SISTERS.

The day had gone as fades a dream;
The night had come and the rain fell fast;
While over the bleak and sluggish stream
Cold blew the waiting blast.

In passive mood I idly read
The curtains from the rain-splashed glass,
And as I gazed the street I gazed
I saw two women pass.

One shivering with the bitter cold,
Her garments heavy with the rain,
Limped by with features wan and old,
Deep furrowed with sharp pain.

A child in form, a child in years;
But from her pitious pallid face,
The weariness of life with tears
Had washed all childish grace.

And as she passed me, faint and weak,
I heard her slowly say, as though
With trembling heart about to break,
"More on! Where shall I go?"

The other, who on furs reclined,
In bronchitis was driven to the play;
No thought within her vacant mind
Of those in ragged clay.

With unmoved heart and idle stare,
I gazed by the beggar in the street,
Who lifted up her hands in prayer
Some charity to meet.

Both vanished in the murky night—
The content on a step to die;
The lady to a scene of light
Where joy alone did sigh.

But angels saw amid her hair
What was by human eyes unseen;
The cross that grows on graves was there,
With leaves of gloomy green.

And though her diamond flashed the light
Upon the fasteners of her dress,
The butch's brow had seen more bright—
An angel's pitying tear.

New York Correspondence.

New York, Nov. 29, 1877.

THE VANDERBILT WILL CASE

is adjourned to Dec. 4th. It is the engrossing topic of conversation, everywhere. Scott Lord, the attorney for the contestants, is very busy getting up the testimony, and a pretty array of it he has. He asserts that he can prove every point mentioned in my last, and has a mass beside that he thinks will not be necessary to introduce. For instance, as far back as 1855, there was a cheque signed "Cornelius Vanderbilt," paid for a lot of groceries to be shipped to California. The signature was forged. William H. impressed his father with the belief that it was Cornelius who had uttered it, and the two family physicians got out a writ of lunacy, and Cornelius was seized and hurried off to the Bloomingdale Asylum. Fortunately the chief of that asylum knew Cornelius, and refused to receive him, knowing him to be entirely sane. The conspirators excused themselves with the plea that they did it to save him from a criminal prosecution for forgery. Cornelius demanded a legal investigation, but at the urgent request of the Commodore the matter was dropped. Mr. Lord expects to show that for twenty years William acted as a confidential agent with his tools to blackmail Cornelius and keep him in disfavor with his father, that in the end the vast property the old man had accumulated would come to him. It is probable that the will will be broken, in which case the Vanderbilt power will be gone. It is worth $100,000,000 and too much for one man to control, and the most important of the trunk lines from East to West ought not to be owned by one man. The public have an interest in the issue of this battle. Sympathy runs almost entirely with the contestants. And, speaking of the Vanderbilt, the great event of the season was

THE VANDERBILT WEDDING.

The daughter of William H. the great railway king, was married with great pomp and circumstance last Wednesday evening at St Bartholomew's, the ultra fashionable church of New York. Probably no wedding that could be announced would be the object of more curiosity, and the display was designed to reflect the consequences of the bride's family in a manner suitable to a fortune of ninety-five millions. But one order was given regarding the wedding dress,—that it should be the costliest that ever passed from the hands of the fashionable modiste, the same who furnished the wedding dresses for Miss Grant and Miss Tweed's daughter. Numbers were bidden to witness the wedding at the church, but the reception at the house was very select. The bride is about twenty, and blonde. She marries a Boston gentleman named Twombly. The father of the bride performed his part by giving his daughter a diamond necklace worth $50,000, and checks and other accoutrements for nearly a million, which will take the young couple comfortably through the winter.

It was as snobbish an affair as ever New York saw, and precisely the kind of thing that the mushroom shadylites always do. The gifts were advertised for days before, the cost being very carefully mentioned in each case. Now the real old families, who have something besides money to fall back upon, never do this. Their weddings are gorgeous enough, but publicity is always avoided. The newspaper reporter is not invited to inspect the house and make notes of everything from the diamond necklaces down to the brides outfit, and if anything beyond the mere announcement gets into the papers, it is because of the superior impudence of a reporter. The Vanderbilts and Stewarts and that kind are very careful to have it all blazoned forth, and it is due to the true patient medicine style. It is a mercy that such families don't last long. The ostentation bred of sudden wealth very soon dissipates it.

FASHIONS.

The fashions of the season are more for sense than for show. One of the stylish morning garments for out-doors is a long cloak of gray cheviot, covering the entire dress, and gored as closely as possible in front and behind. A highly sensible addition for walking is a cloth gaiter strapped over the boot, precisely like those worn by men, to keep the dust from entering the shoes. Embroidered waists of light blue or pink opera flannel are worn under the dress for cold weather. Bright red and blue shawls of plain cashmere or stella shawls with borders are again worn as a sort of half dress, and add touches of pleasing bright color to the streets.

THE CIGAR-MAKERS' STRIKE.

The cigar-makers' strike continues, and the strikers affect to have confidence that they can compel the managers to come to their terms they are evidently discouraged. About a thousand Chinamen have been brought on from San Francisco, and they are at work. But a more serious danger threatens them. The manufacturers have discovered that a woman can make a fair cigar in two days, and an excellent one in a week, and they are taking them on by the thousand. It is singular that the men never thought of this. There is no reason under heaven why the deft fingers of a woman should not be better in a trade like this than the coarse and clumsy hands of a man. A cigar made of expensive stock must be finished in handsome style, it must be elegantly shaped, smoothly and nicely finished, and there is no reason why woman's taste and dexterity should not be utilized in this as in other workmanship requiring similar qualities. The cigars are mostly made at the workman's home. So much "filling and so much "wrapper" is weighed out to the workman, who is required to deliver so many cigars of a prescribed size and weight. The manufacturers own tenement houses, which they rent to their employes, and in this way the work, while it is done without a factory, is practically under the supervision of the employer. The manufacturers are now ejecting the striking tenants, who of course have not paid rent, and each ejection is made the occasion of a demonstration. While the furniture is being loaded on carts, the strikers cheer for the ejected, and groan for the ejector, and the load, decorated with flags, moves away to the music of an improvised band. It will end in the men returning to their work, with the loss of a month's time, and some experience. The agitators are the only ones who make anything by these movements. Swinton Howls and Shwab sells beer, in comfort, but the deluded workmen starve. Strikers are expensive luxuries.

THE WAR AGAINST RUM

goes on with varying success. A large number of low groceries have been fined over and over again during the week, and a few of them have thrown up the sponge and quit in disgust. The big hotels closed on Sundays, and serve liquors at tables in their restaurants which the law can't take hold of. For other violations they pay their fines quietly and go right along. The "law and order league," as determined to at least check the traffic, and they will, if they do not set to quarreling among themselves. One faction wants the effort to be made against the low bucket shops alone,—the other insists that the fashionable bars need shutting up as well. But, divided as they are, I am glad to say some impetus is being made upon the trade. The city is cursed with over 8,000 rum miles of kind, and it is too heavy a tax to bear. But for these crime factories, the police force could be reduced a half, and the criminal courts would have nothing to do. Judge Daly remarked the other day that 98 per cent. of the criminal cases that came before him could be traced directly to rum.

TILTON.

There is no truth whatever in the story that is being circulated that Theodore Tilton and his wife are to shortly come together again. Tilton believes that his wife was false to him, and Mrs. Tilton believes that her husband has been false to her, and they both prefer to live alone, or, rather, not with each other. Theodore called upon her on his return from Europe to inform her as to the condition of her daughters, whom he left in Europe, but the interview was confined strictly to business. She is living quietly in Brooklyn, and he is living quietly in 2nd avenue. And the story that Tilton and Moulton had quarreled is equally untrue. They are as fast friends as ever, and hate Beecher as cordially as ever.

BUSINESS.

is not so brisk as last week. The uncertainty as to the silver bill has had a depressing effect, for no one knows what the condition of things will be if it passes. It would be a blessed thing if the currency tinkers would let it alone, and let it regulate itself. Medicine kills more than it cures, and there is nothing so terrible as uncertainty, for it checks business, while expense goes on just the same.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 30, 1877.

Of the matters urged for legislation in the President's message, the Paris Exposition and the deficiency bills, are yet to be acted on in the Senate, both having been reported by the Committee before the adjournment Thursday, the former with several amendments that may necessitate a conference committee. The Brand silver bill has also been reported by the Finance Committee, and that gentleman is understood to have said the House will not accept them; that no change is preferable to those provided by it, as proposed and doctored by the financiers of the upper House Committee. The House, after wrangling several weeks over the little business cut out for it in the message, at last cleared its docket, and after keeping Ewing impaled for weeks on the tender hooks of alternate hope and despair over his anti-resumption bill, passed it by a small majority, or the Fort amendment rather, which retains the free-banking clause of the resumption act and which was adopted by the Committee as a substitute.

Not one single utterance from the Democratic side during all the debate over the Army indicated anything like regret for the starvation policy adopted toward it and the Navy last winter, and which has inflicted on the officers, men and those dependent on them, an incalculable amount of troubles and annoyance and no little absolute suffering and privation. Nor have their arduous services during the past summer in the tedious pursuit and capture of Indians, guarding a long unhealthy frontier line along the Rio Grande, and in promptly responding to save imperiled (in their estimation) in Missouri. Governors from the fury of mobs, and out industrial interests and social institutions from universal disaster, awakened one sentiment of gratitude, seemingly; and we only excepted a reduction of the former that would have amounted practically, to abolition by the promptings of a selfish regard for their own section on the part of most of the Democratic members who finally united with their opponents in voting down the proposition. Throughout the wide range taken by debate in both Houses during the session now drawing to a close, we look in vain for an indication of the disintegration that was predicted as certain to follow the policy adopted relative to the late insurgent States; and in view of the unfruitful character of the harvest up to date, great panimony of sentiment in opposition to any further effort to placate by filling important offices by Democrats, has been and is being developed among the representative Republicans here. It has been voted to report Hilliard's nomination favorably, a result only reached by Stanley Matthews vote with the Democrats to confirm: It is among the current street and hotel gossip that Mr. Sanford's name has been reported unfavorably. Among all the men in 1861 who labored successfully to induce seceding States to adopt the secession ordinance, perhaps Hilliard was one of the most conspicuous in proportion to his ability; and the reputation of Mr. Sanford here is not such as will lead patriotic men to regret his rejection.

The blockade in the Senate still continues the topic of most absorbing interest in political circles. The anxious bearing of veteran Republican Senators who rarely lose their self-poise, indicates the gravity of the situation in their estimation. There is a good deal of suppressed excitement, and a volcano of latent indignation against Conover and Patterson that constantly threatens eruption. It is understood they both claim to still be Republicans, but that the concession policy demands of them the treachery they contemplate. It is a very thin pretext; and no one who has witnessed their humiliating submission to the crack of the Southern whip about their ears, can repress the feeling of pitying contempt for men fallen so low. The most urgent appeals have been hurriedly sent to Republican privates to hasten here at every hazard to private interests; and should Mr. Sharon disregard them he will likely encounter something besides the good-natured toleration that has hitherto been extended to him in his notable neglect of official duty. It is idle to speculate as to what the final result may be. The Democrats are exultant and since the struggle began last Wednesday about all hope of anything more than an interval of a very few days between sessions has been abandoned.

We are suffering from the most severe freshet known here since 1870. All cellars in the lower part of the city are flooded, and the whole river front is underwater. Long bridge across the Potomac into Virginia, is submerged to the depth of 3 feet. Travel is suspended from that direction and greatly impeded in others. Heavy losses have been inflicted on merchants and others. The water is reported as 12 feet above high water mark and the river is filled with the debris from the upper Potomac. At the present time of writing the wind is still blowing from the East and a continuance of the rains indefinitely is threatened.

OUR BOOK TABLE

Lippincott's Magazine for December opens with an interesting and richly illustrated article on Sicily, by Alfred T. Bacon. "Captured by Congress," is the title of another illustrated paper, detailing the adventures of a French officer who served under Davout in 1815. The new serial, "For Perseval," also illustrated, continues to form one of the most attractive features of the Magazine.

An article which cannot fail to attract much attention and excite a lively interest, is "One containing the reminiscences of a venerable lady" ("M. T.") belonging to the highest circles of Washington society, who was the guest of Madison, an inmate of the White House during the presidency of Jackson, and an intimate friend of Washington Irving, John P. Kennedy and other celebrities. The paper, which is full of lively descriptions and amusing anecdotes, is entitled "Days of My Youth."

T. B. Perry, the well known Boston critic, discusses Quilts' Novels, and explains the causes of their immense popularity, despite their glaring faults and the censures of reviewers. William Owens writes entertainingly on the "Folk-Lore of the Southern Negroes," and Olive Logan gives an account of "English Domesticity and their Ways." There is a story of French Internationalism, "A Portrait," by Ita Aniel Prokop. Mrs. R. H. Davis's powerful novel, and Will Wallace Hatner's tale of Southern manners, "A Kentucky Duel," are both concluded. Among the poems, "Selma," by Annie Porter, deserves notice; and the "Gossip," besides much other lively and agreeable reading, has a description of the departure of the Imperial Guard, by a Moscow correspondent.

This number concludes the twentieth volume and the tenth year of the issue of this Magazine. The conductors announce attractive features for the new year, and promise that the effort will be spared to maintain and increase its popularity.

Scraper for December opens with a paper of the lumber trade of the United States, by Chas. D. Robinson, Esq., entitled "The Woodland Age." Following closely upon this is Col. Walling's enthusiastic talk about "The Thoroughbred Horse." James Richardson's paper on "American Oyster Culture" (also illustrated) is not a compilation of statistics, but an interesting account of the methods employed in American waters for the culture of the oyster. The travel paper takes the reader "From the Atlantic to the Andes," via the Amazon and Malucra Rivers, and has an account of caoutchouc manufacture and some late information with regard to the progress of Brazil. With her paper on "Ants," of which many curious facts are told, Mrs. Herrick closes her series of microscopic studies. Another scientific paper, "Marx and his Moons," is by Lieut. P. W. Sturty of the U. S. Naval Observatory, whose calculations have met the approval of Prof. Hall, the discoverer of the moons. The serials are continued—Miss Traflet's hero coming nearer to "His inheritance," and Mr. Eggleston's Indiana story presenting new phases of life in the "Pocket." The reader is also enabled to compare Mr. Eggleston's fiction with reality, by the appearance, in this number, of the late Robert Dale Owen's reminiscences and anecdotes of life in the same part of Indiana.

A valuable paper in this number is a study of Keats by the poet, R. H. Stoddard. The January number will have the conclusion of this essay, which the student of literature is advised to read with Keats's poems in hand. "Some Precepts for Stan'ring Sorely," by Charles H. Truax, is a curious paper showing what one may or may not say against his neighbor without liability to an action in law. "Edward Bellamy has a short story entitled "Lodgers" and Charles de Kay a long poem, called "Hesperus," in which will be found a new treatment of the theme of immortality. Other poems are contributed by Emma Lazarus, Edgar Poe, Everett Ruess, M. Spaulding, and others.

In his special department, Dr. Holland discusses "Protection," "A Reform in the Civil Service" and "The Public Utilities," and gives a record of the recent "Harvard Examination for Women." "The Old Calender" is about "The Newspaper," "The United Magazine Man and the Powerful Politician," "Architecture and Art in New York," etc. Among the books reviewed are Oliver's Cook's new book on household art, "The House Beautiful," Pierce's "Memoir of Sumner," and Mrs. Burnett's "Sally and her Stories." In "Eric's Brazen," Mr. Stockton gives a second installment of his humorous "Models for Letter-writers."

There are plenty of newspapers, but those are many that are not worth the having, and unfit for family reading. The Family Newspaper should have attractive reading and information for the various members of a household. Some portion of the paper should be devoted, every week, to religious and moral improvement, to current secular news, to agriculture, commerce, markets, finance, to general literature, &c., with a special department for the young. Above all, the Family Newspaper should be perfectly pure, and free from any contaminating influences in its reading matter or in its advertisements. Too much attention cannot be paid to this feature, when the press is flooding the country with so much that is vile and poisonous. To crown all, the Family Newspaper should be untrammelled by any affiliation with sect or party, and should be free to give all the good news from and about all the world. If such a family newspaper can be had for one cent a day, it should be taken by every family in the land.

Such a family Newspaper in every respect, we find in the New York Observer, now commencing its fifty-sixth volume. Progressive, comprehensive, sound, reliable, pure, it is just what is needed in your household. Send $3.15 for a year to THE NEW YORK OBSERVER, 32 Park Row, New York. Sample copies are sent free.

THE

EATON GOLD and SILVER REDUCTION COMPANY.

1100 No. 20 Church St., N. Y.

GEN'L JOHN C. FREMONT, President.
PROF. A. K. EATON, Vice-President.
W. W. HANLY, Secretary.

This Company is founded upon discoveries, inventions and improvements in the reduction and treatment of Gold and Silver and other metals, which have recently been perfected. It is intended that its business shall be conducted by works of large capacity, which, for governing commercial reasons, will be near the city of New York, as well as by branch works in the mining districts, and by sale of its patent rights to other reduction works in this and foreign countries. The discoveries and improvements upon which the Company is based, have been made by Prof. A. K. Eaton, one of the ablest chemists and metallurgists of the present day. They have been resolved during a practical and personal experience in mining and kindred occupations extending over a period of more than fifty years.

Twenty six years ago Mr. Eaton invented and patented the Amalgamating Plates, which have ever since been in use at all the Gold and Silver Mills throughout the mining region. If the use of these plates were discontinued today, the yield of gold would probably be diminished one-half. In the same way his later discoveries are valuable and effective, and are marked by the same certainty and simplicity. The ores of nearly all the gold and silver mines are rendered more or less difficult by the presence, in combination, of zinc, sulphur, and other elements which give them a refractory character, and which involve great expense and time in working, and great loss of gold and silver.

It is not too much to say that the great mountain region West of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers is occupied and populated only on account of its mines of gold and silver, and other metals. Over their whole country many of these refractory ores are left unworked and many hundred thousand tons of ore left unused, because their working would be too difficult and expensive under present modes of treatment. To all these ores Mr. Eaton's processes directly apply. They render their working comparatively easy and inexpensive, and give immediate value to this idle property, and employment to many thousands of unemployed men. These processes increase the yield as at present had, by from ten to forty per cent. The reports of the Consolidated Virginia and California mines, for the year ending December 31, 1876, show that only 75 per cent. of the gold and silver contained in the ore is obtained by their present working, and the combined yield of these two mines for the year was $30,062,782,—thirty millions, sixty-two thousand, seven hundred and eighty-two dollars. By the Eaton processes, this yield could have been increased by six or seven millions of dollars. The gold mines of Senator Jones, in the San Joaquin Valley, gave him only 60 per cent. of what the ore contains. These mines are quoted because they are well known, and because every applicant of the best management, has been used to increase their production. Under Mr. Eaton's processes, it is claimed that out of most ores 97 per cent.—practically all—of the gold and silver can be obtained at much less cost of time and money than is at present required; that Base Bullion can be treated and refined at one-third the cost, and one fourth the cost at present used. In reference to this latter process, Prof. Turley, U. S. Mint, New York, says: "I believe it to be an entirely new and very useful process. Theoretically, the mechanical and chemical principles on which it is based are correct."

Large amounts of gold and silver ore are brought to this city for treatment and for shipment abroad, as also are large quantities of Base Bullion. The process of reduction is greatly facilitated by working together ores of a different character, and the Base Bullion now sent abroad, can be retained for treatment at the works in New York, under the improved process. For the purpose of a general demonstration of these processes, the Company has granted a limited right to a party in New York who is erecting works capable of treating twenty-five tons of ore and twenty-five tons of Base Bullion daily, and the building and machinery for this purpose are in greater part ready.

They now desire to provide for the immediate operation of the larger works by sale of a limited portion of their capital stock, and it is in order to procure the required means without unnecessary sacrifice, that their enterprise is in this way laid before the public. For this purpose a sufficient amount of stock will be sold at seven dollars per share, being 70 per cent. of its par value; and it is requested that persons who may wish to purchase, will apply personally, or by letter, to the Secretary of the Company, P. O. box 574, to whom all remittances for shares should be made, and from whom the Prospectus and other and more full information can be obtained.

RAMMONTON, ATLANTIC CO., N. J. SATURDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1877.

Little Joe has bought a house in Trenton. Wonder how much he paid for it.

Here's a ray of comfort. Austin, Texas, elected a Republican Mayor the other day.

The following is what the Cape May Wave gives us as specimen verse of a poem soon to be published by the editor of the Cape May Star:

"I wouldn't mind this Hayes' style— But not this Lord's an'ointed— But what gives me a feeling when Old Democrats are pointed!"

The Permanent Exhibition managers have concluded to close the doors of the exhibition on Sundays. One lady in Philadelphia was so pleased with this decision, she sent the managers $500.00 to use in helping the thing along.

We'll shut up on Sunday for he's that amount.

The West Jersey Game Protective society has obtained 140,000 salmon eggs from the Pacific coast, and will soon have them in condition for stocking streams.

They are to be placed in the streams as they were stocked last year. It is intended to stock the streams each year for three years.

The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser says of one of Mr. Lincoln's (he of the Philadelphia Times) visits to Washington, to attend the President's "straw firm": "Tilden went on to Washington in 1865, and advised Andy Johnson in the same way. When you see a bad boy in the street, encourage a dog, and cry to 'stick him, Tiger!' you let him wag to get the poor dog in trouble."

How Great Men Differ. It is strange how great men see great objects differently. President Hayes expressed his opinion to several gentlemen that his visit to the South with some of his Cabinet officers accomplished great good, and he could see divisions in the Democratic Party which must result disastrously to the Republican Party.

On the other hand, Mr. W. Watson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, who has been interviewed by the Tribune, says that Presidential hand-shaking with the chieftains of the South has produced no change in the feeling of the people of the Southern States towards the Republican Party.

Mr. W. Watson, "has not met the single Republican out of one single Democrat."—N. Y. Com. Ad.

Found Not. We had a week's work of the pound net being used in Little Egg Harbor for catching fish. As many people may not know, together with a description furnished us by B. W. Williams, Esq., member of A. H. Richards, Esq., of Pleasant Hill, as published in the Atlantic City Advertiser:

ing so arranged as to be drawn up something like a purse. The wings of the net, staked out so as to aid in conducting the fish into it.

The fish in the net are usually, this net being set across the channel so that, when the fish are moving up with the flood tide, they are driven down the net by the force of the flood tide, and naturally swimming along to find a place where to get around it, through it are conducted into the pound.

This device for the depletion of your waters of fish is kept for months in place and visited every day, sometimes twice a day, by the owners with a large boat, which is taken into pound B, the net "sprung up" and the fish scooped out.

Largess on Temperance. In a recent issue of an Indiana paper, Col. Robert G. Ingersoll says that the only "temperance speech" he ever made was in what was known as the Municipal trial in Chicago, when he made these remarks on alcohol: "I believe, gentlemen, alcohol to a certain degree demoralizes those who make it, those who sell it and those who drink it. I believe that from the time it issues from the coiled and poisonous worm of the distillery until it enters into the body of a man, woman or child, it demoralizes everybody that touches it from its source to its end. I do not believe that anybody can contemplate the subject without becoming prejudiced against the liquid crime. All we have to do, gentlemen, is to think of the wrecks upon either bank of the stream of death; of the suicides; of the insanity; of the poverty; of the ignorance; of the destitution; of the little children tugging at faded dresses of weeping and despairing mothers; of the millions of wretched beings produced by this devilish thing, which you think of the jail; of the almshouse; of the asylums; of the prisons; and of scaffolds upon either bank, I do not wonder that every thoughtful man is prejudiced against that damned stuff called alcohol."

The well-known author, in this admirable lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the neuralgic condition of the system may be cured without the use of opiates, and without dangerous medical operations, blisters, leeches, or other remedies, pointing out a simple and safe method of effecting a cure which every sufferer can apply to his condition may be, in any case, cheaply, privately and radically.

Put up in cases of 2 doz. and 4 doz. full plits.
Beware of an imitation, manufactured with the Kissingen Water. Notice and ask for the SARATOGA KISSINGEN, and take no other. No Spring in Saratoga produces water more pleasant to the taste, or more healthful and invigorating than the Hyperion Spouting Spring, and its price is less than that of others.

WANAMAKER & BROWN respectfully announce that their Autumn and Winter Fashions in Clothing for Men and Boys are ready. The great buildings at Sixth and Market are crowded from top to bottom with such Clothing as merits the confidence of the people.

WANAMAKER & BROWN'S Cloths and Cassimeres are, in many instances, made expressly for them. No house in the trade confines itself so exclusively to the first-class manufacturers. Indeed, a long and mature experience is necessary to know just what goods to select and make up.

WANAMAKER & BROWN'S Order Department will be found full of fabrics of every good kind, either Novel and Fashionable styles or the plainer and more useful things. Talented cutters, who have been successful for years in our service, are in waiting to make garments according to the ideas of the people who are to wear the goods. Good hands are employed to make up, and only good trimmings used.

WANAMAKER & BROWN'S Ready-Made Department offers every accommodation to those who do not care to go through the process of measurement. The stock in all Departments for Men and Boys is immense and complete, and does not lack in style, workmanship or finish, while the prices can be proven to be nearly, if not quite, 25 cents on the dollar lower than the market.

WANAMAKER & BROWN'S Little Boys' and Youth's Clothing has always been a well cared for and prominent feature of the business. All ages can be fitted, and the styles are not surpassed—the "fit" have always been the subject of admiration.

WANAMAKER & BROWN'S Shirt, Necktie, and Hosiery counters enable their customers to get complete outfits at more advantageous rates than they expect.

GOLD.

Great chance to make money. If you can't get gold you can get greenbacks. We need a person in every town to take subscriptions for the largest, cheapest and best illustrated family publication in the world. Any man can become a successful agent. The most elegant works of art given free to subscribers. This price may low but it is not everybody who subscribes the next reports making over $500 in a week. A lady and a gentleman taking over 400 subscribers in ten days. All who engage make money fast. You can devote only your spare time to the business, or only your spare time. You need not be away over night. You can do it as well as others. Full particulars, directions and terms free. Right and extensive on the free. If you want profitable work send us your address at once. It costs nothing to try the business. No one who engages fails to make great pay. Address "The People's Journal," Portland, Maine.

$777

Can't be made by every agent every month in the business we furnish, but those willing to work can easily earn a dozen dollars a day right in their own locality. Have no room to explain here. Business as well as men. We will furnish you an outfit free. The business pays for itself anything else. We will not expense of starting you. Part where from. Write and see. Farmers and mechanics their sons and daughters, and all classes in need of paying work at home, should write to us and learn all about the work at once. Now is the time. Don't delay. CUMBERLAND MUTUAL
Fire Insurance Company,
BRIDGETON, N. J.

Conducted on strictly mutual principles, offering a perfectly safe insurance for just what you may cost to pay losses and expenses. The proportion of loss to the amount insured being very small, and expenses much less than usual, all, nothing can be offered more favorable to the insured. The cost being about ten cents on the hundred dollars per year to the insurers on ordinary risks, and from fifteen to twenty five cents per year on hazardous properties, which is less than one third of the lowest rates charged by stock companies, on such risks—the other two thirds taken by stock companies being a profit accruing to stockholders, or consumed in expenses of the companies.
The guarantee fund of premium notes being now Three Millions of Dollars.
If an assessment had to be made of five percent, only, twice within the ten years for which the policy is issued, it would yet be cheaper to the members than any other insurance offered. And that large amount of money is saved to the members and kept at home. No assessment having ever been made, being now more than thirty years, that saving would amount to more than
One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars

The Losses by Lightning.
Where the property is not set on fire, being less than one cent per year to each member, are paid without extra charge, and extended so as to cover all policies that are issued and outstanding.
