REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For President:

WILLIAM H. TAFT,

Of Ohio.

For Vice-President:

JAMES S. SHERMAN,

Of New York.

Increase of State school appropriations this year will be the means of materially advancing the cause of education, already one of the chief objects of care on the part of the present administration. Few appropriations meet with such general approbation that a hand of protest is not raised somewhere, but in this instance nothing but words of commendation are heard. That the schools of this State lead the Nation is due to the liberal policies that have been pursued by the Republican party with respect to their support and improvement, a consideration that has been uppermost at all times. The railroad tax applied this year to the public school system will not only be the means of providing better educational facilities, but the burden of maintenance through township and municipal taxes will be lightened. Republicanism stands for all that is best in free and liberal education, and a thorough system of public schools is the surest safeguard to the character of our future citizenship.

A civil service appointee to the position of boat inspector once made the astounding discovery on his first inspection that the vessel was hollow. Some of the inspectors of launches appointed on the strength of civil service examinations along the Jersey coast recently have displayed an ignorance of their duties equally remarkable. What the government needs for such inspectors are men with a practical knowledge of craft and their requirements rather than appointees who probably cannot row a scow properly, but who pass the examinations with high averages on the strength of book learning. Hull inspectors for large vessels are required to have five years practical experience before they are eligible for appointment, and it is no less important for the proper enforcement of government regulations that inspectors of launches have a practical knowledge of their duties.

There is no gainsaying the fact that the effects of last Spring's financial panic, which was comparatively brief but depressing to business interests, are still being felt throughout the country; but that conditions are fast becoming normal there is no doubt. It would be hard to assign the real cause of the panic, which is now a question of little significance. It is sufficient that the return to industrial activity is being made at a rate which bids fair to overthrow all traditions as to business depression during a presidential election campaign. One of the greatest factors in reassuring National prosperity is the large farm crop assured this year, and steel and manufacturing concerns are increasing their business activity daily. The wallings of Democratic organs over hard times cannot long stand in the face of full dinner pails and good wages.

All things considered, May's Landing cannot complain greatly at the service rendered by the third rail electric railroad. Where there were formerly four trains a day there are now twenty, which with a few exceptions are conveniently arranged to the best advantage of the patronage. A train South at 7.22 in the evening weekdays is needed, and the Sunday service to Atlantic City would be greatly improved by providing a train at 2.17 o'clock on weekdays. Under the present schedule there is a train at 11.53 and no more until 4.14, on a day when afternoon travel to the seashore would otherwise be heavy. With these two exceptions the train service is highly satisfactory.

The maintenance of our protective tariff system, which has made American labor the best paid labor in the world, protected our home markets and enabled this country to produce one-third of the industrial products of the world is one of the principal planks in the Republican platform this year. The evil results of lowering the tariff rate and bringing in the competition of foreign productions and cheap labor can only be vaguely conjectured. It would at once destroy the fountain-head of National prosperity and ruin American industry. Taft and continued prosperity: Bryan and bankruptcy for thousands of manufacturers and business houses—which is it to be?

Whatever attractions civil service may possess in other portions of the State, it will not soon attain popularity in Atlantic County. We still cling to the old-fashioned idea of electing candidates on their practical worth, and no amount of theoretical knowledge can compensate for proved ability to do things. The greatest draw-back to the service is that a man with no executive ability but capacity for "crumming" can pass better a examination than he whose practical knowledge of the work to be done fits him for the office. Or present system of choosing officials is eminently satisfactory, and there is no need of a departure therefrom.

Henry Clews, the eminent New York financier, discussing the present business outlook, says: "The most stimulating element in the political situation at present is the crop outlook. The weather during the past two weeks continued favorable, and condition of the crops has correspondingly improved. The corn crop this year according to present promise will yield two thousand seven hundred million bushels, which at the September option price of sixty-two cents would be valued at one billion seven hundred million dollars. The wheat crop with an indicated yield of six hundred and seventy-five million bushels at ninety-three cents per bushel would amount to six hundred and twenty-seven million dollars. The cotton crop which promises thirteen million bales at nine and a half cents would yield about six hundred million dollars. The oat and hay crops, now out of danger, are record-breakers in quantity and quality. Last year these two crops were valued at over one billion dollars, and this year that sum will be further exceeded."

Bryan, it is stated by a contemporary, will carry his campaign personally into New Jersey, where he hopes to secure a strong vote. "Little Jersey," as a factor in the National campaigns, is becoming more conspicuous each year, and woe unto the candidate who fails to pay due homage thereto. At the very outset of the campaign the fact must be recognized that there will be a battle at the polls in November. Taft will carry the State, but for that reason it is not well to leave anything undone to insure success. Apathy and overconfidence, as in the last campaign in this State, will be the two chief enemies of the Republicans this Fall.

Nominations for office this year must be by direct primary vote, which should be carefully noted and instilled into the mind of every citizen and voter. Under the new law, the primary vote this year will be equally important as the November election, and the man who does not go to the polls and express his preference for candidates must not find fault if the results do not please him. There are issues and conditions in the coming County campaign that should be carefully considered by all who desire good, economical County and municipal government.

The growing necessity for the services of a Town Marshal urges the election of such an officer this year, who could join with his usual duties other minor municipal work and prove a useful all round public official. The appointment of a marshal has been under consideration for a considerable period, and the election thereof this Fall will be both commendable and opportune.

STATE PRESS COMMENT.

"While the battle rages over the Majority nomination, and the clouds are gathering in the various wards ominous of a fierce conflict for the Councilmanic nomination, the dove of peace hovers over the heads of the Hon. John J. Gardner, Enoch L. Johnson and Martin E. Keffer. From present appearances, these gentlemen will have a walk-away for the respective offices of Congressman, Sheriff and Assembly. So far, not even a shadow of opposition has been cast across the pathway to the fulfillment of their political ambitions.

"As for Under-Sheriff Johnson, there has not been a whisper of opposition to his candidacy for the Republican nomination, and there is not likely to be. He has earned the nomination and the election by long, faithful and intelligent service as the deputy to the sheriff which he desires. It is simply a promotion and he is entitled to it. He is an enthusiastic party man and deserves recognition at the hands of his party. But he is also an able and courteous official and will administer the office to the satisfaction of all the people.

"Mr. Keffer's claim on the nomination for Assembly is what the cowboys would call diamond-knotted, and the effect Easterner would term a 'lead-pipe.' This is probably owing to the excellent record he made during his initial term in the office, and it is the tradition of the local Republican party that such a record entitles a member to at least two terms in the Lower House. Although he is the 'baby' member in point of years (and he certainly has the face of a cherub) he proves himself far from a suckling in point of legislative wisdom. His advice was sought and respected by such leaders as the doughty 'Davy' Baird, and he was constantly on the alert to promote and initiate legislation of benefit to his constituency. There will not be a straw in the path of his re-nomination and re-election."—Jersey Justice.

"Bryan is not sure of his ability to pick a big business Democrat capable of 'tying the knot' to the proper turn, and has sent out invitations to half-dozen or more men to meet him in order that he may look them over. He tells them he wants their advice as to a campaign manager, in face of his declaration that he proposes to be his own manager, which suggests that he is really in quest of a man with ability to rope in contributions of good round sums for the campaign fund. Truly William has not met defeat twice without learning all thereto to learn in practical politics, and his publicity schemes is part of the game he has in hand to delude confiding people. By the way his first acknowledgment of $100 from an Iowa farmer before the convention met is cleverly devised, as seen in his appeal to join this 'farmers' fund.' It matters not whether there ever was such a contribution to Bryan before he had a sure thing at Denver, the idea is good enough to work up the sympathy of farmers who have never before been 'gold-bricked,' and the lead will probably pay out well. No wonder the candidate intends to run his own campaign for he probably has tricks up his sleeve that no other manager would care to employ, and Bryan is going to take all the chances that his fancy can create or that may fall in his way."—Camden Daily Courier.

"A concerted effort is going to be made to try and induce the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad officials to place safety gates at the exceedingly dangerous grade crossing at May's Landing where two people were recently killed and one possibly maimed for life.

"As a matter of fact this great railroad corporation should have provided these gates long ago without any urging. The officials cannot be so callous as to permit such dangerous crossings and put the life of people in continual jeopardy. One law suit and damages would pay for the investment many times over and these could be won in 100,000 but it may require hard work to bring it about."—West Jersey Press.

"Human life is too valuable to be held so lightly. A set of gates is demanded, and maybe the railroad commission could use its influence to bring about the same with more speed than ordinary petitions to the company officials."—Atlantic City Daily Press.

"While the third candidacy of Mr. Bryan occasions no serious apprehensions among the Republicans, yet it would be unwise to estimate the Nebraska's present political strength on the basis of his following in 1896 and 1900. The fact that Mr. Bryan is still the unquestioned leader of the Democratic party, despite his two defeats and the calamitous campaign following the nomination of Judge Parker, is sufficiently remarkable of itself. But when it is considered that his hold upon the party is stronger now than ever before, it behooves the Republican managers to sit up and take notice. In the past the Republican nomination as it exists, it would be supremely foolish to pool-pool the strength of the Democratic ticket. Better exaggerate the danger and arrange accordingly rather than underestimate the enemy's strength. It is no opinion that a battle is coming off in which they must take sides, but it may require hard work to bring it about."—West Jersey Press.

"Farmers in Southern New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania are complaining sorely of the protracted death of rain and the consequent injury to their crops. While there have been occasional local showers, there have been in this section but two real soaking rains since the middle of May, a period of two months, and as a consequence various growing crops have suffered seriously. While the farmers directly affected are to be commiserated, the people at large are to be congratulated upon the fact that the extreme drought is not universal in its extent, and that on the whole the country's crops this year will be of exceptional magnitude. With such assurance the farmers directly affected further protraction of industrial 'hard times' is stripped of half its terrors."—Camden Post-Telegram.

"The Second Ward Republican Organization has placed in nomination a number of candidates, who are to be voted for at a subsequent meeting. The naming of more than one candidate for some of the office promises a fight. It gives nod to the voters and to the officeholders that a battle is coming off in which they must take sides, and if they fail to land on the right side, they will have to 'walk the plank.' The average citizen is interested, but the average officeholder is very much worried."—Atlantic City Review.

SMITH E. JOHNSON, Sheriff.

Libby Prison Diarrhoea Relieved.

My father has for years been troubled with chronic diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail, until he saw Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Philadelphia Record and decided to try it. The result is one that cured him and he has not suffered with the disease for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and although sixty years old, can do as much work as a young man. Sold by Morse & Co.

A Faithful Friend.

I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1822, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for eighteen years, and have spent a trip without this my faithful friend, says H. S. Nichols of Oakland, Ind. Ter. When a man has been used to thirty-five years, he knows it is better to be competent to speak of it. For sale by Morse & Co.

What is Best for Indigestion?

Mr. A. Robinson of Drumright, Ontario, has been troubled for years with indigestion, and recommends Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets as "the best medicine I ever used." If troubled with indigestion or constipation give them a trial. They are certain to be beneficial. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at Morse & Co.'s store.
