

South Jersey Republican

Hoyt & Son, Publishers.

Terms--$1.25 Per Year.

VOL. 42

HAMMONTON, N. J., APRIL 16, 1904.

NO. 16

UNDERTAKER

ELWOOD P. JONES,

Successor to

W. A. HOOD & CO.

HAMMONTON BRANCH

OF THE

Harrison Mutual Burial Association

Copyrighted Dec. 18, 1899

Buy the Best Nursery Stock.

The letter below will prove that my stock is free from San Jose scale:

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE: This is to certify that the nursery stock grown for, purchased by, or heeled in on the packing grounds of Warren Shinn at Woodstown, N. J., has been duly inspected where grown, and found to be free from San Jose Scale or other seriously injurious insect pests; that a proper certificate to that effect was received with all such stock, and that it is in apparently healthy condition.

My Peach Trees are $7 and $10 per 100; Keiffer Pear trees, $15 per 100. Cherry and Plum Trees equally low. Fine Strawberry and Asparagus and Rhubarb plants. Japan Chestnut trees. Don't buy of high priced traveling tree agents. My agent, A. L. PATTEN, of Hammonton, will take your order. Please call on him.

WARREN SHINN, Woodstown, N. J.

City Dressed Meats

My own make of Sausage and Scrapple.

VEGETABLES - CANNED GOODS

H. L. MCINTYRE.

FLOUR

We have as good a

BLENDED WHEAT

and as good a

SPRING WHEAT

FLOUR

as there is in the market.

Our price on them is right.

Try our

Lard & Butter

Both are first-class.

Our prices on

BALL MASON Jars

Tin Cans, and Wax Strings are low.

GEORGE ELVINS.

EMBALMER

BOARD OF TRADE.

Members to the number of twenty-five turned out at the Board meeting, last Tuesday evening.

Following the reading of the minutes, the Secretary's resignation was read, and unwillingly accepted. Later, Dr. Cunningham was persuaded to succeed himself in that office.

Drainage Committee, through Mr. Rider, reported that they had secured an appropriation of $1000 at the town meeting, with which to push work.

Mineral Spring Analysis Committee (Dr. Peet, chairman) reported receipt of letters from the Medico-Chi. Jeff, Johns Hopkins University, Cornell Branch Univ., Rutgers, University of Penna., and Princeton, in regard to analysis, the figures ranging from ten to two hundred dollars. After discussion, committee instructed to send four or five gallons to Princeton, provided the fee does not exceed $25 for a complete analysis.

The Committee on Lockwood Lye Works was discharged.

Committee on better mail and train service reported that they had stated the Board's wishes; also, that two of the members were about to call on the company. To this committee was also left the subject of high freight rates. A large amount of manure is imported from Camden, and much more would be if the freight charges were less. At present the rate is 85 cents per ton, or $28.80 per car. The rate from Atlantic City, for the same, used to be five dollars per car.

Committee on measurement of the booklet cuts reported that there were, on 78 cuts, 814 square inches, measuring on etched surface; including the shoulders, 996 1/2 sq. in. Committee discharged, with thanks.

Messrs. E. H. White and Andrew Nelson elected to membership.

Wm. Bernshouse was given a vote of thanks for his services in assisting the drainage committee.

Messrs. Phillips, Burgan and O'Donnell were authorized to correct errors in By-Laws, and have the same, and Charter, printed for members.

Wm. H. Bernshouse, as President of Council, introduced the subject of permanent road-bed for Bellevue Ave., merely to set voters to thinking before the matter is brought up at a special town meeting to be held soon. A stone road, between the brick gutters, 6 inches thick, would cost 60 cents per square yard. One objection, however, is the dust in summer; an advantage is, it is ready for bicycle riding the day after the rain is over.

A Warren pavement is recommended, composed of a sort of grouting, three sizes of stone being used, largest at the bottom, smallest at the top. This would cost about $5000, from the railroad to Third Street. A 6-inch macadamized road was also proposed, to extend from side to side, with 3 1/2-foot gutters of brick, the estimated cost being 80 c. per square yard, or about $5000.

A new bitolithic pavement is meeting with favor wherever it is used. The town meeting voted to have gutter bricks laid on sand, but good authorities state that our soil is too light to hold them up; consequently it might be best to lay the bricks in concrete, with a retaining wall of grouting. This would add $275 to the $1000 now on hand. The feeling seemed to be that owners of property abutting on Bellevue should pay a proportion of the cost, in addition to their tax.

The sense of the meeting was expressed, by vote, against a sand bottom for the brick.

Messrs. Rider, Colwell, Richards, Cottrell and H. L. Monfort were appointed to investigate the most advisable permanent material with which to pave the centre of the main street, to report at a special meeting of the Board. As something must be done to avoid the annual patching required on Bellevue, it may be best to borrow five or ten thousand dollars; and in the end we would save money.

Elwood P. Jones, the undertaker, has rented Mrs. Fairchild's house, just vacated, on Bellevue.

From Tacoma, Washington.

Messrs. Hoyt & Son: Enclosed find postal order for renewal subscription for your paper, which is a welcome visitor each week, and which reminds us of the poem quoted to us the last Sunday before leaving for the West, "The old town paper they send us from home."

We can hardly realize that you have been having an unusually cold winter, for we have had no cold weather to speak of. There has not been a day during the winter that we could not pick violets from our yard. The grass has been green, and in many yards has been kept cut all winter. Many early spring flowers are blooming, although the season is fully a month late. Generally, these flowers are all in bloom the first of February, and gardeners are busy at that time.

I have bought a farm where we can look out on Puget Sound and the Olympic Mountains on the one side, and the Cascade Mountains, with Mt. Tacoma, the highest point in the U. S., completely covered with snow, on the other side. Mt. Tacoma is sixty-seven miles away, but looks no more than three or four miles from us.

I shall be near the city (Tacoma), it taking only twenty minutes to ride into town, and only five minutes walk from the house to the car. We shall move to the farm as soon as the house is completed. Respectfully,

JOHN C. TRAFFORD.

List of uncalled-for letters in the Hammonton Post Office on Wednesday, April 13, 1904:

Mr. Albert Brown Edward Coppington
Frank Jacobs, Fairview Ave.
Chas. W. Wesopot Mrs. Van Horn
Websters' Choir Exchange O. B. Ogden
Tony Schlovo Maria Rialca

FOREIGN
Giallo Berenato su Antonino

Persons calling for any of the above letters will please state that it has been advertised.

M. L. JACKSON, P. M.

The Peoples Bank

OF

Hammonton, N. J.

Capital, $30,000
Surplus and Profits, . $31,000

Three per cent interest paid on time Deposits.

Safe Deposit Boxes for Rent.

R. J. BYRNES, President.

M. L. JACKSON, Vice-Pres't.

W. R. TILTON, Cashier.

DIRECTORS

R. J. Byrnes M. L. Jackson
C. F. Osgood George Elvins
Elam Stockwell Wm. L. Black
Wm. J. Smith J. C. Anderson
L. H. Parkhurst W. R. Tilton

Lyford Beverage

Notary Public

for New Jersey,
tenders his services.
Pension vouchers executed.
Hammonton, N. J.

S. J. R. THREE MONTHS 25 Cts.

W. H. Bernshouse

Insurance Agent

Notary Public,

Commissioner of Deeds,

Office, 101 Railroad Ave.

Hammonton.

ROSES

ROSES

Now it's time to Plant Roses

We have a large assortment in pots, ready for planting, including the Crimson, Yellow, and Pink Ramblers.
Our Specialty,—Maman Cocket, a superb rose, color, rich coral pink. It has no superior.
It flowers the whole season.

Lakeview Greenhouse

Central Ave., Hammonton

Phone 1—W

WATKIS & NICHOLSON.

Camden Safe Deposit & Trust Co.

224 Federal Street, Camden

January 1st, 1904

Capital $100,000.00
Surplus and Undivided Profits 557,630.34
Deposits 5,370,841.35

Banking by Mail done

safely and economically.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED

Safe Deposit Boxes, $2 and upward. Wills kept without charge.

Pays Interest

3 per cent. on Deposits, 14 Days' Notice.
2 per cent. subject to check without notice, on Average Balances of $500 and over.
Acts as Executor, Administrator, Trustee or Guardian.

ALEXANDER C. WOOD, President.
BENJAMIN C. REEVY, Vice-President and Trust Officer.
JOSEPH LIPPINCOTT, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS
WILLIAM S. SCULL ALEXANDER WOOD
WILLIAM C. DAYTON GEORGE REYSOLDE
JESSE V. VOORHEES BENJAMIN C. REEVY
WILLIAM S. PRICE WILLIAM J. BRADLEY

Young People's Societies.

This space is devoted to the interests of the Young People's Societies of the various Churches. Special items of interest, and announcements are solicited.

Y. P. S. O. E.,—Presbyterian Church:
Meets Sunday evening, at 8:30.

Topic, "How Christ transforms lives."
Rom. 12: 1, 2; Phil. 3: 20, 21.
Leader, Miss Lizzie Bernshouse.

Y. P. S. O. E.,—Baptist Church:
Meets Sunday evening, at 8:15.

Topic, "How Christ transforms lives."
Rom. 12: 1, 2; Phil. 3: 20-21.
Leader, Robert Miller.

Jr. C. E., Sunday afternoon at 8:00:
Topic, "How the Chinese worship."
Acts 17: 22, 23; Matt. 28: 19-20.
Leader, Elsie Elliott.

Epworth League,—M. E. Church:
Meets Sunday evening, at 8:30.

Topic, "The transforming power of Christ." Rom. 12: 1, 2; Phil. 3: 20, 21. Leader, Mrs. J. C. Bittler.

Junior League on Sunday afternoon, at 8 o'clock. Topic, "A Mexican drunkard's daughter." Prov. 23: 21.
Leader, Bertha Green.

Y. P. C. U., Universalist Church:
Meets Sunday evening at 7:30.

Topic, "Every day religion; putting our principles into practice." Mat.
7: 12; 1 Cor. 10: 31; Gal. 6:
9-10; Jas. 2: 14-17. Leader, Miss Frances V. French.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Estate of John A. Quinn, deceased.
Pursuant to the order of Emmanuel O. Shaner, Surrogate of the County of Atlantic, made on the twenty-sixth day of March, nineteen hundred and four, on the application of the undersigned, administrator of said decedent, notice is hereby given to the creditors of the said decedent to exhibit to the administrator, under oath or affirmation, their debts, demands and claims against the estate of the said decedent, within nine months from said date, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the administrator.
WILLIAM L. BLACK,
Administrator, Hammonton, N. J.

IF YOU WANT A FENCE

that is cheap, strong, neat, durable and recommended. It is the only fence that made at Mount Holly by the N. J. Fence Co. 500,000 feet being now in satisfactory use. Made of galvanized steel wire interwoven with cedar planks, generally painted red, it will turn any wind, poultry, hogs, etc. It will not rot when properly stretched. Fences cannot be pulled out and made so hard (fence it). Fences may be from 10 to 14 ft. apart. Prices are from $3 to $10, per ft. Liberal terms to agents. Descriptive price list sent on application.
THE NEW JERSEY FENCE CO., MOUNT HOLLY, N. J.

SECRET OF THE SPRING WINDS

The wind of March has the call of the sea.
(O) wings of the wind, do they never fly?
It hurries the cloud and it hurls the tree
With the flutter and roar of a leaping sea.
Cold and wild and eager to flee,
Is the lure to loss or to liberty.
Light of the eyes and my heart's desire?

The April wind has the scent of rain
(O) wings of the wind, do they never fly?
It whispers and hushes again,
Warm as the kiss of the pale sunnier
Fronks of bloom and the green of new grain—
To peace but the drowsy succor of pain.
Light of the eyes and my heart's desire?

The wind of May tosses the petals white
(O) wings of the wind, do they never fly?
White as the love-moon silencing the night
Fure of the dew and the heart's new fire
Rainy blessing and strong sweet night
Liberty, peace and the heart's desire?
Light of the eyes and my heart's desire?

Harper's Magazine

THE SQUIRE'S Hired GIRL

IT was a fine day in the country. A row of stately mowers, each keeping time with scythe and step across the tennere lot on the Howard farm. A line of plebeian cattle, black and white, red and white, dun and gray, green and cream, coming slowly down the slope of the woodland pasture to drink from the brook beneath the spring. A great, old-fashioned, cream-colored farm house, with green blinds and a piazza, a side porch and a grapevine colonnade, standing on a level lawn, beneath tall maple trees that were only tiny saplings in the days when the great-grandfather of the squire moved up into Vermont from Connecticut "to settle," some eighty years ago.

The doors and windows of this fine old mansion were standing wide open, and a brown retriever stationed at the front gate amiably watched the departure of two double-ended carriages, each drawn by a pair of fine horses, and laden with a merry crew of laughing girls. And from one of the upper windows another girl, apparently some twenty years of age, looked out, dressed in a blue striped calico, with a pin-flore apron pinned to her sloping shoulders, and a cool look in her hand.

"This was the aspect of the old Howard farm and homestead when John Parry, artist, first beheld them.

During the three weeks of his stay in the mountain village of the artist, he had heard much of the Howard place, and the "Howard girls." Being a shy and retiring student, he inwardly congratulated himself this afternoon on the absence of "those girls," as he, too, looked after the cloud of dust that followed the retreating carriage wheels.

"I can get my picture done before they come laughing and gabbling home again," muttered Mr. Parry, as he fixed his camp stool and umbrella next the garden gate, and prepared to sketch in the groundwork of the finest view in Clary County, as his host at the village tavern had called it.

While directing him to it that day, the magnificant artist painted as fast as he possibly could, in order to finish his work before the daughters of the house returned. But the sun poured down his most scorching beams upon his head, and not a leaf was stirred in the direction by a welcome breeze.

The daymakers halted now and then to nillow of the passage of stout, comfortable looking brown jugs along the line, and the sight made Mr. Parry shudder, all at last, in his desperation, he unlatched the garden gate behind him and went up to the house.

The brown retriever did not oppose his advance, but lay on the clean blue-blained wooden door of the hall, and lastly flapped his tail in welcome.

Mr. Parry knocked.

"After some delay a light, graceful figure in blue calico appeared at the lower end of the hall, and Mr. Parry looked at the girl as she came nearer.

She had a frank, happy, childlike face, with large, bewitching gray eyes, and a quantity of soft, curling hair of the true golden color, such as is seldom seen except upon the sunny head of a very young child.

"The hired girl, of course, how lively she is! I am quite sure," he said, half thought Mr. Parry, as she darted some floor from the prettiest hands—and arms in the world, and apologized to him in a very sweet voice for keeping him waiting.

"I had just begun to make biscuits for tea, and I could not come till now," she said.

The artist, lost in admiration, gazed at her so persistently that a sudden knock was heard over her pretty face.

"Do you wish to see Mr. Howard, sir?" she asked.

"No—no—I—yes—I might have a

SECRET OF THE SPRING WINDS

The wind of March has the call of the sea.
(O) wings of the wind, do they never fly?
It hurries the cloud and it hurls the tree
With the flutter and roar of a leaping sea.
Cold and wild and eager to flee,
Is the lure to loss or to liberty.
Light of the eyes and my heart's desire?

The April wind has the scent of rain
(O) wings of the wind, do they never fly?
It whispers and hushes again,
Warm as the kiss of the pale sunnier
Fronks of bloom and the green of new grain—
To peace but the drowsy succor of pain.
Light of the eyes and my heart's desire?

The wind of May tosses the petals white
(O) wings of the wind, do they never fly?
White as the love-moon silencing the night
Fure of the dew and the heart's new fire
Rainy blessing and strong sweet night
Liberty, peace and the heart's desire?
Light of the eyes and my heart's desire?

Harper's Magazine

THE SQUIRE'S Hired GIRL

IT was a fine day in the country. A row of stately mowers, each keeping time with scythe and step across the tennere lot on the Howard farm. A line of plebeian cattle, black and white, red and white, dun and gray, green and cream, coming slowly down the slope of the woodland pasture to drink from the brook beneath the spring. A great, old-fashioned, cream-colored farm house, with green blinds and a piazza, a side porch and a grapevine colonnade, standing on a level lawn, beneath tall maple trees that were only tiny saplings in the days when the great-grandfather of the squire moved up into Vermont from Connecticut "to settle," some eighty years ago.

The doors and windows of this fine old mansion were standing wide open, and a brown retriever stationed at the front gate amiably watched the departure of two double-ended carriages, each drawn by a pair of fine horses, and laden with a merry crew of laughing girls. And from one of the upper windows another girl, apparently some twenty years of age, looked out, dressed in a blue striped calico, with a pin-flore apron pinned to her sloping shoulders, and a cool look in her hand.

"This was the aspect of the old Howard farm and homestead when John Parry, artist, first beheld them.

During the three weeks of his stay in the mountain village of the artist, he had heard much of the Howard place, and the "Howard girls." Being a shy and retiring student, he inwardly congratulated himself this afternoon on the absence of "those girls," as he, too, looked after the cloud of dust that followed the retreating carriage wheels.

"I can get my picture done before they come laughing and gabbling home again," muttered Mr. Parry, as he fixed his camp stool and umbrella next the garden gate, and prepared to sketch in the groundwork of the finest view in Clary County, as his host at the village tavern had called it.

While directing him to it that day, the magnificant artist painted as fast as he possibly could, in order to finish his work before the daughters of the house returned. But the sun poured down his most scorching beams upon his head, and not a leaf was stirred in the direction by a welcome breeze.

The daymakers halted now and then to nillow of the passage of stout, comfortable looking brown jugs along the line, and the sight made Mr. Parry shudder, all at last, in his desperation, he unlatched the garden gate behind him and went up to the house.

The brown retriever did not oppose his advance, but lay on the clean blue-blained wooden door of the hall, and lastly flapped his tail in welcome.

Mr. Parry knocked.

"After some delay a light, graceful figure in blue calico appeared at the lower end of the hall, and Mr. Parry looked at the girl as she came nearer.

She had a frank, happy, childlike face, with large, bewitching gray eyes, and a quantity of soft, curling hair of the true golden color, such as is seldom seen except upon the sunny head of a very young child.

"The hired girl, of course, how lively she is! I am quite sure," he said, half thought Mr. Parry, as she darted some floor from the prettiest hands—and arms in the world, and apologized to him in a very sweet voice for keeping him waiting.

"I had just begun to make biscuits for tea, and I could not come till now," she said.

The artist, lost in admiration, gazed at her so persistently that a sudden knock was heard over her pretty face.

"Do you wish to see Mr. Howard, sir?" she asked.

"No—no—I—yes—I might have a

Boys and Girls

It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

Boys and Girls

It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

Boys and Girls

It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

LITTLE STORIES AND INCIDENTS

That Will Interest and Entertain Young Readers.

Story of Lincoln. It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

Story of Lincoln. It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

Story of Lincoln. It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

Boys and Girls

It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

THE TYLER MYTH

One story of "How Mary Had a Little Lamb" is a more recent production—so recent, indeed, that it is strange that controversy can have already arisen about its authorship, but such is the case. It was written at some time in the first half of the nineteenth century. And by whom? I sincerely believe, and think it can be proved, that it was written by Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale, as she says it was, and not to Mrs. Mary E. Tyler by one John Roubins, as she claims. I am not even sure that Mrs. Tyler says that.

To make my account of the facts carry to the reader the conviction of their truth, I will tell myself I must try to be more than fair to Mrs. Tyler. Here, then, is her story as told by her at different interviews reported in the newspapers, and told when she was a witness in the case of the Tyler suit. I have not even read anything by the omission of details, it loses, perhaps, the color and effect given it by her obvious and honest belief in her own story. Since no one can deny that belief, I think that I am doing her justice by telling her story as she tells it, and not as I think it should be.

She was Mary E. Sawyer, of Storrs, Mass., was born in 1808, and was about 11 when her brother persuaded her to take her pet lamb to school. The lamb was discovered by her teacher, Mary herself then took the lamb out and tied it to a chair until noon, when she untied it, and it followed her home. John Roubins, a student living with his uncle, the parish minister, was visiting the school that forenoon, and the next day he came to the little school house and handed Mary a slip of paper upon which were written twelve lines, which are, she says, the original lines. These were in the form of three verses of four lines each, and these "Mary lost and never knew what became of them." That would be in 1821. When the written copy had been lost for nearly a quarter of a century, and many years after the death of the lamb, Mary was surprised to read a poem by Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale that contained three verses of eight lines each, and the first twelve lines of which were the same as those written by John Roubins. Mrs. Tyler says that she had seen the original lines in her own handwriting. Mrs. Hale is said to have added the remaining lines. Such is Mrs. Tyler's story.

Story of Lincoln. It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

Story of Lincoln. It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

Boys and Girls

It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

OLD AND IN THE WAY

I sit in the chimney corner, and hear the young folks say:
"The world is weary of being old, and in the way."
And a vacant chair were better a solitary place—
Than the padded, wrinkled folds of her, and the tear-wet, furrowed face."

I nursed 'em at my breast, ere Life's sun went down the West;
I sang Love's sweetest songs to them and rocked their hearts to rest;
And now, that the old time harkens—the closing of Life's day—
I am only a useless woman—I am old and in the way!

Thank God, it will soon be over—Life's sun is sinking fast;
My feet are in the valley and I see my home at last!
And I say, while the angels beckon, "Poor, and old, and gray,"
There is room for me in heaven, where I'll not be in the way!"

—Atlanta Constitution.

A Club Woman's Essay

WHEN the chairman of the Program Committee of our club invited me to write a paper for one of the literary afternoons it was a very easy matter to say "Yes." The subject, "The Rise and Fall of Superstition," interested me, and it was a pleasure to treat it from my own point of view. But when I received the club book for the new year and saw the subject for the 18th of November with my own name in black letters as the essayist, when I realized that I was to read the production not only before the members of the club, but in the presence of visitors from various parts of the world, my very soul began to quake with fear and bitterly did I repeat to me of my easy yielding to persuasion. I had appeared before the public many times in private, but never in person when I was the chief attraction, excepting upon two occasions, one of them when I read a sentimental commencement address in a quivering voice and the other when I walked up the aisle to the tune of a certain march from Lohengrin.

So far I had made but one acquaintance in the fashionable apartment building which was our home at the time of which I write. But Mrs. Herbert was worth a dozen ordinary friends.

HER FASHION WAS THE THEATRICAL.

friends, for to me there would not be a more fascinating personality. She was not beautiful, she was not even pretty, but she was one of those magnetic beings whose very characteristics are more attractive than mere perfection of feature. She had a way of relating the most trivial incident that compelled attention, her manner of relating anecdote was inimitable and about her there was over a quality of effectiveness and sparkle rarely found even in the women of the Latin race. She had been a widow for half a dozen years, she told me, and although rich in the world's goods she cared nothing for society and never had belonged to a woman's club. Most of us have a favorite justice, however, and Mrs. Herbert's ruling passion was the theater. She saw every reasonably good troupe that came to Chicago, attending the play about four evenings a week, upon which occasions she usually was attended by her brother, a quiet, pale young man with a wooden expression. She had told me but little of her past, and I decided in my own mind that she had been brought up in a quiet country town where the delights of the theater were unknown, and that what was now upon her gratifying an insatiable taste for the drama.

Boys and Girls

It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

OLD AND IN THE WAY

I sit in the chimney corner, and hear the young folks say:
"The world is weary of being old, and in the way."
And a vacant chair were better a solitary place—
Than the padded, wrinkled folds of her, and the tear-wet, furrowed face."

I nursed 'em at my breast, ere Life's sun went down the West;
I sang Love's sweetest songs to them and rocked their hearts to rest;
And now, that the old time harkens—the closing of Life's day—
I am only a useless woman—I am old and in the way!

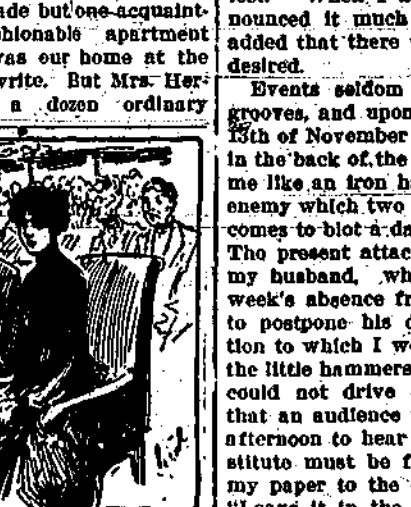

Thank God, it will soon be over—Life's sun is sinking fast;
My feet are in the valley and I see my home at last!
And I say, while the angels beckon, "Poor, and old, and gray,"
There is room for me in heaven, where I'll not be in the way!"

—Atlanta Constitution.

A Club Woman's Essay

WHEN the chairman of the Program Committee of our club invited me to write a paper for one of the literary afternoons it was a very easy matter to say "Yes." The subject, "The Rise and Fall of Superstition," interested me, and it was a pleasure to treat it from my own point of view. But when I received the club book for the new year and saw the subject for the 18th of November with my own name in black letters as the essayist, when I realized that I was to read the production not only before the members of the club, but in the presence of visitors from various parts of the world, my very soul began to quake with fear and bitterly did I repeat to me of my easy yielding to persuasion. I had appeared before the public many times in private, but never in person when I was the chief attraction, excepting upon two occasions, one of them when I read a sentimental commencement address in a quivering voice and the other when I walked up the aisle to the tune of a certain march from Lohengrin.

So far I had made but one acquaintance in the fashionable apartment building which was our home at the time of which I write. But Mrs. Herbert was worth a dozen ordinary friends.

HER FASHION WAS THE THEATRICAL.

friends, for to me there would not be a more fascinating personality. She was not beautiful, she was not even pretty, but she was one of those magnetic beings whose very characteristics are more attractive than mere perfection of feature. She had a way of relating the most trivial incident that compelled attention, her manner of relating anecdote was inimitable and about her there was over a quality of effectiveness and sparkle rarely found even in the women of the Latin race. She had been a widow for half a dozen years, she told me, and although rich in the world's goods she cared nothing for society and never had belonged to a woman's club. Most of us have a favorite justice, however, and Mrs. Herbert's ruling passion was the theater. She saw every reasonably good troupe that came to Chicago, attending the play about four evenings a week, upon which occasions she usually was attended by her brother, a quiet, pale young man with a wooden expression. She had told me but little of her past, and I decided in my own mind that she had been brought up in a quiet country town where the delights of the theater were unknown, and that what was now upon her gratifying an insatiable taste for the drama.

Boys and Girls

It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

OLD AND IN THE WAY

I sit in the chimney corner, and hear the young folks say:
"The world is weary of being old, and in the way."
And a vacant chair were better a solitary place—
Than the padded, wrinkled folds of her, and the tear-wet, furrowed face."

I nursed 'em at my breast, ere Life's sun went down the West;
I sang Love's sweetest songs to them and rocked their hearts to rest;
And now, that the old time harkens—the closing of Life's day—
I am only a useless woman—I am old and in the way!

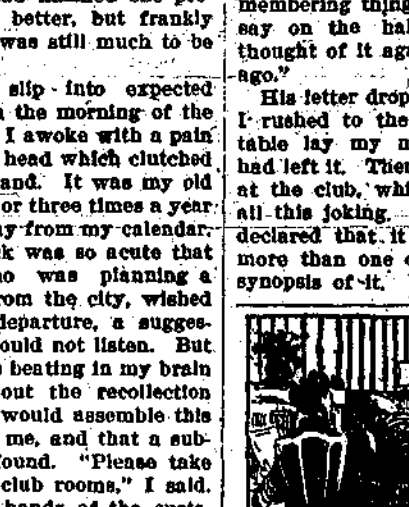

Thank God, it will soon be over—Life's sun is sinking fast;
My feet are in the valley and I see my home at last!
And I say, while the angels beckon, "Poor, and old, and gray,"
There is room for me in heaven, where I'll not be in the way!"

—Atlanta Constitution.

A Club Woman's Essay

WHEN the chairman of the Program Committee of our club invited me to write a paper for one of the literary afternoons it was a very easy matter to say "Yes." The subject, "The Rise and Fall of Superstition," interested me, and it was a pleasure to treat it from my own point of view. But when I received the club book for the new year and saw the subject for the 18th of November with my own name in black letters as the essayist, when I realized that I was to read the production not only before the members of the club, but in the presence of visitors from various parts of the world, my very soul began to quake with fear and bitterly did I repeat to me of my easy yielding to persuasion. I had appeared before the public many times in private, but never in person when I was the chief attraction, excepting upon two occasions, one of them when I read a sentimental commencement address in a quivering voice and the other when I walked up the aisle to the tune of a certain march from Lohengrin.

So far I had made but one acquaintance in the fashionable apartment building which was our home at the time of which I write. But Mrs. Herbert was worth a dozen ordinary friends.

HER FASHION WAS THE THEATRICAL.

friends, for to me there would not be a more fascinating personality. She was not beautiful, she was not even pretty, but she was one of those magnetic beings whose very characteristics are more attractive than mere perfection of feature. She had a way of relating the most trivial incident that compelled attention, her manner of relating anecdote was inimitable and about her there was over a quality of effectiveness and sparkle rarely found even in the women of the Latin race. She had been a widow for half a dozen years, she told me, and although rich in the world's goods she cared nothing for society and never had belonged to a woman's club. Most of us have a favorite justice, however, and Mrs. Herbert's ruling passion was the theater. She saw every reasonably good troupe that came to Chicago, attending the play about four evenings a week, upon which occasions she usually was attended by her brother, a quiet, pale young man with a wooden expression. She had told me but little of her past, and I decided in my own mind that she had been brought up in a quiet country town where the delights of the theater were unknown, and that what was now upon her gratifying an insatiable taste for the drama.

Boys and Girls

It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

OLD AND IN THE WAY

I sit in the chimney corner, and hear the young folks say:
"The world is weary of being old, and in the way."
And a vacant chair were better a solitary place—
Than the padded, wrinkled folds of her, and the tear-wet, furrowed face."

I nursed 'em at my breast, ere Life's sun went down the West;
I sang Love's sweetest songs to them and rocked their hearts to rest;
And now, that the old time harkens—the closing of Life's day—
I am only a useless woman—I am old and in the way!

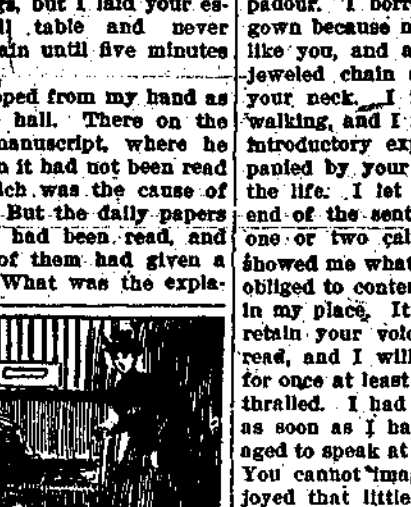

Thank God, it will soon be over—Life's sun is sinking fast;
My feet are in the valley and I see my home at last!
And I say, while the angels beckon, "Poor, and old, and gray,"
There is room for me in heaven, where I'll not be in the way!"

—Atlanta Constitution.

A Club Woman's Essay

WHEN the chairman of the Program Committee of our club invited me to write a paper for one of the literary afternoons it was a very easy matter to say "Yes." The subject, "The Rise and Fall of Superstition," interested me, and it was a pleasure to treat it from my own point of view. But when I received the club book for the new year and saw the subject for the 18th of November with my own name in black letters as the essayist, when I realized that I was to read the production not only before the members of the club, but in the presence of visitors from various parts of the world, my very soul began to quake with fear and bitterly did I repeat to me of my easy yielding to persuasion. I had appeared before the public many times in private, but never in person when I was the chief attraction, excepting upon two occasions, one of them when I read a sentimental commencement address in a quivering voice and the other when I walked up the aisle to the tune of a certain march from Lohengrin.

So far I had made but one acquaintance in the fashionable apartment building which was our home at the time of which I write. But Mrs. Herbert was worth a dozen ordinary friends.

HER FASHION WAS THE THEATRICAL.

friends, for to me there would not be a more fascinating personality. She was not beautiful, she was not even pretty, but she was one of those magnetic beings whose very characteristics are more attractive than mere perfection of feature. She had a way of relating the most trivial incident that compelled attention, her manner of relating anecdote was inimitable and about her there was over a quality of effectiveness and sparkle rarely found even in the women of the Latin race. She had been a widow for half a dozen years, she told me, and although rich in the world's goods she cared nothing for society and never had belonged to a woman's club. Most of us have a favorite justice, however, and Mrs. Herbert's ruling passion was the theater. She saw every reasonably good troupe that came to Chicago, attending the play about four evenings a week, upon which occasions she usually was attended by her brother, a quiet, pale young man with a wooden expression. She had told me but little of her past, and I decided in my own mind that she had been brought up in a quiet country town where the delights of the theater were unknown, and that what was now upon her gratifying an insatiable taste for the drama.

Boys and Girls

It was a frequent custom of Lincoln's to carry his children on his shoulders, says the Literary Digest. He rarely went down about that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to the tail of his long coat. The antics of the boys with their father and the apocryphal "they" exercised over him are still the subjects of talk in Springfield. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, tells one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day by hearing a great noise of children, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by the boys, both of whom were walking alone. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I've got three walnuts, and each wants two."

Nonsense Rhymes

OLD AND IN THE WAY

I sit in the chimney corner, and hear the young folks say:
"The world is weary of being old, and in the way."
And a vacant chair were better a solitary place—
Than the padded, wrinkled folds of her, and the tear-wet, furrowed face."

I nursed 'em at my breast, ere Life's sun went down the West;
I sang Love's sweetest songs to them and rocked their hearts to rest;
And now, that the old time harkens—the closing of Life's day—
I am only a useless woman—I am old and in the way!

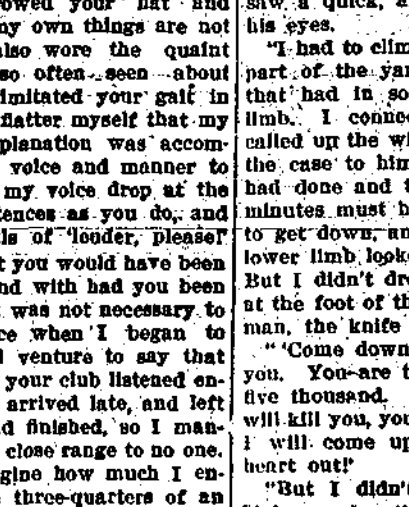

Thank God, it will soon be over—Life's sun is sinking fast;
My feet are in the valley and I see my home at last!
And I say, while the angels beckon, "Poor, and old, and gray,"
There is room for me in heaven, where I'll not be in the way!"

—Atlanta Constitution.

A Club Woman's Essay

WHEN the chairman of the Program Committee of our club invited me to write a paper for one of the literary afternoons it was a very easy matter to say "Yes." The subject, "The Rise and Fall of Superstition," interested me, and it was a pleasure to treat it from my own point of view. But when I received the club book for the new year and saw the subject for the 18th of November with my own name in black letters as the essayist, when I realized that I was to read the production not only before the members of the club, but in the presence of visitors from various parts of the world, my very soul began to quake with fear and bitterly did I repeat to me of my easy yielding to persuasion. I had appeared before the public many times in private, but never in person when I was the chief attraction, excepting upon two occasions, one of them when I read a sentimental commencement address in a quivering voice and the other when I walked up the aisle to the tune of a certain march from Lohengrin.

So far I had made but one acquaintance in the fashionable apartment building which was our home at the time of which I write. But Mrs. Herbert was worth a dozen ordinary friends.

HER FASHION WAS THE THEATRICAL.

friends, for to me there would not be a more fascinating personality. She was not beautiful, she was not even pretty, but she was one of those magnetic beings whose very characteristics are more attractive than mere perfection of feature. She had a way of relating the most trivial incident that compelled attention, her manner of relating anecdote was inimitable and about her there was over a quality of effectiveness and sparkle rarely found even in the women of the Latin race. She had been a widow for half a dozen years, she told me, and although rich in the world's goods she cared nothing for society and never had belonged to a woman's club. Most of us have a favorite justice, however, and Mrs. Herbert's ruling passion was the theater. She saw every reasonably good troupe that came to Chicago, attending the play about four evenings a week, upon which occasions she usually was attended by her brother, a quiet, pale young man with a wooden expression. She had told me but little of her past, and I decided in my own mind that she had been brought up in a quiet country town where the delights of the theater were unknown, and that what was now upon her gratifying an insatiable taste for the drama.

Boys and Girls

UMBRELLAS REPAIRED and Recovered.

From 40 cents up.
Geo. W. Dodd.

Schwarz's Greenhouse
12th St. and Chew Road.
Designs made up at shortest notice.
Funeral designs a specialty. Baskets and designs for balls, parties, weddings, etc.

Chas. Cunningham, M.D.
Physician and Surgeon.
W. Second St., Hammononton.
Office Hours, 7:30 to 10:00 A.M.
1:00 to 3:00 and 7:00 to 9:00 P.M.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

Between
HARZ FEINBERG,
Petitioner,
and
ANNA FEINBERG,
Defendant.
On Petition for Divorce

The petitioner having filed his petition in the above stated cause and process of citation having been issued and returned according to law; and it appearing by affidavit that the defendant, Anna Feinberg, resides out of the State of New Jersey, and that process could not be served upon her; it is on this twenty-seventh day of February, one thousand nine hundred and four, on motion of A. J. King, of counsel with the petitioner, ordered, that the said absent defendant do appear and answer the petitioner's petition on or before the twenty-ninth day of April next, or that, in default thereof such decree be made against her as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.

And it is further ordered that the notice of this order, prescribed by law and the rules of this court, shall, within twenty days hereafter be served personally on the said absent defendant, by a delivery of a copy thereof to her, or be published within the said twenty days in the "South Jersey Republican" a public newspaper, printed at Hammononton in this State, and continued therein for four weeks successively, at least once in every week, and in case of such publication, that a copy thereof be also mailed within the same time to the said absent defendant, directed to her postoffice address, if the same can be ascertained in the manner prescribed by law and the rules of this court.

W. J. MAGIE, Chancellor.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

NOTICE.

To ANNA FEINBERG:—
By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, wherein Harz Feinberg is petitioner and you are defendant, you are required to appear and answer the petitioner's petition on or before the twenty-ninth day of April next, or in default thereof such decree will be taken against you as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just. The said petition is filed against you for a divorce from the bond of matrimony. Dated February 27, 1904.

A. J. KING, Solicitor,
Hammononton, N. J.

Eli H. Chandler,
Attorney & Counselor
At Law

Arlitz Building, Hammononton,
Lackstone Building,
14 and 16 S. Tennessee Ave.
Atlantic City.

Official Town Attorney.
In Hammononton on Saturdays
Practice in all Courts of the State.
Money for first mortgage loans

DREER'S Garden Book for 1904

should be in the hands of every lover of flowers, grower of vegetables, and farmer in the country. Contains 200 pages and six high-class full page colored plates, illustrating Hardy Chrysanthemums, Asters, Peonies, Garden Pinks and Vegetables. Full of valuable cultural information and hints on the beautifying of the home, garden and surroundings.

Sent by mail to any address on receipt of ten cents in stamps or silver. With each copy we send free one package each, Dreer's Superb Branching Asters, Fringed Japanese Pinks and Select Shirley Peonies.

HENRY A. DREER,
714 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

Look at our

Spring Shoes
and Boots.

JOHN MURDOCH
Bellevue Ave., Hammononton.

NO, we have not reduced the price of the REPUBLICAN. Our offer is: to subscribers in this County, $1.00 per year; to those outside, $1.25. We give satisfaction, but not chrome.

EVERY LESTER PIANO

is required to measure to the same high standard. We often make special cases, but the interior is always the same. This is the assurance that the Lester Piano you select will have the same rich, mellow tone that distinguishes this splendid instrument from all others.

LASTS A LIFETIME

Send for new illustrated catalogue and special easy payment plans.

F. A. NORTH & Co.

1308 Chestnut Street

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.

Good Health to You, Old and Young,

Can be obtained and kept by using a general system tonic; and there is no better Tonic and Restorative than Morris' Tasteless Cod Liver Oil, made tasteless with extract Wild Cherry, and thus keeping the oil from nauseating the stomach.

One bottle, at 50 cents, will convince you.

W. J. LEIB, Doctor in Pharmacy.

ESTEY ORGANS
PIANOS
GIVE LIFE LONG SATISFACTION
EASY TERMS
1118-CHESTNUT-ST. PHILA.

John Walther
The BLACKSMITH
AND WHEELWRIGHT

Has removed to the shop lately occupied by Al. Heinecke, on the County Road, and is ready to do Any Work in His Line.

LAKEVIEW Greenhouse
Central Ave., Hammononton
WATKINS & NICHOLSON, Props.
Florists and Landscape Gardeners. Fine assortment of Palms, Table Ferns, and Bedding Plants.
Out Flowers, loose and in designs.

Printing
by Printers

HOYT & SON,
Hammononton, N. J.

BAKED BEANS
and
BROWN BREAD

To-night,

at SMALL'S

Cor. Second and Bellevue,
Hammononton.

Dr. J. A. Wams.
RESIDENT
DENTIST,
HAMMONTON, N. J.

Volunteer Fire Company were out for drill, Wednesday evening. They tried again to mount and throw water over the Bernhouse mill, and succeeded very well. Standing on the ground, on the west side, streams were thrown over the entire building, and this with only the stand-pipe pressure. The company needs several more active men.

FOR SALE—the newest uncoupled building site in town, at a bargain.
WM. COLWELL.

The meeting for men held last Sunday was so well attended that it was thought best to continue them. The next will be held to-morrow afternoon, at 3.30, in Jackson's Hall. Mr. A. J. Smith, of Camden, will probably speak. Come out to the meeting, and bring a friend with you.

FOR SALE—The new house being built on Third Street, near Pleasant. Six rooms, hall, water and gas, front porch, etc. Apply. KIRKPATRICK, 203 N. 3rd St., Hammononton.

In Chancery of New Jersey.

To Robert A. McLean, H. Ahrenstedt, J. D. (or Joseph) Armstrong, Mary F. Armstrong his wife, Fannie A. Newman, Timbrook Newman her husband, David E. Zasek, and Mrs. David E. Zasek his wife:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Rachel Miller is complainant and you and each of you are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainant, on or before the sixth day of June next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Robert A. McLean to W. A. Clough, Trustee, dated February 4th, 1897, on certain lands in the Township of Mallica, Atlantic County, New Jersey, which said mortgage was duly assigned to Complainant; and you, Robert A. McLean, H. Ahrenstedt, J. D. (or Joseph) Armstrong, Fannie A. Newman, and David E. Zasek are made defendants because you own said lands or some part thereof; and you Mary F. Armstrong, Timbrook Newman, and Mrs. David E. Zasek are made defendants because you may have some claim of dower or curtesy in said lands or some part thereof.

Dated April 8, 1904.
JOSEPH E. FRANKS,
Solicitor of Complainant,
800 Broad Street, Newark, N. J.

The Booklets.

Ten thousand booklets of the Town of Hammononton, beautifully illustrated, have just been issued by the Board of Trade. Every citizen is entitled to a copy, free of charge, which may be procured by calling on the Secretary, Dr. Charles Cunningham, at his residence, Second Street.

Additional copies may be obtained by paying the following prices: eight for 25 cents; three for 10 cents; or 5 cents each. These prices include envelopes for mailing, when desired. They can be purchased of the Secretary, from P. H. Jacobs, Chairman of Printing Committee, and at Henson's news room.

The cost of these booklets largely exceeds the above prices, and all money obtained from their sale will be kept separate from the general funds of the Board of Trade, and be used exclusively for advertising the Town in other ways.

Oil Stoves

Repaired

by

WILLIAM BAKER.

No. 25 Third Street,

Hammononton.

Bring in orders for

BERRY TICKETS.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

(WEST JERSEY & SEASHORE R. R.)

Schedule in effect October 6, 1903. Subject to change.

DOWN TRAINS.

UP TRAINS.

Sta.	Acc.	Ex.	Acc.	Ex.	Acc.	Ex.	Acc.	Ex.	STATION	Acc.	Ex.	Acc.	Ex.	Acc.	Ex.	Acc.	Ex.
4:20	5:10	10:00	6:00	5:10	4:20	10:00	6:00	5:10	Philadelphia	7:31	8:21	8:35	1:30	5:07	9:45	2:35	5:25
4:37	5:27	10:16	6:06	5:16	4:37	10:16	6:06	5:16	Camden	7:48	8:38	8:52	1:47	5:14	9:52	2:42	5:32
4:54	5:44	10:32	6:22	5:32	4:54	10:32	6:22	5:32	Collingswood	8:05	8:55	9:09	2:04	5:31	10:09	2:59	5:49
5:11	6:01	10:48	6:38	5:48	5:11	10:48	6:38	5:48	Haddonfield	8:22	9:12	9:26	2:21	5:48	10:26	3:16	6:06
5:28	6:18	11:04	6:54	6:04	5:28	11:04	6:54	6:04	Kirkwood	8:39	9:29	9:43	2:38	5:55	10:43	3:33	6:23
5:45	6:35	11:20	7:10	6:20	5:45	11:20	7:10	6:20	Berlin	8:56	9:46	10:00	2:55	6:02	11:00	3:50	6:40
6:02	6:52	11:36	7:26	6:36	6:02	11:36	7:26	6:36	Atco	9:13	10:03	10:17	3:12	6:19	11:17	4:07	6:57
6:19	7:09	11:52	7:42	6:52	6:19	11:52	7:42	6:52	Waterford	9:30	10:20	10:34	3:29	6:36	11:34	4:24	7:14
6:36	7:26	12:08	8:00	7:10	6:36	12:08	8:00	7:10	Absecon	9:47	10:37	10:51	3:46	6:53	11:51	4:41	7:31
6:53	7:43	12:24	8:16	7:26	6:53	12:24	8:16	7:26	Winslow Jr. (Vt.)	10:04	10:54	11:08	4:03	7:10	12:08	5:08	7:58
7:10	8:00	12:40	8:32	7:42	7:10	12:40	8:32	7:42	Hammononton	10:21	11:11	11:25	4:20	7:27	12:25	5:25	8:15
7:27	8:17	12:56	8:48	7:58	7:27	12:56	8:48	7:58	Kirkwood	10:38	11:28	11:42	4:37	7:44	12:42	5:42	8:32
7:44	8:34	1:12	9:04	8:14	7:44	1:12	9:04	8:14	Egg Harbor	10:55	11:45	12:00	4:54	8:01	1:00	6:09	8:59
8:01	8:51	1:28	9:20	8:30	8:01	1:28	9:20	8:30	Atlantic City	11:12	12:02	12:17	5:11	8:18	1:17	6:26	9:16
8:18	9:08	1:44	9:36	8:46	8:18	1:44	9:36	8:46

* Stops only on notice to conductor or agent, or on signal.

Afternoon express down leaves Phila. at 2.00, Hammononton 2.41, Egg Harbor 2.54, Atlantic 3.15.

Evening express up, leaves Atlantic at 5.30, Absecon 5.38, Hammononton 5.50, Phila. at 6.45.

Night express up, leaves Atlantic at 8.00, Egg Harbor 8.13, Hammononton 8.25, Phila. 9.15.

Sunday night express up, leaves Atlantic at 8.00, Egg Harbor 8.13, Hammononton 8.25, Phila. 9.15.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Gen'l Manager. J. B. WOOD, Pass'r Traffic Manager.

Geo. W. BOYD, Gen'l Pass'r Agt.

Atlantic City R. R.

Tuesday, Oct. 6, 1903.

DOWN TRAINS.

UP TRAINS.

Sta.	Acc.	Ex.	Acc.	Ex.	Acc.	Ex.	Acc.	Ex.	STATIONS.	Acc.	Ex.	Acc.	Ex.	Acc.	Ex.	Acc.	Ex.
6:00	6:10	10:00	6:00	6:10	10:00	6:00	6:10	10:00	Philadelphia	6:23	6:33	6:47	1:00	5:20	9:57	2:37	5:27
6:17	6:27	10:16	6:17	6:27	10:16	6:17	6:27	10:16	Camden	6:40	6:50	7:04	1:17	5:37	10:14	2:54	5:44
6:34	6:44	10:32	6:34	6:44	10:32	6:34	6:44	10:32	West Collingswood	6:57	7:07	7:21	1:34	5:54	10:31	3:11	6:01
6:51	7:01	10:48	6:51	7:01	10:48	6:51	7:01	10:48	Haddon Heights	7:14	7:24	7:38	1:51	6:11	10:48	3:28	6:18
7:08	7:18	11:04	7:08	7:18	11:04	7:08	7:18	11:04	Lauri Springs	7:31	7:41	7:55	2:08	6:28	11:05	3:45	6:35
7:25	7:35	11:20	7:25	7:35	11:20	7:25	7:35	11:20	Clement	7:48	7:58	8:12	2:25	6:45	11:22	4:02	6:52
7:42	7:52	11:36	7:42	7:52	11:36	7:42	7:52	11:36	Williamstown Junction	8:05	8:15	8:29	2:42	7:02	11:39	4:19	7:09
7:59	8:09	11:52	7:59	8:09	11:52	7:59	8:09	11:52	Cedar Point	8:22	8:32	8:46	3:00	7:19	11:56	4:36	7:26
8:16	8:26	12:08	8:16	8:26	12:08	8:16	8:26	12:08	Blue Anchor	8:39	8:49	9:03	3:17	7:36	12:13	4:53	7:43
8:33	8:43	12:24	8:33	8:43	12:24	8:33	8:43	12:24	Winslow Junction (Vt.)	8:56	9:06	9:20	3:34	7:53	12:30	5:10	8:00
8:50	9:00	12:40	8:50	9:00	12:40	8:50	9:00	12:40	Hammononton	9:13	9:23	9:37	3:51	8:10	12:47	5:27	8:17
9:07	9:17	12:56	9:07	9:17	12:56	9:07	9:17	12:56	In Charge	9:30	9:40	9:54	4:08	8:27	1:04	5:44	8:34
9:24	9:34	1:12	9:24	9:34	1:12	9:24	9:34	1:12	Kirkwood	9:47	9:57	10:11	4:25	8:44	1:21	6:01	8:51
9:41	9:51	1:28	9:41	9:51	1:28	9:41	9:51	1:28	Egg Harbor	10:04	10:14	10:28	4:42	9:01	1:38	6:18	9:08
9:58	10:08	1:44	9:58	10:08	1:44	9:58	10:08	1:44	Prigantville Junction	10:21	10:31	10:45	5:00	9:18	1:55	6:35	9:25
10:15	10:25	1:60	10:15	10:25	1:60	10:15	10:25	1:60	Atlantic City	10:38	10:48	11:02	5:17	9:35	2:12	6:52	9:42

Express down leaves Phila. 10.45 a.m., Hammononton 11.27, Egg Harbor 11.50, Atlantic 12.00.

Express leaves Philadelphia at 2.00 p.m., reaching Hammononton 2.42, and Atlantic 3.15.

Up accommodation leaves Hammononton at 5.35 a.m., reaching Phila. at 6.45.

Evening express down leaves Phila. at 5.00, Hammononton 5.50, and Atlantic 6.05.

Evening express up leaves Atlantic 5.30, Hammononton 6.07, Winslow 6.08, Phila. 6.50.

Express down leaves Phila. at 7.15 p.m., Hammononton 7.54, and Atlantic 8.25.

Morning Hammononton accom. down leaves Phila. at 8.30, arriving here 7.47.

Morning accom. up leaves Hammononton 8.40, reaching Phila. 10.40.

Weekday night accom. down leaves Phila. at 8, reaching Hammononton at 8.11.

Sunday night express up leaves Atlantic 7.50, Egg Harbor 7.55, Hammononton 8.11, Philadelphia 8.00.

Sunday evening express down leaves Phila. 7.15, Hammononton 7.54, Atlantic 8.25.

Sunday morning express up leaves Atlantic at 10.15, Hammononton 10.40, Phila. 11.35.

A. T. DICE, Gen. Supt. EDSON J. WENK, Gen. Passenger Agent

It will only cost One Cent to buy a postal card and send to The New York Tribune Farmer, New York City, for a free specimen copy.

The New York Tribune Farmer is a National and Illustrated Agricultural Weekly for Farmers and their families, and EVERY issue contains matter instructive and entertaining to EVERY member of the family.

The price is