The Cheapest

AND

The Best!

Life Insurance at Actual Cost

THE NATIONAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF CHICAGO, it invites the attention of those contemplating insuring their lives to its Mutual or Reciprocal

PLAN, which enables even the poorest man to provide for his family in case of death, without depriving them of the necessities of life, as do many who endeavor to pay the high premiums of old line companies, who charge for Assured DUES, LOSSES WHICH NEVER OCCUR, and then add a heavy loading for extravagant expenses. On this plan you only pay for the cash losses actually experienced, and as they occur, with a small fixed sum for expenses. Call on the agent for circular fully explaining this system.

The Practical Results!

Since its organization, in 1870, the NATIONAL has paid in death losses $57,760, at a cost to the deceased of $791,000 in premiums. Old Line Companies would have paid, on the same premium $21,221, showing a gain by insuring in the NATIONAL of over $36,000.
The Capital and Securities of this Company are sufficient to comply with the Insurance laws of any State in the Union.

GRAND JOHN BROWN SONG.

Enclosed I send some lines written, it is said, by a nephew of Bishop Brownell, of Hartford. They were published early in the war, and are, as you will see, a fine graft upon the old "sour apple tree." The idea of the old hero, as a spectre form hovering above the battle-field and leading on the charge, is very fine. I hope you will think it worth while to give them a place in your columns, for they well deserve a place beside Mrs. Howe's grand battle hymn.
Yours, respectfully,
G. W. P.
Newton Centre, Aug. 4.
Boston Transcript.

John Brown's body lies mouldering in the grave,
John Brown's body lies mouldering in the grave,
But John Brown's soul is marching with the brave,

His soul is marching on!
Glory, glory, Hallelujah, etc.

He has gone to be a soldier in the army of the Lord,
He is sworn in as a private in the ranks of the Lord,
He shall stand at Armageddon with his brave old sword,

When men are marching on!
Glory, glory, Hallelujah.

He shall file in front when the lines of battle form,
He shall face to front when the squares of battle form,

Time to the column, and charge with the storm!
When men are marching on!

Glory, glory, Hallelujah.

Ha! foul traitors, do you see him when he comes?
Ha! black traitors, do you hear him when he comes!

In the thunder of the cannon and the roll of the drums!
When men are marching on!

Glory, glory, Hallelujah.

Men may die and moulder in the dust,
Men may die and turn again to dust,
But John Brown's soul is forever with the just;

His soul is marching on!
Glory, glory, Hallelujah.

Reform Democracy.

Wherever the Democracy get into power under the theory of reform and economy, they soon give the lie to their professions and show by their conduct that their pretences are as hollow as their policies are depraved. It is so in New Hampshire and Missouri, and notably in Connecticut, the legislature of which State has recently adjourned, after electing W. W. Eaton, one of the most venomous copperheads of the war period, to the Senate of the United States. This act alone should stamp the party with the ineffable mark of disgrace. It illustrates the truth of the charge that the old virus of treason and disloyalty still courses through the veins of the party, and if permitted to extend itself would poison the entire body politic of the country. The result of the triumph of Democracy in Connecticut, especially in the legislature, has been such that the people of that State will not be anxious to try the experiment of investing it with power again very soon. No wholesome laws were enacted during the session; but on the contrary, the registry laws were changed in the interest of fraudulent voting, unscrupulous officials were displaced by rix politicians, gerrymandering was tried where it promised partisan success, local self-government was disregarded, and the agricultural interests of the State shamefully ignored. Though the farmers asked for special laws calculated to promote their interests, the only legislation they secured was an act authorizing towns to give bounty of $5 on each "ox killed" the railroads obtained all they wanted, for they bought up the legislature with iron money, and the miserable tools of these rix corporations, on the last day of the session by a trick repealed the act passed two years previously, to protect farmers, principally, requiring the railroads to fence all lands adjoining their tracks. The New Haven Palladium sums up the general character of the legislation of the session, in the following words: "The registry law was repealed avowedly in the interest of partisanship, and in violation of the pledges given by the majority of the Democratic press before election. The right of the cities of the state to govern themselves was contemptuously ignored, in spite of the protests of Democratic members who believed in Democratic principles. In a word, except in the concoction of partisan schemes, the Democratic and reform Legislature of 1874 has shown itself the most incompetent body that ever assembled in Connecticut; and even in its partisanship it blundered so egregiously that the most intelligent Democrats are now already ashamed of the work in which they were compelled to share." "If Democracy fail as a law-making agency, it has a happy faculty of voting away the people's money. A large number of hangers-on about the capitol were voted appropriations for work they had not performed. A pen and ink sketch of the plan of the seats of the house, the execution of which required about three days' time, was paid for by the liberal appropriation of $150. It was a petty steal, but characteristic. The reporters, who were paid for their services by their employers, were voted $200 each—a gross steal of $4,500. And so it went—all who had claims, and many who had none at all, were allowed to run their hands into the public treasury and bring out as much of the people's money as it was prudent to allow them to carry off. Democracy thus illustrated its old time belief in the divine right of the party to plunder at will. The session of the legislature was one of the longest on record; and in consequence of the generosity of the railroad companies in granting free passes, so many of the members absented themselves that the house was more than two thirds of the time without a quorum!

GEN. BUTLER'S RIVAL.—The Boston Journal of Monday says: "Gen. Butler will soon be obliged to take his coat off and look after the chances of his re-election in the Sixth District. A formidable opposition has developed itself, and Gen. William Cogswell is the chosen champion of those who do not propose to accept the present situation. We understand that Gen. Cogswell has consented to run, and his friends will seek to secure him the nomination of the Republican Convention. The many claims of the new candidate will fall to his support hundreds who have not taken much active part in politics for some time, while not a few of the friends of Gen. Butler who have been active in his behalf are ready, it is stated, to go in for Gen. Cogswell with a rush. It has been ascertained from a reliable source that Spain, instead of carrying into effect the understanding of the Fish-Lolo protocol—namely to investigate the conduct of those of its authorities who have infringed on the Spanish laws or treaty obligations, and to punish those who may have offended—has made a demand of indemnity in the affair of the Virginias, and for other alleged wrongs suffered by Spain, owing to the expeditions fitted out in this country and landing or attempting to land men en masse on the Spanish-American coast. To this demand our Government has replied in firm but courteous terms, asserting the untenableness of the position of the Spanish Government, and reminding it of the remissness or the excusable delay in making reparation for the wrongs suffered by American citizens, in person and property. The latest information from Minister Cushing is that he is still pressing our demands on Spain. It seems certain the clause in the protocol providing that reciprocal reclamations shall be the subject of consideration between the two Governments will not end satisfactorily, in which case it will become the subject of arbitration, as per agreement, providing the constitutional assent of the Senate of the United States shall be given to it.

DEMOCRATIC RULE.—That New Hampshire experienced the usual results in submitting itself to Democratic control is well shown by a brief summing up in the Concord Monitor, which says: "They announced a short session; they made it one of the longest ever held. They declared a purpose to legislate for the people, they legislated for themselves only. They made great professions of economy; it would require a more powerful microscope than any yet invented to discover any exhibition of this quality. They professed a regard for civil service; they have illustrated that regard by a general removal of Republican office-holders on partisan grounds wholly, not sparing even the Judges on the bench."

That "Party of the Future."

There is no use passing resolutions that the Democratic party is a party of the future, nor of the past, unless the name be dropped. An individual does not deny his past history because of the good deeds it contains, but because it is a record of bad ones. If the Democratic Party of this country, with the brilliant opportunities it has had for the accomplishment of grand achievements, has created such a record, that the leaders wish it might be turned to ashes and forgotten, what right or reason have they to speak of the future of the party in such glowing terms? The past is so full of plunders and crimes as to shame the present, and make the leaders declare the party a party of the future and not of the past. This is not only an attempt to conceal a dishonorable record, but it betrays a guilty purpose. It is not a frank and open confession of an ill-spent life coupled with a sincere promise of reform.

A bad yet ambitious man, when asking his fellow-citizens to trust him in an important position, would be strongly inclined to hide his past history. This is just what the Democracy are doing when they resolve themselves to be a party of the future and not of the past. On the other hand, a good man, when asked to fill a place of trust, has the right to call the attention of his fellow-citizens to an honorable record as the best possible indication as to what they would have a right to expect of him in a new and still more responsible position than he had before occupied. This is just what the Republican party is doing. It points to its record in asking for a continuance of public confidence. It has a record which it claims, and of which it is proud. It is a party of the present, having well understood views as to the political duty of the day. But the Democracy resolve that they are "a party of the future, not of the past!"

Two years ago the World denounced the "Liberals" as a set of imposters. A few weeks later it declared that they, with the aid of the Democrats, would "sweep the country." A year ago it called them a miserable crowd of lunatics. Yesterday it spoke of them as a small but respectable party, destined to "sweep the State"—with aid of the Democrats, as before. The Democratic managers must believe that their cause is a desperate one indeed when they once more go out of their way to implore the help of the faction which injured them so much in 1872. Disgusted with the results of that combination, the Democrats for a long period heaped every kind of abuse on the unlucky Fenestras. Now, they are once more beseeching the Liberals to enter into a new alliance with them. What can a party so managed look for but constant defeat and failure?—N. Y. Times.

Some of our readers may remember the exportation to France, in 1865, of a quantity of American vines, an incident which awakened a good deal of interest among vine-growers at the time. It now appears that with these vines, planted in the Department of the Gard, was carried a species of vermin which attacks the roots of the vine, resists all attempts to extirpate it, and has worked serious disaster. In the Vaucluse, where 70,000 acres of land were formerly covered with vines, nine-tenths of the vineyards have been destroyed. The insect, which is called the phylloxera, has appeared in the Charentes and Beaujolais, and threatens Burgundy. The French Assembly, just before its adjournment, voted a reward of $60,000 to the discoverer of a cheap and practical means of destroying this pest. A few years ago a similar reward, we believe, led to the study of a parasite effecting the alk-worm and to the invention of a preventive for its ravages. Practical science now has an opportunity for a new triumph. It may be added that the obnoxious American vines are not hurt by the insect, on account of their hardness.

Tuesday was the day for opening the oyster trade in Philadelphia. For three months oysters could not be legally sold there. They have been sold all summer more or less, but the removal of the legal restraint, was an occasion for rejoicing among the oyster men.

THE GEORGI PIANO-FORTES. LATE NEWS REGARDING THEM.

The Georgi Piano-Fortes have taken the first premium over all competitors at the State Fair of West Virginia, in Kentucky, and at all other fairs and expositions where they have been exhibited.

Their durable build and refined expression of tone, causes them to be the favorite instrument in seminaries of learning.

From Rev. L. VAN BOKKELEN, Rector of St. Luke's Church, Buffalo, N. Y. "I have pianos of other celebrated makers in the Seminary, but the Georgi was selected and used at the concert as the best."

From Rev. W. E. MORRISON, Rector of St. Luke's Church, Buffalo, N. Y. "On leaving Iowa, I was reluctantly obliged to part with my Georgi Piano-Forte. When I settled in Buffalo one of my first cares was to provide my family with one of the same manufacture. It fully sustains the high reputation the Georgi instruments have in all parts of the country."

From Mr. JOHN ZUNDEL, Organist of Henry Ward Beecher's Church Brooklyn, says: "The Georgi has an exquisite action, and everything about it shows thorough workmanship and indicates durability."

From Rev. S. H. McCOLLISTER, President of Buohrel College, certifies: "I have been using two of your pianos the past year in our college. They have given great satisfaction. We regard them superior instruments."

From the New York Independent: "As they were highly recommended to us, we bought one for our own use, and we find that they are worthy of all the praise they have received."

The above are only a few selections from letters continually arriving which prove The Georgi to be the Leading Piano of the day.
