1910, a general increase of six per cent, in wages will be made to all employees permanently employed on this division now receiving less than $300 per month; revised rates and schedules will be posted. J. M. BAKER, Supt." The annual pay roll of the company during the previous year amounted to about one hundred and twenty-five million dollars.

satisfaction. It has been a common practice in closely contested precincts to resort to promiscuous challenging at the primary polls, holding up the voting so seriously that many citizens were practically disfranchised.

Another argument in the bill's favor is that colonisation and other registry frauds may be better prevented by the posting of registry lists in advance to the primary, instead of after many persons not entitled to the right had exercised the privilege of voting for candidates in the primaries, which here are almost equivalent to election.

The bill received thirty-two votes on its passage in the House.

New High School for Ventnor. The contract for a new high school building at Ventnor, on the square below the City Hall, was awarded Monday to Contractor Wilbert S. Beaumont for $31,000. The new building will be of brick, stone and terra cotta construction, 33 by 52 feet in size, three stories high. There will be six class rooms and a large assembly room. A feature of the building will be the construction of wide fire-proof stairways by which the building can be quickly emptied in case of fire. The new school will be ready for occupancy in Sep-these certificates came into Peter Anderson's possession, but none of them ever found their way back to the persons from whom he won them. Every right after he had gone to sleep hiswire would get up, search his pockets. take out what mining shares she found there and look them up in an old trunk she kept in the garret. She never looked at the names of the companies. they represented or bothered her head as to their value. Indeed, they were worthless or they would not have come so easily into her husband's possession. livery night his pockets were searched an' emptied, but in the morning he would not miss his loss. If his wife had taken a few coins he might have noticed it, but mining stocks were quite a different matter. When he went round to the billiard room in the evening he would think that he had won some shares the night before, but, finding none in his pocket, fancy he had deen mistaken. He was a very good pool player and had no difficulty in borrowing a few shares to begin on Usually he would win, pay off the loan and go on playing on his own capital. If he left the place with stocks in his posket, the next morning they would be deposited, as usual, in Mrs. Anderson's trunk.

But the pool players didn't bring Anderson any law business, and the welf was continually snarling about his door. However, the wolves in such communities are usually covotes, comparatively harmless, for any man will give or lend any other man if be has anything he doesn't need at the moment. Nevertheless Anderson's condition was not attractive, and except when he was playing pool he was very dispirited.

One day there was a big strike up on t Clear creek. A mining company had opened a vein that paid many hundreds of dollars to the ton. Peter Anderson when he went home that night told his wife about the strike, some of the stock of the company!" "I think you have, dear," said Mrs Anderson, and she went up to her trunk and brought down an armful of mining share certificates. The fwo sorted them, tossing them when eramined on the floor in their eager hunt for the one they coveted. Presently they came to a ten share certificate which alone would keep them for awhile. Then a fifty share turned up then another ten, then a hundred, five hundred-indeed, all denominations. It was a good while Mefore they got through the accumulated pile. When they did they figured up shares in the lucky company sufficient to give them a fortune of half a million dollars. When the excitement of the find had died down a bit Anderson asked his wife where she had got all the ertificates. Then she told him that she had robbed him of them, thinking that. dent's eyes. some of them might some day come in handy.
