KENSINGTON V. M. C. A. vs. HAMMONTON.

It was a somewhat dry game and would have been drier had not some one passed around some lemonade. The visitors were mostly young fellows. In the first Hedricks knocked a two bagger and brought in Naylor. In the second, Geppert and Beverage made a double play on second and first. Beverage knocked a two bagger and bro't Dodd in, and soon after Hedricks knocked another and brought Beverage and Naylor in. In the third West sought to find a safe place between second and center, but Geppert found it after a little run. Watt and Dodd were put out on 1st and 3rd in a brilliant double. Essenwein sent a beauty to center in the 6th, but it was caught. The 7th was the most exciting of all, three two base hits being made in succession, by Gallue, Hedrick and Geppert. Hedrick sent the ball into W. H. Andrews' back yard where it struck something and bounded back over the fence. In the 8th, two runs were made by the Y. M. C. A., both on errors, as indeed most of their runs were made from the first one, which was made with none out. Below is the score:

At Hammonton es. Tuckerton's this afternoon.

Last June Dick Crawford brought his 12 months old child, suffering from infantile diarrhoea, to me. It had been weaned at four months old and had been sickly always. I gave it the usual treatment in such cases, but without benefit. The child kept growing thinner until it weighed but little more than when born, or perhaps ten pounds. I then started the father to giving Chamberlain's colic, cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Before one bottle of the 25 cent size had been used a marked improvement was seen, and its continued use cured the child. Its weakness and puny constitution disappeared, and its father and myself believe the child's life was saved by this remedy. J. T. MANLOW, M.D., Tamroa, Ill. For sale by druggists.

 STENCILS AND RUBBER STAMPS—Leave your orders for stencil cutting and rubber stamping, with A. L. PATTER, at Steel's jewelry store, Satisfaction given.
 We were disappointed in the meeting of the Board of Education, Tuesday evening. Some dozen or more citizens were present by invitation, and were informed by President Oogood that they might state their views in regard to the course of study but after that the "Board desired to have the room to themselves." Some of the Board desired to discuss the subject with the visitors, which would have brought out many points not mentioned; but this was not allowed. Clerk Jacobs had had printed the Town and County Courses, in parallel columns, which would have enabled those interested to compare them, had it been possible to furnish the printed matter a few days earlier.
 Messrs. Hoyt, Randall, Weston, Davis and M. Fresser, and Mrs. John Quinn addressed the Board, each earnestly advocating the adoption of an independent course of study. Then, no one appearing to speak for the County Course, the "guests" were invited to withdraw. County Superintendent Wilson and Principal-elect Krebs were present, but took no part in the meeting, up to this point. In response to a question, the President informed us that by resolution of the Board, all of its meetings were private; that none but members were allowed to be present, unless they had some complaint to make, when they were admitted long enough to state their grievance, then must retire.
 Their private meeting lasted two hours or more; the subject was thoroughly discussed, and a resolution adopted that "We go out of the County course." County Supt. Wilson and Principal-elect Krebs were authorized to prepare a Town course of study, and to report to the Board at its next meeting. We are well pleased with this outcome of the discussion. It is what we have been contending for,—that Hammonton may graduate her own pupils, from a course that will do credit to the facilities provided and corps of teachers employed.

 Hammonton, N. J., June 29th, 1895.

The Nation's birthday was sadly shorn of its glory by the rain which began falling before noon and continued all day.
 But one game of ball was played between the Hammonton and Elwood, Footlock & Co. teams, instead of two as advertised. Play started about an hour late with the visitors at the bat. It was a close and very interesting game from the start, heavy hitting being a feature. The enthusiasm was at its highest pitch in the eighth inning when with all bases full, Smith put up a fly that brought in four runs, thus tying the score. As he crossed the home plate he strained his ankle and Dodd ran for him afterward. The winning run was made in the tenth inning with one man out. Smith, the new pitcher, did good work until the seventh inning, when he was relieved by Hedrick, Cunningham, Geppert, Dodd and Miller were struck by pitched balls, the latter badly hurt. The attendance was very large, the grandstand being packed and the "bleachers" thickly populated. Below is the official score:

A worse day for bicycle riding could scarcely have been. A cold drizzling rain fell all the afternoon and occasionally it poured. The track, which as the visitors declared, was in beautiful condition in the morning, became so soft that the expected record-breaking was out of the question. After fourth event it was about decided to postpone the balance of the races, but the entire programme was finally carried out. Mr. Dampman said the track was 15 seconds slow to the mile. Considering this, the time made was very good, especially the five-mile. But few over 300 people were present,—about one-fourth of the number who would have attended had the day been fair. Consequently, the Association is considerably out of pocket. The visitors were pleased with their treatment, and will be glad to come again. Below are the records:

RAM'S HORN BLASTS.

Warning Note Calling the Wicked to Repentance.

DEATH IS GOD'S PAYMASTER. SHAME PLACES THE COST OF THE MOST. GOD NEVER TRIES ANY EXPERIMENTS.

LIFE WITHOUT LOVE IS LIVING DEATH. GOD IS IN THE HEART THAT BLEEDS WHEN OTHERS SUFFER.

LOVE FOR GOD IS THE ONLY TRUE AND LIGHT LOVE FOR SELF. COURAGE IS SOMETHING THAT A COVETOUS CAN ONLY IMITATE.

THE WICKED ARE IN THE MOST DANGER WHEN THEY FEEL THE SAFEST. WHEN WE ARE GOOD IN THE RIGHT WAY WE ARE GOOD FOR SOMETHING.

PRUDENCE AND INDUSTRY ARE THE BEST SAFEGUARDS AGAINST BAD LUCK. AS A MEANS OF GREAT PROSPERITY HAS NEVER BEEN MUCH OF A SUCCESS.

GOD'S PROMISES ARE STARS THAT ARE ALWAYS SHINING FOR THE EYE OF FAITH. GOD'S WORK CAN ONLY BE DONE BY THOSE WHO WEAR THE YOKE OF CHRIST.

HOW QUICK A PUBLIC PRAYER TURNS TO STONE WHEN THERE IS NO LOVE IN IT. THIS BEST CROSS FOR US IS THE ONE THAT WILL SUGGEST OUR SELFISHNESS.

IT IS SELDOM THAT A BETTER APPOINTMENT MAKES A PREACHER MORE PIOUS. TO BE TRULY CONSECRATED IS TO BE WILLING FOR GOD TO CHOOSE YOUR CROSS.

THE MAN WHO GOES TO THE WORLD TO MAKE A DISCONTENTED MAN. THE GOLDEN RULE IS JUST ONE INCH LONGER THAN A THIRTY-FIVE INCH YARD-STICK.

WITHOUT MIDDAY PRAYER THE PREACHER BURNS MIDNIGHT OIL TO LITTLE PURPOSE. THE MAN WHO WORRIES IS NOT A BIT WISER THAN THE ONE WHO BURNS DOWN HIS HOUSE.

IF GOD HAS HELPED US TO-DAY IT IS A PROPHETCY THAT HE WILL HELP US TO-MORROW. WHEN THE DEVIL'S FACE IS SEEN WITHIN A MASK IT GENERALLY TURNS SOME SOUL TO CHRIST.

THE MAN WHO FINDS IT HARD TO SERVE GOD HAS NOT YET LEARNED TO WORK HIM IN HIS OWN INTEREST.

OBEDIENCE TO THE KNOWN WILL OF GOD IS THE HIGHEST EVIDENCE OF SINCERITY AND BELIEF. HOW SOON TALENT IS LOST FOR THE BREAD OF LIFE WHEN THE DEVIL'S FINGER TOUCHES THE MENUS OF INDEPENDENCY.

DON'T FIND ANY FAULT WITH A NEIGHBOR THAT YOU WOULD NOT WANT TO SAY BEFORE GOD IN PRAYER. WHEN SOME PEOPLE SAY, "GET THEM BEHIND ME, SATAN," THEY DO NOT WANT HIM TO GET OUT OF REACH.

NO ONE WILL CARRY MUCH INTO THE NEXT WORLD WHO HAS NOT CARRIED SOMEBODY ELSE'S BURDEN IN THIS. THE DEVIL PROUDLY FEELS THAT HE IS NOT A BAD SORT OF FELLOW WHEN HE BEARS SOME PREACHERS' PREACH.

SOME VERY RELIGIOUS PEOPLE HAVE A DIFFERENT RELIGION ON SUNDAY FROM THAT THEY HAVE THE REST OF THE WEEK. THE KIND OF GIVING UPON WHICH GOD PROMISES A BLESSING IS THE GIVING THAT IS WILLING TO GIVE SOME OF ITS OWN BLOOD.

WHEN A MAN MAKES VOWS TO GOD THAT HE INTENDS TO KEEP, IT IS PRETTY GOOD EVIDENCE THAT HE HAS BEEN GETTING RELIGIOUS RIGHT. THE CHRISTIAN IS WALKING ON DANGEROUS GROUND WHO IS NOT PRAYING EVERY DAY OF HIS LIFE THAT HE MAY BE MORE LIKE CHRIST.

NO PREACHER CAN ESCAPE THE EFFECT OF HIS MINISTRY UPON HIMSELF. IF HIS PREACHING DOES NOT SAVE HIMSELF HE WILL NOT SAVE ANYONE ELSE.

BEFORE YOU SEE THE WORK OF MOH AND RUST, REMEMBER THAT THE TREASURES OF THIS WORLD CANNOT BE TAKEN INTO THE NEXT.

FOR A PARENT TO PUNISH A CHILD IN ANY OTHER SPIRIT THAN THAT OF COMPASSION FOR THE OFFENDER, IS TO KILL SOMETHING GOOD IN BOTH HEARTS.

LAFAYETTE'S BLUNDER.

Amusing Mistake Caused by His Lack of Acquaintance with English.

When Lafayette, in 1824, made his memorable tour through the United States, many amusing incidents occurred. Lafayette spoke but little English, and understood less. He had retained a few phrases, such as "thanks," "my dear friend," "great country," "happy man," "Ah, I remember!" And though he usually uttered these in an effective manner, they were sometimes humorously misapplied. At Halifax, he was met by General Daniel, who had stationed a company of soldiers by the roadside, flanked by the ladies who had assembled to do honor to the guest of the State. It had been arranged that the ladies should wear their hankerschiefs as soon as Lafayette came in sight, and when Daniel exclaimed, "Welcome, Lafayette!" the whole company was to repeat the words after him. Unluckily, the ladies misunderstood the programme and waited too long, only to be reminded of their duty by a stern command of "Firt, ladies, firt, I say!" from the general, as he walked down the line to meet the marquis. Equally misunderstanding their part, the soldiers, instead of shouting "Welcome Lafayette!" in unison at the close of the general's speech, repeated the sentence one by one in varying tones down the line. General Daniel, frantic at the burlesque of the scene, vainly attempted to correct it, but as he was unfortunately stammered when he was excited, his "Firt-firt-firt-firt-firt" could not be understood. "Welcome, Lafayette!" the whole company continued along the line. "Great country! great country!" replied Lafayette, turning to General Polk, who was vainly trying to get the ladies to repeat the words. "Welcome, Lafayette!" greeted him with great effusion. "Ah, my dear friend, so glad to see you once more! Hope you have prospered and had good fortune these years!" "Yes, General, yes; but I have had the great misfortune to lose my wife since I saw you." Catching the word "wife," Lafayette guessed at the idea of a recent marriage, and, turning to his old friend affectionately on the shoulder, he exclaimed: "Happy man! happy man!"

Blood as a Medicine. "Let me have three ounces of that bottled blood quick," bids fair yet to become an uncommon order in the drug stores. According to a well-known Philadelphia physician, startling progress has been made in blood healing or hematology. "Blood is not only life," he declares, "it is the very essence of life. It is a highly organized living tissue supply to the transition state. It can be made to live apart from the body indefinitely in perfect condition and address were given. To his surprise, he found he was described as 'madame' and a widow. Without losing any time he rushed around the place where the Directory is printed to give instructions for an alteration to be made in the new edition, but, arriving here, he was told he had come too late, as the work had gone to press. Returning home, he looked himself in his bedroom and drew his brains out with a revolver. It appears that he had been suffering from the hallucination that he was being persecuted by everybody."—London Daily News.

A Uniform for Waiters. In Germany a change has been made in the dress of hotel waiters, and the example is to be followed in Switzerland, where a recent meeting of the Union of Hotel Keepers has approved a uniform much like that of the stewards aboard ship. The tailless jacket of dark blue cloth bears on the collar the grade of the waiter, the head waiter showing three stars and his subordinate two to one, according to degrees of proficiency in their profession.—New York Dispatch.

A Growl from Poterfamilias. "For my part, I don't see what more rights I can want! My wife bullies me, our daughters bully me both, and the cook bullies the whole family. Isn't that about enough of woman's rights?"—Flegende Blätter.

WANDAROO MONKEYS.

They Were on the Watch and Discovered a Hungry Leopard.

"A band of Wandaroo monkey watching is proverbial, and as these watchfulness is proverbial, we knew that there was no leopard in the bush," says a writer in Outlook. "They came nearer and nearer, and in time appeared above the cliff. One seldom has the chance of seeing these animals in their native state, but we lay entirely concealed they were ignorant of our presence. It was evidently feeding time, though some seemed to prefer banking on the heated rocks to scrambling after titbits and berries. The old men with huge white whiskers kept a sharp watch from the topmost branch of a couple of trees. The mothers with their babies, pretty little things covered with white hair, were feeding in complete security, while the unnumbered members of the troop looked everywhere. We felt sure that sooner or later our hiding-place would be discovered, and that all our precautions were in vain, for the cry of alarm of one animal is soon repeated by another of a different species. When any monkey seemed inclined to wander the sentinels uttered a deep 'Hoo-hoo-hoo!' which gathered the band closely. All at once the sentinels gave a peculiar cry, which had the effect of bringing the entire band around them. Then they listened in silence. The cry was repeated, and all bent into the branches of the biggest tree near by. We thought we had been discovered, but when half a dozen of the patriars suddenly rushed down and looked over the edge of the rock, glancing and barking at something below, we knew that our patience was to be rewarded. 'Creeping forward inch by inch, I got to the extreme edge and peeped over and did so the several heights of the precipice nearly caused me to utter a cry of terror. To my left was a crevice, where rocks and other debris formed a rough means of ascent. Here, perched on every thing, great crows hung in clusters from the ceiling, and there was a dampness and a clearness within which was depressing. As the house rapidly going to ruin it became a question of allowing some one to live in it or else having it become a nuisance to the surrounding houses. Fifteen months ago Edward was commissioned to see to the place and take care of it. He and his wife occupy the basement and the first floor of the house at present, but they have no rent to pay. Since the house was closed, eight years ago, the front door has never been opened.

His Use of Words. The old man adjusted his glasses and looked at the pale-faced clerk. "Absent yesterday, is that right?" "Yes, sir," replied the clerk. "Absent from sickness?" "No, sir." "Oh! you're honest, anyway. Most men would say they were in bed when they had been absent from sickness for nearly a year." "You haven't?" "No, sir. It has been right with me all the time." "What has?" "Sickness of some sort." "But you said that yesterday." "Yesterday I was absent on account of sickness, and now I am here because I have recovered."

Mr. Abner Jennings was never known to say a thing or do anything without a flourish. His form of speech was invariably mild, and exaggerated statements were viewed by him as almost as reprehensible as lies. Once, in the spring of the year, when the Blueville roads were in a fearful condition of mud and mire, the team of a "traveling merchant" was stalled a short distance from Mr. Jennings' house. The old man at once brought out his oxen and went to the peddler's assistance.

The team could not be instantly released even with the aid of the yoke of oxen, and the peddler, who was a man of high temper and little self-control, proceeded to vent his rage in language which first amazed and then disgusted the equable Mr. Jennings. He bore it as long as he thought was necessary and proper, and then unwhipped his oxen and went calmly home.

"I want to try and help him," he explained to his wife as he walked into the kitchen on his return, "but he talked so poorly that I came off and left him."

One day he caught some boys robbing the black cherry-tree, and surveyed them for some moments in speechless disapprobation. "Boys," he said at last, giving the culprits the sternest glance of which he was capable, "boys, I think you've been doin' very poorly."

After admiring that stinging rebuke, he turned to his heels and walked slowly away to the barn, and never referred to the matter again.

QUEER EFFECT OF A WILL.

A Provision Which Was Kept in Broccoli House for Eighteen Years.

The house at 255 Court Street has a strange history—strange account of the eccentricity of its former and original owner. The house is opposite Harrison Street and is not quite half a dozen other houses on the same block; but the feature which distinguishes this particular house from others is the fact that all the outer blinds are tightly closed, and even the front door is double barred with a great green shutter. Some eighteen years ago, says the Eagle, a woman had an odd sort of activity about it; its doors and its windows were not closed. John Sutzpanner, a plumber, lived in it, with his only daughter. He had built the house and had lived in the neighborhood for a number of years. He was regarded by his neighbors as somewhat peculiar in manner, but no one in the neighborhood was more generally liked, in spite of his eccentricity. But his daughter had tired of the neighborhood. Her companions and friends lived in more stylish localities and she longed for a more refined society. She would rent the house on Court Street and locate in a more fashionable neighborhood. Yet her father would never listen to her. Sutzpanner died and left a will dividing his property, both personal and real, to his beloved daughter Katherine. With the stipulation that the house, 255 Court Street, must not be sold or rented by her or her heirs, but she was to enjoy the house or else let it remain idle. When Miss Sutzpanner heard the will she said nothing, but her face wore a determined look. She soon as she could collected her personal effects she left the house and went to Morristown, N. J., where she has resided ever since. For a period of six years she was in possession of the house, but she could not get it into a tenable condition without an occupant. All the elegant furniture, which was never removed, first became dust laden and then gradually went to decay. Rats feasted about and ran over everything, great crows hung in clusters from the ceiling, and there was a dampness and a clearness within which was depressing. As the house rapidly going to ruin it became a question of allowing some one to live in it or else having it become a nuisance to the surrounding houses. Fifteen months ago Edward was commissioned to see to the place and take care of it. He and his wife occupy the basement and the first floor of the house at present, but they have no rent to pay. TO KEEP ICE IN A SICK-ROOM. Here is a Very Simple but Little Known Method.

A very simple but little known method of keeping ice, says the Youth's Companion, is to draw a piece of the fabric, which is made of some deep vessel, like a bowl, for instance, and fasten it there. The ice is placed on top of this drumhead and covered loosely by another piece of flannel. In this condition the ice keeps cold and even freezes to the flannel. Thus a small piece of ice can be kept near the patient, all day long, and the patient can be carried up and down stairs to the refrigerator. To break the ice a sharp needle or hat pin is the best thing. Force it in and you will be astonished how easily it will divide the ice.

THE HEADSMAN'S AX.

STORY OF THE SWIFT AND BENEVOLENT GUILLOTINE.

Notoriety Won by a Chance Remark—The Idea Not Exclusively French—Scene at a Paris Morning Execution.

The story of the guillotine forms one of the saddest, not to say the most revolting pages of history, so distasteful even to the writers of French annals that its origin was not definitely known till some forty or fifty years after its invention. Regular legend attributes it to one Dr. Guillotin, a member of the convention in 1790, who two years before the machine executed its deadly work had with humane intention suggested in that body that criminals who had to suffer the death penalty should be beheaded by some mechanical means, the mode of which he did not specify and of which he had him all no definite idea.

It has often been asserted, and it is still repeated, that Dr. Guillotin was the first person who died by the guillotine. This is not a fact. He was executed on the guillotine, but he was not the first person to die by the guillotine. He was executed on the guillotine, but he was not the first person to die by the guillotine. He was executed on the guillotine, but he was not the first person to die by the guillotine.

A Deadly Plant. There has recently appeared in the vicinity of Carthage, Mo., a most poisonous growth known as the "death weed." It is a triangular blade solidly fastened by bolts to a piece of wood fourteen inches broad. The ax itself is a foot in width. A little more than three feet from the ground, and in a triangular blade solidly fastened by bolts to a piece of wood fourteen inches broad. The ax itself is a foot in width. LET US ALL LAUGH.

WICKES FROM THE PENS OF VARIOUS HUMORISTS.

Pleasant Incidents Occurring the World Over—Sayings that Are Cheerful to the Old or Young—Many of Them That Everybody Will Enjoy Reading.

A Schenker. Laura—"What a clever girl Jennie is! She had sixty-seven offers of marriage within a week after she left college." Clara—"Indeed! And she is not very good-looking?" Laura—"No, but the subject of the essay that she read at her graduation was 'How to Keep House in $12 a Week.'"—Munsey's Weekly.

A Strong Defense. Wool—"What are you going to bring in as a defense to Miss Sears' breach of promise suit?" Van Pelt—"They will have a hard time to convince the jury that I was sane when I proposed."—Town Topics.

Interesting. "Then, as I have said, they must be ticked." "You can't do it, sir," expostulated the chairman of the board. "When you will have to assist me in controlling them." "That's what you are employed for, sir."

"Then, as I have said, they must be ticked." "You can't do it, sir," expostulated the chairman of the board. "When you will have to assist me in controlling them." "That's what you are employed for, sir."

Never Had a Pair. Among many interesting incidents connected with the closing of the saloons in Kittanning, Pa., a leading merchant tells the following: "A woman came into his store very late one evening, evidently unaccompanied, and inquired: 'What can I do for you?' 'I want a pair of shoes for a little girl.' 'What number?' 'She is 12 years old.' 'But what number does she wear?' 'I do not know.' 'But what number did you buy when you bought the last pair for her? You see, sir, her father used to drink when we had saloons; but now they are closed he doesn't drink any more, and this morning he said to me, 'Mother, I want you to go and buy a pair of shoes for my little girl. She never had a pair in her life.' I thought, sir, if I told you how old she was, you would know just what size to give me."

A Patent Lawyer. A lawyer who makes a specialty of patent business, no matter just where his office is located, was called to the city and met in a case involving a mortgage on a farm. The preliminary hearing was before an old-fashioned justice of the peace, who had no high regard for the ways of men from the city. He was in the case, the magistrate put in a few remarks and the visiting lawyer collided with him. The discussion grew warm and at last the magistrate, forgetting his dignity and his position, became somewhat abusive. "Who are you, anyway?" he blurted out. "Well," replied the lawyer, "I'm an attorney."

"Fraps you are, but I never heard one talk like you do. What kind of an attorney are you?" "I'm a patent attorney." The magistrate rubbed his chin thoughtfully. "Well, all I've got to say is," he said, "that when you get the patent issued, I don't believe you can ever get it renewed again."

A Spider with New Tricks. The discovery of the snare of a spider, the Uloborus quadratuberculatus, has given rise to a curious problem. This web is always spun on the pine-apple and is of a peculiar basket shape, the peculiarity consisting in the remarkable adjustment that is exhibited between the structure of the web and that of the plant.

But the pineapple is a native of South America, and has only of late years been introduced into Singapore, so that if the spider is truly a native of the latter place, it has evidently rapidly modified its spinning instincts in response to the slight change in its surroundings brought about by the introduction of the pineapple. Before such a conclusion, however, can be looked upon as an established fact, evidence must be produced that the spider and the plant were not continuously brought from the Neotropics to the Oriental region.

A Future State. Dr. Fourthly—"You believe there can be more than one future state, do you not?" Westenberg—"Oh, yes; there are Arizona and New Mexico, but I have my doubts about Utah."—Kate Field's Washington.

WHAT THE DOCTOR SAYS.

Soak warts with acetic acid and apply lymph caustic. Try lemon juice for freckles. Apply a sterilized milk is perfectly wholesome as an article of diet.

For muscular rheumatism take ten grains of salol three times a day. Try tincture of aloes for children who bite their nails. Paint the nails with several times a day.

If the hands perspire very much try infusion of white oak bark. Bathe the hands in the hot infusion several times a day.

Sometimes it is usually beneficial to scald the face, caused by a cold. Take from five to ten grains every three hours.

In case of pneumonia in a child a doctor should be sent for at once. Delay is dangerous, and self-treatment is not advisable.

The fluid extract of cascara sagrada is a good laxative. The dose is from one-half to one teaspoonful taken morning and evening.

For eyes that become easily inflamed from exposure to wind bathe them several times a day with a saturated solution of borie acid in rose water.

A good wash for canker sores is made by dissolving one dram of chlorate of potash in six ounces of warm water; use the wash several times a day.

For coated tongue take a five-grain pill or two of gray powder morning, bedtime, and a good dose of Villacabras water before breakfast the next morning.

To keep the head free from dandruff shampoo the scalp once or twice a week with a solution composed of one ounce of glycerine and two ounces of cologne water.

NEAT BIKING DEVICES.

Preserves Coats in Trainers and Skirt Down. There are a good many men who ride bicycles who do not care to wear knee breeches, or to twist the bottoms of their pantaloons in a lap, like ankle tights, by the steel spring device for the purpose. They will be interested in the device shown in our illustration. It not only keeps the pantaloons from being in the way, but preserves the coats as well.

Ladies who "blike" will also be glad to learn that there is a device for keeping the skirts from flying up while they are riding their steel steeds. It is very simple, efficacious and cheap, and has the additional merit of not interfering with their walking normally when not riding.

A simple rule of determining the number of tons of rails required to lay a mile track is as follows: Multiply the weight per yard by 1, and divide the product by 7. For example: Take a 70-pound rail; 70 multiplied by 11 equals 770 which divided by 7 gives 110—the number of tons required.

Male Savages Most Decorated. Among the Indians, as among most savage and barbarous people, all the ornament is monopolized by men.

Be good to a man long enough, and he will finally confess his crime.

THE DOGS OF PARIS.

Late returns show that Paris has 80,000 registered dogs, or one to every thirty inhabitants.

It costs $2,000,000 annually to feed them, but the dogs in turn afford occupation to twenty-five manufacturers of collars and muzzles, four bakers of bread, five factories where dog biscuits are made, and a host of other trades.

One half the world don't know the number of patches the other half wears under its cow tails.

Emir is not properly a title, but a descriptive word. Correctly used, it is applied to descendants of the prophet, all of whom are styled Emir, just as the title honorable is applied to the people of a certain rank by birth in England. Emirs are now to be seen among the Arab people of every rank and class in life. Every one who can prove his descent from the prophet is entitled to wear green as a portion of his costume, and he is called a "green" for this reason. The claim to the title is considered far more satisfactory where traced back through the female line.

When all is ready the director of the prison, the priest, two or three officers and usually a few reporters, proceed to the cell of the prisoner, whom they lead sleeping quietly, and are all unconscious that death is so near. The director awakes him and in a formula, whose words are almost always the same, says, "Your appeal has been rejected. The President refuses to pardon you. Have courage!" "I will have courage," says the condemned man, and some of them have courage of having testified falsely against him. He rises, dresses, and is taken into another room where he has his clothing out to allow the ax to operate freely. The executioner appears and takes possession of him. The cottage is framed to cross which the condemned rarely raises his eyes to look upon. The executioner or his aid support him if he falters. He arrives at the guillotine feeling the basest of men.

The priest dismisses him with his eyes closed. The executioner then takes the neck falls in the lower half of the lunette, the upper half falls clapping the neck and the falls instantly. The work is finished in a few seconds. The head is rolled into the basket, and the body is tumbled after it. Then the basket is put into a wagon, which gallops away to the place where the instrument to be used for the purpose is stored. The squad of the Republican Guard that guarded the place with their rifles and bayonets disappears from the few windows that command the guillotine's foot, and the guillotine is carefully removed the instrument disappeared. An hour after the sight of the tragedy remains no trace of the occurrence.

For muscular rheumatism take ten grains of salol three times a day. Try tincture of aloes for children who bite their nails. Paint the nails with several times a day.

If the hands perspire very much try infusion of white oak bark. Bathe the hands in the hot infusion several times a day.

Sometimes it is usually beneficial to scald the face, caused by a cold. Take from five to ten grains every three hours.

In case of pneumonia in a child a doctor should be sent for at once. Delay is dangerous, and self-treatment is not advisable.

The fluid extract of cascara sagrada is a good laxative. The dose is from one-half to one teaspoonful taken morning and evening.

For eyes that become easily inflamed from exposure to wind bathe them several times a day with a saturated solution of borie acid in rose water.

A good wash for canker sores is made by dissolving one dram of chlorate of potash in six ounces of warm water; use the wash several times a day.

For coated tongue take a five-grain pill or two of gray powder morning, bedtime, and a good dose of Villacabras water before breakfast the next morning.

To keep the head free from dandruff shampoo the scalp once or twice a week with a solution composed of one ounce of glycerine and two ounces of cologne water.

Preserves Coats in Trainers and Skirt Down. There are a good many men who ride bicycles who do not care to wear knee breeches, or to twist the bottoms of their pantaloons in a lap, like ankle tights, by the steel spring device for the purpose. They will be interested in the device shown in our illustration. It not only keeps the pantaloons from being in the way, but preserves the coats as well.

Ladies who "blike" will also be glad to learn that there is a device for keeping the skirts from flying up while they are riding their steel steeds. It is very simple, efficacious and cheap, and has the additional merit of not interfering with their walking normally when not riding.

A simple rule of determining the number of tons of rails required to lay a mile track is as follows: Multiply the weight per yard by 1, and divide the product by 7. For example: Take a 70-pound rail; 70 multiplied by 11 equals 770 which divided by 7 gives 110—the number of tons required.

Male Savages Most Decorated. Among the Indians, as among most savage and barbarous people, all the ornament is monopolized by men.

Be good to a man long enough, and he will finally confess his crime.

A very pretty church wedding took place in Bethany Baptist Church, North Cramer Hill, on Tuesday, June 25th, when J. C. E. Trachsel was united in marriage to Miss Ella May Draper, daughter of Samuel Draper. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, palm, and fountain. At 8:30 the couple were ushered to the altar, where they were married by Rev. A. J. Hay, Pastor, in the presence of about three hundred people. The bride was very tastefully arrayed in white China silk, trimmed with lace and ribbon, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The groomsmen were John W. Williams and Frederick H. Trachsel; the bridesmaids were Miss Clara Draper, sister of the bride, and Miss Annie Lysenger, who were attired in light blue China silk, trimmed with vandyk points and ribbon, and carried tea roses. The ushers were Belden Reed, Elwood Jones, of Ham-monoton, Jesse Jones, and Geo. Williams.
A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, where the happy couple were warmly congratulated by about seventy-five relatives and friends. They were the recipients of many useful and beautiful presents. They will reside at their newly furnished home on Westfield Avenue.

A horse kicked H. S. Shafer, of the Freemier house, Middleburg, N. Y., on knee, which laid him up in bed and caused the knee joint to become stiff. A friend recommended him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which he did, and in two days was able to be around. Mr.
Shafer has recommended it to many others, and says it is excellent for any kind of a bruise or sprain. This same remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. Sold by druggists.
