Father Time's repair shop. That wise "old wrinkled countenance, is greasing its worn axies, tightening its rattling tires, driving in a nail here and turning a nut there to make it safe for the load it will soon be called upon to carry. Doubtless the load will be, as usual heavy, and doubtless also, ere the new year has passengers. But no matter-good luck to it and its worthy mission! It is the symbol of the desire in every man's heart, no matter how helps him on the way only a brief space, it is so much gained, so all aboard!

ion than this: take out a few shares of stock way of an opportunity to better our position in life by a timely investment. The local can possibly find. There are scores of neighbors among us who have paid for their homes or feel secure in the knowledge of autistantial savings through this medium. They all had to start once. Now is your time, if you haven't already begun to save a portion of your earnings.

It is unfortunate that in the majority of in stances railroads enter through the "back yard" of the community. Such is the condition at the County Capital, though it is no half sa tad as in many other municipalities. There is, however, much that can be done both by the railroad and townspeople to set up a better appearance along the right of way gathered from the train windows just before the station is reached. In no one instance could a better improvement be made in this connection than the clearing of the "junk house wharf" property, removing the jungle of brush and establishing a next river front. This property can be bought by the township at a moderate price and converted into a real municipal asset as a public park and lauding place. The railroad must be given credit for keeping its property in a next condition, but a new station is badly needed. It is doubtful if there is a station in New Jersey with such an a nount of travel that is so weefully inadequate and lacking. In convenience. Both a new Joseff H. Battiffert. gathered from the train windows just before and lacking in conveniences. Both a new rational station at Farragut Avenue and an inspected river front along the railroad are
