THE POWER OF PRAYER.

BY MRS. A. V. MUNGEL.

The following lines were suggested while listening to the Sermon of Rev. A. S. Vaughan, from the text: "And thou shalt teach them diligently, unto thy children, and shall talk of them when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up."—Deut. vi. 7.

In the gentle budding spring-time,
Let us guard the tender flower;
For the evil that we dread most,
Come in an unlooked-for hour.
And the tender little floweret,
Gladdening our weary sight,
Oft by noxious weeds is shaded,
Till it dies for want of light.

Parents, take this truthful lesson,
To your hearts and homes to-day;
Would you have your children prosper,
They must early learn to pray.
Do you fear the world may lead them,
Into many a wicked snare?
There is nothing half so potent,
As a mother's earnest prayer.

Do not fear to plead with Jesus,
When by doubt and care oppressed;
He will aid you in each trial,
For he knoweth what is best.

Let the worldly seek for riches,
Stocks and bonds a giddy share;
They'll not weigh in God's true balance,
With a mother's tender prayer.

Now I think me of my childhood,
Years have passed away since then;
All the earnest admonitions,
The advice by tongue and pen:
All are precious to my memory,
But none ever can compare,
To my mother's hallowed presence,
In the secret hour of prayer.

Hammonton, Aug. 1st, 1880.

To the Public.

HAMMONTON, Aug. 3d, 1880.

MR. EDITOR:—Two or three weeks ago, as you will recollect, a horrible crime—believed at the time to be foul murder—was committed in our midst. On the Monday following the people were greatly excited, calling aloud for summary vengeance on the fiend, when arrested. "We'll hang him!" was the utterance of many voices. A few, less excited, enquired the cause leading to this foul deed. It was soon ascertained that drink ("O, thou invisible spirit of wine, if thou hast no name to be known by, let us call thee Devil!") was at the bottom of it all. "But where and when did they get it? who sold it to them?" was the anxious inquiry. "Oh, Pine Road—sold it." "Well, all this must be stopped," was uttered by many, at the time—all promised immediate arrest and prosecution of the party selling. "Why," reasoned they at the time, "if such deeds go unpunished and unnoticed, they will so darken Hammonton's best and dearest reputation abroad that few having regard for their own good name, and the safety of their families, would dare to visit such a place." Our august Council met, and this body—representatives of the good people of Hammonton allayed the excitement somewhat by promising unceasing pursuit of the would-be assassin, and the arrest and punishment of the party selling the foul and fiery wine.

Notwithstanding the many predictions that the victim would die—was dying—was dead—yet he lived, got the better of his wounds, and left for Philadelphia. He had heard and believed that the authorities were anxious and determined to punish the criminal, and also that the individual—the sole cause of all the trouble—selling the foul wine (for it is nearly as injurious to a man's brain as "rot-gut whiskey") was to be arrested and prosecuted to the extent of the law, and came back here to give his statement as to when and from whom the wine was bought. Mr. Scull has done well his part, and can give you all the particulars. He has shown to the Council who sold the wine. It was obtained at four different times, each purchase costing fifty cents; and this, too, on the Sabbath day. Temperance men of Hammonton, make a note of this, the wine was not obtained on Pine Road, but, it is said, on Oak Road. I am informed that a committee representing the great Council of Hammonton was appointed to investigate, and the statement made was found to be true. Well, what is the result of this investigation? Remember, you men of temperance, that one of the committee is a near relative of the party charged with selling the wine. The committee, in their report, find that they have no authority, under the charter, to prosecute. Thus this shameful violation of a town law goes unpunished.

How stands the matter now? and how would the individual selling the wine stand if the victim had died of his wounds? Most clearly, he would have been charged with being accessory before and to the fact—the murder—and his guilt could not be less than man-slaughter. Suppose the would-be murderer were tried for an assault—the intent being murder—how would stand the party selling the wine? Why, accessory before and to the fact. There could be no getting clear of this charge.

We call upon the Council to prosecute this man for selling liquor without a license, and that, too, on the Sabbath—making two violations of law. You have the witness—he will come at any time to testify—and the Council has the right, and it is its duty, for the well-being of this place and the safety of its inhabitants, to cause the prosecution of the party committing the assault and the party accessory thereto. It is a State offence and a violation of United States revenue laws, and it is their solemn duty, under their oaths, individually and collectively, to give the necessary information to the State authorities, that the parties may be brought to punishment. All the parties (although some are in another State) can easily be arrested. And now, Councilmen of Hammonton, prove yourselves worthy the confidence the people of the town have reposed in you. Remember, our Saviour was betrayed by a Judas. Let not one of you fail in the discharge of the duty you owe to your God, to your own families, and to the people whom you represent, and you will be called blessed. A CITIZEN.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2, 1880.

The opinions expressed here of General Hancock's letter of acceptance, are that while it is good, and courteous, it is not an able paper, and that upon it General Hancock can lay no claim to statesmanship. It is not now believed that he received assistance in its production. His neglect to mention the important and living issues of the campaign disappointed many Democrats who care nothing for the dead past which Hancock serves up to his followers. His views upon the war amendments, and the ballot are good, but as they are addressed to the Democratic party, become rather absurd. His endorsement of the present and all principles of the party, places him rather in a position of contradiction to himself. As it is well known that no two Democratic platforms are alike, that principles advocated in 1864 and 1868, are abandoned; yet the General endorses them all, he pledges himself to maintain the results of the war, and the war amendments, yet he endorsed the platform of 1864 which declared the war a failure, and the platform of 1868, which declared reconstruction and the consequent amendments unconstitutional. The platform of 1868 also declares for soft money, and that of 1880 for hard money, yet they both receive endorsement. In short the letter is not up to the expectation of Washington politicians, and they are not backward in condemning it.

English's letter is regarded here as a stump speech of the lower order written with but little regard to truth or candor. Next Thursday there meet in New York, by invitation of the National Republican Committee, many prominent Republicans from all parts of the country. Generals Garfield and Arthur will be there, also Senators Blaine, Conklyn, Logan, and Edmunds, Mr. W. E. Chandler, and a host of others. They meet for consultation, to hear reports from the States, and to act upon suggestions for the campaign in each. The meeting will also signal the real opinion of the campaign; slow at first, growing warmer as the October elections approach, and between them and November reach the climax.

Good words of encouragement are received here. From Indiana a prominent Republican writes "The Hancock boom has flattened out, there is no enthusiasm for him here." Iowa promises to redeem the two Congressional Districts, and give Garfield 6000 majority. The Eastern doubtful States are improving with each passing day. The fusion in Maine don't fuse as was expected. In New York, Tammany don't harmonize as was promised; and in Virginia the Democratic party is wide apart. Republican prospects are excellent and should stimulate all to work hard from now until November.

It may be thought presumptuous, but if the people of Maine understand their own interest, as I think they do, they will retain, if possible, Mr. Hamlin in the Senate. We may have greater men, but none truer than he, none of more discernment, none of greater courage and fidelity. His long experience in Congress make his services of more value than would be those of a less experienced man. He is one of those Statesmen who stood by the Nation in its darkest hours, few of whom are left. I believe we cannot afford to dispense with Mr. Hamlin's services so long as the meanest citizen is despoiled of his full rights. MAXWELL.

MR. EDITOR:—I have often thought I would like to know what constitutes a so-called first-class boarding-house. I had occasion, not long since, to spend a day or two in a neighboring town, and concluded to investigate for myself, so I took up my temporary abode in what was supposed to be as good a house as any in town; and the conclusion reached was, that all that was required for the table was bread, butter, beef-steak or ham, potatoes, eggs, and coffee. For dessert, baked apples, with milk and sugar. For a bed, mildewed feathers, the foul odor from which prevented one from sleeping. And only one dollar per day. Who would not keep a boarding-house?

It is certain that time and circumstances have much to do with the relative success of two men, or of the same man at different periods. But it is equally certain that plain duty of every person, great or small, in storm or calm, is to do the very best he can. More than this is impossible; less than this is a sin. If he is playing the part of a manly man, his reputation will take care of itself; if he is not, no lamentations over the world's coldness will help him. Nobody can do good work who is perpetually stopping to see how the spectators regard it. Praise cannot put a coward into the hero's place, neither can detraction reduce to the ranks a kingly soul. Whether or not you are succeeding in your undertaking, you will always be hindered by reflecting upon any neglect in which you may seem to die. Such reflections jeopardize success and quicken failure.

Mr. English's letter of acceptance of the Vice Presidency of the Democratic party is written from a Southern stand-point, and he takes a great deal of space to say that the government and the country belong to the Democratic party. The party having (mis)governed the country so long, it is theirs by right of possession, and the Republican party must be "retired," for "we" want the offices and the spoils. A hundred thousand officers would feed the whole rebel horde who lost their birthright by rebellion, to say nothing of billions for rebel claims, and hundreds of millions for pensioning rebel soldiers. Oh! Democracy, thy name is Chamelion, and English thy chief apostle!

Only ten days remaining before the date fixed for the Republican State Convention; and what has been done in this county in the way of preparation for that important meeting? In other States, where the Convention is not held until September, township and county conventions have been held already, and delegates to the State Convention appointed. What is the matter with our Executive Committees?

The last Yazoo (Miss.) Herald says: "What the people of Yazoo county did in the campaign of 1879 they stand by today, and they propose to stand by it forever. They were actuated by a sense of duty in all that their hands found to do, and they ask no man's pardon for it, and crave no party's amnestial grace."

Good Reports.

Republicans everywhere have great reason to feel encouraged. The prospects of the success of their National ticket was never, in any Presidential campaign, better than they are now. The news from the political field in three of the Southern States is reported as exceedingly favorable to the Republicans. Reports from Virginia, North Carolina and Florida are hope-inspiring, and with "a full vote, a free ballot, and a fair count," will secure an overwhelming majority for the Republican ticket in every one of those States, as well as in South Carolina, Louisiana and Mississippi. With the same condition, Alabama would have gone Republican at her late election. As it was, probably few Republicans voted. But, we cannot hope for a full vote, or a free ballot, or a fair count, unless voters are protected in the right of franchise. Already prominent Democrats are expressing doubts and fears for Indiana, and declare that it is only by a most desperate struggle that the State can be carried for the Democracy. This is a confession of weakness. Republicans count confidently on a majority in Indiana, and base their confidence on good grounds. It is conceded that at least two-thirds of the Greenback vote, which is estimated at 30,000, will vote the Republican ticket, which is enough to give the State to the party of loyalty, law, order, honesty and justice—the Republican party.

Colonel Forney, after the nomination of Garfield at Chicago, and before he expected to go into the Hancock interest wrote as follows of Gen. Garfield:

It has been my good fortune to know General Garfield for many years, and it is a pleasure to add that he is a fine specimen of American character. * * * * * One comment may here be freely made upon General Garfield. He will be owned or controlled by no man or men. He is himself a master, and if there is a special feature in his character it is his knowledge of the men of this country of both parties and sections. Made a candidate in a spontaneous burst of enthusiasm, he is as free to do right as if he had been born into his high office, "and came Minerva-like, full fledged from the brain of Jove."

How can a man turn his back on one he so eulogized in a mystery, or would be if he (Forney) did not do the thing so often. It is a mania with him.

The debt statement from the Treasury Department shows a reduction of the debt during the month of July, over $5,500,000. This leaves the total debt of the United States, less cash in the Treasury, now $1,936,000,000. The reduction for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1880, was $35,000,000. This reduction of the national debt, from nearly $3,000,000,000, is the best possible argument that the Republican party have managed the finances with admirable and wonderful skill and economy, and the people will not consent to change servants for those who are so anxious to get their hands into the public coffers.

Dr. H. E. Bowles is mentioned as candidate for Assembly from this County. The Doctor has done good work for the Republican party, and deserves the nomination—which means an election; and we know of no reason why he should not receive it.

The Republican Executive Committee met in New York on Thursday, at which General Garfield and other prominent Republicans were in attendance. General Garfield left his home on the 3d, and his whole way to New York was a continual ovation. He was everywhere received with enthusiasm.

To the Farmers and Fruit Growers of Hammonton.

Thinking that a compliance with the notice published in the REPUBLICAN last week, to make an exhibit at the Pennsylvania State Fair the coming fall, would be of incalculable benefit to the farmers and fruit growers, and to Hammonton, I am induced to say to them that anything they have for exhibition, if they will prepare and label properly, and leave at the C. & A. Railroad Station, I will take care of, and see it delivered at the Fair building, and see that they are well placed for exhibit. It is hoped that a good display may be made. There is plenty of time to get material for a good display. Let us have it. H. E. BOWLES.

TO TAX-PAYERS!

I hereby remind all who are yet delinquent, and have received my notices of July 10th, that Tuesday next is the "last day of grace." On Monday and Tuesday next I will be at the REPUBLICAN office, for the accommodation of all who wish to pay their taxes. LEWIS HOYT, Collector.

A "Republican Manual" for the campaign of 1880, is announced as in print and very soon to be issued. It is written by Mr. E. V. Smalley, long known as a brilliant newspaper correspondent, and for many years a leading editorial writer on the New York Tribune. Leading features of the book, will of course be biographies of the candidates. It will be the most authoritative and most complete sketch of General Garfield which will appear. Mr. Smalley was at one time the General's private secretary, and has been his intimate friend during the whole time of his public career, and is therefore qualified by special advantages as well as by talent and experience for the task undertaken.

"Garfield as an Orator and as a Statesman" is a special department, containing extracts from the General's most celebrated speeches upon topics of the greatest interest in the present campaign; and representing the best efforts of a brilliant scholar, an orator of rare power, and a statesman of consummate tact and skill, it will be of present interest. Another department not only of great present interest, but a permanent value, is a full history of the Republican party, its principles, struggles and victories, with important statistical tables, particularly valuable for reference in political campaigns.

It is a book which earnest republicans will delight in, and find the best of all arsenals from which to draw ammunition for campaign use—a book which the independence and conservative voters will study with interest and profit—a book which small democratic stump speakers will steer clear of when they can. It is published by the American Book Exchange, New York, whose "Literary Revolution" has been the wonder and pleasure of book buyers for months past, and its price, therefore, is only fifty cents, with seven cent extra for postage when sent by mail. Leading booksellers, agents of the publishers, will have it.

After allowing yourself proper time for rest, don't live a single hour of your life without doing exactly what is to be done in it, and going straight through it from beginning to end. Work, play, study—whatever it is, take hold of it at once, squarely and clearly; and do the next thing without letting the moments drop out between. It is wonderful too how many hours these prompt people contrive to make the day; it is as if they picked up the moments that the dawdles lost.

Hancock's Letter of Acceptance.

Had this "superb" nominee of the Democratic party studied to see little, or less, he could not have better succeeded. The long time required to produce so wonderful a letter must have been spent in finding how to use language to express as little significance as possible, for he succeeded admirably. The whole thing is simply that he will abide by the constitution, and the civil service reform must be established by the people, we are told, and sentiments of friendship and not animosity among our fellow-citizens; but nothing about finances, though all persons must be "protected in their rights to the fruits of their own industry." The same has come to enjoy the substantial benefits of reconciliation.

As one people, we have common interests. Let us encourage the harmony and generous rivalry among our own industries which will revive our languishing manufactures, extend our commerce with foreign nations, assist our countrymen, and produce and increase our vast natural resources, and increase the prosperity and happiness of our people.

He accepts the amendments to the constitution, and deems it his duty to resist any attempt to impair or evade the full force and effect of the constitution, and that "fraud nor force must be allowed to subvert the rights of the people." "Fraud and force" on the part of the Democratic party, is what the Republican party has been laboring over twenty years to prevent. The history of the Democratic party is full and replete with "fraud and force," and violence, and it was this outrage upon the rights of the people that begot the Republican party, brought it forth, and gave it life. From these outrages it learned to hate oppression and wrong, and to love the rights of the people, and in this love it was baptized with the true spirit of liberty, which gave it strength to meet and overthrow the Democratic party, when the latter resorted to arms to maintain its "fraud and force," when it had become bloated with the blood of the oppressed; had fattened on the proceeds of fraud for a generation; had exhausted its force—the army and navy, and the treasury, the latter of which they had robbed with impunity, to bolster up "fraud and force." They had by falsehood and misrepresentation, hoodwinked the people until the enormity of their wrong doing could no longer be concealed, and hideousness of "fraud and force" stirred the people, and in the spirit of right and justice demanded the government to save it from anarchy, and through the Republican party, aided by God, the people obtained it, and the great Inauguration, in the President's Chair. "Fraud and force" rebelled, but the people and their "rights" triumphed, and the Union was saved, through and by the government which was "of the people, by the people, and for the people." Now,

Life's History.

Like flowing streams our years go by,
Like flying smoke our days...

Evil we can know from good,
Or right from wrong undo,
By mother's milk, by father's blood...

Beads all waters do we sow,
And little seeds are sown,
Our weary souls "as hungered" go...

So, daily, nature's weeds grow less,
The plants of peace are sown,
We write some sweets from bitterness...

How Love was Lord of All.

Mrs. Steele was frowning, one of her coldest, blighted frowns was looking straight in Genevieve's face.

And by being "all Steele" was meant she was resolute, and decisive, and independent—a girl whose judgment was to be depended on...

"I don't see why, Genevieve. I wish you would remember that every such invitation from my sister diminishes
our expenses..."

"I am sure you are a very strange child, Genevieve, certainly a very grateful to my sister for all she has done for Angela and Isadore..."

As One Whom His Mother Comforteth.

As one his mother comforteth
In sadness and unrest,
As one who lays his weary head
Upon his mother's breast...

As one his mother comforteth
When darkness sits the skies,
And shadows overcast the way
Before his doubting eyes...

Nothing is more easy than irreproch-able conduct.
A recent discovery is a telephone talked to death by a barber.

The battles of the union—fighting between husband and wife—
in Philadelphia a boy who ties a tin pail to a dog's tail is fined $10.

Over-feeding does more harm than anything else; nurse an infant a month or two old every two or three days...

Boil a teaspoonful of powdered barley in a quart of water for an hour, and add a little salt, for fifteen minutes; strain. Then mix it with half as much boiled rice...

Infants of six months may have been tear or beef soup once a day, by itself or mixed with other food; and when ten or twelve months old...

The reason more umbrellas than waterproofs are stolen is thought to be because the thief does not know the value of the umbrella. It is always ripe for the harvest.

A Gentleman of La Porte.

The first appearance of one who had been a Justice of the Peace—A Good Story by West Brattle.

He was also a pioneer. A party who broke through the snows of the winter of '51 and came upon the triangular little valley afterward known as La Porte...

A Revengeful Camel.
We find this Eastern story illustrating the camel's malignity and passion—withstanding his patience and good nature...

Teachers, authors and others of sedentary habits highly prize Malt Bitters.

A sea-captain who was asked by his wife to look at some plans while he was in the city, with a view of buying some of them...

THE BEST REMEDY FOR
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S
CHERRY
PECTORAL.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment, and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

MUST!

Above product, our "specialty," is the pure unfermented juice of the grape as it leaves the press, and equivalent to the delicious fruit in liquid form. Possessing no alcoholic properties, it is invaluable to Invalids, Temperance people and all Churches for Sacramental purposes. "Our" MUST must not be mistaken for other so-called unfermented wines, as it is not boiled and hermetically sealed to keep it from spoiling. The only "Process" resorted to by us is to permanently stop fermentation, which naturally must result in the juice remaining as it grew.

The undersigned are now disposing of their new stock prepared from their last grape crop, and warrant that it will keep, without special care.

NOTICE!
 To those holding Policies in the Millville Mutual Marine & Fire Insurance Co.

Your insurance is as good to-day as any insurance can be—being protected by our Insurance notes—and from the responsibility on the premium notes, the law allows no escape. The policies of the company must remain good until the court of chancery fixes a time for responsibility to cease by surrender of premium notes. This we believe now we shall escape, but in any event ample notice of such order, must and shall be given.

To those who are thinking of re-insuring in other companies we say that such a course is of all others to be avoided. By so doing, you raise a grave question as to whether your insurance are not rendered void—and you still remain liable for the assessment in the Millville Mutual.

SOMEHOW OR OTHER,

Life has a burden for every man's shoulder,
 Some may escape from its trouble and care;
 Miss it in youth, and 'twill come when we're older
 And fit us as close as the garments we wear.

Sorrow comes into our lives uninvited,
 Robbing our hearts of their treasures of song;
 Love grows cold and friendships are slighted,
 Yet somehow or other we worry along.

Every-day toll is every-day blessing,
 Though poverty's cottage and crust we may share;
 Weak is the back on which burdens are pressing,
 But stout is the heart that is strengthened by prayer.

Somehow or other the pathway grows brighter,
 Just when we mourn there are nuns to befriend;
 Hope in the heart makes the burden seem lighter;
 And, somehow or other, we get to the end.

Take your Choice.

General Logan's sulkiness, on which so many Democratic hopes were laid, will take the shape of 100 speeches in the campaign.

The editor of the New York Republican writes to a Western paper that the Germans of New York are "strong for Garfield."

The Vicksburg Herald tells "em to go carefully this summer as another Yazoo affair would make Democratic success an impossibility.

A talented Philadelphia artist recently painted a picture of his umbrella so naturally that the first dear friend who came to the studio stole it.

The lesson of Dr. Tanner's success: If you are on the verge of starvation do not beg; do not borrow; do not steal; do not get strangled in the red tape of a charitable organization. Hire a hall.

If Spain were in favor of having Cuba annexed to the United States she could not take a better way of bringing it about than by firing on American merchantmen.

About all the exercise some young men get is lifting their hats when smiled at by the ladies.—Harrisburg Telegraph. And croaking their elbows when "smiling" themselves.

Children are born bright enough, but are too apt to degenerate into fools and nobodies through the pernicious effects of parental example.—Boston Transcript.

New Jersey stands first on the list of States in the value of its improved lands, the average being $82.42 per acre; timber land $56.82. The total valuation of New Jersey is placed at $337,592,183.78.

The Tom's River Courier has been making inquiries concerning the cranberry crop of Ocean county and says the reports are far from discouraging—that there will be no more than average yield.

Northern Mexico has a flower that smells just like whiskey, and when a Mexican goes home very late he takes a bouquet of them along and presents them to his wife, so that she will throw all the blame on the flowers.

A man may be the president of the United States, a member of the cabinet or a great general in the army, yet when a lady asks him to hail a street-car he will sink into utter insignificance beside the bootblack who can whistle through his fingers.

The women in the University College, London, call themselves "women;" the women in a notion shop next door call themselves, not saleswomen, but sales-ladies. The men in the same shop call themselves not salesgentlemen but sales-men.

When an old backwoodsman was about to take his first ride on a Mississippi steamer, he was asked whether he would take deck or cabin passage. Well, said he in a resigned sort of way, "I've lived all my life in a cabin, and I guess cabin passage will be good enough for a rough chap like me.

David Ramsdell, heretofore a Democrat, a large manufacturer employing 700 men at Fulton, N. Y., has thrown out a Garfield and Arthur banner. He is only up with the times. He knows how Democratic theories and practice will ruin his business. He wants the tariff as it is, the currency as it is, the financial policy as it is, and he is one of those men who never want change except for betterment.

Insurance.

CUMBERLAND MUTUAL
Fire Insurance Company.
BRIDGETON, N. J.

Conducted on strictly mutual principles, offering a perfectly safe insurance for just what it may cost to pay losses and expenses. The proportion of loss to the amount insured being very small, and expenses much less than usually had, nothing can be offered more favorably to the insured. The cost being about ten cents on the hundred dollars per year to the insurers on ordinary risks, and from fifteen to twenty-five cents per year on hazardous properties, which is less than one-third of the lowest rates charged by stock companies, on such risks—the other two-thirds taken by stock companies being a profit accruing to stockholders, or consumed in expenses of the companies.

The guarantee fund of premium notes being now Three Millions of Dollars.

If an assessment had to be made of five per cent. only, twice within the ten years for which the policy is issued, it would yet be cheaper to the members than any other insurance offered. And that large amount of money is saved to the members and kept at home. No assessment having ever been made, being no more than thirty years, that saving would amount to more than

One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars

The Losses by Lightning.

Where the property is not set on fire, being less than one cent per year to each member, are paid without extra charge, and extended so as to cover all policies that are issued and outstanding.
