Killed Rattlesnake In Swamp.

An authentic instance of a rattlesnake being killed in the swamps of South Jersey occurred last Saturday, when John Bozarth, who lives at Leekstown, near Egg Harbor City, killed one that attacked his family while picking buckleberries in a swamp near his home. The members of his family had just started to pick berries when the rattler sounded his alarm and they took to their heels. Bozarth secured a stout pole and succeeded in killing the snake which was three feet long, three inches think and had fifteen rattles. He took the snake to Egg Harbor City where it was viewed by hundreds of residents. EGG HARBOR OUT OF RACE.

Not a Player Reached First Until the Seventh Inning---Score 6 to 1.

The County Capitol Association, away ahead in the race for the championship pennant, climed several pegs higher Saturday last when the Considerations as Shown by they easily defeated the team at Egg Harbor City by the one-sided score of 6 to 1. Up to the seventh inning, Egg Harbor had not secured a hft nor had a man reached first base and it looked like a shut-out for the wine city invincibles; but a timely hit coupled with an error broke up the row of goose-eggs on the scoreboard. Edwards pitched a splendid game for the Association and was backed up by faultless playing. Englehart, for the Egg Harbor team, was hit hard by the Association and his support was ragged. Features of the game were the pitching of Edwards, the throwing of Nagle and the stick-work of Warwick, Edwards, Applegate, Nagle and Wigglesworth, each of whom secured two hits. The standing

REPUBLICANS FIX DAY

FOR STATE CONVENTION

LEWIS FOR GOVERNOR IS FAVORED BY LEADERS.

WHOLE NUMBER 1721.

Appointment Of 973 Delegates Decided Upon By Committee-Reciprocity Policy For Autos Adopted By Resolution.

At a meeting held Wednesday at Trenton, the Republican State Committee decided to hold the State Convention to nominate a candidate for Governor on Tuesday, September 26, in the Taylor Opera House, Trenton. The committee also decided upon the appointment of the delegates, there being a total number of 973, representing 1,369 election districts, which. will necessitate fractional votes in many instances. Fearing the concerted action of the automobilists in politics this Fall, the State Committee adopted a resolution calling for recipro-0 city legislation in the interest of automobile owners of the State. This action was brought about because of the retaliatory statutes 0 enacted by the States of New York, Pennsyl-0 vania and Massachusetts, which waxed hard against the New Jersey automobilists as a result of the Frelinghuysen law passed at the session of 1909 of the New Jersey Legislature. By its action on the automobile question the State Committee has struck a hard blow at the gubernatorial aspirations of Senator Frelinghuysen, of Somerset County, president of the State Senate, who is responsible for the automobile act which has aroused the automobile interests. Members of the committee informally discussed candidates for Governor and there was a strong sentiment in favor of naming Vivian M. Lewis, of Paterson, State Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, who was first endorsed by the Republicans of Atlantic County and recently by Passaic County.

Sixteen of the twenty-one countles of the State were represented at the meeting. Those present included Ex-Governor Franklin Murphy, who presided; Ex-Governor E. C. Stokes, vicechairman; Winton C. Garrison, tresurer; Edward W. Gray, secretary; United States Senators Kean and Briggs; Ex-Senator Samuel K. Robbins, Burlington; Congressman John J. Gardner, Atlantic; David Baird, Camden; Senator Wakelee, Bergen; Henry M. Doremus and Affred E. Dairymple, Essex; John dlesex; Asa Francis, Monmouth, and Hamilton E. Kean, Union.

One advantage of the new marriage licenso law that seems to have been overlooked is the fact that licenses can be refused to idiots, people inflicted with incurable, diseases and other undesirable applicants. John Aborn's Disappearance

A Story of Kentucky When lt Was a Wilderness.

By GERTRUDE B. WALKER

Copyright, 1910, by American Press

One hundred years ago a young couple left Virginia, crossed the Allegheny mountains and settled in Henderson county, Ky. It was a wild country in those days, but very beautiful, nature seeming to tempt the pioneer with its virgin scenery, its immense trees, its profusion of wild flowers. And such temptation was necessary. The settler never knew at what moment the yell of the savage would break the stillness of the wilderness or when he and his family might be cut down by a tomahawk without even a whisper of warn-

John Aborn and his wife Mary journeyed to their new home down the Ohlo river on the only means of inland navigation known at that time, a flatboat, and on reaching their destination went ashore, "entered" a quarter section of land, built a log cabin and proceeded to make a living by the cultivation of the soil and hunting. Children were born to them, and other families settled about them. As more room was needed their cabin was extended, and within a few years the location assumed the semblance of civilization.

Aborn brought with him to Kentucky a few slaves and bought others from time to time, for we must remember that in those days the only hands a farmer could obtain were his own negroes. The community lived on game, of which there was abundance near at hand; the grain they raised and outs and berries, which grew plentifully on tree and bush. Each family was a unit bound together by the strongest ties.

But after a time the game was not so plentiful about the settlements on the river bank, and the hunters were obliged to go farther inland to provide many dangers. Besides the Indian, country is settled, on account of the absence of government find it a fine field for their lawless operations. Nevertheless every autumn John Aborn was obliged to go into the unsettled regions in order to bring back a supply of meat for the winter consumption. Sometimes he would go with a man: party of his neighbors, sometimes with a single friend and sometimes alone. One October morning he set out on his annual hunting tour in company with Alexander Swift, the neighbor with whom he was most intimate. When Aborn embraced his wife and children before departing they clung to him with unusual reluctance to let Whether this was due to a to him or that he must now go farther and remain longer than ever before, the fact remains that he and his famhimself away from them, he sprang the Indian's presence in the house

He remained conmentioning that he had been first tor- cealed till they had left.

As the Aborn family had increased the father, who at times had been troubled with insomnia, had slept in a room by himself. Mrs. Aborn, who did not relinquish all hope that hewould return, kept this room always ready for him. But she kept it locked and never mentioned it or to whom it had belonged. After her husband's capture by the Indians she sold her household negroes, feeling that she could not afford to keep them, buying a strong woman who would serve all domestic purposes. To this woman the bedroom that was never opened was a mystery. She once mentioned the room to her mistress, asking why it was kept locked, but received no satisfaction After that she speculated a great deal about the room, telling the field hands that she "'spected Missy Aborn had a ha'nt locked up in whom she hoped to sell her plantation. It was a stormy night, but she was anxious to get an offer for the property and was not deterred by the weather. During the evening a band of friendly Indians came into the settlement and were soon wandering about in search of what they could steal. One of them appeared at the kitchen, where Martha, Mrs. Aborn's maid of all work, was at work, and, turning. she saw him standing in the doorway. She was wiping a plate, which she vendue, on straightway dropped on the floor, and BATURDAY, THE TENTH DAY OF SEPit broke in pieces. The savage in a guttural tone peculiar to the Indian said:

Two years passed, during which Mrs. Aborn worked her farm as well as she could, and her neighbors on their return from their hunting expeditions always supplied her with meat for the coming winter and spring. Friendly Indians came and went is three hundred and forty-five feet Northwest to and from the settlement, and the wardly from the Northwesterly side of Flower widow never failed to inquire if any of them had knowledge of a white man she described to them. But none of them could give her any news of him. In the spring she began her preparations for removal.

She saw him go into her' mistress' bedroom, and when he came out he had a key in his hand Golng to the empty chamber, he unlocked the door and said to the wo

"Me sleep here. You no tell." He accompanied his words with savage look that tied her tongue completely. She wished to tell of the Indian who had gone into the only vacant room, but did not dare. He would surely know that she had, told and would tomahawk her. When her mistress returned it was evident that the negro had experienced a great scare; but, though Mrs. Aborn tried to induce her to tell what had frightened her, her efforts resulted in failure.
