Why I Am a Protectionist.

I believe in the doctrine of Protection because the facts of our national experience thoroughly exemplify its truth. No great American statesmen, except the half-forgotten leaders of the slave power, have disowned the protective system. The importers' trust and the slave trust have been alone in their hostility to that system, each for obvious reasons peculiar to itself. If the doctrine of Protection is not true, our people have blindly followed a blind leadership. If the policy of Protection is not wise, it indicates that the human race, outside of England, has not sense enough to take care of itself. I will not thus disparage the average common sense of our own country, nor thus discredit the average common sense of mankind.—Hon. J. P. Dolliner, Member of Congress from Iowa.

Editor Republican:—I want to trespass on your space long enough to advise every thoughtful person to read the paper on Abraham Lincoln, by Carl Schurz, and to be found in the Atlantic Monthly for June. In giving this advice I feel that a favor is being conferred upon every future reader of the article. Especially will our young men find in this article a source of inspiration, which ought to light a fresh patriotic fire upon the altar of their souls. Nowhere else in so short a space can there be found such a tender record of the doings, and so just an estimate of the character of the beloved President,—undoubtedly the greatest American the world has ever seen. In our time, when we measure men by dollars and the varnish which we misname culture, the story of this rugged, plain, large brained and big-hearted man cannot fail to produce a wholesome effect. My copy of the magazine is freely at the disposal of those who do not wish to provide themselves with the article elsewhere.

Seventy-two years ago last Saturday, the Savannah, the first ocean steamship that ever crossed the Atlantic, safely reached Liverpool. Put the poor little Savannah beside one of the ocean greyhounds of to-day and behold the march of progress.

A New Jersey paper charges indignantly that eight of the worst convicts in Trenton State Prison have been paroled to help Governor Abbett's aspirations toward the United States Senate. There will be worse and more of it soon. Wait until the time comes to parole the Hudson County ballot thieves who made Leon Abbett Governor.

Fifty-four years ago last Saturday Queen Victoria succeeded to the throne of England.

The Chicago Times of last week Friday consisted of 124 pages, of which 116 were devoted to advertising the list of delinquent tax-payers.

A DAKOTA WHEAT FIELD.

Like liquid gold the wheat field lies. A marvel of yellow and russet and green. That ripples and runs, and darts and flies. With the subtle shadows, the change, the sheen.

FOR ONE DAY.

The houses in the terrace were of gray stucco, with bow windows and flights of steps out of all proportion to their size.

The main road ran along the bottom, and the remaining two sides were bounded by stretches of blank wall, above which a few sticky plank trees were fluttering their leaves in the August air.

Eleanor Lloyd, from her window in the roof, could see not only the wall and the plane trees, but, by dint of craning her neck, the High Street itself, with its ceaseless stream of rams and omnibuses.

She thought, as she watched the bent, bearded figure down the street. "If it had come sooner!" she thought, as she watched the bent, bearded figure down the street.

The burden of those long years was not to be shaken off in an hour. She had stiffened, perhaps, into a habit of sorrow and poverty; it is certain that she labored faithfully throughout the day at her serid care, scarcely able to realize the strange fortune which had befallen them.

But not so the children. For them the good news was a reality. They drew together, building their castles in the air, which, unlike such castles generally, had foundations of solid gold, and even in their unsubstantial upper stories were fitted up with sagacity characteristic of the early wise children of the poor.

Eddy, from his sofa, spoke wistfully of marvellous cures, of health-giving breezes, of good doctors whose services he could now command. Eleanor moved about the house with new life, speaking little, but dreaming, dreaming, dreaming through the summer hours.

The wonderful day sped to its close. Once more the family gathered round the tea table, the three women taking his seat at the head.

"Did you go to that lawyer, father? A nice fellow he must be, I should say!" cried Eddy, who was a privileged person.

"And father, did you tell them at the office that you are not going back any more?" added Eleanor, with a new gladness in her voice, a new light in her eyes, which today, at least, were the eyes of a pretty girl.

"Your father is tired," said the mother, seeing that her husband neither moved nor spoke, but sat with his elbow on the table, shading his face with his hand.

"No, no," he said, quickly, "I am not tired, and, lastly, the product is packed and ready for shipment.—See Pacific Chronicle."

"The money was never ours, never could be ours. It was the fruit of cruelty and extortion; it was wrong from the starting point. 'It is money that no honest man can touch.'"

He covered his face with his hand, and there was silence in the room.

Then, all at once, the youngest of the children broke into loud crying, and Eleanor, with flaming cheeks and blazing eyes, sprang to her feet.

"I knew it!" she cried, and the anger and sorrow of her voice were sad to hear. "I knew it could not be true that we were going to be happy. It is a shame, a shame, but I know it!"

And she went from the room. Her father followed her into the narrow passage, shutting the door behind them.

She stood silent, motionless, with her forehead pressed to the wall. He stretched out a tired, trembling hand, and laid it on her shoulder.

"My dear"—the harsh note of pain had faded from his voice; it was only very wistful and weary—"My dear, I am very sorry. But you would not wish it otherwise, I know."

He was a man of few words—simple, timid, little given to demonstrations of affection.

"You do not wish it otherwise?" he said again. "She was at his side, leaning over him, in a moment. She, too, read the letter, then stood strangely silent.

"Children," said their father, "a wonderful thing has happened. It seems that I am a rich man. My brother, from whom I parted in anger many years ago, is dead. He died as he had lived—alone; but at the last remembered me and forgave me."

His voice died away; and the wife, looking from her children's faces, on which a radiant comprehension was slowly dawning, to her husband's prematurely grizzled head, burst suddenly into weeping.

"My wife," he said—taking her into his arms—"there is no more cause to weep."

Mrs. Lloyd brushed her husband's coat and hat the next morning even more carefully than usual, with a view to his visit to the lawyer.

"If it had come sooner!" she thought, as she watched the bent, bearded figure down the street.

Then she went back to her household duties.

Come, and let us return unto the Lord.—Hos. 6 : 1.

REVIEW BIBLE LIGHTS.

Lesson 1.—Superintendent: And they went down into Jordan; and, lo, all the way was full of garments and vessels, which the Syrians had cast away in their haste. And the messengers returned, and told the king. And the people went out, and spoiled the camp of the Syrians. So a measure of the flour was sold for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel, according to the word of the Lord (2 Kings 7 : 15, 16).

Scholars: He that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men! (Psa. 107 : 8).

Teachers: Praise to the Lord, Praise the Lord, O my soul (Psa. 146 : 1).

All: While I live will I praise the Lord (Psa. 146 : 2).

Lesson 2.—Superintendent: And the Lord said unto John, Because thou hast said well in executing that which is right in mine eyes, and hast done the house which I commanded thee to do, all that was in mine heart thy sons of the fourth generation shall sit on the throne of Israel. But John took no heed to walk in the law of the Lord, the God of Israel; with all his heart he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam, wherewith he made Israel to sin (2 Kings 19 : 30, 31).

Scholars: Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart (1 Sam. 16 : 7).

Teachers: Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life (Prov. 4 : 23).

All: Create in me a clean heart, O God (Psa. 51 : 10).

Lesson 3.—Superintendent: Now the word of the Lord came unto Jonah the son of Amittai, saying, Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and cry against it; for their wickedness is come up before me (Jonah 1 : 2).

Scholars: Preach unto it the preaching that I bid thee (Jonah 3 : 2).

Teachers: Whosoever he saith unto you, do to (John 2 : 5).

All: I will run the way of thy commandments (Psa. 119 : 32).

Lesson 4.—Superintendent: And the people of Nineveh believed God; and they proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least of them. And the tidings reached the king of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne, and laid his robe in an imbricated garment, with sackcloth, and sat in ashes (Jonah 3 : 5, 6).

Scholars: The men of Nineveh shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it, for they repented at the preaching of Jonas; and, behold, a greater than Jonas is here (Luke 11 : 32).

Teachers: Repent ye therefore, and turn again; for your sins have blotted out (Acts 3 : 19).

All: According to the multitude of thy mercies blot out my transgressions (Psa. 51 : 1).

Lesson 5.—Superintendent: I have overthrown some among you, as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, and ye were as a brand plucked out of the burning; yet have ye not returned (Jer. 49 : 13).

OUR PARIS LETTER.

There are no new novelties, which can properly be so-called, appearing just now and which are so characteristic of the fashion; but a great many little details of all sorts which give a peculiar elegance and grace to the toilette, are visible at all the leading modes.

For instance, we find that the dress skirts are now worn plain, almost without any ornament, while the under-skirt fairly bristles with the most elegant of decorations. Beneath a costume of cloth, very modest, having a straight skirt slightly trained in seen, when the skirt is the least bit raised, an elegant under-skirt in silk of the same shade as the cloth, trimmed with a flounce of lace and a band of velvet cut in vandykes. With a robe of foulard extremely simple, the under-skirt is in silk trimmed with a flounce of Greek tulle ornamented with three ribbons of black moire. The ornamentation of these skirts, has become an absolute passion, which has never been exceeded.

Of course it is necessary that luxury should have a pretext, that it should make for itself a place. It could never do itself to these modest savings; it nestles in the almost invisible folds of a skirt and displays itself under a thousand charming aspects.

Scholars: Whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he seemeth to have (Luke 8 : 18).

Teachers: He that is faithful in a very little is faithful also in much (Luke 16 : 10).

Lesson 6.—Superintendent: Behold, the days come, saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the Lord. And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even to the south, they shall run to and fro to seek the word of the Lord, and shall not find it (Amos 8 : 11, 12).

Scholars: Whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he seemeth to have (Luke 8 : 18).

Teachers: He that is faithful in a very little is faithful also in much (Luke 16 : 10).

Lesson 7.—Superintendent: Sow to yourselves in righteousness, reap according to mercy; break up your fallow ground; for it is time to seek the Lord, that ye may prosper, and rain shall come upon you. Ye have plowed wickedness, ye have reaped iniquity; ye have eaten the fruit of lies; for thou didst frustrate thy way, in that which was evil by thy mouth (Hos. 10 : 12, 13).

Scholars: Your iniquities have separated between you and your God (Isa. 59 : 2).

Teachers: Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap (Gal. 6 : 7).

All: Let us not be weary in well-doing; for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not (Gal. 6 : 9).

Lesson 8.—Superintendent: And they forsook all the commandments of the Lord their God and made them molten images, even two calves, and made an Asherah, and worshipped all the host of heaven, and served Baal. And they caused their sons and their daughters to pass through the fire, and so arranged that its deep perils reached to the lower edge of the basque. The revers, bordered with a little picot of brown guipure, like the empire, edged the opening of the vest, and another extremely pretty robe, seen at Longchamp, was in rose-colored vigogne variegated with black. The ornaments, both elegant and new, were of fine jet points and edged the bottom of the flounce. Three rows of these points were placed on the apron avant, about two inches apart, and ascended the sides of the basque. Very long plastrons mounted the skirt, and was bordered round the waist with a row of jet points and leaves which reached the center of the back. Two revers of rose faille, bordered the opening of the corage over a plastron of guipure, arranged flat and forming a gump. So great was the rage for lace this season, that every one brings forth from their hiding places all the old laces of guipure and fine a thousand and exquisite ways of utilizing them. The malines, valenciennes, English point, etc., are used to frame the plastrons of muslin; while ribbons of those colored silks. Very long plastrons mounted with ample fullness round the straight collar and trimmed with a beautiful flounce of lace very charming, not only for the interior of a vest but also for a corsege. Some times the plastron, mounted as a chemise, is adjusted to the body by a belt as in the illustration. The other two skirts are made of changeable taffeta and trimmed with the chest. Irish and Venetian guipure prove especially effective for the present costume.

With the large scarfs of ancient blond and the deep flounces of Chantilly are made very beautiful, elegant and delightfully dressy ensembles. The flounce and the back form the body of the mantle, with little bits of sleeves forming epaulettes; all this of straw colored silk or peau de soie embroidered in various ways. The scarf or flounce is supported at the edge of the shoulders and passes over the body of the garment; which it completes; in a most stylish manner.

Lesson 9.—Superintendent: So the king commanded, and they made a chest, and set it without at the gate of the city, and they made a proclamation through Judah and Jerusalem, to bring in for the Lord the fat that Moses the servant of God laid upon Israel in the wilderness. And all the princes and all the people rejoiced, and brought in, and cast into the chest, until they had made an end (2 Chron. 29 : 8, 9).

Scholars: God loveth a cheerful giver (2 Cor. 9 : 7).

Teachers: Honour the Lord with the substance, and with the firstfruits of all thine increase (Prov. 3 : 10).

All: So shall thy barns be filled with plenty (Prov. 3 : 10).

Lesson 10.—Superintendent: Hezekiah began to reign when he was five, and twenty years old. . . . And he did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord, according to all that David his father had done (2 Chron. 19 : 1, 2).

Scholars: Them that honour me I will honour (1 Sam. 2 : 30).

Teachers: If any man serve me, him will I be Father honour (John 12 : 26).

All: We will serve the Lord (Josh. 24 : 16).

Lesson 11.—Superintendent: And it came to pass, when the king had heard the words of the law, that he rent his clothes. And the king commanded, . . . saying, Go ye, inquire of the Lord for me, and them that are left in Israel and in Judah, concerning the words of the book that is found; for great is the wrath of the Lord that is poured upon us, because our fathers have not kept in the word of the Lord, to do according unto all that is written in this book (2 Chron. 34 : 19-21).

Scholars: The law of thy mouth is better unto me than thousands of gold and silver (Psa. 119 : 72).

Teachers: These were more noble, . . . in that they received the weight of all readiness of mind, examining the scriptures daily, whether these things were so (Acts 17 : 11).

All: Open thine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law (Psa. 119 : 18).

Lesson 12.—Superintendent: But the army of the Chaldees pursued after the king, and overtook him in the plains of Meruth, and all his army was scattered from him. Then they took the king, and carried him up unto the king of Babylon to Babel; and they gave judgment upon him. And they slew the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him in fetters, and carried him to Babylon (2 Kings 25 : 6-7).

Scholars: Come, and let us return

OUR PARIS LETTER.

There are no new novelties, which can properly be so-called, appearing just now and which are so characteristic of the fashion; but a great many little details of all sorts which give a peculiar elegance and grace to the toilette, are visible at all the leading modes.

For instance, we find that the dress skirts are now worn plain, almost without any ornament, while the under-skirt fairly bristles with the most elegant of decorations. Beneath a costume of cloth, very modest, having a straight skirt slightly trained in seen, when the skirt is the least bit raised, an elegant under-skirt in silk of the same shade as the cloth, trimmed with a flounce of lace and a band of velvet cut in vandykes. With a robe of foulard extremely simple, the under-skirt is in silk trimmed with a flounce of Greek tulle ornamented with three ribbons of black moire. The ornamentation of these skirts, has become an absolute passion, which has never been exceeded.

Of course it is necessary that luxury should have a pretext, that it should make for itself a place. It could never do itself to these modest savings; it nestles in the almost invisible folds of a skirt and displays itself under a thousand charming aspects.

Scholars: Whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he seemeth to have (Luke 8 : 18).

Teachers: He that is faithful in a very little is faithful also in much (Luke 16 : 10).

Lesson 6.—Superintendent: Behold, the days come, saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the Lord. And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even to the south, they shall run to and fro to seek the word of the Lord, and shall not find it (Amos 8 : 11, 12).

Scholars: Whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he seemeth to have (Luke 8 : 18).

Teachers: He that is faithful in a very little is faithful also in much (Luke 16 : 10).

Lesson 7.—Superintendent: Sow to yourselves in righteousness, reap according to mercy; break up your fallow ground; for it is time to seek the Lord, that ye may prosper, and rain shall come upon you. Ye have plowed wickedness, ye have reaped iniquity; ye have eaten the fruit of lies; for thou didst frustrate thy way, in that which was evil by thy mouth (Hos. 10 : 12, 13).

Scholars: Your iniquities have separated between you and your God (Isa. 59 : 2).

Teachers: Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap (Gal. 6 : 7).

All: Let us not be weary in well-doing; for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not (Gal. 6 : 9).

Lesson 8.—Superintendent: And they forsook all the commandments of the Lord their God and made them molten images, even two calves, and made an Asherah, and worshipped all the host of heaven, and served Baal. And they caused their sons and their daughters to pass through the fire, and so arranged that its deep perils reached to the lower edge of the basque. The revers, bordered with a little picot of brown guipure, like the empire, edged the opening of the vest, and another extremely pretty robe, seen at Longchamp, was in rose-colored vigogne variegated with black. The ornaments, both elegant and new, were of fine jet points and edged the bottom of the flounce. Three rows of these points were placed on the apron avant, about two inches apart, and ascended the sides of the basque. Very long plastrons mounted the skirt, and was bordered round the waist with a row of jet points and leaves which reached the center of the back. Two revers of rose faille, bordered the opening of the corage over a plastron of guipure, arranged flat and forming a gump. So great was the rage for lace this season, that every one brings forth from their hiding places all the old laces of guipure and fine a thousand and exquisite ways of utilizing them. The malines, valenciennes, English point, etc., are used to frame the plastrons of muslin; while ribbons of those colored silks. Very long plastrons mounted with ample fullness round the straight collar and trimmed with a beautiful flounce of lace very charming, not only for the interior of a vest but also for a corsege. Some times the plastron, mounted as a chemise, is adjusted to the body by a belt as in the illustration. The other two skirts are made of changeable taffeta and trimmed with the chest. Irish and Venetian guipure prove especially effective for the present costume.

With the large scarfs of ancient blond and the deep flounces of Chantilly are made very beautiful, elegant and delightfully dressy ensembles. The flounce and the back

"The Rochester."

And with it there is no smoke, no smell, no broken chimneys, no flickering, no sweating, no climbing up of the flame, no "stratum," nor annoyance of any kind, and it never needs trimming. Its founts (oil reservoirs) being tough rolled seamless brass, with central draft, it is absolutely unbreakable, and as safe as a tall candle.

Only five years old, and over a million and a half in use. It must be a GOOD lamp to make such a telling success. Indeed it is. For lamps may come and lamps may go, but the "Rochester" shines on forever! We make over 1,000 artistic varieties.—Hanging and Table Lamps, Banquet, Study, Bed and Piano Lamps, every kind in Bronze, Porcelain, Brass, Nickel and Black Wrought-iron.

Ask the lamp dealer for it. Look for the trade-mark stamp: "The Rochester." If he hasn't the genuine Rochester and the style you want, or if no lamp-store is near, send us for free illustrated catalogue (free of charge), and we will box and send you any lamp safely by express, right to your door.

The Tariff and the Farmer.

The Tribune will devote much space during 1891 to the Tariff as it affects the Farmer and the Mechanic. Hon. Roswell G. Horr, of Michigan, has been added to the Tribune's staff of Tariff writers for this purpose. He will, through the columns of the Tribune, pose himself on this topic, and will invite and answer questions upon points which perplex the American Farmer and Mechanic. He will also, so far as other duties will allow, attend Farmers' Institutes and Agricultural gatherings the coming winter and spring, and expound the principles of the Tariff.

Those who desire the presence of Mr. Horr at Farmers' Institutes, etc. are invited to communicate promptly with The Tribune.

Young Men who wish to Succeed.

Many a man feels the lack of early direction of his energies and early focalization of the maxims which promote the formation of character and success in later life. Every such man would gladly see the young men of to-day better guided to their proper ends. The Tribune has planned the following series of valuable articles, which will appear in this paper only:

- What shall I do? By S. S. Packard, President of Packard's Business College.
- Suggestions for the Boys on the Farm who are Ambitious. By the Hon. J. H. Brigham, of Ohio, Master of the National Grange.
- Education without the Help of a College. By President C. K. Adams, of Cornell University.
- A Continuation of "How to Win Fortune." By Andrew Carnegie, whose remarkable article of last year was so full of encouragement to poor men.
- Multiplicity of Paying Occupations in the United States. By the Hon. Carroll D. Wright, Commissioner of the Department of Labor.
- A Talk with American Boys. By P. T. Barnum, of Bridgeport, Conn., the great American showman, temperance lecturer, and writer.
- Examples in the History of our own Country. By Gen. A. S. Webb, the gallant soldier of Gettysburg and Spotsylvania and College president.
- Importance of Good Manners. The views of Ward McAllister.
- College Education good for all; what is best for those who cannot get it. By President William Pepper, University of Pennsylvania.

The Tribune will print from week to week, well-considered answers to any questions which young men or women, in any part of the country, may ask.

Vital Topics of the Day.

Present Needs and Future Scope of American Agriculture. By the Hon. Jeremiah Rusk.

Proper Function of the Blind in Legislation. By the Hon. Julius C. Burrows, Elmira, N.Y.

Village Improvement Associations, their practicability in Rural Districts, with the story of certain of them. By the Hon. G. C. Northrup, of Clinton, Conn.

Principle in Politics and the Virtue of Courage. By the Hon. James S. Clark, of Iowa.

Influences of the Labor Movement upon Human Progress. By Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor.

America's Sanitarium and Rural Homes. By George Palmer, of New York.

Glaciers of the United States. By Professor Israel C. Russell, of the United States Geological Survey and explorer of Alaska.

Other Features.

During 1891 the Tribune will print a valuable series of articles, written by its own traveling correspondents, on the agriculture of the United States, with explanations of a large number of model farms.

A special correspondent, a practical farmer, is now in France, visiting the model farm-buildings of that country, and the agricultural nations of the world. He will report upon the dairy, grain, stock, and other branches of French farming in illustrated articles.

Mrs. Annie Willenmeyer, President of the Woman's Relief Corps, will contribute a column of notes and news to the Tribune's G. A. R. page every week.

Admirable letters of travel in the Southern States, illustrated with pictures, will be printed, describing the South as it exists to-day.

All the regular features will be continued.

The Home Circle columns will be varied by frequent illustrated articles on home decoration, fashions and other subjects of intense interest to women. Written principally for people with little money.

Mrs. Bayard Taylor, the widow of Bayard Taylor, will write articles on Country. She is a remarkable home-keeper, with a scientific as well as a practical knowledge of her subject.

Steinitz, the great chess champion of the world, will apply a column a week on the greatest and purest of all the games of the home.

Foreign letters, and the news of the day, the best of market reports, book reviews and literary news, witty jokes, etc.

The Tribune is printed in large type and broad columns, and is the easiest paper to read in the country.

New York Republicans talk confidently of being able to carry that state next fall. It is to be hoped their confidence is well founded. In New Jersey there is a growing belief that the interests of good government and the safety of our free institutions demand the election of a Republican legislature. It will be an up-hill job, but with a resolute combined effort the thing can be accomplished.

Sugar—cheap—fruit plenty—the party shelves even will be against the Democratic calamity howlers.

Mr. Werner Von Siemens, the great German electrician, in discussing Germany's exhibit at the Chicago World's Fair, says: "America threatens our trade with the South American Republics, and even with Africa and Asia." That is our object, Mr. Von Siemens. The Democratic party and the European nations are the only objectors to the system under which it is being done.

A Wonder Worker.

Mr. Frank Huffman, a young man of Burlington, Ohio, states that he had been under the care of two prominent physicians, and used their treatment until he was not able to get around. They pronounced his case consumption, and incurable. He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption coughs and colds, and at that time was not able to walk across the street without resting. Before he had used half of a dollar bottle he was much better; he continued to use it, and is to-day enjoying good health. If you have any lung, throat, or chest trouble, try it. We guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottles free at any drug store.
