The Poet's Dream.

BY JAMES MORTON.
Low on his silken couch, the poet lays Close wrapped in slumber. O'er his youthful face—A face so calm and beautiful—it seems Like young Apollo's living, yet in stone.
A sweet smile slowly steals, as you have seen O'er the blue bosom of a quiet lake, The silent, changeful shadows come and go, When o'er it summer breezes wooing pass—Or some bright cloudlet mirrored in its depths, Floats down the amber sky toward the West.
Back from his brow the curling ringlets fall,
And o'er his cheeks the long, dark lashes lay Like trembling shadows on the brow of Morn.
Above his head one shapely arm is thrown.
The other, rests upon his lute, Whose quivering strings, by wanton breezes touched, Fill the soft air with dreamy melody.
Between the crimson curtains of his couch, A golden censor swings. And sweet perfume Of burning incense, fragrant spice and gums, Steals upward with the purple curling smoke.
'Neath the arched balcony, the rising moon Shoots silver arrows through the clinging vines And rustling leaves, upon the marble floor.—
And sounds of playing fountains reach the ear.
Slowly the curtains of the portal open,
And foot-falls, lighter than the ruselet leaves That shower in Autumn from the forest trees, Steal toward the sleeper's couch. "Oh vision fair!
Awake thou dreamer from thy peaceful sleep!
And thou shalt see a sight more beautiful Than the enchanted realms of Dream-land know.
Shall know a deeper joy, more round and full, Than is yon amorous moon, that smiles from heaven—
A maiden, fairer than thy fondest dream.
Aye! fairer than the Goddess Love herself." Low by his couch she kneels and kisses his brow, And o'er the late, her shapely fingers ran, Wooing sweet melody. And with a voice As soft and liquid as a nightingale's She softly sang:
"Wake my love thy love doth kiss thee, Waken from thy slumber sweet—Wake my love, thy love doth miss thee, Waken ere Aurora's feet Steal among the tasseled corn—Waken love, ere Love be gone—Sleep my love, thy love doth kiss thee, Hold him Somnus, in thine arms.
Sleep my love, thy love doth miss thee, Guard him Cupid from all harms, 'Till the night fades from the morn—Keep him Love, while I am gone."
And when she ended, through the portal passed, With a backward, yearning look,—still he dreamed.
And in his dreams he smiled—and all was dark.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 11, 1879.
Nothing is funnier than the mistake made in sending from here the speeches and other documents with which General Ewing was to convert the people of Ohio to Democracy. The franked envelopes he left here, by some mistake, were filled up with stalwart Republicanism, and sent all over Ohio. The General was formerly a Republican himself, and some of his present admirers may perhaps have thought he had taken another somewhat and landed again in that party. If so, good bye to any hopes of their votes. The Democracy receives with open arms all who desert other parties, but it never forgives treason in its own ranks.
The National Republican urges with much persistence and considerable force that the Democrats who are now holding office under the Administration should be dismissed, and good Republicans put in their places. Sentimental people will always question the propriety of making party connections a test to be applied to appointed officers, but in what Senator Bixbee calls practical politics it would seem that policy is on the side taken by the Republicans.

The Democratic party in Maine is doing dirty work for the Greenback party, expecting to receive its reward whenever a Presidential election is to be held. In short, it eats leek in the hope of a good meal of patronage hereafter. The bitterness of its diet is increased by the publication of an offer of the Greenback candidate for Governor this year, who was also the candidate last year, to "sell out" to the Republicans. Bye and bye honest Democrats in that State will get thoroughly disgusted with the course of their leaders.

The Bankers' Convention at Saratoga this month was the most successful affair of the kind ever held. Every part of the country was represented. The influence of the meeting will be far reaching. The interests of all men, women and children are seriously associated with a system which controls the money of the country, and anything which enlarges their knowledge, or the knowledge of the Bankers themselves, will be of inestimable public benefit.
The largest investment ever made in bonds, that is, the largest amount ever purchased purely as an investment, was made the other day by William H. Vanderbilt, who bought four per cent. bonds to the value of four million dollars.
MAXWELL.

Hugh Mullen, of Philadelphia, was drowned Sunday afternoon while bathing at the steamboat landing near Sea Grove, N. J. His signals for help were misunderstood, and a boat that put out to him was too late to help him. The body was recovered.

[For the South Jersey Republican.]
Mr. Editor:

I suppose you are not so unlike all other editors that you don't care to hear a word, even from a stranger; and you being interested in New Englanders, would not object, perhaps, to a word from old Salem, Mass. This city, if not famous for anything else, is noted for that terrible "Witchcraft delusion" that has, to some extent, marred its fair fame since 1692.

Some of your readers may not know that this mystery began in a minister's family and ended in a ministers family, though not until it had swept like a terrible plague through its entire community, tearing fathers, mothers and children from the dear home circle, and incarcerating them in prison, there to await a hasty trial, and condemnation, then to be pressed to death or stretched upon the gallows as a criminal.
The people believed that the accused were visited, when in prison, by evil spirits which crawled into the cells where the prisoners were, perhaps in the form of spiders, and when the officers, visiting these cells, saw one of them running away, as spiders will, they used their best endeavors to kill them: if they succeeded, it was an evidence in favor of the accused; but if the imp succeeded in getting away, it was an evidence of guilt. Great pains were taken to make the accused confess and various means were resorted to. One good man, Proctor, was condemned to be pressed to death, supposing he would confess. He was laid upon a plank and they began to pile planks upon him. He did not confess and he forgives as they expected, but only cried, "Pile on more, pile on more!" until his power of speech was gone, and life was extinct.

Rev. Stephen Burrows, a settled minister of Wells, Maine, was accused and taken to Salem for trial. He was tried and condemned. He was taken upon "Gallows Hill," where all were executed, and surrounded by an immense through. The executive officers were ready to do the law's bidding. The Rev. divine, be-now condemned one, was asked if he had anything to say, and he responded with such a fervent, effectual and heartfelt prayer, that the great congregation began to feel convinced of his innocence and was about to proceed to arrest the execution, when the Rev. Cotton Mather rode among the crowd, trying to allay the sympathy, and closed up by saying, "You know the Devil often transforms himself into an angel of light," and the execution was allowed to proceed.

I said it ended in a minister's family. So it did. A most estimable lady, wife of a minister of Beverly, adjoining Salem, was accused. She was beloved by all. Nobody believed her guilty.
Her accusers were prosecuted, and after some twenty innocent persons had suffered the extreme penalty of the law, she was fully exonerated and the delusion passed away. But "Gallows Hill," the place the witches used, the house where the accused were tried, and the history of this terrible delusion remain to remind us of the Fanaticism of 1692. But "Salem town" of 1692 is not the city of Salem in 1879. The State Normal School which has educated and trained nearly 3,000 young ladies for teachers, is situated there. Our system of graded schools from the lowest primary to the High School ranks high in the educational department of the State. We have some fifteen to twenty churches, but to offset all these, and all that good men and women can do, we have that "curse of the world," rum selling in abundance, and of course we need our two court-houses, our jail, our police, police stations, and our city Reform School.

We have, too, a musical people. The city of Salem can boast of a Musical Society of eleven years growth. Its largest number has been about 450 members, always conducted by Carl Zorrah, a German, who is and has been for years the Conductor of the Handel & Haydn Society of Boston. The Salem Society has mastered a large number of the leading oratorios, by the best masters, and is soon to enter upon its twelfth season.
I will close here, Mr. Editor, and if these wandering thoughts are of any interest to you please accept them.

Mrs. Adele G. Lucas, through her guardian, has brought suits under the civil damage act in the Brooklyn City Court against George Bullwinkle and James Maloney, bar-room keepers, for $15,000 and $10,000 respectively, for loss of service of her husband, George E. Lucas, by reason of his becoming a drunkard through liquor sold to him by defendants against her orders.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

JOHN WANAMAKER,
GRAND DEPOT,
THIRTEENTH ST., PHILADA.

The large increase of our business this far thus year makes it necessary to ENLARGE OUR PREMISES.

We have been cramped and crowded all the season in some of our Departments, and our only alternative is to make some important alterations and additions to give us the needed room.
The only time to do this is during August and September, the duller periods of the year.
To allow the builders to get on rapidly with the work, some of our goods must be removed or sold. To save the expense of removing certain stocks, to prevent loss and depreciation from dust during the alterations, we have concluded to offer many of our goods at or about cost.
The whole of our stock will be found to be marked very, very low.

THE GREAT ALTERATION SALE

COMMENCES IMMEDIATELY.

Our prices are always at the very lowest point, and at this time, when goods are advancing in price, we should not press our stock to sale but to get the goods out of the way of the

EXTENSIVE ALTERATIONS

and improvements to be made to the Grand Depot.
It is unnecessary to say that the qualities of our goods are the best. We do not mean to lose reputation by selling poor or imperfect goods. The well-known rules of Exchange and Return Money observed by the Grand Depot fully protect our customers, and, besides, in building up this great business, we are very careful to keep good faith with our patrons who are depending on us.
We only add that it will be to the interest of the people in city or country to buy during this

GREAT ALTERATION SALE.

Silks, Dress Goods, Trimmings, and everything in Ladies' and Gentlemen's Wear, whether in large or small quantities, promptly forwarded by mail or express or exactly as ordered; but even then, if not as expected, cheerfully exchanged or the money refunded. Write a postal card, specifying what you desire, and samples with full instructions for ordering, will be mailed you, postage paid, without any obligation to purchase if prices are not satisfactory. For immediate attention, ad-

 The thoughtful and discriminating portion of the public who purchase READY-MADE CLOTHING
 Will see with even but little consideration that the old house of Wanamaker & Brown is in a position to give superior advantages to its patrons. These advantages consist in supplying goods that are

FIRST—PROPERLY MADE UP.
SECOND—MATERIALS SHRUNKEN.
THIRD—EXCELLENT IN FIT.

The cut and finish of our Men's and Boys' Clothing is of a character to outrank the ORDINARY CUSTOM WORK.

We found out long ago by actual experience that garments bought up from the Wholesale Stocks are by no means so reliable as those made up under our own personal supervision. Neither will the cut and general style (after wearing) bear a comparison to our own careful make. By making our own goods the

LOW PRICES
 Do not always mean good value. On this head we shall only say that when Style and Quality are taken into account we are not, under any circumstances, ever undersold, and seldom are the prices to which dealers fall as low as our first and only one fixed price to everybody.

OUR STOCK IS ENORMOUS.

 Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Mar-

 The celebrated author in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife: pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and RADICALLY.

CUMBERLAND MUTUAL
Fire Insurance Comp ny.
BRIDGETON, N. J.

Conducted on strictly mutual principles, offering a perfectly safe insurance for just what it may cost to pay losses and expenses. The proportion of loss to the amount insured being very small, and expenses much less than usually had, nothing can be offered more favorable to the insured. The cost being about ten cents on the hundred dollars per year to the insured on ordinary risks, and from fifteen to twenty-five cents per year on hazardous properties, which is less than one-third of the lowest rates charged by stock companies, on such risks—the other two-thirds taken by stock companies being a profit accruing to stockholders, or consumed in expenses of the companies.

The guarantee fund of premium notes being now Three Millions of Dollars.

If an assessment had to be made of five per cent. only, twice within the ten years for which the policy is issued, it would yet be cheaper to the members than any other insurance offered.
 And that large amount of money is saved to the members and kept at home. No assessment having ever been made, being now more than thirty years, that saving would amount to more than

One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollar

The Losses by Lightning.
 Where the property is not set on fire, being less than one cent per year to each member, are paid without extra charge, and extended so as to cover all policies that are issued and outstanding.
