Night-school Attendance Decreased. Attendance in the night school showed a great decrease during the month and measures will probably be taken by the school officers to bring about a greater interest in the institution. The school was started in September with an enrollment passing the half-hundred mark, but during October the average attendance fell to fifteen. Much difficulty is experienced through the irregularity of attendance, it being almost impossible to maintain regular classes and lesson assignments. The school is one of the most worthy innovations introduced in the Township educational system for many years and a boon for those who will take advantage of the opportunity afforded to secure a good common school education. Parents and others interested in educational work are urged to revival interest in the young men to whom this opportunity is afforded. Evidence of Returning Prosperity. THANKSGIVING OBSERVED.

Places of Business Closed - Many Visitors Here for Holiday. Thanksgiving Day proved to be one of ideal weather, and was generally observed throughout the County by closing of places of business and public gatherings in places of worship. The cotton mill and stores were closed here the all day, and the fine weather brought scores of visitors. Gunners invaded the neighboring fields and woods in large numbers and several good bags were reported.

The weather was exceptionally warm for the latter part of November, a heavy fog, which hung low in the morning, clearing before noon. The threatened storm which was predicted for the holiday was evidently side-tracked. Union Thanksgiving services were held in the M. E. Church Wednesday evening, the choirs of the churches uniting and Rev. Robert Bramfitt preaching the Thanksgiving sermon. Many members and friends of both churche

That there will be considerable revision of the tariff during the coming four years under the adminis tration of President-elect William H. Taft seems assured. The task is a momentous undertaking, and the difficulty of establishing justice to the multitudes of conflicting business interests involved calls for statesmanship of the highest order. Mr. Taft appears hanced the better shall we succeed as a nation. to be a man fitted by Providence for the task, embodying as he does a strong judicial mind strengthened by years of experience in national affairs, and in his care the interests of the people are secure. That changes are needed in the tariff is universally admitted, but alterations in fundamental principles of government can only be safely made during periods of general prosperity, after due deliberation and consideration of all interests affected. An intimate acquaintance with internal affairs, general knowledge of business involved and a keen sense of justice are required in making the necessary changes, and William H. Taft possesses these attributes in a high degree.

Deputy game wardens sent out by the Fish and Game Commission at Trenton are gathering evidence of violations of the game laws in this County and arrests may follow. Game Warden Loder has been vigilant but as it is impossible for one officer to thoroughly cover the district help has been extended the latter could have. by the State. The game laws are being enforced more rigidly this season than ever before, and since the Court has decided that deer may not be legally hunted until next year the wardens have been giving especial attention to the enforcement of the law prohibiting the killing of deer until the Autumn of 1909. Many have been punished for hunting in should receive prompt medical attention. tracking snow, and foreigners hunting without the prescribed license have been fined. The wardens everywhere are unusually vigilant, and those who break the law may expect almost certain detection.

Attorney General Wilson, recently appointed by Governor Fort to succeed Robert H. McCarter, finds plenty of hard work awaiting him, some of a character that will test his mettle at once. Legal battles between the State and corporations over taxation and other matters are in progress, and his duties will be rigorhis training and record invite the prediction that he will make a worthy successor to Mr. McCarter, whose resignation was occasioned by pressure of private business. President-elect Taft's personality has not been lost by the injection of Roosevelt's strenuousness into his campaign. It is not the first time a President has named and supported his successor. Several Executives whose names are prominent world-wide came to the Presidency by similar means. The Roosevelt administration has been one of the greatest in the history of the United States, and his preference for William H. Taft is one of the best recommendations

"How very extraordinary!" said Christopher Kent. He sat up and sura very plump pony hat had stopped by the side of the road.

A girl in a smart costume of tan covert climbed down from the front shafts, tied him with a long tether scthat he might crop the juicy sed and then, returning once more to the cart, lady to descend.

"Well, of all things!" said Christopher helplessly.

But words failed him as he watched the further proceedings of the girl in

From the depths of the cart she brought forth a little folding table, which she proceeded to set up in a place screened from the gaze of passing folk by a hedge of wild honeysuckle.

On the table the girl set a shining gray October day," she added. copper kettle, two cups, two plates, a small teapot and various tin boxes and ! tioned little glass jars, whose gay labels proclaimed the deliciousness within.

"I'll go right away and see," cried the old lady excitedly. "There's no occasion for that," said the man at the desk. "Just wait a moment."

He took up a telephone receiver, called the police station at Arlington and asked to have the dog brought to the phone. When it was announced the dog was there, the chief talked in the receiver: "Hello, doggy! Doggy want a bone? Hello, Tip, Tip, Tip!" Then he asked how the dog had taken his call. The reply came that the only recognition he showed was a slight pricking up his ears at the name Tip, "Now; madam," said the chief, "you talk to him." "Tip! Is that you, Tip? Did the naughty man take my little doggie away from me?" For reply there came a series of joyful barks. "Let up." came a policeman's voice. "or the dog'll break the machine." The chief ordered the dog sent down, and the same afternoon he was in his mistress' arms-that is, so long as she could keep him there, for he jumped down and up and circled about, barking, while the old lady sat with joyful tears streaming down her cheeks. It was a few days after this that the lady received a note from the president of the -th National bank stating that if she could find it convenient to call at the bank he would be pleased to see her.
