The Song of the Cricket.

Yes, the world is big; but I'll do my best,
Since I happen to find myself in it;
And I'll sing my loudest out with the rest,
Though I'm neither a lark nor a linnet.
And strive toward the goal with as lively a zest,
Though I know I may never win it.
For shall no bird sing but the nightingale?
No flower bloom but the rose?
Shall little stars quench their torches pale?
When Mars through the midnight glows?
Shall only the highest and greatest prevail?
May nothing seem white but the snows?
Nay, the world is so big that it needs us all
To make audible music in it.
God fits a melody even to the small;
We have nothing to do but begin it.
So I'll chirp my merriest out with them all,
Though I'm neither a lark nor a linnet!

Irrigation Again.

MR. EDITOR:—I had supposed that your paper did not travel outside of our own Hammonton. Imagine then my surprise when I received a response from the "Home on the Hillside," Wellsville, New York, from the Hon.
A. N. Cole in answer or rather in recognition of the article on irrigation that appeared in your issue of two weeks ago. I see that Mr. Cole has a new system which he calls "Subterranean Irrigation," and without going into any details about it, at present, I will mention what he says it has done. It has,
on one-twentieth of an acre, in one season, grown $145.60 worth of strawberries; overgreen corn 16 feet in length; McLean's Advance Pea with pods 7
inches long and peas as large as frost grapes; $10 worth of quinces from one bush five years old, and fruit as large as a pint bowl. Three cuttings of timothy in one season; currants double the size of former yield, and producing lawns of the most beautiful pattern, etc., etc.

Now sir, don't you think that our minds, as well as our soil, want to be irrigated, too? If we can by any means get hold of this key to unlock what is now hidden in our soil, let us, in the name of common sense, begin to look around for some such information as Mr. Cole claims to possess; something that will change our grave looks about cropping time to those of rejoicing. Don't say it cannot be done, until we have tried.

But the doubting may say, "you will surely fail!" Take the matter in its worst light and say, what then, is not success very often built upon failures that have gone before? Mer-do not give up because some have come short in their calculations. The grand work of improvement must go right along.

Did Fulton fail when his little craft in the North River stopped because a bolt or pin or some trifle got out of place? Not he; but like a man with a purpose, he put the machine right and went along with his (then) little craft!
How big it has become, we all know.

I presume, sir, that the same crowd
are still represented by many of today,
who doubt and shout, "I knew he could not do it." Let us make some proper effort before we raise the shout, "It can't be done!" DAVID FIELDS.

CASTOR OIL.—One of the chief uses to which castor oil is now put is that of dressing and softening leather for boots.
It was formerly used for children with disordered stomachs. And an awful dose it was. Now we give suffering children Brown's Iron Bitters, which tones the stomach, regulates digestion,
and imparts strength to the whole body.
Brown's Iron Bitters is incomparably better than castor oil, and more pleasant to take.

Two or three years ago Dr. Swift, a well-known physician of Northville, Mich, was a passenger in the same car with Gen. Hancock and the mayor of Atlanta, on one of the southern railroads. Gen. Hancock and the mayor, who was a German, were sitting together, and, in a conversation relating to public men, the latter remarked:

"Gen. Hancock, isn't it strange that the great republican party should make a president of such a man as Grant?"
Hancock waited a moment and then
deliberately answered:

"Gen. Grant was a very superior officer. He won his position by merit and hard and successful fighting and was worthy of it. If you think strange of the Republicans for making a president of him, what do you think of the democrats who nominated me?"

Several weeks later the doctor was in South Carolina, and had occasion to relate the foregoing incident to a prominent state official who was a member of General Lee's staff. The official responded:

"Doctor, that reminds me of Gen.
Lee's opinion of your great Union general, uttered in my presence in reply to a disparaging remark on the part of a person who referred to Grant as a 'military accident, who had no distinguishing merit, but had achieved success through a combination of fortunate circumstances.' General Lee looked into the critic's eye steadily and said: 'Sir, your opinion is a very poor compliment to me.
We all thought Richmond, protected as it was by our splendid fortifications and defended by our army of veterans, could not be taken. Yet Grant turned his face toward our capital and never turned it away until we had surrendered. Now, I have carefully searched the military records of both ancient and modern history, and never found Grant's superior as a general. I doubt if his superior can be found in all history.'"

Armed detectives and military are on duty at East Saginaw, Bay City and other points in Michigan where there are labor troubles.

Charles Kendall Adams was elected president of Cornell University.

General Lord Wolsey arrived in London from Egypt and was enthusiastically welcomed at the railway station.

A government report by the British Consul-General in Germany, points out several serious facts. The adult German drinks annually on the average about seventeen gallons of spirituous liquors. In the Kingdom of Prussia, the whole expenditure in 1882 on wine, beer and spirits, amounted to nearly $227,000,000.

In Sweden and Norway the consumption of spirits has been declining for some years past; but in Denmark the evil of spirit-drinking has reached a terrible pitch. In Holland, in 1878, there was a drinkshop for every nine inhabitants, including women and children; but a restrictive law, passed in 1881, has reduced the number about a quarter. The worst statistics in regard to the consumption of alcoholic liquors are those of Belgium where, in less than half a century, the drinking of such liquors has far more than doubled for each person. In 1881 there was a public house for every dozen adult males. In France the amount of drunkenness has been reduced by the passing of a salutary law. In Switzerland, between 1870 and 1880, while the increase of population was but 6.5 per cent. In Austria the condition of affairs is similar. And all this drinking has its effect. There is a horrible array of figures giving the statistics of delirium tremens, suicides, insanity and accidental deaths as the result of drink.

In Denmark 74 per cent. of the arrests were made for drunkenness or for crimes committed under the influence of drink. The inspector-general of Belgian prisons reports that four-fifths of the crime and social misery is attributed to intemperance. In Austria the hospitals, lunatic asylums and prisons all testify to the advance of drinking habits. And Continental workmen generally—even those who do not become absolute drunkards—spend a large share of their earnings in drink. The foregoing statements, best observed, are not the froth of a temperance harangue, but the cool statistics of a government report. They show that earthquakes and cholera are not the most terrible of evils of Europe. They should be studied by those who suggest that spirituous drinking can be extirpated by introducing the free use of beer and light wines. In the very countries where the milder drinks are used, the consumption of ardent spirits is increasing at a terrible rate. The temperance question is a growing question, and it demands attention here as in other lands.

NOTHING EARLIER
It appears, on further trial, that the OREGON is without any doubt the earliest strawberry grown. In 1884 it picked and shipped on the 25th of May. This season it picked ripe berries on the 28th of May, and shipped June 2nd.

The plants of this early variety will be for sale after picking, probably during July and August, by DAVID FIELDS, Oak Road, Hammoncton, N. J.

Post meeting this evening, first for four weeks. Important.

Edw. Simpson started, on Thursday, for Burlington, Kansas.

We are indebted to Mrs. Cogley for our first basket of blackberries.

Born Saturday, July 11th, to Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Miller, a son, We tender congratulations.

More new goods this week, at Stockwell's—summer dress goods seem to be a specialty.

On account of continued illness in Mrs. Altendor's family, the Kindergarten will be indefinitely postponed.

The rain, on Monday night and Tuesday, was a genuine comfort to all who are interested in growing crops.

James R. Hayes, of Wisconsin, a nephew of our townman, James I. Hurton, has been appointed Chief Justice of the Territory of Idaho.

The crop of blackberries is simply immense, their quality good, and prices (according to Thursday's Bulletin) very low. They may improve, however.

Mr. D. Colwell handed us a basket of the grandest cherries we ever saw in Jersey. One of this variety (we don't know the name) is said to have measured three inches in circumference.

The up-express on the Camden & Atlantic stops at Hammoncton 7:41 A. M., reaching Philadelphia at 8:35. Down express, leaving Market Street 2:50 P. M., stops here at 3:50. We haven't received a time-card from headquarters yet.

Rev. J. E. Wilson, of Woodstown, N. J., was expected to preach in the Baptist Church to-morrow, but an accident has so disabled him that he will not be here. Dr. J. M. Poelies has kindly consented to occupy the pulpit to-morrow morning.

A pleasant company of young people gathered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. L. Hoyt, on Monday evening, to pay their respects to their son Edward V., who was home for a short visit from Worcester, Mass. Music and good fellowship were the order of the evening. "Eddie" received the congratulations and good wishes of his friends with very good grace. The old folks also enjoyed the occasion much.

The Acoo Dramatic Association gave their first entertainment on Thursday and Friday evenings of last week. We had the pleasure of being present on the latter evening. Union Hall was well filled. "To Oblige Deacon," a rich farce, was first presented, with the following cast:

Trotter Southdown..... Dr. J. A. Waas
Mr. Benson..... Chas. S. King
Mr. Merrill..... Wm. H. Oliver
Mrs. Southdown..... Mrs. W. DePuy
Mr. Benson..... Miss Josie Fish

Dr. Waas took the leading part, and pictured the contending and afterward friendly jealous husband in a manner that pleased the audience greatly—a little extravagant, perhaps, but displaying decided dramatic ability. We like to see an actor lose his own identity and become for the time the character he is representing. The others in the cast are well known, and we need only say that all did exceedingly well.

Next was a four-act comedy from J. T. Trowbridge's story, "Compan Bonds," the great anxiety and trouble their possession caused in a quiet farm-house, their loss, recovery, and the happiness they brought to a crippled soldier and his family. It is an entertaining story, is well dramatized, and was delightfully portrayed. Here is the cast:

Fa Isacker, a well-to-do farmer..... A. H. Wiltmore.
Reuben, his adopted son, a returned soldier..... A. Chevalier.
Tully, another adopted son, boy of 12 or 13..... Eugene Hooper.
Ferring and Topsy, their mother and daughter..... Jean Pracey and G. S. King.
Parker Grautley, an old minister..... G. W. Pracey.
Dick, friend of Tully, a boy of 12..... Samuel Clark.
Miss Duckton, the farmer's wife..... Miss Emma Pracey.
Miss Bowick, elderly maiden lady..... Miss Anna Pracey.
Sophronia, Reuben's wife..... Miss Anna Hooper.

We have rarely seen an audience so universally pleased with an entertainment. The orchestra furnished excellent music.

Mr. J. L. Kelley, wife and daughter, have gone to Central Pennsylvania, for a few weeks.

Rev. F. R. Drace, and daughter, Miss Ada, are among the White Mountains, for a three weeks' vacation.

On Saturday next, in some public place in Hammoncton, there will be a trial of the Crescent and Monitor fire extinguishers. We have absolutely no objection, and the occasional signs of interest in the subject soon die out. We hope that every property owner will witness this trial. Particulars next week.

D. C. Herbert returned, Wednesday, from a thirty days' trip with Capt. Carlaw, who brought a cargo of ice from Richmond, Maine, to Atlantic City. Mr. Herbert is in much improved health, and is ready to make and repair your boots and shoes as good and as cheap as you can get them anywhere.

George Tudor was brought before Justice Atkinson on Thursday, charged by John E. Wood with disorderly conduct and abusive and threatening language, and by James Watson with assault and battery. After hearing the evidence, the Justice held the accused in $200 bonds (his own recognizance) to keep the peace, and in $500 for trial at the next term of Court.

F. G. Ford, of Roxborough, Philadelphia, is patentee of a hook and socket which can be applied to a multitude of uses. Its primary design is, to support ordinary bed-slats, but it will serve well to attach a shelf to the wall or window-casing, or a wagon-seat—preventing the sides from spreading—and a host of other useful purposes. George Elvins is agent for Hammoncton.

Mr. D. Colwell showed us, yesterday, samples of his new apple, "Colwell's Seedling," the third year's bearing. It is very light color, with handsome pink cheek, ripens in July. It promises to be a valuable addition to our list of early fruit. With these came a couple of well-preserved apples (Baldwins, we think) of last year's crop, which laid on the sandy cellar bottom since picking.

Owing either to the great value and interest of the book itself, or the manner in which the publishers deal with their article, the new book "World's Wonders," published by the Historical Publishing Co., of Philadelphia, Pa., is meeting with extraordinary favor from the public. This work was issued in January last, and the publishers now announce the 15th large edition, which is certainly a most surprising result in the sale of a book. A full description of the book, and the publishers' special manner of dealing with agents and persons desiring employment, will be found in our advertising columns.

From Our County Papers.
