Letter From Paris.
(Correspondence of the S. J. Republican.)
HORACE DE LOUVER, Paris, June 21, 1878.
The right wing of the Trocadero building is devoted to antiquities, and comprises fifteen salons, corresponding to as many epochs or ages, commencing with the Fall of Man, up to an old violoncello belonging to Charles IX, on which he is said to have played "Die, chant du Depart." The walls are hung with splendid tapestry, and the collections of curiosities are priceless; one case is estimated at two millions of francs, and this is but a flea bite in archeological tariffs. Some antiquarians are in such ecstasies before the wonders, that they count to enter upon a new lease of life, while others, the owners of the loans, will remain in permanent high fever, till they receive back their flint instruments, tibia of Aryans, m. sals of St. Louis, and jackstones of the early Carthaginians. Some odd relics were set forth: "skull and jaw bone having belonged to a Gaulish warrior." St. Martin was the only celebrity to whom the want of a head proved of no inconvenience, since he walked with it under his arm; but the ordinary Gaul entered at least battle, always with his head on his shoulders. There is an envelope said to contain a lock of Mozart's hair; perhaps this is a curiosity, but one is naturally inclined to look for a curl belonging to Julius Caesar, before his head resembled a billiard ball.

I met Midant Pacha doing the American section; Carlyle must have had this Turkish Lord John Russell in his eye, when he wrote about his "unspeakable Turk." He is as silent as he is impassible. An exhibitor was explaining to him the mysteries of the railway air-brake; he must in his soul have desired an apparatus like that for pulling up his political enemies. It is a pity so little space has been allotted to the United States, which gives our exhibits a crowded and common place look, not that the section is artistic; it is devoted more to utilities. The agricultural machinery is what America must rely upon for laurels, and in this respect she is the only nation coming up to her friendly rival England. The carriage exhibits are excellent; the photographers muster strong; there are creditable cases by the Waltham Watch Company, and the gold and silversmith work of Tiffany & Co., will dispute a first class medal with the French, to say nothing of another foreign adversary, Elkington, for example. If a court be ever crowded, it is not after all so bad as to be undercrowded, like Russia—where malignity forms the backbone of her marvels. It is only justice to add, the malachite industry is one of the fine arts.

Respecting France, Paris represents about two-thirds of the nations exhibitors, and as a general remark, the strength of the French display is concentrated on the classes coming under the group of house hold furniture.

The French papers back up the foreign and honorable policy of the cabinet, but do not display absolute confidence in the result of the conference; having no definite news and imaginary telegrams not being credited more usefulness is conveyed in the way of biographies of the delegates. La France announces, that it has sent a "special," to report the proceedings of the congress, and he will be followed by a second—to be doubtless in keeping with the Ambassadors—who are in duplicate. The power of the press is proverbial.

The 5th of June will be, for this year, the national holiday, it will be a "movable feast," there is an extensive trade being carried on in anticipation of the making of flags of all nations, of tri-color cockades, and "republican crackers." Pending the arrival of that happy day, there will be the military review on the 24th. The militia will not take part; the cause is to be attributed, not to the want of inexorable for the men as was alleged, but to no provision having been made in the estimates for their transport.

The Auteril stepple chase was brilliantly attended, and the crack run was very exciting for the ladies, as there were several break-downs—the only thing they enjoy or shudder over. "Wild Monarch" deceives all the knowing ones; he was ridden by Page, whose head has never been right since his bad fall last autumn, but who declared, life to him was a burden, unless he was allowed to resume his chances of breaking his neck. If the English horse has won, the French can find consolation in the fact, that the Prince of Wales has lost a pair of gloves to Madame MacMahon.

his Norfolk estate. The entrance is 1 fr. payable for an ordinary Exhibition ticket.
The arrival at the Grand Hotel of his Majesty the Shah of Persia, with an immense retinue and thirty-six cases of Persian money, equal in value to more than four millions of francs, will not fail to be an event of great interest to the Parisians, as it is an important addition to the list of illustrious personages who have already honored Paris and its Exhibition with their presence and encouragement. I hear that his majesty has not, on this occasion, brought with him those wonderful diamonds which, a few years back, dazzled the eyes of all Europe, and tempted more than one good soul to break the tenth commandment.

Our Washington Letter.
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1, 1878.

The Acklen-Rosser matter still monopolizes a good share of local attention. It has assumed a new phase about every day since it first started our gossips and scandal-mongers out of all sense of propriety by the abruptness of its advent. Acklen arrived here Friday. The Saturday papers contained the affidavits of two waiters at Welkors, who waited on Acklen and his female companion on the night of the alleged assault, denying that Acklen was guilty of any impropriety towards her whilst at that establishment, a statement jointly signed by three M. C.'s, verifying that the lady's brother (also a member of Congress) for her, had acquitted Acklen in their presence of any misconduct towards her, and a statement from Acklen denouncing the story as "an unmitigated and willful lie." He says he only heard it when he arrived in Louisiana from Washington and at once turned back to trace it to its originator and to characterize it in fitting terms. He said he had been unable to compass the former but had taken the first opportunity to set to rights the two parties most vitally concerned. He also says that after Rosser's denial, he cannot longer hold him responsible. In what may be regarded as a superfluous annex after what he had proved and disproved by his witnesses, he goes to the very verge of self-immolation and chivalric self-sacrifice in an avowal that he had made a tender of his heart and hand to the lady which had been declined. Everything about the sworn statements of the two waiters is most vigorously explicit, even to the exact kind of cheese and wine (both of the most aristocratic brands) ordered, and the comparative length of time Rosser and his female companion occupied their private dining room. Mr. Acklen's inability to trace the scandal seems to many inexplicable considering the executors of details when it was first given publicity. And though the duels first promised are "off," the tid-bit was too sweet to be at once relinquished, though Mr. Acklen's witnesses most solemnly affirm it had no foundation in fact, and he voluntarily acknowledges to having "got the mitten."

The preamble and resolution under which the Potter Committee was authorized, offered as a pretext for the inquiry that it was alleged that the Electoral Votes of several States—among them Louisiana and Florida—were tainted with fraud. Mr. Sherman promised to prove it if allowed the opportunity. Many of the Secretary's political friends didn't hesitate to criticize what appeared to them his exceptional timidity when brought before the Committee to plead to the authorship of a certain letter. But the Democrats under-rate the intelligence of the country if they count on its acquiescence in their refusal to subpoena the witnesses Mr. Sherman names, on the pretext that (Sherman had) not yet acknowledged or denied writing the letter that guaranteed Anderson and Webb's Federal offices. The country will more especially condemn their refusal, as Mr. Sherman says he can prove by them all grades of crimes on the part of the Louisiana bull dozers, from down-right murder to the number of more than 30, down to whippings and scourgings by the nocturnal raiders in the two parishes of East and West Feliciana. But this is precisely what the Democratic majority of the Committee has done, confirming what was generally believed before that no effort would be spared to suppress all evidence of the Democratic murders and other outrages committed by tens of thousands during the last campaign in the South.

Potter, his Democratic and Butler associates have steadily fallen into disrepute until they are the butt and laughing-stock of the town. Their affection for disreputable Anderson was not noted to their credit, and since their disfigurement by the Janks they occupy the relative place accorded the squaw-man or counter-felt brave, among the Aboriginal tribes who allow himself to be tortured by a woman. Butler has had the worst kind of luck. In his expeditions for wool he has almost invariably come back shorn to the bone, by witnesses who wouldn't brook his bullying manners. The Jankos and Pitkin have left Anderson without a vestige of character. While she is conceded to be "smart," and has gone home crowned with the laurels, she appears lost to covet; no modest woman need envy her the reputation she has earned. Chandler's testimony is what Potter and Butler probably hoped it would be. On the whole it is thought that Potter can't too soon close out the assortment of witnesses and adjourn if he would save a shred of reputation. Butler seems to have camped on the trial of McVane and others of the Louisiana Commission, and it will surprise and disappoint a good many here, if a good many of the functions ordered by that extra-judicial body of politicians, in tearing down the Prefard Government, are not brought to light within the next few weeks.

Mr Potter's Greatest Discovery.
Where, in all the inquisitorial investigations instituted by the Democrats in Congress, have they ever elicited a syllable of evidence, that the Republicans ever paid or promised a single cent to any one to secure the electoral votes to the Republican candidates, while hardly a witness is produced who does not tell of the bare-faced attempts of the Democrats to buy electoral votes, and secure through bribery what they could not hope to secure through a Presidential election under the Constitution.—Danbury News.

How is this for a Rebel Claim?
We cannot but indulge the hope that when we have helped to extinguish the public debt, and time has healed the wounds of the past, when reason and wisdom shall have fully regulated the passions of prejudice and hate, even though it should be in the next generation, a brave and honorable people of the same blood and lineage will see to it that the value of our property in slaves shall be returned to them from whom it was wrongfully wrested. It will do us little to keep this question before the people, for they may preserve the records and proper memoranda of their former slaves, in the event that returning sense of justice on the part of the Federal Government may compensate them, at least in part, for the loss of this portion of their rightful property.—Macon (Ga.) Telegraph and Messenger.

Nashy Gives up in Despair.
We had the radicals in a vice from which they could not escape. But was our vice just as this was not a vice, but a trap, and a two-louche decision that the object of the investigation was not to disturb the President, but to disturb the President's peace of mind. Democratic leaders sold for it and it was paid! In the name of Hays what was it for then? For what did I go to Washington and spend my time and Tilden's money, yet wasn't to our Hays? For what was the eyes of every Democrat which has looked longingly on post office and custom house these many years, turned anxiously to Washington? Not disturb his title? Why, that was what we wanted, and all that we wanted. We wanted them places, which we could only get thro Tilden, and which as long as Hays sets there, was not for us. It don't matter to me whether Tilden or some one else is the Democratic nominee in 1880. The disappointment has so weighed onto my mind, that long before 1880 I wish to be in the silent tomb, and it won't matter to me who succeeds Hays. I can't live as I live, and the sooner I die the better. Democracy ain't got no muscle nor much intellect. It's shabby. It won't survive me long. — Toledo Blade.

We have reviewed from the publishers, Leake, Blakeman & Co., New York, copies of Swinton's Geographies. The elementary Geography for primary and intermediate grades, is a 125 page 8 vo. book. It is written in a style to make it attractive and interesting to the pupil, with an understanding of the capacity of the child mind, and to draw out the pupil, to make him think, and get his lesson for the very love of it. It is also gotten up with such illustrations as bring Geographical forms and objects before the mind through vision that it could hardly fail to impress with effect, the outlines of Physical Geography, as Continents, Islands, Seas, &c., &c. The maps are beautifully and accurately drawn, with outline maps and bird's eye views, that convey impressions of our globe better than could be gained in any other way. Mr. Swinton has in this work done much to make the child love the study, and make it no longer a task but a pleasure. It is printed in large clear type, and is as interesting as a book of stories.

An important feature in the complete course of Geography is the study of the State or local Geography. This is in view only for advanced pupils in the State, under observation. Then there are the geographical and commercial features. The paragraphs are set in a form convenient both for memorizing and recitation. The maps are beautiful, and have the novel features of dotted lines of latitude and longitude in such a way that the exact degree may be at once determined on any part of the map, and in the maps for special reference are shown the county lines, with the shire towns, giving the pupil an opportunity to study the Geography of his own State, which is also exceedingly useful for reference. Nothing in a work of the kind, can be finer than the pictorial embellishments, and no doubt it was intended to make this the best work as a school geography ever published. We leave the student to judge for himself.

The Republican.

H. E. Bennett, M. D., Editor & Prop. HAMMONTON, ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. SATURDAY, JULY 6, 1878.

Janie Fowler Williams, whoever she is, writing of politics, gives it hard names, and recently had definitions, much of which is true, but she is wrong here in the dilemma when she says, if a woman...

Let patriots ponder on the justice of what is said above, and act accordingly. If our Congress had done some legislation in the direction mentioned they would have done a great good, and received the plaudits of a large majority of the patriots of the country.

There should be some method to bring the editors of such sheets to severe punishment while such sheets exist, for good men will suffer their names to be in connection with public office. Stop these slanders, and bring forward good, honest and true men, and our whole political aspect could be changed in a short time.

Senator Hayard is credited with saying that this Congress has done just good and less harm than was expected of it. This shows what a narrow squeak the country has had.

Another Democratic House would be a great National calamity, but it might prove a blessing to the land, for it would make a dead sure thing of the election of a Republican President in 1880.

The continued decrease of business on the trunk line railroad marks the progressive effects of long continued hard times, and the stagnation caused by Congressional agitation. War, pestilence, and famine are not more dangerous than two successive Democratic Congresses.

Atlantic County Bible Society - Report of the Secretary.

The 9th annual meeting of the Atlantic County Bible Society was held at the Presbyterian Church at Hammonton, June 27th, 1878, at 10 o'clock a. m.

After the religious services, the Society was called to order by the Secretary, the President, Rev. W. Wright, Vice President, was called to the Chair, and the meeting opened with prayer by Rev. W. A. Abbott.

A committee on nomination of officers was appointed, as follows: Dr. Sheldon, Officers and Secretary. Rev. W. A. Abbott, Secretary, consisting of Rev. W. A. Abbott, Rev. J. H. White, Rev. J. K. Stiles, of Camden Bible Society, being present, was invited to act as corresponding member.

The Treasurer was directed to report the past year's account, and the amount paid from this society through the New Jersey Annual Conference of the Bible Societies.

Dr. W. H. A. B. is the king of medicine in the matter of the eye. He has cured many cases of chronic inflammation.

Great praise is due the officers of the U. S. Railroad Company for the interest they manifested in our enterprise of filling and bringing down the railroad.

It has been long known, and the fact is being more widely circulated in Atlantic County, that a great number of the most reliable men to repair watches and do any work in the watch and jewelry line, in Atlantic County.

Everything taken in exchange for copper work. Now is the time to make your plans and arrangements for the building season.

A good feature and one we are disposed to look of, was that in a large number of people, there was a little appearance of the effect of indigestion, and had it with them.

Brother Frank don't get nervous. Those who can't take a little abdominal give-out, will find it a relief to get a little of the medicine.

A CONFESSION!

The clothes in Philadelphia have confessed, and do admit that they have been doing wrong. The clothes in Philadelphia have confessed, and do admit that they have been doing wrong.

Let patriots ponder on the justice of what is said above, and act accordingly. If our Congress had done some legislation in the direction mentioned they would have done a great good, and received the plaudits of a large majority of the patriots of the country.

There should be some method to bring the editors of such sheets to severe punishment while such sheets exist, for good men will suffer their names to be in connection with public office. Stop these slanders, and bring forward good, honest and true men, and our whole political aspect could be changed in a short time.

Senator Hayard is credited with saying that this Congress has done just good and less harm than was expected of it. This shows what a narrow squeak the country has had.

Another Democratic House would be a great National calamity, but it might prove a blessing to the land, for it would make a dead sure thing of the election of a Republican President in 1880.

The continued decrease of business on the trunk line railroad marks the progressive effects of long continued hard times, and the stagnation caused by Congressional agitation. War, pestilence, and famine are not more dangerous than two successive Democratic Congresses.

EARTH CLOSETS, their construction and use.

The Earth Closet is a modern improvement which takes the place and supersedes the Water Closet in the house, and dispenses with the cesspool and other repulsive features of the same. It is perfect in its operations, and not liable to get out of order. In case of sickness it is invaluable, as it can be used by the sick or any room in the house without inconvenience from bad odors. For those living in the country, where the out-house is at a distance from the dwelling, it is indispensable, and no family should be without one, if only used in stormy weather, when ladies and children so much dread going out.

We are also Agents for the

UNION EARTH CLOSET,

CUMBERLAND MUTUAL Fire Insurance Company.
BRIDGETON, N. J.

Conducted on strictly mutual principles, offering a perfectly safe insurance for just what it may cost to pay losses and expenses. The proportion of loss to the amount insured being very small, and expenses much less than usually had, nothing can be offered more favorable to the insured. The cost being about ten cents of the hundred dollars a year to the insurers on ordinary risks, and from fifteen to twenty-five cents per year on hazardous properties, which is less than one third of the lowest rates charged by stock companies, on such risks—the other two-thirds taken by stock companies being a profit accruing to stockholders, or consumed in expenses of the companies.

The guarantee fund of premium notes being now Three Millions of Dollars.

If an assessment had to be made of five per cent. only, twice within the ten years for which the policy is issued, it could yet be cheaper to the members than any other insurance offered. And that large amount of money is saved to the members and kept at home. No assessment having ever been made, being now more than thirty years, that saving would amount to more than

One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars

The Losses by Lightning.
Where the property is not set on fire, being less than one cent per year to each member, are paid without extra charge, and extended so as to cover all policies that are issued and outstanding.
