THIS AUTO LAYS ITS OWN ROAD

A Caterpillar of War, Designed to Carry Guns Over Rugged Country

THE remarkable traction engine shown in the illustration climbs hills and traverses marshy, sandy, and rough soil impossible to the ordinary road locomotive. It is the invention of David Roberts, M. I. M. B. Stockport, England.

Designed in the first instance to overcome the difficulties experienced in the transport of heavy guns and military stores over rough country intersected with sand, marsh, and streams, the tractor now promises to work a revolution in transportation in all parts of the world, more especially those undeveloped regions beyond the present reach of railways.

At present there are only three engines fitted with the device. They are in the hands of the British War Office and now stationed at Aldershot, an old road tractor of 1894, a motor tractor of 1900, and a third of 1902, which is a 100-horse power motor with a tractor. The latter two, although of less horse power than the original tractor, are more powerful and perform the same remarkable feat which was done by the Aldershot tractor, the name of the "working engine" is "Caterpillar."

These facts may be briefly described as follows:

(1) Swampy Ground.—In actual operation a lorry loaded with three tons was hauled by five horses upon swampy ground, where it sank to the depth of two feet. The tractor, on the other hand, was hauled by four horses upon the same ground, and it sank only a few inches. Again, a two-wheeled cart carrying one and one-half tons was hauled by four horses upon the same ground, and it sank to the depth of two feet in the ground, due to the powerful rollers which extend to the front of the tractor, and which are raised and lowered by means of a hand crank. The tractor weighed 3 tons 15 hundredweight, the engine being 1,000 pounds, and the rollers being 1,000 pounds each. The tractor, with the chain track device, is over the swampy ground, and the rollers, which are raised and lowered by means of a hand crank, are raised and lowered by means of a hand crank.

(2) Ditches.—The chain track tractor moves on until it reaches its critical point, the front overhanging the ditch, when the forward feet move gently on the further side and the rigid chain track forms a bridge over which the engine travels. Ditches in width and depth sufficient to bury the front steering wheels or the rear driving wheel of an ordinary traction engine are crossed with safety and ease.

(3) Dry and Soft Clay.—Owing to the extended surface of the chain track upon which the weight-bearing wheels rest, the tractor does not sink into the ground, and by reason of its extended tracks it is able to cross exceedingly soft clay and deep dry sand.

(4) Hills.—The chain track tractor has quite phenomenal hill-climbing qualities. A bank of soft clay twenty feet high, which when measured showed an incline of 1 in 2, was mounted with ease. The tractor has hauled considerable loads up to the full power of its engine up hills of 1 in 2, and has been seen to climb a bank without breaking the ice and without slipping. This was done without ice spikes, sand, gravel, or other artificial means being used to give adhesion, the tractor simply relying upon the grip provided by the wooden surface of the feet.

The "chain track," which gives its name to the engine, is formed of a number of feet linked together with interlocking, locking, holes, surrounding the weight-carrier and driving wheels in the form of an endless belt. The links which render the chain rigid upon the ground are made of steel, and the pressure is exerted from the outside make it flexible on the inside, so that it bends around two sprocket wheels at either end of the drive. The rear one of these is the driver, which, when the sprockets are engaged in the links, propels the engine by pulling at the chain. The upper part of the chain pulled over by the driving wheel moves forward to the sprocket at the front, which wheel, to form a fresh and endless track.

The method of turning is so simple that it is unnecessary to have a turn in double its own width. One of the chains is braked hard and the other allowed to travel. The engine can thus be extricated from difficult positions in which the ordinary traction engine would be helpless.

ROUGH ON THE "TENDERFOOT"

MANY laughable stories have been told on the plains in illustration of the veracity and innocence of "pig grins" and "tenderfeet" as they are known in the East are denominated by the denizens of the West and Southwest. One of the best of these is the story of the "tenderfoot" who was one of the old ranchmen up near the South Pass, in Wyoming, got a new wagon.

He was the owner of a most dilapidated vehicle that was practically worthless, and had endeavored in a number of ways to get through the mountains and the passes, but without success. He was getting considerably discouraged when a long "pig grin" appeared at the ranch and asked permission to camp for the night.

As a matter of course he was accommodated, and the old ranchman quickly recognized that at last he had an opportunity of getting rid of his wretched vehicle. He was accordingly the stranger was decidedly green, and being bound over the mountains, had many questions to ask about the life of the country, and the old ranchman determined to play a little game for his possession. The following morning the "tenderfoot" was surprised to find the ranchman very carefully measuring his wagon, and his curiosity being aroused, he hastened to ask for an explanation of his actions. His inquiries were answered with the solemn assurance from the old fellow that the vehicle was just two inches too long to get through the South Pass. This information completely dumfounded the questioner, and his looks showed that he considered the matter a piece of trouble.

Finally his eyes rested on the coil of rattlesnake skin which was coiled up in the wagon, and he immediately turned to the old ranchman inquiring in a low voice why he was so particular about the length of the wagon. The old ranchman demurred, stating that notwithstanding the fact that his wagon was two inches too long, it was narrow enough to go through the pass, he would ever take a notion to visit the valley beyond.

The next morning he detected the more important the "pig grin" became, and finally a bargain was struck, the ranchman getting the new wagon, and the "tenderfoot" getting the rattlesnake skin. The "tenderfoot" was very much surprised to find that the wagon was two inches too long, and he was accordingly the stranger was decidedly green, and being bound over the mountains, had many questions to ask about the life of the country, and the old ranchman determined to play a little game for his possession. The following morning the "tenderfoot" was surprised to find the ranchman very carefully measuring his wagon, and his curiosity being aroused, he hastened to ask for an explanation of his actions.

RECENT LEGAL DECISIONS

Trolley Merger Held Void.

The Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts has ordered the decree of the attorney-general of Massachusetts annulling the information filed by the New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, in which he alleged that the company had transgressed the law of Massachusetts in securing the control of a number of street railway companies in that state.

Texas Railroad Tax Unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court of the United States on Monday held unconstitutional the Texas law of 1906 fixing a tax rate on railroads of one cent on their gross earnings when they wholly within the state and a proportionate sum when they partly within the state. This decision was rendered in the case of The Galveston & San Antonio Railway Company vs. The State of Texas. In the trial court the Texas judgment was rendered for the state at the rate of 18-35 of 1 per cent. Upon the first appeal the appellate court reversed this finding, and on a second appeal the Supreme Court, by a vote of five to four, reversed the decision of the appellate court.

Statute of Frauds—Part Payment.

The Supreme Court of Michigan held in the case of Driggs vs. Bush, that where a contract is made in part by cash and in part by a promissory note, the contract is not within the statute of frauds. The court held that the contract was not a contract for the sale of goods, and that the statute of frauds did not apply. The court also held that the contract was not a contract for the sale of real estate, and that the statute of frauds did not apply.

Stock—Pledge—Loan—Brokers.

The Appellate Division of the New York Supreme Court in the case of the Matter of Mills et al. held that a person left with a firm of stockbrokers, and who had no authority to sell, could not be held liable for the sale of stock. The court held that the person was not a broker, and that the firm was not liable for the sale of the stock.

The Color of Gold.

Most people suppose that all gold is alike when refined, but this is not the case. An experienced man can tell at a glance from what part of the world a gold piece comes, and in some cases from what part of a particular gold district the metal was obtained.

Delivery to Carrier Before Shipment.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit held in the case of Platt vs. Jones, that the time for delivery of goods to a carrier is when the goods are placed in the hands of the carrier, and not when they are actually shipped.

Wary Willy—A Wonder in Farm.

Wary Willy—A wonder in farm lore. It is a story of a man who was so wary that he would not even be willing to let the world know that he was a farmer. He was so wary that he would not even be willing to let the world know that he was a farmer.

THE PULPIT

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. G. H. EGGLESTON.

Theme: "Unconditional Service."

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The Rev. Gordon H. Eggleston, pastor of the Greene Avenue Church, preached Sunday morning on "Unconditional Service." The text was from Luke 10:40: "But he that will be first must be last, and servant of all." He said that the Kingdom of God is not of this world, but of the next world, and that the Kingdom of God is not of the next world, but of the next world.

He said that the Kingdom of God is not of this world, but of the next world, and that the Kingdom of God is not of the next world, but of the next world. He said that the Kingdom of God is not of this world, but of the next world, and that the Kingdom of God is not of the next world, but of the next world.

He said that the Kingdom of God is not of this world, but of the next world, and that the Kingdom of God is not of the next world, but of the next world. He said that the Kingdom of God is not of this world, but of the next world, and that the Kingdom of God is not of the next world, but of the next world.

He said that the Kingdom of God is not of this world, but of the next world, and that the Kingdom of God is not of the next world, but of the next world. He said that the Kingdom of God is not of this world, but of the next world, and that the Kingdom of God is not of the next world, but of the next world.

He said that the Kingdom of God is not of this world, but of the next world, and that the Kingdom of God is not of the next world, but of the next world. He said that the Kingdom of God is not of this world, but of the next world, and that the Kingdom of God is not of the next world, but of the next world.

HOW TO GET AND KEEP A SITUATION.

Work done grudgingly will be poorly done. It is not the amount of work that we do, but the way in which we do it. We should do our work as if we were doing it for God, and not for man. We should do our work as if we were doing it for God, and not for man.

Rev. J. C. Killian is expected to preach in the Baptist Church to-morrow evening. An exchange with Pastor Anderson, who goes to Trenton.

A committee of ladies of our Civic Club, drove over the route they will have the Street sprinkler go. If there is a family who has not been visited, and they would like to have their streets sprinkled, for a small amount weekly, kindly send their names to Mrs. H. K. Spear.

Another job for the "Pure Food" sales, in Henson's store, to-day (Saturday), June 20, beginning at 2 p. m. Remember, even if you are not a member of the Civic Club, you can send salable articles by giving the Club a small per centage.

The Baptist Church will be surrendered to the builders on Monday, and all services suspended until August 1st. The Sunday School will decide whether or not to hold sessions during the time named, and if so, provide a hall. We suggest that all interested make it a special point to be present to-morrow.

Mrs. John Roadfuss, of Winslow, died very suddenly on Wednesday morning, aged 48 years. She had worked hard all day Tuesday, setting plants, and about four o'clock in the morning was found gasping for breath, and lived only a few minutes. Heart disease was the cause.

Mrs. McClellan says that if any neighbor has a cat which she values, it had better be kept at home. Mrs. M. has lost thirty-five chickens by prowling cats, this season, and declines to further feed other people's pets. And many of us sympathize with her.

Coroner Isadore Sontheimer, of Atlantic City, was drowned on Sunday last, in the Mullica river, near Chestnut Neck Bridge. He was with a party on a launch, and lying down on the forward deck, when in some unknown manner he was thrown into the water and sank immediately. His body was found after some hours search.

The Fourth of July Committee met on Thursday evening last, and exchanged encouraging reports, both concerning incoming funds and contract for fireworks, etc. Two hundred and fifty electric lights were ordered for the Park, an excellent display of fireworks voted, and other phases discussed. It was developed that our Italian-citizens will turn out in parade, with a float, "Columbus." Another meeting will be held next Monday evening.

Jacob Bourrillion, whose illness we mentioned last week, died Thursday morning, June 18th, aged 85 years, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. F. Lane. He had come here six weeks ago, from Philadelphia, hoping that a change might be beneficial. A wife and several sons and daughters survive him, and have the sympathy of many friends. A short private service will be held at the house to-morrow morning, and the body taken to his Church, the German Reformed, in Philadelphia, and service held. Interment in Northwood Cemetery. The remains can be viewed, at the house, from 8 to 9.30 this evening.

What the Kidneys Do.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily. When unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Thos. Baker, living on French St., Hammoncton, N. J., says: "I suffered considerably from a dull, heavy pain through the lower part of the body. I was unable to find a remedy that would give me relief, and was at a loss to know from what source the trouble arose until my kidneys became irregular in action. Learning of the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at the Red Cross Pharmacy, and received great relief. I take pleasure in recommending this excellent remedy to other sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
