LETTER NO. IV.

To the Editor of the South Jersey Republican:

Besides the objects of interest already alluded to, there were others which served to prevent the journey from proving monotonous for a single hour. On the one hand, within full view all the way to Cheyenne, stretched that stupendous range of mountains, revealing peak rising above peak, mountain piled on mountain, till they pierced the sky, their snowy summits reflecting the dazzling sunlight like silver-tipped clouds.
At this distance, we could distinguish some familiar peaks which had been landmarks to us in our mountain retreat, and others whose names were familiar but which we had not before recognized. As I watched the varying outlines of the peaks, and saw them sinking gradually out of sight in the dim distance at the south, while new ones came into view at the north, in imagination I saw this great continental backbone losing itself in arctic seas, and stretching across the torrid zone away down almost to southern polar latitudes. And I thought, how unimaginable are the forces of Nature; how exhaustless her resources of power, and how utility seems to be the plan in all her handiwork! I thought how, by plowing the continents and upheaving the rocks by subterranean forces, wealth in silver and gold to enrich the nations had been laid bare or rendered accessible, and material had been prepared to enrich the soil and level the surface, and make the earth habitable for man. I saw in all this the method of law originated and supervised by the Divine Intelligence we call "Our Father who art in Heaven," who, we must believe, lives and moves in the life and activities of unconscious Nature, as well as in the being who has derived a spark of Divinity from Him in whose image he was created.

On the other hand was the intermin-able plain, giving an impression of vastness, of grandeur, akin to that suggested by the mountains, but different. I never tired of gazing at either; and the picture they left on memory's tablet, there in contrast, will be enduring.

This plain, called a desert because of its aridity in many parts, and its stunted verdure, is, or may be, in reality, a source of unbounded wealth, as it lies wild and uncultivated. It is a vast pasture, where the flocks and herds of a continent may find subsistence, from which the world might be supplied with wool, meat, etc. The grass of the plains, which seems to the novice of little worth, so short and scant is it, is very rich in quality. It is buffalo-grass, and cattle thrive on it where it seems almost too thin and stunted for a sheep pasture.
The "cattle kings" of the west, whose wealth often counts by millions, and who have vied with the "bonanza kings" in developing the resources of the great interior and western parts of the continent, have become such by utilizing this product of the desert by replacing the herds of wild buffalo, elk, deer, and antelope, in a great measure with domestic cattle and sheep. Texas here finds a market for cattle. Herds of full and half-grown cattle are yearly driven from that state and purchased by dealers who make cattle raising a business. Here they have ample space for breeding and enlarging their herds, and the rich grass serves as well as grain for fattening their beves ready for the shambles. Thus furnishing a constant supply for the eastern markets, their source of income is sure, year after year.
Losses, it is true, occur in severe seasons; but, taking these into account, the business is most lucrative, as all who have followed it faithfully for a few years testify. The city of Cheyenne has been built mainly by cattle men, who make it a sort of headquarters for the surrounding section of country. Their herds have a range of hundreds of miles, changing their feeding grounds as necessary, being under the care of trained herdsmen or "cow-boys." Young men who have a little capital in money, and enough in enterprise and business tact to look out for the chances and make the most of them, can here find a good place for investment in this line of business, where competition will be long in rearing a mountain of difficulty to be overcome.

As we neared Cheyenne we came upon strange formations, which are isolated limestone cliffs, ledges, and ridges, sometimes miles in extent, like a great wall, rising, in some places, perpendicularly from the plain, perhaps from twenty to two hundred feet in height, assuming all sorts of fantastic shapes, suggesting crumbling castles, ruined towns, shepherds' huts, etc., etc.
These were most suggestive of what is doubtless a fact—that this section was once a shallow sea, where tiny coral insects performed their part in creative work, building their structures of limestone, which were to outlast, in part, the waters that formed the matrix in which they grew, and which have formed material for soil-making. There are the remnants of ancient coral islands—atolls which enclosed lagoons—examples of which are now abundant in the Ar-chipelagos of the Pacific. Thus Nature has written her history all over the land on mountain and plain, which, to the thoughtful mind, is a sacred revelation of God's works and ways, to remain an ever-enduring reminder of his laws.

There was water for the first time in many miles, from springs rising in the cliffs; and here were herds of cattle scattered all about; and here, near the city, were lime-kilns.

MARIA M. KING
HAMMONTON, JAN. 27, 1882.

The Guitau Jury.

Apparently the only conclusion to be drawn from a study of the jurymen's faces is that they have all reached a conclusion of some sort, as with two or three exceptions, they listen to proceedings with an appearance of great weariness. The foreman, John P. Hamilton, is a middle-aged restaurant keeper, a grave, intelligent-looking man. The second jurymen, Frederick W. Brandenburg, is a cigarmaker, a wrinkled mahogany colored little man, evidently of a nervous temperament, who listens to all that is said. Henry J. Bright, the third jurymen, has been mentioned as a man likely to divide the jury. He has had insanity in his family and is spoken of as "very peculiar." He looks, however, like one of the most intelligent members of the jury, and inquiry proves that he is regarded as a man of excellent judgment. He is a retired merchant. Charles T. Stewart the fourth juror, is a merchant. He has a habit of listening with his eyes shut, which has given him the appearance many times during the trial of being asleep when he has not been. The naps of jurors have sometimes been made the basis of a demand for a new trial.
Thomas H. Langley, the fifth juror, is a retired merchant, with a face which would lead the census taker to put him down as an Irishman without a question; yet he is English. He has a habit of leaning forward in his seat, and now and then of looking around but always with a face as impenetrable as a mask. Michael Sheehan, number six, is a juror about whom the Government has been said, in the gossip of the courtroom, to be somewhat concerned. His answers when he was under examination were thought evasive. He is a Roman Catholic and a Democrat, and in business is a grocer. This completes the front row. Joseph Prather, number seven, is an intelligent looking commission merchant. S. F. Hobbs is the jurymen who lost his wife. He rests his head on his hands all day in seeming weariness and dejection. He is a plasterer, a plain workingman. William H. Braumery, number nine, is a grocer, in appearance decidedly above the average in intelligence. He also is said to have had insanity in his family.
R. Wormley is the colored juror, still wearing the patch over his eye. He is a good-natured, bright looking negro.
He is a laborer, a plasterer. The eleventh jurymen, Thomas Heinlien, is a Navy Yard machinist and so is George W. Gates, the twelfth jurymen, and an intelligent fellow of about thirty. The latter has had insanity in his family.

In our family of ten, for over two years, Parker's Ginger Tonic has cured headache, malaria, and in fact all other complaints so satisfactorily that we are in excellent health and no expense for doctors or other medicines.—Chronicle.

The Silk Exhibit, under the auspices of the Women's Silk Culture Associat'n will be formally opened on Tuesday evening, Jan. 31st, 1882, eight o'clock, at St. George's Hall, S. W. cor. Arch and Thirteenth Streets, Philadelphia.
Gov. Hoyt, Ex-Gov. Pollock, Ex-Mayor Fox, C. V. Riley, of Washington, and other distinguished gentlemen will be present, and addresses will be made.

This exhibit is designed to illustrate the various branches of the silk industry, from the forming of the cocoons to the perfected fabric; and so far as the surroundings will permit (there being unfortunately no hall in Philadelphia where power can be procured), all the branches of the silk industry will be illustrated, as far as practicable.

At this exhibit, the Strawbridge & Clothing prizes of $500, in sums of $200, $150, $100, and $50, will be awarded.
Also, $50 in prizes of $25, $15, and $10, for the three best lots of cocoons raised by colored persons, provided six competitors offer. This last prize is offered by a prominent Philadelphian now abroad, who has become interested in our work and desires to stimulate colored people into this new industry.

Exhibits of fabrics or hand looms solicited, as a few spaces are still vacant.
Also any objects of interest or antiquity of silk fabric. Goods received to be sold by the Association on commission. Donations of painting on silk fancy silk goods of any kind are respectfully solicited.

At the Exhibit there will be displayed an elegant fabric now in process of manufacture by Messrs. Hamt & Booth, of Patterson, N. J., designed as a dress pattern for Mrs. Gen. Garfield—grown, reel, dyed, and woven under the auspices of the Association.

Tickets are for sale at the Rooms of the Association, 1328 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. Admission, 25 cts. Children, 10 cts. Season tickets, 50 cents.
The Exhibit will continue until Feb.
11th, 1882.

When babies are fretful they disturb everybody, and mothers should know how soothing Parker's Ginger Tonic is. It takes away half their anxiety stops baby's pains, and is always safe and pleasant to use.—Home Journal.

There are many forms of nervous debility in men that yield to the use of Carter's Iron Pills. Those who are troubled with nervous weakness, night sweats, etc., should try them.

The Republican.

Entered as second class matter. OVERTURE BY HOYT.

HAMMONTON, ATLANTIC CO., N. J. SATURDAY, Jan. 24, 1882.

Guilty, as Indicted.

Such was the verdict of the jury in the Guiteau case, rendered on Wednesday afternoon about half past five, after less than one hour's retirement.

Mr. Porter closed his masterly plea about three o'clock. Judge Cox being ready, proceeded at once with his charge to the jury, in which he reviewed the evidence, laid down the law concerning insanity and responsibility, and did it all in language so simple—yet clear and unmistakable—that the humblest man in the courtroom understood his meaning.

The charge occupied about an hour and a half. The jury retired, and as once took a ballot, resulting in eleven for conviction and one blank; the latter cast by one who wished to ask a question. The foreman answered his question, and the vote was changed, making the verdict unanimous, the whole proceeding not occupying over ten minutes.

When the verdict was announced, the prisoner called out, "Blood be upon the head of that jury. God will avenge the outrage!" It is said that Mr. Beoville will demand a mitigation of the sentence, but we apprehend that seventy-three days are as many as law and justice will compel the country to endure this Guiteauism. Justice demands that the cold-blooded assassin be hung by the neck until life is extinct, and that as soon as the law will permit, which will probably be about Friday, June 30th.

No soldier with a just claim for pension need worry his pate about the Editor of the Republican. We quoted last week a paragraph concerning the total expenditure under its provisions would not exceed $50,000,000, and it passed. Already, more than $200,000,000 have been paid out, and the end is not yet visible. All good citizens will see why members of Congress are sick of it, and that it imposes an immense tax upon the National Treasury. But the act has been passed, the promise made, and the cash will be paid. We only hope Congress will not be fooled in promising the same to Confederate soldiers.

In the State Legislature bills and resolutions of interest to our readers were introduced, as follows: Regulating pay and attendance of jurors; authorizing deduction of mortgage debts in cases of taxation; prohibiting non-residents from being concerned in planting or raising oysters in this State; Grand Jurors to be selected by drawing as Petit Jurors now are a uniform standard for measuring oysters; incorporating school districts; establishing a wharfage tax in each county for punishing wharf-batters; repealing laws reducing fees of County Clerks and Sheriffs; prohibiting the wedding or exploding of guns or pistols by persons under eighteen years; making habitual drunkenness a cause for absolute divorce.

A letter was received from Senator Sewell, in which he states that it was his intention to introduce in Congress a law prohibiting the wholesale catching of mackerel and similar fish for their oil and for fertilizers, but he has learned that by the treaty with England Canadian fishermen are permitted to fish along our coast, and no law could prevent it. He recommends that the State Legislature prohibit the taking of fish on the Jersey coast with purse nets or similar contrivances, which law would lessen the evil complained of.

Judge Porter made the closing address in the trial of Guiteau, as a sample of strong English speech, and as an expression of the sentiments of thousands who have not the ability to express them so well. The portion we quote was delivered on Monday: A murderer at heart on that second of July, the assassin of a murdered at heart man, and he has shown it. Do you believe that the man who shot at President Grant, who dogged him at night and went to church murdering his fellow men, had felt safe the other day instead of finding his honor's name coupled with insidious thundering down the ages, have not cartridge into his honor's breast? This man showed his idea of mercy to others when on one occasion he turned to you and said that God would be merciful to him, and that he would be merciful to you. He has so often blasphemed would interfere to strike down one of your number before you should be able to convict him? This is the man who invokes the clemency and successful consideration of his case—a man bent in his instance, inordinate in his love of notoriety, casten up by a thirst for money which has gnawed at his soul like

PROSPECTUS FOR 1882.
First Class Family Magazine
FOR ONLY
$3.00 per annum.
LIPPINCOTT'S Magazine.
An illustrated Monthly of Popular Literature.

At the beginning of the present year Lippincott's Magazine entered on a new series, at a reduced price, with the distinctive purpose of presenting such a variety of reading matter—for the most part light and entertaining, yet of real literary merit—as should commend it to the general mass of cultivated persons, and ensure it a welcome in many American homes. Devoting a large proportion of its space to fiction, in which also serials are made a noticeable feature, and to sketches illustrative of social life and manners, it has included in its list of subjects curiosities of science, especially natural history, popularly treated, travel and adventure at home and abroad, field sports and fishing, and, occasionally, political, historical and educational topics susceptible of fresh and lively discussion. The serial stories published during the year have been marked by a plot of originality, and have met with a warm reception; while the general attractiveness of the magazine has gained it the cordial approval and a greatly increased circulation.

The conductors of the magazine hope not only to maintain its reputation, but to enhance and extend it by constant improvement in the same direction. Their arrangements for the coming year embrace a larger number than ever before of contributions of a popular character.

A serial story entitled SCOTT'S PRISON, which some peculiar and striking phases of American life are vividly and dramatically treated, will begin in the January number and run through six months.

The Editorial department will maintain their present standard of accuracy and excellence, and the illustrations will be of a high character than any that have hitherto appeared in the magazine.

For sale by all Book and Newsdealers.

CUMBERLAND MUTUAL Fire Insurance Co. of N. J.

Conducted on strictly mutual principles, offering a perfectly safe insurance for just what it may cost to pay losses and expenses. The proportion of loss to the amount insured being very small, and expenses much less than usually had, nothing can be offered more favorable to the insured. The cost being about ten cents on the hundred dollars per year to the insured on ordinary risks, and from fifteen to twenty cents per year on hazardous properties, which is less than one third of the lowest rates charged by stock companies, on such risks—the other two-thirds taken by stock companies being a profit accruing to stockholders, or consumed in expenses of the companies.

The guarantee fund of premium notes being now Three Millions of Dollars.

If an assessment had to be made of five per cent. only, twice within the ten years for which the policy is issued it would yet be cheaper to the member than any other insurance offered. And that large amount of money is saved to the member and kept at home. No assessment having ever been made, being now more than thirty years, that saving would amount to more than

One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars The Losses by Lightning.

Where the property is not set on fire, being less than one cent per year to each member, are paid without extra charge, and extended so as to cover all policies that are issued and outstanding.

MIELVILLE MUTUAL Marine & Fire Ins. Co.

This Company have disposed entirely of all its STOCK PLAN BUSINESS, and having been RE-ORGANIZED, has decided to do in the future do a Strictly Mutual Home Business.
Having succeeded in paying ALL ITS LIABILITIES, and securing an Actual Net Available Surplus of Over $30,000, the Directors feel that they can offer to all who desire insurance but only at LOW RATES and UNQUESTIONABLE SECURITY, but much greater probability of immunity from assessment for years to come, than other Companies, since this surplus is large enough to pay all probable losses on the policies now in force, until their expiration, without any dependence on receipts from new business—a condition of things that can be shown by but very few companies in the State. The present Directors pledge to the Policy Holder an ECONOMICAL MANAGEMENT and a Careful Supervision of the business and will continue in the future, as in the past, to act on the principle of PROMPT PAYMENT OF HONEST LOSSES without seeking to EVASIVE them on technical grounds.

Hereafter, no notes will be subject to assessment, until they are a year old.
We would call special attention to our Marine Department,
our LOW RATES and FAVORABLE FORM OF POLICIES.
