L. Bamberger & Co. of Newark
Start Work on $1,500,000 Addition to Their Store

Four old buildings, including the historic eight-story Metropolitan Building at Market and Washington Streets, are being razed, and ground will soon be broken for what in all probability is the most extensive downtown building operation that Newark has witnessed in many years. The four bays at the extreme left of the picture show the extent of the Market street side of the new building.

Shortly after the completion of the present Bamberger store in 1912, this firm, realizing that future expansion would be necessary, began to acquire additional land in the block in which the new building was situated. Parcel after parcel passed into their hands until the entire block bounded by Market, Halsey, Bank and Washington Streets came under Bamberger control.

It is upon the Washington and Market Street corner that the firm is now preparing to erect an addition which, when completed, will increase the size of the present store by 25 per cent. or, in round numbers, afford an additional 100,000 gross square feet, giving the greater store in the neighborhood of a half million gross square feet of floor space. The present frontage on Market Street is 124 feet. The new building will increase this to 250 feet. The present facade on Washington Street is 112 feet, which will be increased to 200 feet.

There will be three large entrances on Market Street and one on Washington Street. The Halsey Street entrances, of which there are three, will remain as they are.

The same dignified Gothic architecture which marks the present store will be faithfully adhered to, thus giving to Market Street a facade which in point of extent and architectural beauty, will have few counterparts in America today.

The new addition will be part and parcel of the present store. There will be no doorways or walls to obstruct the view. There will be a system of up and down escalators in the new building from the first to the third floor. The present escalators will, of course, remain as they are.

On the roof of the new building there will be a recreation room and restaurant for the co-workers of the store. This room, which will be constructed entirely of glass, will be one of the finest and most modern of its kind in the United States. It will contain over 3,000 square feet of floor space and accommodate over 500 diners at one time. Modern electric kitchens will be installed as well as special refrigerating facilities. For this commodious restaurant and recreation room will be afforded a view of the four sides of Newark.

In the rear of the restaurant will be a 100x28 ft. solarium in which co-workers may rest or read.

A portion of the basement of the new store will be excavated to a double level. The secondary level, which will be used for the present as a storage place for merchandise, will eventually provide space for a vast extension of the present engine room and refrigerating plant.

Twenty-eight years ago, L. Bamberger & Co. occupied two floors in a building 50x200 feet. A few years later the little store had grown to such an extent that the entire six-floor building was occupied. Another building was added in 1898, which increased the Bamberger floor space by 100 per cent. In 1906 another addition was built extending clear back to Bank Street.

1912 saw the opening of the new store—the "Great White Store," as Newark proudly calls it. This building, which is regarded as one of the most notable department stores in the country, will be vastly improved by the addition of the new corner. Jarvis Hunt, of Chicago, is architect of the present building. Hunt has drawn the plans for the new addition. Martin Schwab, of Chicago, is consulting engineer. The architect, also of Chicago, are the future architects.

MINISTER DISCUSSES HIS WIFE'S TROUBLES

Rev. A. H. Sykes, former pastor of the Watkins Park Presbyterian church, Nashville, Tenn., says: "After seeing what Tanlac has accomplished in my wife's case, I am convinced that it is a medicine of great power and extraordinary merit. I do not think I have ever seen anything give such prompt results. Mrs. Sykes had been in delicate health for ten months, suffering from stomach trouble and nervous breakdown. "I frequently sought medical advice but Tanlac is the only thing that gave her any relief. After taking the medicine only a short time, she was able to sit up and help with the household duties. I think it only a short time until her health will be fully restored. Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so. But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions. Many need for a simple bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Express Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

The Man Who Would Be Wild

By MARY MORISON

(Copyright, 1921, by McClure, Newspaper Syndicate.)

John Carey's sister swung her pretty self down from the lilted top of his big mahogany desk and regarded him with stern approval.
"What do you get out of life, anyway, Johnny?" she demanded. "You sit here all day figuring out how Tom Smith can win his old lawsuit against Ben Jones, or how Mrs. Brown can get a divorce from her horrid husband—your head all tied up in nasty law books—and then you come home dog-tired and go to bed. What sort of existence is that?"

Her young voice was growing louder and louder with pent-up indignation. "What you need is to live—even if you do get into a scrape like some of your clients and have to engage another lawyer to pull you out of it," she continued. "For heaven's sake, Johnny, show that you are human—be wild, for once in your life!"
And with a toss of her head, she slammed the office door behind her, leaving the room oddly cold and sunless.

John Carey laughed at the storm his refusal to neglect his carefully built up practice for one afternoon and go to a tea dance instead had raised. He picked up his interrupted work with a determined air, as he muttered to himself:

"Tea dance! Good Lord! John Carey at a tea dance! Ridiculous! But somehow the afternoon work was spoiled. John looked at the paper before him and read to himself: "Party of the first part" while in his ears echoed his sister's parting words to tantalize and distract him: "What do you get out of life, anyway, Johnny? Be wild, for once in your life. Show that you are human!"
He gazed somberly in front of him, seeing nothing, but thinking hard. After all, was the girl right? He didn't seem to be getting much joy out of life. Perhaps he was walking example of the adage that says all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. This was a new and disturbing thought for John Carey, middle-aged attorney-at-law. He left his desk abruptly and walked across to the window, looking moodily out at the early spring sunshine.

"Wild? Jove, I believe I'd like to be wild," were the surprising words he found himself muttering. "I've worked too hard all my life and have forgotten how to enjoy things—that's the unpalatable truth of the matter. How the deuce does a fellow go about it, though?"

The click, click of his stenographer's machine in the little waiting room outside generated his thoughts with an odd persistency. He opened the door and looked across to where she sat, tapping out words and knitting her brow over some especially difficult phraseology. For the first time in the two years Mrs. Bronson had been working for him John noticed that her hair was very pretty when the sunlight caught it and that her brown eyes were quite unusual in size and beauty.

"By Jove," he muttered to himself, "that's the answer. A man to be wild always asks his stenographer out to lunch or dinner. It's 4 o'clock. I'll go to the Billmore will do as a matter. I'll do it!"
Mrs. Bronson looked up in surprise when he walked over to her desk and stood looking down at her silently. She regarded him inquiringly, waiting for him to speak.

"Look here, Mrs. Bronson," said John Carey at last, "you've worked here now for two years and must have formed an opinion of some kind during that time. What sort of man do you think I am?"
Hilda Bronson laughed, and for the first time John noticed how white and even her teeth were.

"I think I'd call you a 'nice' man, Mr. Carey," she answered.
"That's the deuce of it!" exclaimed John. "I don't want to be 'nice'—I want to be wild—be human—enjoy life, and I and I don't know how.

will you help me? Will you, for instance, go out to tea with me and teach me how to toddle? My sister tells me that's the latest thing in the dance line."
Hilda threw back her head in the most musical burst of laughter John had ever heard—or ever noticed. I should say, "Of course I will," she said. "I've never been wild, either, and I think it would be too dashing for words to teach my employer how to drink tea and toddle."
When, fifteen minutes later, John Carey and Mrs. Bronson left the office behind them and entered a taxi for the Billmore, John told her he had never felt so utterly young and reckless in his life before.

IT WORKED THE OTHER WAY

Checker Player's Opponent Was the One to Get the Benefit (?) of Those Cigars.
A general storekeeper in an Indiana town, whose name was synonymous with all that is popular in the game of checkers, received a box of cigars from an enthusiastic drummer from Chicago during the course of the merchant's last battle with an ex-champion from Missouri.

"With those cigars," said the donor, "you can beat the world."
"Well," said the storekeeper, quietly and significantly, "I have to play Jones this afternoon."
"Never mind, old man; with those cigars you will play all right."
Later in the day they met again, and the storekeeper informed the drummer that he had won a game from Jones that afternoon.

"Fine! Those cigars were a help?"
"I hardly think so," said the storekeeper.
"Didn't you smoke them?"
"No, I don't smoke. But I gave one to Jones."—Philadelphia Ledger.

"He stated to interviewers that his health was poor, and that for weeks at a time he was unable to hop."

"Cholly!" He hung upon her every word. "Gusde—" "Oh, I see; she kept him in suspense!"

AS MEASURE OF PRECAUTION
Custom of Touching Glasses Before Drinking Had Origin in the Fear of Poison.
The custom of touching glasses before drinking had its origin in the same idea of safety which led men to shake hands with the right hand—as an assurance that they were conveying no weapon—and to raise the helmet to women or others whom they respected.

In the days when duelling was at its height it was customary for the combatants to pause for a moment before taking their positions and drink a glass of wine supplied by the seconds. In order to make certain that this wine had not been tampered with, one glass was filled to the brim and then half of its contents was emptied into the glass of the adversary, so that if any attempt had been made to poison the wine of the duellist, each of them would be equally affected.

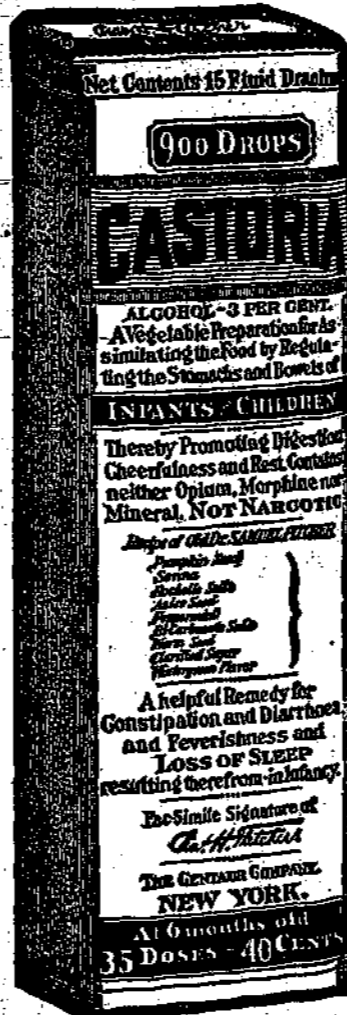

The practice, reminiscent of the days of the Borgias, passed out with the custom of the duel, but the habit of touching glasses or holding them up as if preparatory to touching them, remained as a silent reminder of the time when no man dared trust anyone, but went always armed and prepared for trouble.

Making History.

INFANT MORTALITY in past ages has been something frightful, something almost beyond belief, and even today it occupies the time and the mind of leading physicians in all countries. The death rate among infants is being gradually reduced through new methods of hygiene, new preventatives and new remedies for infants. This reduction in the death rate has NOT been accomplished by adapting the precautions taken and remedies used by adults. Rather has it been to keep clear of the old methods, and choose after long research the precautions and remedies specifically applicable to infants.

This being so, is it necessary for us to caution mothers against trying to give her baby relief with a remedy that she would use for herself? Will she remember that Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for infants and children?

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Of Course You Love Your Baby.

You love it because of its very helplessness, because it can't tell you what is the matter when it feels bad. It can only cry and look to you for help. But the more you love baby, the more you want to help baby, the more you ought to realize what a wonderful remedy Fletcher's Castoria is. It has been used for babies' ailments for over thirty years.

An experienced doctor discovered Fletcher's Castoria especially for babies' use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. Doctors who know what is safe and best for babies have only good to say of it.

Don't neglect your baby. Get a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria and give baby a few doses of it. See how the little one smiles at you as if trying to thank you for helping it. Soon you will learn to depend on Fletcher's Castoria, made just for Infants and Children, and of course you would not think of using anything for them that was not prepared especially for Infants and Children. So keep it in the house.

IF IT HADN'T BEEN SUNDAY

Cook Certainly Would Not Have Overlooked the Use of That Insulting Pronoun.

The ritual of society, as women make it, is very exacting the world over, even in almshouses. In this relation there is told a story showing the serious difficulty that arose among a set of workhouse officials in a Western town.

The infirmaries nurses, three in number, had demanded a separate sitting room and the delirium of Sunday dinner therein, and the matron had sought to humble them by sending the cook to enjoy her Sunday dinner in their company. The brawny cook described what occurred as follows:

"Well, Nurse Jones, she comes down, and gets inside the door. 'Four-fourth?' she says. 'Four?' Who's the fourth?' 'Me,' says I. 'You!' she says, and with that she tosses her head and walks away."
Here the cook drew a long breath, and then continued: "If it hadn't been Sunday, gentlemen, I should have let her have it for calling me 'you'!"—Exchange.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 27, 1921

Dr. Cunningham wishes us to say that he could not be a candidate for Coroner if he so wished, as neither Sheriff nor Coroner can succeed himself. The doctor has already served six terms of three years each. It is really interesting to watch the old base-ball fans—the has-beens, some of them—a practicing for the coming game between the Chamber of Commerce and the Hammonton Regulars, in the near future. Maybe they don't feel sore the next morning after a stiff practice.

That newspaper advertising pays was demonstrated the past week by our young hustler, Anthony Rice, hardware dealer. The seven hundred sales on Saturday was a record-breaker, and proved that every intelligent person reads at least one of the local newspapers.

There are some people who have so little honor that they would steal the gold out of their dead mother's teeth, if they could. They have the idea that theft is not wrong unless they get caught at it. When accused of the theft they boldly plead, "I didn't know it was yours," and don't appear to understand when you reply, "But you knew it didn't belong to you." As we intimated last week, the melon patch visitors who eat what they want and destroy what is ripe, should be taught a lasting lesson.

Money is a very scarce article in Hammonton, at least we merchants see far too little of it. If you have any of the pile left from your high wages received at the plant, just look up your last subscription receipt, and see if it isn't time to visit the editor again.

Secure your tickets for the Chautauqua now, and show the guarantee that you approve of high-class entertainments. A Chautauqua town is one to be proud of. This year's program, as will be seen on another page, is the best ever presented in Hammonton, and well worth the two and a half.

That advertisement of Monfort's is unique and to the point. We've all had the same thought, but it took Friend Howard and our "comp." to put it into readable shape.

That proposition of the voters at the school meeting to purchase Dr. Wags property and the Union Hall corner, we believe a very good one. A better location for the new school house—which will be erected in a couple of years at the latest—could not be found. The Board of Education will consider the purchase, and doubtless call the voters together ere long to authorize the issuing of bonds.

"Who will be our next mayor?" is on the lips of nearly every citizen, just now. We were asked the question this week, and we answered, "Either Doc or Tom." Friend Cunningham has been a fearless executive, spending much valuable time on town business, and even autographing his own patents. And Tom Evans, whom everybody likes, was also a good official, progressive, and fair to all. If O. Packard, it is stated, is another candidate. He has made good in other public work. If we were betting, we would hesitate over which one to place our money on as the winner.

Isn't it time to change from the unsatisfactory Cool time? Littlefield Co. have issued a blotter, the contents of which have struck us as especially appropriate at this time. It reads like this:

A BIRD IN THE HAND.

"A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."
We are taught by our dads and the rest of the push.
But here is a motor that's equally fine;
"A car on the way is worth two at the mine."
But the car on the way may be slow on the move;
The fact may another great principle prove.
The car may not move half a mile in a day,
So "A car in the yard is worth two on the way."
But even a yard may be down on its luck,
Have trouble with horses, or wagon, or truck.
Whatever you need, be it soft coal or hard,
"A ton in the bin is worth two in the yard."

PAIGE

The Most Beautiful Car in America.

More Than Par Value

At the new price of $1635 the five-passenger "Glenbrook" gives you gratifying evidence of how far your dollar can go today.

Here is a brand new product—not an old model carried over as a 1921 motor car. And it is a sound, practical investment because with the Paige first cost is last cost.

The "Glenbrook" is endowed with the thrift idea. It has respect for your pocket book when it comes to gasoline, tire mileage and repair bills. And as for performance—

Imagine a motor that accelerates from five to twenty-five miles an hour in nine seconds flat! Then you will have a new vision of what to expect when you sit behind the wheel of the "Glenbrook" and accept any challenge of the road.

Importance and Superiority of Chandler's Magneto Ignition

Chandler ignition is supplied by the Bosch High-Tension Magneto, as it has been always. Most high-priced American cars and all foreign cars are magneto equipped. The fastest racing records have been made by magneto-equipped cars. Nearly all airplanes and motor driven fire apparatus and nearly 100 per cent of all farm tractors have magneto equipment. The great majority of trucks are magneto equipped.

There is no question as to the marked superiority of magneto ignition. We could make a considerable saving by the use of a distributor system, which is called upon to start the starter, blow the horns, light the lights, charge the battery and furnish the ignition. The greater efficiency of magneto ignition more than compensates for our added expense.

The magneto gives the Chandler motor a hotter, fatter spark, igniting the gas quickly and completely, and its simplicity of wiring and absolute dependability, independent of any other unit, makes it the ideal ignition system.

Worship through Music

The prevalent idea that one may worship through music has lately had adequate substantiation in the inauguration of the "Epworth Musical Services for Worship," which have been introduced in a number of leading churches by Mr. Paul Shirley, viola d'amore soloist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Success has crowned the efforts of this accomplished musician whose personal musical accomplishments are unique. He is the only viola d'amore concert soloist in the country, having received this little-known instrument which was so popular in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. It is said that he gets all the possibilities out of the fourteen strings, seven of which are used to play on, while the other seven vibrate in tune.

Local musicians will be interested in the two concerts which Mr. Shirley's company will give on the second day of the coming Chautauqua. He will be ably assisted by Mrs. Marjorie W. Leadbetter, soprano soloist, also very popular in the "Epworth Services"; Miss Kathryn E. Perkins, accomplished harpist and Miss Milder Lanika, sympathetic accompanist.

UNIVERSAL GALA WEEK.

You remember how the whistles shrieked and the bells tolled and everybody shouted themselves hoarse when the news was flashed across the broad expanse that the bloody war was over and the world had been saved from the destructive forces of the Arch Dictator? It was Gala time. The motion picture theatre owners and exhibitors of America have been fighting a bloodless fight for the past two years in an endeavor to save your theatres and your screens from the destructive monopolistic forces of a band of producers and a Wall Street gang whose aim it was to secure control by fair or foul means, (chiefly the latter) of the majority of moving picture theatres throughout the land, trustify the industry, and give you pictures with the dollar mark thereon in place of clean, wholesome, straight from the heart pictures. We have chopped off the most dangerous of these tentacles, and the others will follow shortly, and we are commorating our deliverance—your deliverance or independence, by a "Gala Week" of pictures from the studios of the foremost independent producer in the United States of America, Carl Laemmle, of the Universal. Later on I shall have some wonderful news to tell you, regarding the uses our screens are going to be put to for the betterment and uplift of humanity.

Vocational Teachers Enjoy Trip.

The annual improvement and inspection trip of the Vocational Agricultural Teachers of New Jersey was a success in every way. The teachers met from all parts of the state at Hammonton on Monday, August 15th, and visited some of the farmers with whom Mr. F. J. Freds has been working. The second day of the trip was spent in the Egg Harbor section, among the farmers with whom Mr. Friable has been working, and on Wednesday the day was spent in the shore district visiting farmers with whom Mr. H. A. Miller has been working. Thursday, Friday and Saturday were spent in Cape May County visiting men and boys with whom Mr. S. E. Stone and Mr. R. E. Reeves have been working as agricultural instructors.

Atlantic and Cape May Counties have for the past several years conducted evening classes for adult farmers who desire to improve their methods and acquaint themselves with the latest scientific research in the agricultural field. We have been practically pioneers in this particular type of work in the United States. All of the teachers who were present on this trip, together with the State Supervisor and his Assistant and the Regional Director appointed by the Federal Board for Vocational Education were greatly pleased with the results and complimented the various teachers on the magnitude and efficiency with which the work was being done with the adult farmers, and expressed their hearty approval of the way in which Atlantic County and Cape May County teachers were attacking the problem and securing the cooperation of the farmers, and the way in which the agriculture of the section was being improved through the teaching of spraying, the mixing and application of fertilizers, farm management and the various other farm problems which are being carried out and studied by the farmers and teachers. The past few years have been marked by a decided increase in the production of better quality farm products, and in the up-building of the soils for a permanent system of agriculture. Aside from the favorable comments made by the teachers, the representative of the Federal Board in discussing the methods in the classroom and on the farm, gave his hearty approval of the work, and offered some further suggestions to bring this work to an even higher plane.

The trip was not without its pleasant features. All of the men visited Atlantic City, Wildwood and Cape May, many of them for the first time. Great sport was enjoyed fishing in the Delaware Bay, and a large catch resulted.

The Women's Auxiliary, F. A. Fuuston Post, No. 186, of the American Legion, will hold a cake sale on the lawn of Mrs. David Cottrill, Second and Vine Streets, on Saturday, August 27th, at 2 p. m.
