The Strikers' Story.

A reply to the article about the strike in the Glass Factory, given in the South Jersey Republican of last week.

The boys who went out on the strike were smoothers and also those giving the first polishing to the goods before they were sent to the acid bath, and were making from ten to sixteen dollars a week.

The boys did not object to the Italian boys polishing after the work has had its acid bath; that is considered a separate trade; but did object to taking them on smoothing, to teach as apprentices.

In the first place, Mr. T. Skinner told the boys that he was losing money by having the Italian boys do the acid polishing, and told the boys that they must finish the work complete (in other words, instead of his losing money the smoothers must be losers), at the same time discharging some of the acid polishers. He afterwards said that the smoothers could hire boys to polish after the glass came out of the acid, but that they must pay the boys themselves. This a few of the smoothers did, but the rest of the smoothers tried the acid polishing with the rest of their work.

After a week's trial, the boys found the work could not be done, with their smoothing, so as to make living wages, in some cases the wages falling as low as $3.50 for the week's wages to the smoothers, and the boys employed by them making more than the boys who employed them.

At the end of the week the smoothers told Mr. T. Skinner that it was impossible to make living wages if they had to do the acid polishing, as well as the smoothing, and the reply that Mr. T. Skinner made was, "If you can't do it, you know what you can do,--get out."

The boys in the factory all gave one week's wages towards the building of the new factory, thinking that the factory was to be for the good of the boys and girls of their own town, and fully expecting to finish their trade in it, and if such is not the case Mr. Skinner should return the money given by the boys, amounting to something in the neighborhood of four hundred dollars, as some boys have requested him to do, particularly as now the boys will have to seek work out of this town.

Not only is this one of the complaints made by the boys, but some of the smoothers who had work both finished and partly finished on their benches did not receive any pay for the said work that week, Mr. Skinner employing outside parties to finish said work.

If the glass factory is to be run for the employment of outside parties, to the detriment of our own young men and women, I am sure that many who agreed to contribute toward the erecting of a glass factory in this place will feel like withdrawing their promise, as such pledge was given by all to help our young people here to learn a good trade. The treatment the boys received from the hands of their employers is not just or right in many ways.

A Valuable Medicine for Coughs and Colds in Children.

"I have not the slightest hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to all who are suffering from coughs or colds," says Olin M. Cramer, Esq., a well known watchmaker of Columbus, Ceylon. "It has been some two years since the City Dispensary first called my attention to this valuable medicine, and I have repeatedly used it and has always been beneficial. It has cured me quickly of all chest colds. It is especially effective for children, and seldom takes more than one bottle to cure them of hoarseness. I have persuaded many to try this valuable medicine, and they are all as well pleased as myself over the results." For sale by J. B. Rogers.

The Saloon's Work.

The "respectable" saloon keeper, with his gloved hand, his fine-fitting frock coat, button-hole bouquet, and the tidy make-up accompanying it, knocks at the mansion, enters our colleges and calls for the valedictorian. He crosses the threshold of the cultured, great, and good, and throttles their first-born, and binds the sons of promise. These are the places that rear a young man's conscience, blight and milder his honor, scorch the virtues that a good mother has taught and loved in the son that is the apple of her eye.

Quite a little excitement was caused, last week Friday, by the disappearance of two little Hammonton girls. The parental minds, and those of the neighbors, were agitated when the children returned from a huckleberry expedition.

Lightning Strikes.

During the storm on Thursday afternoon, the fine residence of Landon M. Parkhurst, on Main Road, was struck by lightning. The bolt entered one corner of the house, splintering things generally, broke a looking-glass and sewing machine, then jumped to the barn, breaking the cow's chain without injuring the animal, split one corner of the ice house and damaged the grape arbor. Two horses, hitched to a post, were knocked down. Fortunately, no one was injured.

The residence of C. H. Lutzgens, was also struck and damaged somewhat, as was some of the furniture. Again, we are happy to state, no person was injured.
