Forestry Work in South Jersey.

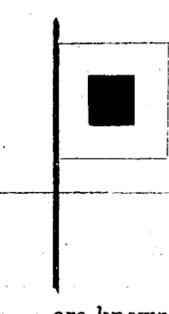

Mr. John Gifford, of the State Geological Survey, in charge of forestry work in South Jersey, is now in this region investigating the conditions of our woodlands. It is his endeavor, first of all, to prevent as far as possible the shameful waste from forestfires to which the impoverishment of the whole of South Jersey is due. There is a lack of unity on the part of woodland owners and other individuals interested in wood products. The South Jersey Woodmen's Association, therefore, has been formed, the objects of which are to improve and protect the forests of the Southern Counties of New Jersey; to prevent all wanton and needless destruction of forests; to adopt such methods of cutting as will increase and prolong the yield of timber and cordwood; to insist upon the enforcement of laws in relation to forests, and the punishment of malicious and careless firesetters; to encourage the planting and seeding of valuable trees on Jersey wasteland and elsewhere wherever practicable; and to encourage such methods of forest management as will tend to conserve and increase our water supply; and protect the wild animals of the woods.

It is hoped that every public spirited citizen will join this association and lend a hand in disseminating knowledge on this all-important subject. Mr. Gifford will lecture, free of charge, during the Winter, in any school or before any body of interested individuals.

In order to advertise the work, all members of the association receive free of charge the "South Jersey Forester," a monthly pamphlet devoted to the development of the natural resources of South Jersey, and official organ of the South Jersey Woodman's Association. The publication of this periodical will begin in November, and will contain valuable information for wood-land owners, mill-men, farmers, and capitalists, written by some of the leading scientific men and practical woodsmen in America and Europe. The annual due of the association is two dollars, one of which will be devoted to the support of its pamphlet, and the other dollar will be deposited in bank as a reserve fund of the association, after current expenses have been deducted. This journal will be started by Mr. Gifford without, at present, much indication of financial success. He sincerely hopes, however, that it will be liberally patronized in the more intelligent communities such as Hammonton and Vineland.

Mr. Gifford is now making a preliminary survey of the woods of South Jersey and his solution of the forest problem is briefly as follows: That all large tracts of land wholly unfit for agriculture, such as the "plains" of Ocean County, be set aside, put under forest regulations, and supervised by the State. It is hoped, also, that the owners of large tracts of land will adopt similar measures. By "forest regulation" is meant the growing of forests as crop, so that a strip of land will produce the largest amount of the finest timber at the least expense. The essential difference between a forester and lumberman is that one uses the ax and saw carefully, the other carelessly. The one thinks of posterity, and is content with a smaller but lasting income; the other is eager to rake in the golden shekels as soon as possible, in spite of consequences. The forest is a great inheritance, which we have recklessly cut and shamefully burnt. Like prodigals, we have wasted it.

Trees will grow on almost any soil, and gradually improve it, soon fitting it for agriculture. That Jersey can grow good timber is certain. We must, however, cut only the increment. It is like principal and interest,—we must use only the interest, which is sufficient to supply demand. All lands fit for agriculture must be cleared and developed. Every farmer, however, must be induced to leave a wood-lot on his farm, to keep him in timber and firewood, and to shield his crops. In that way, the large tracts of waste land will come under government control, and small patches of forest will be distrib-

The Weather:

Special Forecast for New Jersey,

Lower temperature, heavy frosts, and high thin winds, are predicted for South Jersey, especially in the vicinity of Hammonton. Vessel owners, landlords, farmers, business and professional people would do well to make immediate provision for cold wave, purchasing stoves, ranges, and heaters from S. E. are known to be the best of their class. All stations in territory described will continue to display cold wave signal till further orders.

uted throughout the whole of South Jersey.

The people of Hammonton have demonstrated what energy can do on sandy land, and Prof. Gifford sincerely hopes for their co-operation in re-foresting and developing the waste lands of this part of the State.

Persons who desire to know more of this subject can procure, free of charge, a pamphlet by B. E. Fernow, called "What is Forestry?" by sending a postal card request to the Division of Forestry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

If there was no national issue of free trade or protection this Fall, there would be an overshadowing question of State interest that is to be passed upon next month, and that is the scheme of the Democrats to steal the Senate, last Winter. Let every voter remember.

The Democratic party is to be distrusted in a National relation because of its utter incapacity to manage public affairs. It is to be distrusted in its State relation because its record is wretched and abominable. It can appeal to the people only on a record that proves it to have been false to their best interests.

There is the same relationship between faith and works that there is between the fruit of a tree and its roots.

Then he shook his head. "No, I don't. The hotel...

"I should be willing to pay a fair price," said Mr. Poynitz...

Mr. Poynitz stopped forward, raising his hat as he did so.

BOARDERS.

"Miss Philippa drew herself up with hauteur. 'Never!' cried Amelia, emphatically...

"But we must live," reassured Janey. "And there's the interest on the mortgages coming due this month, and the butcher taxes are all behind, and the butcher says he can't let the bill run any higher..."

"Waltons," suggested Janey, "must eat and drink." "Waltons," suggested Janey, "must eat and drink..."

"And then she told the two pink-and-white maidens what she had done. 'Artists!' exclaimed Philippa. 'On a sketching tour! Oh, how delightful!'"

"The gentlemen and three ladies," repeated Amelia. "Oh, I should revel in a little congenial society! Janey, see here! Philippa and I never will descend to the level of boarding-house keepers..."

"And—'and she accepted you?' 'I don't know. I have not received any answer to the note I sent to her...'

"Of course I mean—Janey?" "Miss Amelia started up, letting her sketching utensils scatter themselves every which way..."

"Yes, cried Philippa, 'that's the man, exactly! We'll take our Grandfather's name, and these sketching utensils scatter themselves every which way...'

"And who is to do the work?" asked Janey, composedly. "Philippa, of course!" answered Philippa...

"You are to take the money," added Amelia. "It was your own idea, you know..."

AMONTON.

"I never have heard of any such person since I have been here. But you declare it is a fact. I tell her, they would be here to help her in her household tasks and duties..."

"I don't know how you should expect me to know all about Miss Walton's household affairs," said she. "I am a 'lover'!"

"Oh, by your pardon!" said Philippa. "I supposed you were old acquaintances..."

"And I really can't imagine," Vincent added, "why you should be interested in the matter, one way or another..."

"Can't you?" He smiled, and touched the glittering edge of the candle with ivory-white teeth. "Why, because I'm interested in Miss Walton herself, because I find her the most interesting person I have ever met; because I have asked her to marry me..."

"And—'and she accepted you?' 'I don't know. I have not received any answer to the note I sent to her...'

POPULARITY OF ENBALMING.

The idea of earning a livelihood out of the making of mummies is not one to commend itself at first glance to the general mind, and the ghastly associations of the occupation are to many people superlatively repellent...

It is the only source of preventing the spread of contagious diseases, through transmission by the undertaker's ice-box or assistant. It is a preventive against premature burial in the case of a cataleptic subject, as the first incisions and injections of the embalming fluid are likely to induce signs of life if any remain...

Another favorable feature is the possibility of shipping bodies a long distance with convenience. It is not placed generally throughout this country, large numbers of women are employed as embalmers, as a profession, she was started by the coming of a doctor which had snatched out into a large proportion of women graduates...

For fear of incurring any horror or uncleanliness for the business, women are said to be peculiarly deft and efficient in the duties involved, which in a general way consists only in opening several veins of the arteries, pumping out the blood and injecting preservative fluids. Many of the women graduates have been trained nurses who saw an opportunity to make more money than in their former profession. One advanced to the rank of clergyman and was required. The prospectus of the College of Embalming sets forth that "past experience has demonstrated that a complete mastery of the science of body preservation can be achieved in a period of three days, and the shortest length of time required to learn the process may extend from one week upward, according to the capacity of the student. When the student has proved his or her ability to conduct the operation of embalming under different conditions in a satisfactory manner, a diploma is awarded, and the ordinary length of time required for graduation is two weeks."—Chicago Record.

Great multitudes came together to hear (Luke 5: 15).

He sat down and taught the multitudes (3).

He began to teach them many things (Mark 6: 34).

He welcomed them, and spake to them of the kingdom of God (11).

We know that thou art a teacher come from God (John 9: 33).

II. SERVICE DEMANDS. Put out into the deep, and let down your nets (4).

Then said he to the man, Stretch forth thy hand (Matt. 12: 13).

Jesus said unto them, Fill ye the water-pots with water (John 4: 7).

Cast the net on the right side of the boat (John 21: 6).

Obedience Rendered. At thy word I will let down the net (5).

They were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes (John 21: 6).

III. SERVICE APPOINTED. Simon Peter, fell down at Jesus' knees, saying, Depart from me (8).

LESSON BIBLE READING. MIRACLES WITH FISHES. Created (Gen. 1: 10, 21; Exod. 20: 11). Taught in immense numbers (Luke 5: 1-11; John 21: 6, 11). Money taken from mouth (Matt. 17: 27). A few multiplied (Matt. 14: 17-21; 15: 34-38). Dressed on the shore (John 21: 9).

Killing Power of the Rifle. A German army officer struggling with a prisoner catches up a military rifle and shoots his opponent through the heart.

The bullet penetrates the partition of a railway carriage and imbeds itself in the flesh of a passenger. But this is nothing, a bullet near the English practice camp at Aldershot, was recently struck to a distance of 2,500 yards, or one and one-half miles.

The bullet after passing completely through the body of the man, burst itself in the ground. Thereafter it was evident that the penetrative energy of these bullets ought to be capable of passing through the body of a man very easily.

Experiment with the catverer as a target shows that a conclusion should be drawn from these projectiles is a very low one, the space within which men are exposed to the dangers in the field has been greatly extended. It is thought that fire may be opened from a distance of 2,500 yards. It is found on trial that the bullet will penetrate a target of hits against targets of suitable dimensions at 1,800 yards. With smokeless powder and the consequent facility of distinguishing clearly at long ranges, the danger of being hit is more accurate than has heretofore been known.

These considerations have led to a call of an international conference of military medical men, with a view to adapting hospital service to the new exigencies of the field.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family needs it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment, before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat can be cured before it becomes serious. A very troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or so. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved, or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once, and you will never regret it. For sale by druggists.
