News Items.

There is a sudden revival of interest in the fate of Guitau.

The Vicksburg Herald says: "We feel sure another Presidential election will not be fought on sectional lines. Parties will divide on the interest and opinions of those who build them up."

The Democratic victory in Kentucky seems to have surprised the organs of that party, else they wouldn't jubilate over it so much. It will be an extremely cold day when the Democratic party is left in Kentucky.

Camden county is first in the field. Its Republican conventions have been called for September 8th. That to nominate a Sheriff will be held in Gloucester City, and to nominate a Senator, in Camden.

It is proposed by some old soldiers at New Brunswick, who are anxious to fight some old battles over again, in imagination, to hold a reunion of all the veterans in New Jersey, at Asbury Park, some time this month.

A fund is being raised by subscription among the Jewish residents at the Long Branch cottages and hotels for the purpose of erecting a place of worship for Israelites. A desirable piece of land has been presented for the purpose.

General Hancock declines all invitations to public entertainments since the attack on the President. "It is not proper that I accept invitations to festive entertainments while the President, ex-officio my commander in chief, is hovering between life and death."

There is but one war-ship in our navy, the Trenton, that can steam more than twelve knots an hour. We have not one iron clad that can make ten knots, even in smooth water, for six hours consecutively. We have not one gun afloat that could penetrate ten inches of armor even at the closest quarters.

It is reported that there is a slight ripple in affairs at the State Prison in consequence of the Board of Inspectors refusing to confirm all of Keeper Laverly's appointments. It is reported that the refusal is based on the ground that the Keeper is not appointing an equitable number of Republicans.

The Emperor William conversed cordially with Minister White when he presented his letters of recall, assuring him of the grief with which he had heard of President Garfield's affliction, and the interest with which he had followed his progress toward recovery. The Emperor charged Mr. White to convey to Mr. Garfield his most cordial good wishes.

Delaware will either have to modify its penal code or purchase a new gallows, there being no less than seven capital cases awaiting trial in the New Castle county jail. Crime seems to increase in the Diamond State, notwithstanding the severe penalties it imposes on every offense, from chicken-stealing to burglary, and it is just as likely as not that the severity of the penalties has something to do with the increase.

The Deputy Keepers of the New Jersey State Prison have all been re-uniformed and present a very handsome appearance therein. The suits are of dark blue, with a white duck navy cap. The Centre Keeper, Marshal, Commissary, Engineer, Doorkeeper, Hospital Steward and Clerk wear frock coats, with two rows of the regulation buttons. The Centre Keeper, who is next in rank to the Principal Keeper, has the buttons arranged a la Brigadier General. The other deputies wear blouses.

The arrest of Captain Howgate for the embezzlement of $40,000 of Government money while he was temporarily in charge of the Signal Service will reconcile a great many people to the appointment over his head by President Hayes of General Hazen as the successor of General Meyer. Captain Howgate won a good deal of popularity some years ago by his success in organizing an Arctic expedition and by the liberal expenditure of his own money on the object. Recently, however, he has scandalized Washington official circles by a social escapade, and now he turns up an embezzler.

The Doomed Army.

Some of us--many of us--can recall the days of 1860-64, and remember with what feelings of sadness we watched regiment after regiment pass by us, toward the place from whence came the sound of battle. How many of these brave men will this day fall to rise no more? How many maimed and crippled ones will limp back to home and friends--giving life, health and limbs to a good cause. But look out upon Rum's army--marching men towards the grave--for a cause--nay, for no cause. A writer writes this:

"Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching." How many of them? Sixty thousand! Sixty full regiments, every man of which will, before twelve months shall have completed their course, lie down in the grave of a drunkard! Every year during the past decade has witnessed the same sacrifice; and sixty regiments stand behind this army ready to take its place. It is to be recruited from our children and our children's children. Tramp, tramp, tramp--the sound comes to us in the echoes of the footsteps of the army just expired; tramp, tramp, tramp--the earth shakes with the tread of the host now passing; tramp, tramp, tramp, comes to us from the camp of the recruits. A great tide of life flows resistlessly to its death.

What are they fighting for? The privilege of pleasing an appetite; of conforming to a social usage; of filling sixty thousand homes with shame and sorrow; of loading the public with the burden of pauperism; of crowding our prison-houses with felons; of detracting from the productive industries of the country; of ruining fortunes and breaking hopes; of breeding wretchedness and disease; of destroying both body and soul in hell before their time.

Meantime the tramp, tramp, tramp sounds on--the tramp of sixty thousand and yearly victims. Some are besotted and stupid, some are wild with hilarity, and dance along the dusty way; some reel along in pitiful weakness, some wreak their mad and murderous impulses on one another, or on the helpless women and children whose destinies are united to theirs; some stop in wayside debaucheries and infamies for a moment, some go bound in chains from which they seek in vain to wrench their bleeding wrists; and all are poisoned in body and soul, and all are doomed to death.

Wherever they move, crime, poverty, shame, wretchedness and despair hover in awful shadows. There is no bright side to the picture. We forget; there is just one:

The men who make this army get rich. Their children are dressed in purple and fine linen, and live upon dainties. Some of them are regarded as respectable members of society, and they hold conventions to protect their interests! Still the tramp, tramp, tramping goes on, and before this article can see the light, five thousand more of our poisoned army will have hidden their shame and disgrace in the grave!

Hadesore is what they put on currant bushes since the new version came out.

"I wouldn't care to be the prettiest girl alive," simpered a swain as he sat in a drawing room, the other day. "Indeed! Why not?" was the response. "Because," said he, "I'd rather be next to her."

President Garfield is an eminently judicious father. He won't let his boys be coddled, and requires of them strict fulfillment of their duties. The boys, who have strong individuality, are well-bred and well-controlled youths.

The State of New York has ceased to be the personal property of a Primate. Hereafter it will be possible for any man of brains to get to the front in politics occasionally. The chief requisite for promotion will no longer be a willingness to blow down before Roscoe Conkling and bump the ground with the forehead three times each morning.

Secretary Blaine's foreign policy is to be "vigorous" in no particular more than in respect of the complaints of German-American citizens who are forced by the German Government, upon their return to the fatherland, into the army or, in lieu thereof, into jail.

The crusade against the smoking of cigarettes seems only to increase the consumption of tobacco in that form. It is an ill wind that blows nobody good, and the Government is making a million dollars a year out of the cigarette smokers.

Rev. Rufus F. Green of Morris County, N. J., in looking over some old historical documents, found an account of an attempt to assassinate General Washington in the summer of 1776. A member of Washington's life guard was implicated and was hanged June 28, 1776.

A New York man committed suicide because he failed in the lager beer business. He doubtless argued that a man who failed in that business could not hope to make a living at anything.

The unprotected railroad crossing and the equally murderous hip-pocket have not yet been suppressed. A more highly civilized people wouldn't stand these things.

A sensation has been created in Cincinnati society by the fact brought out in court that a gentleman very prominent in society circles had kicked his wife out of bed because she refused to polish his boots.

A correspondent writes of General Grant's cottage at Long Branch: "Here the General smokes cigars of interminable length, chats with his old friends, and--let it be whispered of a hero and statesman--eats soft shell crabs by the dozen. I say it advisedly, and there are people who declare that, in self-defense, the General has made up the story that he is following his physician's orders as to fish diet in the quantity of this dainty which he consumes."

Longfellow the poet thus writes on growing old: "To those who ask how I can write so many things that sound as if I were a boy, please say that there is in this neighborhood, or neighboring town, a pear-tree planted by Gov. Endicott, two hundred years old, and it still bears fruit not to be distinguished from the young tree in flavor. I suppose the tree makes new wood every year, so that part of it is always young. Perhaps that is the way with some men when they grow old. I hope it is so with me."

Shakspeare uses more different words than any other writer in the English language. Writers on statistics of words inform us that he uses about 15,000 in his plays and sonnets, while there is no other writer who uses so many as 10,000. Some few writers use as many as 9,000 words, but the great majority of writers do not employ more than 8,000. In conversation, only from 3,000 to 5,000 different words are used.

Sentiment.

The prejudices of men, and their failure to understand each other, are the principal causes of their bitterness and ill-treatment.

The Little Naturalist.

I'm tired of every sort of play, And as it's pleasant weather, We'll go and spend our holiday, The birds and I together.

CHILDREN'S WORK.

Red roads are the last places that criminals should approach; the depth of great towns are no hiding-places for those guilty of enormous misdeeds.

Les Silhouettes.

The sea is streaked with bars of gray, The dull dead light is out of tune, And like a withered leaf the moon Is blown across the stormy bay.

OCSEA WILDER.

On the low bank sit with folded hands, Ladies, in addition to the lonely day, Watching the bees come, watching lights at play.

Bits of Things.

SOME LITTLE THINGS. The little spring Is a tiny thing, But its flowing waves give life to the wilting earth.

Pennsylvania Dutch.

The Emperor of Austria speaks all the languages of his people (say this, learn), and yet does not understand Pennsylvania Dutch, the tongue employed by Minister Orth.

The meanest man on record is in New York.

He invited a night watchman to take a drink, and slyly put in a powerful stimulant that would keep the man awake all night.

Dissent in Russia.

Seats that cost their numbers among the millions—Dangerous to the czar.

The extraordinary increase of socialism in all parts of the Russian Empire threatens to prove a more serious danger to the government than the even nihilism itself.

The Boatman's Daughter.

An incident in the Napoleonic Wars. In the memorable year 1814, when the allied armies were concentrated about Paris, a young lieutenant of dragoons was engaged with three or four Hungarians, who, after having received several smart strokes from his sabre, managed to send a ball into the shoulder of his place, and to leave him for dead on the bank of the river.

All Sorts from All Points.

Literary: A belle of Narragansett is writing a novel in which the hero is found in the desert chained to the bare back of a bicyclic.

The Wonders of Military.

A very striking illustration of the possibility of military without drillery was afforded once by the famous Coulon, who may be described as at once the fool and physician at the court of one of the Louis.

My First Voyage.

Years ago, when I was a boy, I went aboard a merchant vessel bound to the West Indies, named the Boreas.

The Best Soldiers.

It has long been a mooted point whether single or married men make the best soldiers.

A Small Locomotive.

Mr. W. G. Bagnall, of Stafford England, has just completed the smallest locomotive ever fitted together for actual use.

What they know about Four Thousand cars ago.

From one of these books, compiled after the manner of our modern cyclopaedias, and the compilation of which is shown to have been more than 2000 B. C. it has been ascertained, what has long been supposed, that Chaldeans used the past tense of verbs differently from other books.

Woman's Headaches.

The New York Herald, which devotes most of its space to news, has published a brief editorial on woman's headaches, which is certainly more suggestive than many of the articles in that paper.

A Negro Boy's Tough Liver.

A little negro boy whose parents live at Georgetown, a settlement of colored persons near Charlottesville, Va., but whose name we cannot now recall, met with an accident which it was believed would prove fatal.

The Cyclopaedia War.

The month of July, 1887, witnesses the completion of the largest and most important literary work this country and the century have seen. It is the Library of Universal Knowledge, large type edition, in 15 large octavo volumes, containing 10 per cent more matter than Appleton's Cyclopaedia, at less than one-fifth its cost, and 20 per cent more than Johnson's Cyclopaedia, at a little more than one-fourth its cost. Chambers's Cyclopaedia, which forms the basis of the Library of Universal Knowledge (the last London edition of 1880 being reprinted verbatim as a portion of its contents), is the laborious product of a life of scholarship. It has developed a new era in encyclopaedia making; its various editions, in successive years, till it has come to be universally recognized, by those competent to judge, as standing at the very front of great aggregations of knowledge, and better adapted than any other Cyclopaedia for popular use. It contains such full and important information as the ordinary reader, or the careful student, is likely to seek, upon about 25,000 subjects in every department of human knowledge. Chambers's Cyclopaedia, however, is a foreign production, edited and published for a foreign market, and could not be expected to give as much prominence to American topics as our American editors and writers have added important articles upon about 15,000 topics, covering the entire field of human knowledge, bringing the whole number of titles under one alphabetical arrangement to about 40,000. Thus the work is thoroughly Americanized, and the Library of Universal Knowledge becomes at once the latest and most complete Cyclopaedia in the field, at a mere fraction of the cost of any similar work which has preceded it.

Price of the 15 volumes, complete, in extra cloth binding, $15.00. In half Russia, sprinkled edges, $20.00. In half Russia, gilt top, $22.50. In full library sheep, marbled edges, $25.00.
The superlative value and importance of this great Encyclopaedia lies especially in the fact that it is brought within the reach of every one who aspires after knowledge and culture. It is really a library of universal knowledge, which brings a liberal education easily within the reach of every apprentice boy of the city. Every farmer and every mechanic in the land owes it to himself and to his children that such a Cyclopaedia shall henceforward form a part of the outfit of his home. To the professional man, and every person of intelligence in every walk of life, a Cyclopaedia is a necessity.

Of course the old and wealthy publishers who have grown rich (it is said that the Appletons have made a profit of nearly two million dollars on their Cyclopaedia) from the sale of their high-priced publications are not pleased that their monopolies are broken and their power overthrown. Of course the book agents and booksellers who have been used to getting from 40 to 60 per cent commission for selling these high-priced books are not so well pleased to sell the Library of Universal Knowledge on 15 per cent commission, though those who are not short-sighted discover that their own interests, after all, are identical with the interests of the people, and their real profits, in the end, are increased, by the immense sales which result from meeting the people's wants. The majority of booksellers, however, are better pleased to stand than to sell this and our numerous other standard and incomparably low-priced publications. But the Literary Revolution has always looked to the people, in whose interests it is, for its patronage, and it has never looked in vain, as our more than one million volumes printed last year (this year being increased to probably more than two millions) abundantly prove. You can order the Cyclopaedia directly from us, and by uniting with your neighbors and friends you can secure club rates as follows:

discount of 10 per cent will be allowed to any one ordering at one time three or more sets of the Cyclopaedia; and a discount of 15 per cent will be allowed to any one ordering five or more sets at one time.
As a special inducement to our friends and patrons to go to work promptly and vigorously, each doing what he can for the dissemination of universal knowledge, we propose to distribute $10,000 in special premiums as follows, in addition to the regular discount to clubs:
$5,000 Reward to be distributed equally among the first 500 club agents who send us clubs of not less than five subscribers, after June 15th and before September 1st.
$5,000 Reward in addition to the first $5,000 to be distributed among the 100 club agents who, during the same time, send us the largest number of subscribers.
Not less than twenty in number, the amount to be distributed proportionately to the whole number of subscribers which each of the 100 club agents may send us.
The names of the subscribers must in every case be forwarded to us. The first $5,000 named will be distributed as specified as rapidly as the orders are received, and the remaining $5,000 will be distributed promptly on Sept. 1st. The names of the persons receiving these rewards will be printed, with the amounts received by each, and the list sent to all the club agents entering into competition for them. Subscribers must be actual purchasers for individual use, to entitle the club agent to the rewards under this offer, and not book-sellers or agents who buy to sell again.
Persons desiring to raise clubs may send us at once for sample volumes, if they desire, in the various styles of binding, paying us 75 cents for the volume in cloth, $1.00 for the volume in half Russia, sprinkled edge, and $1.25 for the volume in library sheep. Orders for the full sets will be filled by us with the utmost promptness, within our ability to manufacture, beginning not later than July 10th, orders being filled in the order of their receipt by us.
Specimen pages of the "Library of Universal Knowledge" will be sent free upon request. Descriptive catalogue of our large list of standard publications, with terms to clubs, and illustrated pamphlet describing book-making and type-setting by steam, will be sent upon application. Remit by bank draft, money order, registered letter, or by express. Fractions of $1.00 may be sent in postage stamps.

What is it that makes all those men who associate habitually with women superior to those who do not? What makes that woman who is accustomed to, and at ease in, the society of men, superior to her sex in general? Solely because they are in the habit of free, graceful, continued conversations, with the other sex. Women in this way lose their frivolity, their futilities awaken, their delicacies and peculiarities unfold all their beauty and captivation in the spirit of intellectual rivalry. And the men lose their pedantic, rude, declamatory, or sullen manner. The coin of the understanding and the heart changes continually. Their asperities are rubbed off, their better materials polished and brightened, and their richness, like gold, is wrought into finer workmanship by the fingers of women than it ever could be by those of men. The iron and steel of the characters are hidden, like the character and armor of a giant, by studs and knots of gold and precious stones, when they not wanted in actual warfare.

One of the most remarkable displays of Nature may be seen on the Atlantic coast, eighteen miles south of St. Augustine. Off Matanzas Inlet, and three miles from shore, a mammoth freshwater spring gurgles up from the depth of the ocean with such force and volume as to attract the attention of all who come in its immediate vicinity. This fountain is large, bold, and turbulent. It is noticeable to fishermen and others passing in small boats along near the shore. For many years this wonderful and mysterious freak of Nature has been known to the people of St. Augustine and those living along the shore, and some of the superstitious ones have been taught to regard it with a kind of reverential awe, or holy horror, as the abode of supernatural influences. When the waters of the ocean in its vicinity are otherwise calm and tranquil; the upheaving and troubled appearance of the water shows unmistakable evidences of internal commotions. An area of about half an acre shows this troubled appearance,—something similar to the boiling of a washer-woman's kettle. Six or eight years ago Commodore HITCHCOCK, of the United States Coast Survey, was passing this place, and his attention was directed to the spring by the upheavings of the water, which threw his ship from her course as she entered the spring. His curiosity becoming excited by this circumstance, he set to work to examine its surroundings, and found six fathoms of water everywhere in the vicinity, while the spring itself was almost fathomless.
