A Model for a Poor Man's Wife.

The lady should not be too fair To stand the daily wear and tear Which she, with you, should justly share. She should not be too nicely bred; For how could you in conscience wed One whose white hands your work would dread?

Yet she must be a lady, too, With instincts fine, and heart so true She would dare anything for you. A modest air, but fearless still, A presence which has power to thrill The hearts of others at her will.

Yet keeping charms in nice reserve, With full control of every nerve, Scorning low means her ends to serve! She has no pretty art nor air; The gifts God gave she will impair By no vain tricks to make men stare! Her dress, not scornful, fashion's aid In texture, style and modest shade, But proves the nature of the maid.

Not quite upset by wealth and show, She lends her ear to tales of woe, And smiles or tears will oft bestow. And should she ever chance to meet A humble friend upon the street, She will take pains that friend to greet. From every moule she does not run, Good, honest toll will never shun— Enjoys a romp, good jokes and fun.

As simple as a child is she, Yet wise in her simplicity, For common sense is hers, you see. But note this well, my waiting friend, These outward charms do but attend, The soul which with your own should blend. So, learning at each other's feet, With daily converse, calm and sweet, Your wedded life will be complete.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 31, 1879.
Poor Glover in the last Congress was the butt of all mirth loving people irrespective of party. He was a success as a broussard. He investigated Republicans and caught Democrats. He assaulted the Republican party and wounded his own. He had too much rope and he hanged himself as if his friends. But Glover was but little in advance of his whole party, if the Democratic Congress is a sample. He led the way which the whole party seems anxious to follow—in fact where they are out-Glovering Glover. The raid upon the offices in the Senate was a specimen brick, but it was a million. It developed the most unblushing partisanship on the part of all their statesmen, even that refined hypocrite Bayard, joining in the raid, and it developed either a blind zeal or a reckless disregard of honesty in the choice of chief officers. It turns out now that both Burch, their Secretary, and Bright, their Sergeant at Arms, are smothered by transactions in office in Tennessee and Indiana which ought to cast them out of office and keep them out forever. Many Democrats are astonished at these revelations, and there is talk of electing new men to succeed them at the next session. But the damage is done, the scandal is let loose, as the simple scandal was in the first Democratic House four years ago, and the country is taking note of it. These zealous Democratic partisans will wake up after the Fall elections to a realizing sense of the people's power of observation upon such transactions.

But, as I said, this is but a small specimen brick in the grand suicidal campaign to which the Democrats are engaged. Senators Blaine, Hoar, Cocking and others in that body have punctured the bubble to the delight of loyal men everywhere, and to the terror of the loyal men Senatorial Brigadiers, and their speeches were the beginning of the return fire all along the line. The House Republicans are following the assault with vigor and effect. Mr. Robeson, Mr. Reed and Gen. Garfield have used some heavy ordnance against the advancing rebel hosts. Gen. Garfield's speech was particularly notable as one of the ablest that has been heard in the House for a long time, and as a most powerful arraignment of the Democratic conspirators. He did not aim at the defeat of the special clause in the Army bill, the prohibition of troops at the polls, so much as to show the unconstitutional and revolutionary purposes of the Democrats in menacing the minority and the President with the stoppage of supplies and the crippling of the Government in case certain legislation was not assented to. The danger lay in the method adopted more than in any special measure involved, and Gen. Garfield warned the majority that they were provoking a popular disgust that would be unappeasable if there was any sense of right according to Republican ideas left in the American people. It was noticeable after this speech that the Democrats were anxious to adopt their usual resort when hard pressed—adjourn. But the campaign thus begun will grow hot with its continuance, and the leading Republicans will take a hand in the assaults, and the Democrats will have reason to be sorry that they undertook to transfer the policy of the late rebellion to the halls of Congress. The conservative men have cause for anxiety in the menacing attitude of the Democrats from another direction. The so-called Greenback party, although in the decline apparently, judging from the late elections, are determined upon mischief, and they drag a dangerous number of Democrats after them. They have held a conference in company with the soft money ex-Confederates, and the result is a demand that Congress shall enact laws for the almost limitless issue of silver coin, for the redress of greenbacks now held for redemption of fractional currency or retired for any purpose, and for the substitution of legal tender notes for national bank circulation. This of course means the final abolition of national banks and the revival of wild cat institutions, to a certain extent. Tom Ewing and several other Democratic lights join this clique, and they are confident they have a majority of the House if not of the Senate. They are powerful enough to disturb existing confidence if public opinion is not stringently manifested against them, and the country should be warned in time. MAXWELL.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

NOVEL LITERARY ENTERPRISE.—Every person who has a library of even a dozen volumes which have served their use with him, and which he would be glad to exchange for others, to meet such wants is one object of the AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE, 55 Beekman St., New York. They gather together such offerings from thousands of libraries, and each contributor then draws what he wants, or cash if he does not want books. Catalogue No. 70, of an extensive collection of books in every department of literature, all offered to the highest bidder, for cash, or for books on a cash basis, will be ready April 15th, and will be sent on application for three cent stamp.

It is not generally known that the late John Stuart Mill, perhaps the ablest of modern writers on political and social science, commenced in the year 1869 a book on Socialism, which, if it had been completed, would probably have been recognized as the greatest of his works. Manuscript chapters of the incomplete work have recently been brought to light and are found so nearly complete in themselves, and so ably to discuss questions now most prominent in the public thought, that a London Review, and also the Library Magazine of New York are publishing them. They are intended to appear in book form on April 25th, published by the AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE, New York. The price, post paid, in cloth will be 50 cents, or in paper 25 cents. It is a work which all students of political and social topics, and all enlightened citizens, will be glad to read.

THE LIBRARY MAGAZINE for March, just issued will delight all who appreciate the highest class of literature. Think of it, 128 elegantly printed pages, all for 10 cents, or $1.00 a year! The leading article, "Chapters on Socialism," from unpublished manuscript of the late John Stuart Mill, is certainly the ablest writing which has recently appeared on this topic. R. A. Prator's article on "Artificial Socialism," will attract both those who are curious and those who are interested in science. Thomas Hughes gives an entertaining sketch of the one's famous but nearly forgotten Wm. Cobbett, Murray Price, Professor Blackie, J. B. and Ward supply able articles of special interest to scholars and students of the classics in history. Fraser Tytler contributes a little poem, "Contentment," that is sure to go to the hearts of the press, as also will Algernon Black's "Five New Anecdotes of Charles Lamo." AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE, Publishers, New York; sold only by them direct.

A list of the celebrated authors whose lives and writings are represented in volume 3 of the new ACME EDITION OF CHAMBERS'S CYCLOPEDIA OF ENGLISH LITERATURE, just received, is certainly very attractive to any person of fine literary taste. Fox, Penn, Baxter, Bunyan, Locke, Newton, Brown, Hale, Walton, Dr. Ken, Temple, Evelyn, Pope, Butler, Addison, Swift, Pope, Ramsay, Gibber, Steele, Berkeley, De Foe, a Bellingbrake, are a few of the brilliant stars which brighten the 416 pages. "It will bring a gladness to many a scholar's heart," says the Times of Philadelphia, "to find that this truly admirable work has been brought within the range of shallow pockets." Eight such volumes, anifully printed and elegantly bound in cloth, for only $2.50, or by the single volume for 43 cents, post paid, is certainly an enviable acquisition for the publisher, if it can get made their fortune. Already they report a sale of nearly 40,000 volumes. It ought to be in every library and full particulars as to various styles of binding, terms to clubs, etc., will be sent free on request by the publishers, the AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE, 55 Beekman street, New York. The work is sold only to subscribers direct, and at the present wonderfully low rates are offered only to early purchasers. Volumes of the work can be seen at the office of this paper.

In our reading of the Phrenological Journal and Science of Health for April, we were struck by the general tone of the magazine. Its aim is to elevate, and it is pure in character in every department, while entertainment and instruction are skillfully blended, so that its matter is exceedingly interesting from beginning to end. Indeed the Phrenological Journal is a capital illustration of what can be accomplished in the way of making science pleasant to the general reader. There is a very interesting description of the Chinese at home, in which the reader finds many features that are entirely new to him, and bearing closely upon the special work of the Phrenological Journal. The installment of "Brain and Mind" furnishes clear and definite apollutions of the sciences to the delineation of moral qualities. Our young people will certainly be interested in the opening chapters of "Uttie Jimmie, the Cripple," a short serial which is very pleasantly written. Real Teachers and Real Teaching; The great work of Moral Reform; Diet of Man, are highly entertaining and instructive. All the departments are replete with amusement and instruction. The smaller type especially abounds in valuable hints to the reader. The Journal is published now at $2.00 a year, 20 cents a number, with a choice of Premiums to each subscriber. Address S. R. WELLS & Co., Publishers, 737 Broadway, New York.

It has been decided to hold the next World's Fair in New York, in 1883.

Colonel A. W. Angel, of the Seventh Regiment, will take command of the Second Brigade until General Sewell's return from Europe.

Senator Chandler says the Republican party in Congress and in the Administration has not been so harmonious for ten years as it is now. More than a hundred tramps descended upon the Chester Co. (Pa.) Almshouse last Monday night. They came principally from New York City, Philadelphia and Baltimore, and on the following morning started towards the valley.

The life-saving crew at Little Egg Harbor, reported a schooner, the "I Don't Know," of Tuckerton, N. J., to be anchored at the mouth of the inlet, and Capt. Maxwell and crew of three men, all told, ashore. She lost four sails and one anchor on Monday, but her other anchor caught, and she now lies in good position and is safe.

William S. Gummers, Master in Chancery, sold the New Jersey Southern Railroad and branch roads on the 31st ult. of the Pavilion Hotel, Long Branch to the trustees in the interest of the New Jersey Central rail road, for the sum of $752,000. It is stated that Jay Gould is contesting the sale. Mr. Gould owes the Vineland extension.

Comparative Increase in the Postal Service.

POSTMASTER General Key arrives at conclusions unfavorable to the south from the results of the great increase of Post-office business in the north and west as compared with the south. By the recent readjustment of salaries upon the basis of stamps sold, newspapers sent and cash receipts of post-offices, one hundred and forty-five post-offices were added to what are known as "Presidential" post-offices, which are those offices that pay a salary of over one thousand dollars a year. Postmasters at "Presidential" offices are appointed directly by the President, and others are appointed by the Postmaster General. The examination for readjustment showed that the southern States fell far behind the western and northern States in increase of post-office business, the north western States having made the most rapid progress of all. Nebraska, one of the youngest States, has as many "Presidential" post-offices as Tennessee, and Iowa has more than Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina, South Carolina and Mississippi together. Illinois and Iowa combined have more than all the southern States combined. Judge Key says: "The rate of postage stamps and postal cards, and the circulation of newspapers, is a good barometer to measure the business and intelligence of communities."—Dispatch to the North American.

The Great Evil.

The Great Evil was vigorously attacked in the Washington Avenue Baptist Church, Brooklyn, on Thursday evening of last week, in a lecture, by Mr. William A. Harris. The lecturer thought the evils of drunkenness could not be too often contrasted with the blessings of temperance. He denounced social drinking as a senseless and pernicious custom, and urged that the "stagnantly entranced" painted on liquor saloons should have the words "to hell" added to the notice. He reminded the people that last year 57,000,000 gallons of whiskey were distilled in the United States, and 117,000,000 gallons of ale and beer brewed. This, he pointed out, was equal to an expense of $1,500,000,000 a year, or about sufficient money to build and furnish four times the number of churches that now bless the land.

"Are you looking for salvation?" asked a preacher of a man at the close of a revival meeting. "No," was the reply. "I am looking for the son of a man that stole my hat."

"Wh my friends," said a lecturer on training "when you see a young man, dressed in the image of God, and possessing the qualities which attributes that properly might make him a shining light among the walking the streets and lounging in clubs, dressed out in the fop's fashion, twisting a cane and with a cigar in his mouth, what do you naturally think?" "That he's got a rot in on the old leg," cried a youthful voice from the audience.

CUMBERLAND MUTUAL Fire Insurance Company, BRIDGETON, N. J.
Conducted on strictly mutual principles, offering a perfectly safe insurance for just what it may cost to pay losses and expenses. The proportion of loss to the amount insured being very small, and expenses much less than usually had, nothing can be offered more favorable to the insured. The cost being about ten cents on the hundred dollars a year for the insured on ordinary risks, and from fifteen to twenty-five cents per year on hazardous properties, which is less than one third of the lowest rates charged by stock companies, on such risks—the other two thirds taken by stock companies being a profit accruing to stockholders, or consumed in expenses of the companies.
The guarantee fund of premium notes being now Three Millions of Dollars.
If an assessment had to be made of five per cent. only, twice within the ten years for which the policy is issued it would yet be cheaper to the members than any other insurance offered. And that large amount of money is saved to the members and kept at home. No assessment having ever been made, being now more than thirty years, that saving would amount to more than
One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars
The Losses by Lightning.
Where the property is not set on fire, being less than one cent per year to each member, are paid without extra charge, and extended so as to cover all policies that are issued and out standing.
