CHURCH & CO'S
ABSOLUTELY AND CHEMICALLY PURE
SODA WATER
AND
SALERATUS
Which is the same thing.

Impure Saleratus or Bi-Carb Soda (which is the same thing) is of a slightly dirty white color. It may appear white, examined by itself, but a COMPARISON WITH CHURCH & CO'S "ARM AND ANKER" BRAND will show the difference.
See that your Saleratus and Baking Soda is white and PURE. As should be ALL SIMILAR SUBSTANCES used for food.
A simple but sure test of the comparative value of different brands of Soda or Saleratus is to dissolve a dessert spoonful of each kind with about a pint of water (hot preferred) in clear glasses, stirring until all is thoroughly dissolved. The deleterious insoluble matter in the inferior Soda will be shown after settling some twenty minutes or sooner, by the milky appearance of the solution and the quantity of floating frothy matter according to quality.
Be sure and ask for Church & Co's Soda and Saleratus and see that their name is on the package and you will get the purest and whitest made. The use of this with your milk, in preference to Baking Powder, saves twenty times its cost.
See one pound package for valuable information and read carefully.

Decreed.
Into all lives some rain must fall,
Into all eyes some tear-drops start.
Whether they fall as a gentle shower,
Or fall like fire from an aching heart.
Into all hearts some sorrow must creep,
Into all souls some doubting come,
Lashing the waves of life's great deep,
From dimpling waters to seething foam.
Over all paths some clouds must lower,
Under all feet some sharp thorns spring,
Tearing the flesh to bitter wounds.
Or entering the heart with their bitter sting.
Upon all brows rough wind must blow,
Over all shoulders a cross be laid,
Bowing the form in its lofty height
Down to the dust in bitter pain.
Into all hands some duty thrust,
Unto all arms some burden given,
Crushing the heart with its dreary weight,
Or lifting the soul from earth to heaven.
Into all hearts and homes and lives
God's near sunlight comes streaming down,
Gilding the ruins of life's great plain—
Weaving for all a golden crown.

The End of the Way.
The following lines were written by a young lady in Nova Scotia, an invalid for many years:
My life is a wearisome journey,
I'm sick with the dust and the heat,
The rays of the sun beat upon me,
The briars are wounding my feet;
But the city to which I am journeying,
Will more than my trials repay,
And the tolls of the road will be nothing,
When I get to the end of the way.
There are so many hills to climb upward,
I often am longing for rest,
But he who appoints me my pathway,
Knows what is needful and best!
I know in His word He has promised
That my strength shall be as my day;
And the tolls of the road will be nothing,
When I get to the end of the way.

He loves me to well to forsake me
Or give me one trial too much;
All his people have been dearly purchased,
And Satan can never claim such.
By-and-by I will see Him and praise Him,
In the city of unending day;
And the tolls of the road will seem nothing,
When I get to the end of the way.
When the last feeble step have been taken
And the gates of the city appear,
And the beautiful songs of the angels
Float out on my listening ear;
When all that seems now so mysterious
Will be plain and as clear as the day;
Yes, the tolls of the road will seem nothing,
When I get to the end of the way.
Though now I am footsore and weary,
I shall rest when I'm safely at home,
I know I'll receive a glad welcome,
For the Saviour himself has said, Come.
So when I am weary in body,
And sinking in spirit, I say,
All the tolls of the road will seem nothing,
When I get to the end of the way.
Cooling fountains are there for the thirsty,
There are cordials for those who are faint;
There are robes that are whiter and purer
Than any the fancy can paint;
Then I'll try to pass hopefully onward,
Thinking often through each weary day,
That the tolls of the road will seem nothing,
When I get to the end of the way.

Our Washington Letter.
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 22, 1880.
The stupidity of the Democracy will shortly pass into a proverb, even now you hear it said "as stupid as a Democratic Congressman." The last few weeks has given evidence that they learned very little from the extra session and its results. Nearly the whole of this session, thus far, has been thrown away. The Pension Office wanted clerks to hasten the business of the office and meet the demands of poor pensioners who have been waiting years for the settlement of their just claims.
A bill was presented before the recess but was neglected in order to make a fight upon the Fitz John Porter case, which they found after the airing given it by Senator Logan and Mat Carpenter was likely to damage them if pressed to a vote, has been allowed to slumber, and will continue to sleep until after the Presidential election, when it will be taken up and passed—as well as much other foolish legislation which they dare not meddle with now. Then came the deficiency bill for public printing. The money appropriated last session has been exhausted by the extra session. Congress was early notified that a certain amount of money would be required to continue the printing. In search of every possible officer, and all patronage they can get, they attached a rider, taking from the President the power to appoint the Public Printer, and giving his election to the House. After wasting weeks and even months upon the matter, they have at last got it through their stupid heads that it will give the Democrats control of that matter eight months longer only, when it will pass into the hands of the Republicans as they will have a majority in the House next March. They intend now to pass the bill without the rider in hopes to elect the next President and thus control the appointment four years instead of eight months. Another of their stupid blunders is the unsetting of Washburn, of Minnesota. Another, that of Kellogg, of Louisiana, and another, that of Orth, of Indiana, and so the string lengthens as they proceed.

Ben Hill's baby, 19 months old, goes regularly to the Capitol, with its mother, seeking some little notice from its ddd. But old Ben feels a little bashful, and won't recognize the otherwise fatherless child. But Ben, Jr. is bound to compel a support at least from Ben, Sr., and thus the excitement goes on. Miss (?) Raymond and Miss (?) Horton are constant attendants upon the deliberations of Senators, and it is possible yet that in some moment of desperation, some more toy pistols will be brought to bear upon these Senatorial recalcitrants.
MAXWELL.

The Fruit Grower.
Mr. Editor:
All trades, professions and callings have their beginning; their trials, difficulties, perplexities and disappointments are pretty much the same. Some advance against all obstacles and succeed. They start to do so, and know no such word as fail; many, lacking in this determined spirit, lamentably come to grief. The abolition of slavery had its advocates; they were few but heroic, determined, and had their enemies, because they labored on the line of humanity. God and the right were with them and finally success, though through a sea of blood, crowned their efforts. Every enterprise has its advocates. How few and how little are they remembered by those who follow and reap the benefits of those few who labored amidst every opposition to the end that a common good might be secured.
Twelve or fourteen years ago the Fruit Growers' Union had its birth. It was far from working smoothly; it was young and lacked in experience. Among its pioneers was Capt. Somerby; he did all that could be done to promote the common interest—made arrangements for shipping to New York, Boston, and other points; but all terminated in failures. This was not the Captain's fault. Circumstances and the surroundings were unfavorable; freight charges and the routes we had to send our berries by were killing. Some improvements were secured in shipping by the way of Sandy Hook to New York, but the berries were so shaken in oft handling and changing that they really looked, when offered for sale, very unattractive, and were in no fit condition to ship to Boston and other points. These were the difficulties that Captain Somerby, and the Agents following, had to contend with. They did their part well, and we were glad that the Captain's early labors in the interest of the Fruit Growers were so justly and slyly remembered in an article that appeared some time ago in the "South Jersey Republican." Let the Captain be remembered by rendering honor to whom honor is due.
For the last two or three years great improvements have been made by the Fruit Growers, in the transit of their berries to market. Now we can ship by rail all the way to Gotham, and from there to Boston and other points, so as to reach all these points the morning following, and the berries looking in fine, salable condition. Conditions of shipping are changed. The charges are reasonable and the surroundings, oh! how changed, in the interest of the shipper. To secure the shipment of our berries by the present route, Mr. S. D. Holman labored, to our certain knowledge, for two long years and was absolutely pooped at for advancing the idea, and with the exclamation "it can't be done," etc., was put off, and every man in the Union grumbled, found fault with the shameful usage our berries received in their transit to New York, and our Agent, then Mr. L. Montfort, was continually found fault with. This fault-finding and murmuring thoughts against Mr. Montfort was unfair and unjust, for under the circumstances and the then surroundings, we declare that Mr. Montfort did well and efficiently his whole duty; and let Mr. Montfort also be remembered for services rendered, and for one suggestion that will some day, now a little premature, greatly add to our earnings; but when this suggestion is advanced let it be on its own merits, disconnected with all personalities and we are surely with him.
At the end of two years, during which time Mr. Holman had been laboring to succeed in his idea of shipping all the way to N. Y. by rail, some change in the directors and Agent was made, and the newly appointed Agent was directed to try, at least, if arrangements with the N. J. Central could be made. The Agent found no difficulty in making satisfactory arrangements and from that time to this we have shipped all our produce by rail with greatly reduced freight rates, etc. Mr. W. L. Snyder, a reputable, fair dealing commission merchant, made this suggestive remark, after the first shipment by rail: "The man that engineered this through has saved to the people all the freight, cartage and commission heretofore paid out," that is, our receipts are so much the more, aggregating a large sum indeed. Of course, this channel of shipment, our need and their desire for customers would have met together, like marey and truth; but the early advance and effort put forth by Mr. Holman has saved thousands to the Fruit Growers of Hammonton and caused some thousands actually paid to the N. J. Central Railroad Company in freight, earlier than the two wants would have bought each other; and while we believe Mr. Holman to be justly entitled to the kind remembrances of his associates in the Union, he is equally entitled at the hands of the Central Railroad Company to be remembered, if it be only a free ride on their road, as their early friend.
RICKARD.

Trimming Hedges.
The following rules for trimming hedges have been handed us for publication. They come from the pen of one whose horticultural and practical studies and researches have rendered him eminent and whose words should therefore have weight:
A hedge should be so trimmed that every leaf and every twig should have the benefit of all the sunshine, air, and rain, so that it is possible for it to receive; this result is easily obtained by directing the cut, at this, and all subsequent prunings, in such a manner as to leave a sloping wall on each side of the hedge-row, so that an end view shall present the appearance of a broad low pyramid; never allow the sides to be vertical or perpendicular, much less, sloping outwardly as they ascend, and with a broad flat surface on the top, which is the inevitable result of perpendicular hedge-walls. This is a very common form for a hedge. I admit; but, nevertheless, a very-unfortunate one, and not justified by its frequent occurrence: on the contrary, the more condemnable is it, because this very error is so disastrous in its consequences as to have deterred many persons from hedging, when they beheld a high wall of bushes, surrounding and shading a field, with a perfect thicket of branches and thorns, from four to six feet above the ground, but beneath this, the naked and message stems, that appeared this and shortly: these are scarcely hidden in midsummer by the scanty foliage upon the starting twigs, which was fast dying out, and leaving open gaps, to be filled with obtrusive and unsightly dead stakes, which, the unwise hedger had been obliged to thrust in, to prevent the intrusion of the swine and other invaders.
Such a result is, I am sorry to confess, by far too common with many of the hedges that may be seen all over the country, and such a result is inevitable, where the simple axiom I have repeated has not been the guiding principle of the hedger, even where the plants have been lavishly crowded at the planting.
Enough has already been said, perhaps, to show that the usual form of an upright wall is entirely unsuited for a hedge. The true form, as already suggested, in the directions for trimming, is that of a pyramid, the two sides of the hedge being slopes that meet at the apex, in a line immediately over the row of plants: this is not only the line of beauty for a hedge, but it is also the line of healthfulness for the plants; since, by the plan, every portion of the hedge, every leaf, and every bud, is placed in the best possible position for receiving the full influence of the air, the sunshine and the rain. The perpendicular wall may be very much admired, and certainly affords a very fine opportunity for the gardener to exhibit his skill in mechanics, emulating the mason or the carpenter in his faculty of perpendicularity. But, with all his skill, he will soon find it an impossible task to preserve this uprightness: the lower twigs, being checked, of their due share of God's blessed rain and sunshine, will soon suffer from the slow, but sure effects of natural pruning—that effected by suffocation and starvation: the upper branches, on the contrary, more highly favored, will spread laterally, in spite of the shears, so that the difficulty goes on increasing from year to year.

The Koran, of Mohammed, we have received from the American Book Exchange. It has been translated into English with great care, by Geo. Sale. It is a singular book, and every student of history, ecclesiastical students certainly, should have a copy. It is neatly printed, bound in cloth, 324 pages, and only 35 cents a copy. Address as above, Tribune Building, New York City.
The April number of the Phrenological Journal has many good things, as it always has. Commencing with a biographical sketch of Wm. Eberly Channing, there are articles on "New Education," "Comparative Phrenology," "Unity of the Human Species," "Getting Rid of Intemperance," and a host of other good things. The journal is a true educator, and everybody ought to have it. $2 a year. S. E. Well & Co., 737 Broadway, New York.

The Xth Chapter of Dr. Oswald's "Sumnerland Sketches," which is the opening paper in Lippincott's Magazine for April, describes the ruins of Uxmal, that mysterious buried city of the New World, which attests the existence, at some former period, of a race of builders on this Continent rivaling those of Nineveh in the grandeur of their designs, in mechanical skill, and in amplitude of means. "Three Lakes of Central New York" is a pleasantly written and well illustrated article, by Frank H. Taylor. In "The English Workingman and Commercial Crises," the first of two papers by Octave Thanet, the writer traces the effects of political changes, legislation, commercial panics, and other influences on the condition of the laboring classes, with the view of elucidating what may be justly termed the most perplexing problem of modern civilization. Mrs. Mary Treat describes "A Phase of Life in Florida." Dr. R. Orgood Mason has an instructive article "Concerning Animalcules." Dr. Dallas gives practical suggestions about "Eating;" and an anonymous writer gives an account of "The Red Cook," the name applied to successive revolutionary outbreaks of the Russian peasantry during the last half century.
In the way of fiction this number contains a fresh installment of "Adam and Eve," a popular serial by the author of "Dorothy Fox;" short stories by Sherwood Bonner, author of "Like unto Like;" and Mrs. Lizzie W. Champney; and a story of Russian life and character, by Vera Lapukbya. The "Monthly Gossip" is unusually full and entertaining.

HAMMONTON, ATLANTIC CO. N. J.

SATURDAY, MARCH 27, 1890.

Republican State Convention.

The Republican voters of New Jersey are requested to meet at the State Convention to be held at Trenton, N. J., on Tuesday, April 2, 1890, for the purpose of electing delegates to the National Convention...

On Tuesday, Senator McCracken presented in the S. Senate a memorial of the Legislature of New Jersey, asking for the improvement of the Harbor at Atlantic City.

The Democratic of this State have designated May 20th as the date for the assembling of their State Convention, to be held in Trenton. This is two weeks after the Republican Convention.

Hon. Robert F. Stockton, whose term as State Comptroller expires on April 30, has been appointed receiver of the New Jersey Mutual Life Insurance Company.

The Senate by a party vote last Friday, rejected the nomination of E. O. Doremus and George W. Atherton as assessors of the census for the first and second census districts of the State.

From the Bureau of Statistics of Labor and Industries, we have received a circular containing the act passed by the State Legislature, for the encouragement of the growth of jute, ramie, flax and hemp, offering bounties of $15,000 to be given in sums of 5, 6 and 7 dollars.

The brigadiers of the House Committee on Hiection, have made up their minds and finally decided to unseat Mr. Washburn, if possible, and give the seat to that detestable renegade, Ignatius Donnelly.

The compensation of election officers was fixed by the late Legislature at $3 a week, with eight hours constituting a day's work.

Rev. N. B. Randall, formerly of Wisconsin, has accepted the call of the church at Norristown, Pa., to succeed the late Mr. Stieglitz.

The Democratic Game.

It is a little queer that it should have been suddenly determined upon at this late day, by the Democratic manufacturers in Congress, to oust two prominent Democrats from their seats in the House of Representatives, and install in their place Democrats who were beaten by considerable majorities.

Indiana, and Mr. Washburn, of Minnesota. The candidate opposed to Mr. Orth, McCabe by name, never imagined he was elected until a year afterwards when urged to do so by his party advisers, and then he shortly dropped the matter only to have it again forced on him now by the Democratic Congress for the above mentioned reason.

Mr. Washburn was elected by a strong majority from a strong Republican district, and yet the probability is that his seat will be stolen and Donnelly seated in his place.

Should the project of having a line of steamers between Cape May and New York next summer prove successful, the fare between the two points will be but one dollar.

The funded debt of Warren county is $175,000, being the fifth largest in the State.

The Chief of Police of Newark announces that no more walking matches will be allowed in that city.

The amount of premiums paid to insurance agents in this State during the past year was $1,594,554. The losses paid by companies aggregated $208,792.

The Government is about buying 1400 acres of land in Morris county upon which to erect immense powder works. Congress has appropriated $100,000 for that purpose.

The immense grain elevator about to be erected by the Pennsylvania Railroad at Jersey City will cost nearly $1,500,000 and will be 200 feet long, 145 feet wide and 170 feet high.

It has been ascertained that of the 4,700 graduates of Princeton College, who have been living in the city, 500 have been physicians, 300 lawyers, 167 elected to Congress, 70 State judges, 139 judges, 153 Professors, 4 College Presidents, 13 Cabinet Ministers, 1 President and 3 Vice Presidents of the United States.

The Jersey City taxpayers complain of the large quantity of railroad property in that city which is exempt from local taxation. A schedule has been prepared, showing the amount of railroad property in each district claimed by the railroads to be exempt from taxation.

Col. Dwight Morris, the general Democratic leader of the House from Bridgeport, tells a good story at his own expense concerning the fall election in his own town at which time he was elected to his present post.

Senator J. Henry Stone is spoken of as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. He is well qualified to make an excellent Chief Magistrate of New Jersey.

"DON'T YOU DO IT!" Don't part with your money until you know the truth. Interested parties are spreading the reports that MR. JOHN WANAMAKER is not interested in the old and famous OAK HALL Clothing business and does not personally direct its affairs.

Nothing could be more Untrue! Mr. JOHN WANAMAKER has precisely the same relations to Oak Hall as in the past.

 Conducted on strictly mutual principles, offering a perfectly safe insurance for just what it may cost to pay losses and expenses. The proportion of loss to the amount insured being very small, and expenses much less than usually had, nothing can be offered more favorable to the insured. The cost being about ten cents on the hundred dollars per year to the insurers on ordinary risks, and from fifteen to twenty-five cents per year on hazardous properties, which is less than one third of the lowest rates charged by stock companies, on such risks—the other two-thirds taken by stock companies being a profit accruing to stockholders, or consumed in expenses of the companies.

The guarantee fund of premium notes being now Three Millions of Dollars.

If an assessment had to be made of five per cent, only, twice within the ten years for which the policy is issued, it would yet be cheaper to the members than any other insurance offered. And that large amount of money is saved to the members and kept at home. No assessment having ever been made, being now more than thirty years, that saving would amount to more than

MUST!
 Above product, our "Process," is the pure unfermented juice of the grape as it leaves the press and is equivalent to "this delicious fruit in liquid form." Possessing the pleasurable properties, it is invaluable to Invalids, Temperance people and Churches for Sacramental purposes. Our "MUST" must not be mistaken for other sweetened fermented wines, as it is not boiled and hermetically sealed to keep it from spoiling. The only "Process" resorted to by us is to permanently stop fermentation, which naturally must result in the juice remaining as it grew.

The undersigned are now disposing of their new stock prepared from their last grape crop, and warrant that it will keep without special care.
