GORED BY ENRAGED COW.

sult of Malice.
Gored by an enraged cow that had its tail cut off by some one with a grievance against the family, Mrs. Jules Cordier, a resident living half-way between this place and Dorothy last Wednesday afternoon, sustained injuries that may result fatally.

with the cow that was responsible for the deed. It appears that some one, nursing a supposed grievance against the family, maliciously cut off the tail of the cow, which was maddened by the pain and annoyance from insects. Mr. and Mrs. Cordier were attempting to relieve its pain when the enraged animal suddenly turned around, having thrown her to the ground in a previous bout.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For President:
WILLIAM H. TAFT,
Of Ohio.

For Vice-President:
JAMES S. SHERMAN,
Of New York.

The dedication of the St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church last Sunday was an occasion of moment. Although the town is nearly two hundred years old, Catholic services were never held here until two years ago, when a congregation was established and plans laid for the edifice. Aside from spiritual ends, churches are an invaluable institution in every community, and each new structure forms the nucleus for a new population. The prosperity of a municipality is generally indicated by the status of its places of worship, and a prosperous congregation, nine times out of ten, is evidence of an enterprising and progressive people. The Catholic faith has been gaining ground in South Jersey in recent years. Large new edifices and parochial schools are in course of erection in Atlantic City, and parishes are established at nearly every small town along the coast. Not only is the strength of this faith increasing, but everywhere are indications of a revival of interest in Protestant churches. A magnificent new structure will replace the old First Presbyterian Church of Atlantic City, and others are contemplating large improvements. The congregation of the Methodist Episcopal Church at this place recently subscribed eight hundred dollars for improvements in a single day. The surest safeguard for the perpetuation of American institutions lies in the preservation of church interests.

Independence Day, the birthday of our Nation, finds the United States this year in the most prosperous condition since the famous document was signed in 1776. The Government is just one hundred and thirty-two years old to-day—a comparatively short period in the foundation and development of a great Nation. Occasional periods of depression have occurred under adverse administration, but on the whole progress has been certain, and our institutions, vindicated through strife and bloodshed, preserved and proven the true foundations of good Government. Under the noise of cannon-cracker and rocket there is a feeling of true patriotism, as strong as in those days when the colonists announced their determination of becoming a free and independent Government. There is to-day a greater occasion for celebration than ever before, and all over the land the "flag of the free" waves untarnished, "not one stripe erased or polluted, nor a single star obscured." The inviolate principles of the Constitution have been established, and Liberty made the indomitable and inalienable right of every citizen. Three cheers for Old Glory! All Hail the Stars and Stripes! Let the eagle scream!!!! Hurrah!!!!

One of the reasons for waning interest in baseball is the element of professionalism seductively gaining way in amateur circles, inimical to team loyalty and breeding dissatisfaction among players. When the ball team is conducted as a representative home nine, popular interest will attach to the games and players; but as soon as outside "experts" are hired to fill the positions of honor, that interest is lost. A home team should be a home team, composed of home players and free of every professional taint. Under such circumstances public pride will be manifested in the home team, and better support extended for the welfare of the organization. A home team should be a home team in all that the word implies, and all thought of professionalism and commercialism destroyed.

The political pot is beginning to simmer gently, but the agitation will not be sufficient to disturb the equilibrium of the County to any considerable extent for several weeks. It is a little premature to open the campaign, for there will not be any great fight over County elections, either at the primaries or in November. The preliminary skirmishing already done has not brought to light anything startling or unexpected, and the contests, if any, will be sharp, short, and to the point. The Republican leaders are unanimous and there is little likelihood that any party Peter will doubt results.

One of the surest signs of stability of business in May's Landing is the excellent condition of its financial institutions. The First National Bank is exceeding the most sanguine expectations of its supporters, and the Building and Loan Association is one of the most prosperous in the State. Over three hundred members have taken stock in the latter and its present assets are approximately one hundred and fifteen thousand dollars—a splendid showing for the organization.

Those who fail to see any immediate results from the campaign of resort advertising should not lose faith in the project. It takes time to gain public recognition, but once the superb attractions of May's Landing have become better known there is little doubt but that success will follow.

Whether or not May's Landing will have a street sprinkler this year will be determined at the next meeting of the Township Committee, when a petition signed by nearly every resident of the municipality will be sent to that body requesting an appropriation for the purpose. The Committee will doubtless be guided by the will of the people they represent in the matter, even if a point has to be stretched so to do. The only hindrance possible is a lack of necessary funds out of which money may be taken for the purchase of the wagon. In these days when life along Main Street is made unpleasant owing to the large clouds of dust raised by automobiles and teams, no one will dispute the necessity of the acquisition, and the people of the community are almost unanimously in favor of the project.

The welfare of the American farmer is as vital to the prosperity of the Nation as that of any wage earner, and rests peculiarly upon the agricultural products of the country. Under Republican administration the resources of the Government have been brought to the aid of the farmer, and extraordinary results accomplished not only in advancing agriculture itself by experiments and the dissemination of literature but in increasing the conveniences of rural life by free delivery of mails and excellent roads. The new coast waterway is another step for the advancement of the farmer's interests. The policies heretofore upheld are continued in the Republican platform adopted at the last National Convention, and their promotion means increased conveniences for the farmer and greater prosperity.

Ten young matrons and ladies of May's Landing two years ago formed an alliance for, so far as practical results indicate, the combined purposes of social life and municipal progress. The Greek initials of the organization "Gamma Sigma" afford little clue to the title of the society, which has unobtrusively assisted since in almost every public enterprise, not with blatant trumpeting of horns but quietly and oftentimes in secret. Good work has been done by the ladies of the society, for which they have the fullest gratitude of the people of May's Landing. Let the good work continue.

Municipal economy is as important as private thrift, and every means to cut down unnecessary expense is commendable. The purchase of a Township team of horses for public work is urged on the ground of economy. Such a team could be utilized in repairing roads, fighting forest fires, sprinkling streets, drawing fire-fighting apparatus and various other purposes. On the surface it is palpable that the team would in a very few years save many times its cost, and if that is true it should be purchased.

Government inspectors are obliging motor boat skippers to observe strictly the rules relating to the use of self-propelled craft. While the average owner of a launch may be depended upon to exercise due caution, it is a matter of discretion to insure safety insofar as the law provides, and the inspectors will not be objectionable to those who believe in safeguarding human life in every possible way.

STATE PRESS COMMENT.

"In these days of hustle and bustle, when young men see all around them schemes whereby they may become suddenly rich if Dame Fortune should smile upon them, it is a sore temptation to try and win the golden dream, especially when one is surrounded with money, handling it daily and controlling it.

"The temptation to try and make a little extra, with a view of putting back what one took in the future, is strong, and while the vast majority of men can resist it, there are some who are weaker and their fall by the wayside.

"It is seldom indeed that a man, in a position of trust, can carry out speculations without being discovered, and while thousands have tried the same thing that caused the downfall of a local young man, none thus far have succeeded.

"Honesty, of course, is the best policy. It is hard, we all agree, to resist, at times, an opportunity to make a few extra dollars, when one can so easily put the cash back; but man must stop and ponder before he touches that which is not his. He must reflect that the game of chance is always against, instead of being with him. The throw of dice is figured out by the gambler as being opposite from what he intended. If by chance it is with him, they term it "good luck." And luck is a frivolous character. He deserves who at the time he needs him most. When you think it is your time, then it is that luck turns against you. The only way to be safe and always respected is to content yourself with what you have; try to lay a little bit aside, accept a moderate return on your small savings, and bide your time to honestly and squarely increase it through investments of a stable character.

"Playing stocks is as dangerous a way of trying to get rich as has been invented, especially on the margin plan. It is rarely that a man buys a stock outright and loses a great sum of money. He has something to show for the cash invested. But on margin, one point wipes out a big pile, and there is little if any chance of recovering. It is a case of plunge and plunge to get back to the point from which the inevitable result of total elimination is due time. Don't first with Dame Fortune. Be conservative, careful and honest. It may take you longer to acquire a competence, but what a comfort it is, not to mention an easy conscience at all times."—Atlantic City Daily Press.

"The Young Republican Club opened the campaign during the week by endorsing Congressman Gardner and Assemblyman Ketter for reelection, good.

"The esteem in which a public man is held by his constituents is gauged by the terms used to describe him. A nickname is frequently leveled at a man's character and always sizes up the estimate in which he is held in public opinion. According to this axiom (and it is an axiom) Mr. Gardner is very close to the hearts of his constituents, Grand Old Man of Atlantic, and the still more effusive title of "Old John." Except in his presence no one ever thinks of speaking (Congressman Gardner as "Mister." It is not only too formal, but the speaker would immediately be asked, "What Mr. Gardner?" If the answer was "Congressman Gardner," the rejoinder would be, "Oh, you mean Old Brains."

"It takes a pretty big man to earn and get away with such a title as "Old Brains." But John Gardner gets away with it because he sizes up to it. If that lion's head of his didn't contain enough brains to place him in a class head and shoulder above all other local public men he would never have gotten or deserved the title. But he did get it because he deserved it. And it isn't a local title, either. If you should happen to ask any Congressman or big official or politician or newspaper correspondent in Washington, where you could find "Mr. Gardner," or "Congressman Gardner," he would come back at you with, "Oh, you mean Old Brains."

"It often happens that a "big man" is only comparatively large. He may be a big man in a small community, but dwindle into a very little man in a big community. But "Old Brains" is as big a man, if properly explained by the fact that his brains get more action at the Washington to take John Gardner's seat during his life time, it would be resented by Congress and would be construed as a reflection on the intelligence of this community. But there is no likelihood of any such contingency as long as "Old Brains" is spared to us. And he reflects as much credit on the other counties comprising the Second District as his own.

"Here's to you "Old Brains!" May God grant you a long life; you will make it a useful and a merry one."—Jersey Justice.

"It seemed odd that a Judge had to lay down the law to a Justice of the Peace that the Criminal Court cannot be employed to collect a civil debt. In explaining the law, he also practically advised the jury to assess damages against the offending Justice, which it did. The Court went further, and announced that no Magistrate has the right to collect "costs" as the State paid "costs" in criminal cases. Too many Magistrates are prone to prey upon the ignorant and exact costs from them illegally. The recent conviction is a lesson which ought to have a good effect in correcting some of the abuses in the local Justice of the Peace's courts."—Atlantic City Sunday Gazette.

Libby Prison Diarrhoea Relieved.
Mr. Edward E. Henry, with the United States Express Co., Chicago, writes: "Our friend, Mr. Currie, who, quick, handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy some time ago to check an attack of the old Libby Prison diarrhoea. I have used it since that time and cured many of our train who have been sick. I am now a soldier who served with Rutherford B. Hayes and William McKinley four years in the 23rd Ohio Regiment, and have no ailment except Libby Prison diarrhoea, which this remedy stops at once." For sale by Morse & Co.

Chronic Diarrhoea Cured.
"My father has for years been troubled with chronic diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail," writes John H. Zirkle of Philippi, W. Va. "He saw Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Philippi Republican and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him and he has not suffered with the disease for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and although sixty years old, can do as much work as a young man." Sold by Morse & Co.

In Good Luck.
"About two years ago my father came from Mason City, Iowa, on a visit," says O. L. Scott, Dunfield, Mich. "While here he was taken sick with diarrhoea and cramps. I gave him several doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and it cured him." This remedy always cures. It is for sale by Morse & Co.
