AND Demorest's Monthly Magazine.

A WONDERFUL PUBLICATION.

Many suppose DEMOREST'S MONTHLY to be a fashion magazine. This is a great mistake. It contains the finest fiction, the purest poetry, and the most interesting and instructive material for the whole family. It contains the latest news, the most interesting and instructive material for the whole family. It contains the latest news, the most interesting and instructive material for the whole family.

the holder to the selection of ANY PATTERNS illustrated in any number of the Magazine, and IN ANY OF THE EIGHTS manufactured, each valued at from 20 cents to 50 cents, or over $5.00 worth of patterns.

Published by W. JENNINGS-DEMOREST, NEW YORK.

The above combination is a splendid chance to get our paper and DEMOREST'S MONTHLY at a special price. Send your subscriptions to this office.

A Barrel of Whiskey.

A barrel of headaches, of heartaches, of woes;
A barrel of curses, a barrel of blows;
A barrel of tears from a world-weary wife;
A barrel of sorrow, a barrel of strife.
A barrel of all-unavailing regret;
A barrel of cares, and a barrel of debt;
A barrel of crime, and a barrel of pain;
A barrel of hopes ever blasted and vain.
A barrel of falsehood, a barrel of cries
That fall from the man's lips, as he dies;
A barrel of agony heavy and dull,
Borne by its victims, borne to the full.
A barrel of liquid destruction that fires
The brain of him who believes it inspires.
A barrel of poverty, ruin, and blight;
A barrel of terrors that grow in their might;
A barrel of hunger, a barrel of groans;
A barrel of orphans' most pitiful moans;
A barrel of serpents, that hiss as they pass
From the head on the liquor that glows in the glass.

FLORIDA AS IT IS.

Exaggerated ideas of Northerners! Who succeed! The strawberry business for a man of small means!

WALDO, Fla., July 22, 1889.

To one who is thoroughly acquainted with Florida and its resources and capabilities, the exaggerated, foolish ideas of many people who come here from the North are not only painful but laughable. Another astonishing thing is the fact that some men will visit Florida and stay a few weeks, right in one place, and go home able to tell more about Florida, both for and against it, more about its capacities, the mistakes and lack of common sense of its farmers, than the man who has lived here for years and visited every part of the State.

Many such people come to Florida with exaggerated notions about an orange grove and an easy, luxurious living, minus all hard work, and are painfully surprised to find that people work hard for a living in Florida, as well as elsewhere. Many expect to "teach the natives," and perversely insist on bringing Northern methods of work into use here. The said failure of such people, and their return to their old home thoroughly disgusted and disheartened, is the universal result. Many make failures in Florida through the selection of poor land,—perhaps good for certain purposes,—but ill adapted to grow the crops or fruits they put upon it. They often purchase of Northern speculators, who have bought large bodies of cheap railroad or government land, and are planting it with "colonies" of Northern people. As a rule, these lands never had any value, and never will have. I have long since become convinced of the folly of "Northern colonies," and know of none that ever showed many signs of prosperity.

The people who succeed are those who choose good lands, as a rule in old settled neighborhoods, without regard as to "Northern neighbors," and determine to make friends with the natives and all others around them,—and to take the advice and counsel of those who have always lived in our country, and who know how to get the most out of the soil. Such people come here expecting to endure some hardships, homesickness, disappointments; to practice economy; to creep before they walk and to walk before they try to run.

T. K. Godley, of Waldo, came here from the Northwest six years ago; he bought twenty-two acres of land with some improvements on it, and to-day is recognized as one of our most prosperous citizens. He began with $800 in cash. James H. Morris, of Citra, began life as a dry goods clerk, working for several years in Ocala, at that business. He purchased several hundred acres of wild-hammock land on Orange lake, which contained about two hundred acres of wild orange trees. He employed his spare-time at budding and grafting these trees, and to-day is known as the "Orange King" of Florida. His income amounts to nearly $100,000 annually, from the sale of oranges alone. Simou J. Temple, of Temple's Mills, came to Florida, from Virginia, about thirty years ago, a poor man, and began the saw-mill and lumber business: to-day he owns thirty thousand acres of land, several fine orange groves, and has most excellent health. I could multiply names and instances indefinitely.

SCIENTIFIC

The new colors are described in various... The other color is black, which has been made by treating camphor with sulphuric acid.

GETTING READY FOR THE SUMMER CAMPAIGN

The blackflies are puffed away in swarms... The father of the household is going to take his meals in the village and somewhat indolent region known as 'down town.'

THE WORST MONARCH OF ALL

The Shah of Persia has invaded Europe, and it is no pshaw-jing matter to the monarchs who have him to entertain... The surprising fact to western people, however, is that many Orientals are that they do not regard dirt and deformity.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

They went forth to go into the land of Canaan (Gen. 12: 9). Let us take our journey, and let us go (Gen. 31: 12). We are journeying unto the place...

DR. TALMAGE'S SERMON

The Bower of Tree Branches. "To fetch unto the mountain, and fetch olive branches, and palm branches, and branches of myrtle trees..."

REMARKS

The remark was made a few weeks ago, by a very intelligent German gentleman, that he did not meet as many children wearing spectacles as in his country.

CHOLERA MORBUS

There could not be a more appropriate time to bring the subject of cholera morbus to the attention of my readers than at this period—the first month of summer.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

There is a vast deal of vital air in loving words. We shall escape the uphill by never turning back.

GRANDMA'S BOY

"Her little boy grows up so fast, and so grand, that he makes my day. He'll be a man in a week."

THE SURE CONSOLATION

You may have had accumulation of sorrow and misfortune. They come in flocks, they come in herds, upon you.

THE SURE CONQUEROR

Your last sickness will come, and the physician will tell you that you are going to die.

According to Nature the Russian Academy of Sciences offers a prize of $2500 for the best inquiry into the nature and effects of the poison which develops in cured fish.

And he takes it all in, and wears a properly becoming sadness, and longs for the time to come when they will be off, and he shall be at liberty to stay down town with Brown and the other fellows.

And Nasr-Ed-Deen is in all these respects the most Persian of Persians. He is a man who has a sense of humor, and a sense of humor.

There is health in it, and this plain branch of the text suggests the healthful health for all health for the mind, health for the soul.

That is the vital spark which animates organic life. The origin of vitality is as truly one of Nature's dark secrets, utterly hidden from the eye of the scientific mind of to-day.

And the mother of the family would like to be remembered to tell her husband to have another bolt put on the back kitchen door, and she is in a flurry of anxiety for fear the trunk will go wrong.

There is a claim in the patent office for a patent on the Lord's Prayer, the specification being that the respect in which it is used is a bond of union.

The Bellevue Nursery A New Departure.

About March 1st, we expect to offer our customers a higher grade of Garden Seeds Than have ever been sold here, and will also keep in stock such garden requisites as the demand seems to call for. We propose to increase our facilities for producing CUT FLOWERS And to have something nice in that line to offer at all times.

Vegetable Plants Will be a prominent feature: and in all departments of the nursery business we shall keep our usually full assortment, and shall make it an especial point to maintain and deserve the enviable reputation we already enjoy for strict reliability and integrity, and honest dealing.

We do not believe in that sickly sentimentality which asks for patronage in return for past favors, or from a sense of duty, but we intend to make it for the interest of our customers to buy of us.

The Republican. [Entered as second class matter.] HAMMONTON, ATLANTIC CO., N. J. SATURDAY, AUG. 3, 1890.

Our Terms.—Our subscription price to all within the county is One Dollar per year if paid in advance. If not paid within the first two months, $1.25 per year, invariably. To subscribers outside of this county always $1.25 in advance, as we are compelled to wrap papers and prepay postage.

Most of the berry pickers were paid off this week, and the run on the People's Bank kept Cashier Tilton and his assistant busy during long hours. A pile of money was carried out of town by these strangers.

The impression is gaining ground that our Hammonton boys can play ball. They have been beaten but once this season, and that club was badly beaten by the Camden City, which was in turn defeated by the Hammontons last Saturday,—score 17 to 3.

We had the pleasure of a few minutes' chat with Rev. Mr. Merwin last week, on the train for New York, he having met his wife and son on their way home from Hammonton. Mr. W. looked well, and reported himself full of work at Whippany.

A Union Sunday School excursion to Atlantic City has been agreed upon. As we go to press the arrangements are not completed, but it will probably be given on Friday next, over the Camden & Atlantic Railroad. Go to Sunday School to-morrow, and learn all the particulars.

There will be no service in the Presbyterian Church on the first two Sundays in August. The members of the congregation will worship in the Baptist and Methodist Churches on those dates. The Sunday School and the Wednesday and Thursday evening meetings will be held as usual.

Montgomery H. Biggs has an English safety bicycle. It is a very pretty machine, but looks odd indeed to those who are accustomed to the Star and Columbia.

Geo. A. Elvins has purchased a mate to the above, except that the latter is a ladies' pattern. They are dandies.

Mrs. Wm. A. Hood has a night blooming cereus plant, upon which several blossoms opened at the same time, Thursday night. The plant is different in form and foliage from any of that variety we ever saw, but the rare beauty and fragrance of the flowers are the same. Many visitors called to see the buds unfolding.

Cincinnati is wrestling with the Sunday saloon problem. The issue is between law and contempt of law. So far the courts have the winning. Are calm thinking men surprised that public sentiment is aroused against the saloon power?

A Sound Legal Opinion. E. Bainbridge Munday, Esq., County Attorney, Clay Co., Texas, says: "Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother also was very low with malarial fever and jaundice, but was cured by the timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied that Electric Bitters saved his life."

Mr. D. I. Wilkinson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: "He positively believes he would have died had it not been for Electric Bitters."

This great remedy will ward off, as well as cure all malarial diseases, and for all kidney, liver, and stomach disorders stands unequalled. Price, 50 cents and $1, at A. W. Cochran's.

If this should meet the eye of any one who would like to buy a fine business property, let him write to the Editor of the REPUBLICAN for particulars.

Mr. R. J. Swancoat, of Austin, Texas, has been spending a few days here, with design of purchasing and moving his family to Hammonton.

Perhaps there is no money in the poultry business; but at least one of our largest broiler establishments will have incubators heated in a few days, and others will begin later.

Councilman Drown and George King are home from their fishing trip to Massachusetts and Maine. Mrs. Drown is still away, boarding at "Saints' Rest Cottage," Kew-Bunk Port, Maine.

Rev. Dr. Sexton's sermons, last Sunday, were very satisfactory to the large congregations. The doctor is a man of independent mind, and at times advances ideas that seem startling, but he is too logical in his methods to leave a thought before he has wrought it out to a conclusion, and made his statements clear. After hearing one of his discourses, his audience have food for reflection.

"When Greek meets Greek, then comes the tug of war." At a hearing before Justice Atkinson, the other day, Justice Jordan appeared as counsel for the defendant, and won his case. Dan'l Hurley sued an Italian to recover fifteen dollars on a horse-trade; but he had no book-account, note, or paper of any sort upon which to base his claim.

The newspaper train on the C. & A. Railroad, which passes Hammonton about 5:15 A. M., now drops a mail-sack containing mail from Philadelphia and New York. This compels the carrier and Post-Master to be on hand to take charge of the sack, but does not necessitate opening the office for business until the usual hour, seven o'clock.

In the REPUBLICAN of Sept. 23, 1886, we gave an account of an affray wherein David Marinelli was shot in the groin by Felipi Pino. The shooter disappeared, and the wounded man was taken to the hospital. Monday, this week, Constable Bernhouse incidentally discovered that Marinelli, Pino, and Antonio Scarvo (who also fired two shots at Marinelli) were all working in town, and on Tuesday afternoon had them before Justice Atkinson, who committed the offenders in default of $1000 bail, and held Marinelli in $200 for his appearance at Court.

Our nomination of Mr. Woodruff for State Senator has been seconded by the Journal, which says: "Mr. W. is an excellent Republican, a man well versed in public affairs and in every way fitted for the halls of legislation. If nominated he will be elected." One of our old Hammonton Republicans says: "It is a good move, and we must send to the Convention a solid delegation for Chas. Woodruff." Well, why not? He stands right with the party on all questions of public policy, has decided opinions upon all subjects likely to be acted upon, with courage and ability to defend what he believes to be right.

One of the well-known commission men in Philadelphia was recently visited by a young gentleman who represented himself as a nephew of George Bernhouse, of Hammonton, seemed very familiar with Mr. B.'s business affairs, spoke of the condition of his crops, prospective shipments, etc., and so impressed the merchant that he advanced to him eight dollars on "Uncle George's" account. Of course, he was a fraud, and George smiled audibly when he heard of it, and informed the good-natured commission-man that he had paid pretty dearly for a bit of experience.

Thomas Mullica, a resident of that historic neighborhood known as "Tar Kiln Neck," is accused of being intoxicated on Tuesday evening, and so far forgetting his manhood as to fire several shots from his revolver at his wife (a former Miss Dayton). Constable Bernhouse had a warrant, Thursday, when he went down to call upon Thomas. After prolonged search, the accused was found at his summer residence, was escorted to the office of Justice Atkinson, who requested him to provide bonds in the sum of $500 for appearance at Court, and being unable to comply, Thomas retired to private life at May's Landing.

One of our grape growers wishes to know whether any one here has tried spraying with sulphite of copper mixture, for black rot. I am not aware that any one has done so, but I observe a blue appearance on the grape vines near the road on the property of Mr. Chalmers, teacher in New Germany, and presume he has been applying such remedies. I would suggest to our grape-growers the propriety of sending a competent committee to visit Col. Pearson, of Vineland, and examine his vineyards and interview him upon the subject. He has been using these remedies for two seasons at least, and the committee could hardly fail to secure a large amount of valuable information.

CYRUS F. OSOOND, P. M.

Mr. Wm. Lake, proprietor of the Lake cranberry meadows, who recently bought the Rolotta farm, near DeCosta, and was living there with his family, died very suddenly, Monday evening, of heart-failure. On Sunday, we believe, Mr. Lake's cow strayed, and in his anxiety to secure her he worked beyond his strength. Monday he did not feel well, but attended to business and was in Hammonton part of the day. Just at the edge of evening he stepped out to the pump, and there the fatal stroke was received, and he fell. Mr. James Atkinson was among the first to reach him, but he died in a few minutes. We were not personally acquainted with the deceased, but his circle of friends in this vicinity was large, and all speak of him in terms of high commendation. His age was about sixty-six years. A widow and several adult children are among the mourners.

ELWOOD.

DIED.—In Elwood, on Tuesday, July 30th, Samuel Harrar, eldest son of John J. Harrar, aged 15 years and 3 months. Of him it may well be said: Fair be the flowers above thee. Friend of my youthfulness. None knew thee but to love thee. None named thee but to praise thee.

DIED.—In Elwood, N. J., Wednesday, July 31st, Mr. Willard Verill, aged 72 years. Mr. Verill had been a resident of Elwood about twenty-five years, a man of the strictest integrity in every respect, highly esteemed by all who knew him. His death was a great shock to all, as he was in excellent health, working every day; yet death claimed him, by a stroke of apoplexy, in a few minutes. Truly, "in the midst of life we are in death."

[Mr. Verill was Mrs. L. Beverages' father.]

FARM FOR SALE.—Fifteen acres on Walnut Street, Hammonton, containing ten-room house, barn, chicken-yard, well, 700 peach trees, 40 pear trees, 2000 grape vines, 30 apple trees, 40 almond trees. Price, $2600, cash, which will include a cow, lot of chickens, 3 stoves, and six wine barrels. Inquire on the place. STEPHEN MELOHORE.

The personally-conducted mid-summer tour arranged by the Penna. R. Co., for Niagara Falls, on Aug. 2th, present an unusual opportunity of visiting the greatest of American wonders. The date is fixed at a time when everybody has the leisure and inclination to take a pleasure trip, the return limit of the tickets covers just about the period one can devote to the purpose, and the rate of $10 for the round trip is so low as to hardly deserve consideration in the expense account.

The special train of Pullman-Parlor Cars and Day Coaches will run by daylight through the celebrated Chautauque Valley, over the rich fields of Lancaster, and through the entire length of the far-famed valley of the Susquehanna. The homeward route lies through the Lehigh Valley, which presents some of the grandest mountain scenery in America. The Tourist Agents and Chamberlain will accompany the party, and as the number will be necessarily limited, engagements should at once be made on the ticket office of the Penna. R. R.

Ten Little Chickens.

Ten downy chicks from ten yellow eggs. Tending around on sturdy little legs...

GOLDEN ISLAND.

Robert had finished his education at the old school in the village where his father and mother lived...

When his school time was over, therefore, he resolved to learn a trade. He did not know which one he would like best...

"Where are you going, Robert?" both exclaimed, with astonishment, as they saw the young man standing before them, equipped for a journey.

"I am going away to learn a trade," he replied. "This place is too small for me and there is nothing to do here for a boy as I am."

The old people saw that their son was determined, and they thought it better to let him have his way. So they wished him God-speed and good luck...

He had traveled for many a day and many a month, but still he had not found the business he liked. He had been working with several masters...

"Well, now, rowing must be the most pleasant thing in the world. The man seems to enjoy the fun amazingly. I wonder where he would allow me to have a row with him."

"No, sir," replied the young man. "I haven't been able to find a job that I would like. What I have to complain of most is that everything seems to be hard work, and I don't like that."

"Oh, oh!" said the boatman. "That is the way you feel about the matter. You are lazy, I should say. Look here, my boy, any trade is a good one, if you only work at it hard enough, and with an earnest intention to make a success."

anxiously grasped at the side of his seat to prevent himself from falling into the water. But the motion of the boat increased more and more.

Unconsciousness overcame him immediately after he fell into the water, and he awoke again, and, to his utter astonishment, found himself on dry land. It was a peculiar place, the young man thought.

Suddenly he was awakened from his reverie by the approach of three men, all dressed in red clothes, with black turbans on their heads.

"Now put the stranger down!" he commanded of the three in red, and when Robert stood on the ground the man in the chair beckoned him to come forward.

"Young man," he said, "you have told me that you do not like work, but you are fond of lots of money. You shall have just what you want, and I hope you will enjoy it."

"After he had spoken he made another sign to the three in red, and again they took hold of him and carried him away. None of them ever spoke to him. They continued their walk quietly, but at a good pace.

"If you do not tell me where we are going I will jump into the water and drown myself," shouted Robert, and he got up to get ready for a leap into the river, but before he could accomplish anything one of the oarsmen caught him by the neck, threw him into the bottom of the boat and tied him to one of the seats.

"All right, my boy, now come with me and receive your reward." He led him to the boat in which they first rowed together on the lake, and in a few seconds they were back again on the smooth waters.

"Then he went along to see whether it was everywhere the same. The result of his investigation proved that Robert was on an island about three miles square, composed of solid gold. The surface was as smooth as a table.

"The first thing in this life to be desired, in the physical life, is a happy set of digestive apparatus; after that, virtue and brains are in order."

Then he walked into another room. Here was a table of gold again; covered with the most delicious viands, venison, vegetables, in fact anything to please the most dainty palate.

KILAUEA'S CUP.

There are three miles of lava to be walked before one reaches the black peaks of the smoking mountain. The ground is often rent with wide deep cracks, and in some places it found that it was red-hot only eight inches below the sole of my foot.

Robert, for a day or two, thought he was in paradise. He had plenty to eat—and good things to eat—and he had loads of money. What else did he want?

It is round, like a cup, and is about three hundred feet in diameter (as large as a small circus). Its rim is about ten feet high, and it is full of boiling lava. The lava is as liquid as thick soup and of bluish-gray color, with occasional greenish tints.

And now as one watches one suddenly sees a scarlet fountain beginning to play in the middle of the lake. At first it is about two feet high, with golden spray; then it gets wider and larger and more tumultuous, tossing itself up into the air with a beautiful kind of sportiveness.

"Oh, that I were back home again," he cried one day. "I would work with my father on the farm as hard as any laboring man."

"No; not at all," replied Robert. "I wish I had something to do to spend my time. I do not care a fig for all the gold in the world."

"All right, my fine man; come along with me and I will give you a job." He took the young man back to the river, where a boat awaited them. They rowed back to the country where the boatman lived. Arrived there he said to Robert:

"Now, I will see whether you are really fond of work. If you are I will reward you well. Come along. We have had a battle here, and there are 1,000 bodies lying near here on a battlefield. If you will promise me to bury them all, I will make you not only a rich but also a happy man."

Robert promised, and he went at once to work on the battlefield to dig graves for the fallen warriors. It took him a long time to do it, and it was hard work, but still he was more satisfied with himself now than he was when he lived on the golden island.

THE BRONCO.

The bronco is a wild or unbroken horse. I have been told by old Californians that "bronco" is a Spanish word, meaning wild, and that one always said bronco horse when speaking of unbroken horses years ago.

When I was just verging on young hoodlum, I confess I have read such a quantity of novels as to passionately desire beauty and a heroic lover. But the comeliness which I fondly dreamed I did not grow fainter; my hair did not gradually become soft and wavy; my eyes were no more of an azure than formerly; in short, I was pretty much the same as ever, only there was more of me.

IF I HAD THE TIME.

If I had the time to find a place and sit me down full face to face with the better angels of my nature, I might be nervous by the thought sublime, I might be nervous by the thought sublime.

If I had the time to let my heart speak out and take its life part. To look about and stretch a hand to a comrade, and then to my hand; Ah, God! if I might but just sit still and ponder over the things that would rhyme. I think that my wish with all would rhyme. If I had the time!

If I had the time to learn from you how much for comfort you would go to to kiss your feet when I did you it. If the tears of joy were so sweet. Could I force your way and let you know—Brothers, the souls of us all would chime. If we had the time! —Washington Post.

ONCE LOVED.

I am an old maid; worse than that I am decidedly plain. I tell you this frankly, at the beginning, so that if you are expecting a succession of long adventures, all about the flowers and sermons of one of the fairest lovers on earth, you can make up your mind to be disappointed.

When I was just verging on young hoodlum, I confess I have read such a quantity of novels as to passionately desire beauty and a heroic lover. But the comeliness which I fondly dreamed I did not grow fainter; my hair did not gradually become soft and wavy; my eyes were no more of an azure than formerly; in short, I was pretty much the same as ever, only there was more of me.

SARAH GOODWIN AND HER BOYS.

Sarah Goodwin was the name of a poor seamstress, residing in the city of New York. She was not wholly friendless; but those whom she knew, and who would have aided her in her struggles, were all dead boys, from the ages of four to nine years, struggled through Winter's cold and Summer's heat, providing her little family with bread; and that was all.

When I was just verging on young hoodlum, I confess I have read such a quantity of novels as to passionately desire beauty and a heroic lover. TRUTH IN DEATH.

But he Regretted It, and added a Falsehood as Last. We had a man named Barrows in our mining camp, and he was without doubt the most notorious liar Nevada will ever shelter.

FASHION NOTES.

What charming simplicity presides over our costume! "But is it indeed simplicity?" is the question which arises when we see the perfection of the fitting, the novelty of the goods and the propriety of the color of the whole.
