GRAND JURY ADJOURNS AFTER SHORT SESSION.

TWO ALLEGED GAMBLERS INDICTED.

Excise Matters Probed But No Inkling Given of Result - No Indictments Presented to Court -Will Reconvene 27th Inst.

The expectations, if any, of those who anti-Jury yesterday when that body reconvened at the instance of Justice Thomas W. Trenchard to investigate alleged violations of the excise and gambling laws in Atlantic City, fell flat. The court room was about half filled with witnesses and a handful of the curious, but the dignity of the Court was at no time broken by anything beyond the ordinary routine of a meeting of the Grand Inquest, which adjourned at four o'clock until next Thursday morning, the 27th inst., when it will continue Its deliberations.

Justice Trenchard came direct from his Summer home in the Pocono Mountains, arriving shortly after ten o'clock, and was at once closeted with County Judge E. A. Higbee, Assistant Attorney General Nelson Gaskill Prosecutor Clarence L. Goldenberg. Shortly after eleven o'clock His Honor took his place on the Bench and delivered his charge, in which he called the attention of the Jury to certain alleged violations of the State laws and asked that they return indictments where the evidence to be submitted by the State was sufficient for a reasonable suspicion of guilt. The charge follows: You have been called together at this time because, in the judgment of the Court, there is urgent and important work for you to do. The Prosecutor of Pleas of this County has evidence of open violations of the law, several of which he has disclosed in public statements to the press. He needs the aid of this Court and of this Grand Jury and of the legal machinery of the State to assist him in his duty. "That aid to the utmost extent of its power the Court proposes to extend. He needs also the prompt and jealous assistance of this Grand Jury. I have therefore called you together that your services may be at his disposal. I trust that you will not fail in the performance of your duty. of "penny-a-liners" to throw the city into the limelight as a place of immorality incarnate. Anarchy and rebellion, treason and open defiance to law, ornamented by a superfluity of elegant adjectives calculated to arouse public interest, aided by all the sensational resources of yellow-journalism in its worst phase, were given liberal space in the metropolitan press. Officials were scored and held up to club house gambling at Saratoga have been filed against the sheriff of ridicule, and the resort besmeared by the greatest mudslinging campaign in the history of the State, but no visitor found the city otherwise than it has always one do their duty in that respect is possessed by the Governor of this State, Cafes were open last Sunday, but orderly; places of amusement running, quietly and with no offices but cannot dismiss them. Their removal can be accomplished offense to those who did not care to patronize them. On the other hand, it is likely that no city of equal size in the country can boast of more churches or principle holds that officials are responsible to the people and their rumpus emanated from a dingy press office, where made before the higher tribunal, the Legislature. The Governor has fortune by slandering the municipality. It is high law. We do not think the people of this State would favor delegating time this sort of thing was stopped.

The most radical supporters of Brother Bryan practically admit that there is not the remotest chance of his election. Taft is a strong man, and will carry experts and have long shown the deepest interest in bettering the conthe bulk of the doubtful states, while he is now things they will look into is the matter of sunitation on the farm. The assured of sufficient support to insure his success in average citizen has always heretofore regarded the farm as a most those States known to be Republican. Bryan forced the farms, even in our own State, are in an unwholesome and unsanthimself upon the Democratic convention, practically lary condition. The "old oaken bucket" which popular fancy has nominating himself, but he can't force himself upon pictured as invariably supplying an abundant quantity of pure urmaing water very often draws polluted water from a surface well into the people. It is a commendable action one that should have been taken before and which A will receive approbation when its object and effect are better understood. Residents of this Township HERMAN L. HAMILTON, are not obliged to pay for the privilege, only those who come from other portions of the County, who do no trading here, but undersell local merchants and farmers and take the money thus secured from the Township. The ordinance is a good one, and should not longer remain a dead letter on the Township records.

The automobile accident on the Estelville road last Sunday, while not resulting seriously, served to bring the bad condition of the road at that point to attention. It is indeed a disgraceful bit of roadway, wholly out of keeping with the good highways of the County. On one side a mill pond is situated, while on the other a steep embankment leads into a deep swamp, there being no room for vehicles to pass owing to the narrowness of the road. There have been frequent minor accidents at the same place recently, and early action to improve that section of the road is advisable.

There does not appear to be the slightest reason why Bryan should look to Ohio for its electoral vote, but, on the contrary, a careful preliminary canvass indicates Taft will have a plurality of about 100,000 knowledge that should his property take fire means votes in his native State. As for Indiana, the Republicans realize that they have a hard fight before them, due to the fact that Kern, Democratic candidate for Vice president, is stronger than his party in the any great damage is done or the property of neigh- State, and to the other fact that the liquor interests are combined bors endangered. We are now enjoying low insurance doubt of Republican success exists is gradually dissolving, and the rates—lower than most municipalities, yet it is never leaders feel confident of carrying the State by handsome pluralities for the national and State ticket. An important issue in Indiana is local option, the Democrats favoring it with townships and wards as the unit, while the Republicans have declared for it with the county as the unit. On this issue the moral forces of the State will be aligned, and it is believed the Republicans have the popular end of it. From the normal Democratic State of Maryland the news is decidedly favorable L.
