greater influence and power in the House than we should expect to see developed in the Senate, but there are good men as he that have borne the brunt of battle at home, whose claims should now be recognized. If I take the voice of the majority of Michigan residents in this city, and there are hundreds of the best and truest Republicans temporarily residing here, Mr. Conger's services would meet with the reward they deserve, in a promotion to a higher sphere of duty. His own district has seven times returned him as their master representative, and it now seems altogether probable that his State will show her gratitude, and her faith in his experience and abilities, by sending him as her honored representative, and successor to Cass, Howard, and Chandler. General Grant visited Philadelphia on Saturday. He called upon the widow of A. E. Borie whose late husband was his traveling companion in the East, after which he lunched with Mr. A. J. Drexel and Mr. George W. Childs. He returned to New York at 7 P. M. The visit was purely a social one.

MAXWELL.

THE HERO PLOUGH BOY.

BY J. L. M'CREERY.

Half buried in the morning mists
The meadows silent lie,
The sun is slowly climbing up
The ruddy eastern sky,
As light of heart, the farmer boy
Begins his daily toil.
To guide the team and hold the plough,
And turn the mellow soil.
Keep every furrow trim and straight,
With practiced eye and hand;
And when the whole is overthrown
"Strike out" another "land."
Search where you may, the world contains
No nobler field of labor;
More proud than that of him who wields
The flashing spear or sabre.
What though the hand be rough that holds
The handle of the plough?
What though the summer sun hath poured
Its fierceness on your brow?
What though your pantaloons may boast
A patch on either knee?
These are but badges that proclaim
Nature's nobility.
What though the brainless fop may sneer
In scornful ridicule?
What though the child of luxury
Pass by the other side?
What though no gilt-edged note invites
To strut where fashion reigns
O'er thronging crowds of thoughtless fools
With softer hands and brains?
The schoolboy reads the ancient tale,
How foreign foes unfurled
Their flag before the walls of Rome
Froud mistress of the world;
Then rallied they whose lives had passed
Where flashing squadrons wheeled,
And chase for leader one whose home
Was the un-tented field.
When patriot sires of freedom fought
Against the tyrant foe,
Our country found her best defence
Her brave and sturdy yeoman;
When traitors from within assailed
Our flag by land and sea,
They were the stalwart hands that kept
Our country one and free.
But on a bloodless battle field
Are made your conquests now;
Your foes are falling, rank by rank,
Before the conquering plough;
The plough, more potent than the sword,
The bayonet, or the ball—
Whose victims, friendless and unwept,
Are buried where they fall.
Not yours the widow's wail of woe,
The starving orphan's tear,
The dying groan of agony
With none to pity near;
But by the labors of your hands
The hungry shall be fed,
And life and plenty crown the earth,
Now drear, and dark, and dead.
Then on! work on! forgetting not
A world in waiting stands;
The field of human progress calls
For fearless hearts and hands.
With patient faith, with earnest zeal,
The laborer there must toil,
And many a furrow, broad and deep,
Must overturn the soil.
Then shall we see the giant weeds
Of Error overthrown,
And in their native soil, the seeds
Of Truth and Beauty sown.
Now, on our vision from afar
The golden harvest gleams—
More bounteous than our wishes are,
More glorious than our dreams.
—National Citizen and Soldier.

One of the delusions of the whiskey drinker is, that he is made stronger by the use of stimulants. He is made stronger just as he is made wiser and richer—"in his own credit." A man half drunk would be ready to out-argue Solomon, or offer to buy out the Rothschilds. Everything with him is on a grand scale. The stones in the road look larger, and he steps several inches higher than he did before; but in fact he is no wiser, richer, nor stronger than he was before he impaired his judgment by the deceiving cup.
A correspondent eighty years of age, writing to the Temperance Advocate illustrates the principle thus:—"Fifty-five years ago the writer of this was a resident of West Virginia, and one morning four of us, young men, started to walk two miles on a new-made turnpike; and on the way two of my friends got to talking about their personal strength. Each one thought himself the strongest, and in order to try, we stepped out to the side of the road, where there were plenty of rocks of all sizes. One was selected that, after trying, neither one could lift. I then tried it myself, and raised it quite easily on to my knees. We then went on to the camp of turnpikers. There we were treated to whiskey. I drank some (but I think quite moderately), and on going back, as I believed myself so much stronger for the whiskey, I thought I would step out and lift the stone again, and perhaps toss it off a rod or two; but my surprise was great when I found I could not lift it enough to let daylight under it! It set me to thinking, and I thought that whiskey was a lie; that its use gave weakness instead of strength. And, although I had a good and growing appetite for it I joined the temperance society the first opportunity; and since that I have not pulled the cork out of a bottle of spirits of any kind; and I am quite certain if I had continued to drink spirits I should not have attained the age of eighty years, as I have already done.
"My advice to young men is, if you want to be strong in body and mind, happy in this world and the next, use neither whiskey nor tobacco."

The Right of Way.

There was a Detroit er among the trio of officials who passed over route of the Butler Road to secure right of way. In some cases the farmers cheerfully signed off; in others money had to be used, but in one case the committee found a most determined opposition. The road would divide a widow's farm, and she was independent, obstinate and defiant. She knew that her hay-stacks and barns would be destroyed by fire, her live stock run over by trains, and her slumbers disturbed by the rattle of trains, and she wouldn't listen to argument. In this emergency one of the committee said:
"Madam, do you know of any widow in this neighborhood who would be willing to board a gentleman connected with the construction of our road? He is a widower, and prefers to board with a widow."
"No, I don't know as I do. Is he a nice man?"
"Splendid man, and has money in the bank. We want him to permanently locate at this point, and are in hopes he will take a wife. It is unfortunate that —"
"I never did take boarders," she mused, "but —"
"If you only could, now, I'm sure you would not regret it. He is extremely fond of children, and would be like a father to your little ones."
"Perhaps I might, to accommodate you."
"Ah! thanks. He would be here next week if this right of way matter was decided, but as it is he may not —"
"Do you agree to pay damages if you burn my barn?"
"Of course we do."
"And I'll probably get used to the noise."
"Oh, of course. In week you won't mind it. Fact is, you'll sit up every night till midnight, anyhow after the gentleman arrives."
"No I shan't; I shall never love again; but if he is a nice man, and loves children, why I don't know as I ought to stop your road. I guess I'll sign."
—Detroit Free Press.

A Louisville colored woman talked her jaw out of joint while quibbling with some neighbors in an alley. She was pretty mad. The neighbors with whom she was quarrelling thought she had the lockjaw, and ran for a doctor. When that individual arrived he took hold of her jaw and jerked it into place, and the ungrateful female, without stopping to thank him, turned to the wretched neighbors and resumed her quarrel, saying that the Lord could stop her tongue but they couldn't. And then they were kicking themselves for getting a doctor to come and relieve her.
A young man with his first goatee may be said to have a tuft time of it.

THE INDEPENDENT

"The foremost religious newspaper of the United States."—JOS. COOK.

The INDEPENDENT seeks the patronage of the public on three grounds, as follows:
1st. It is the largest weekly religious newspaper published in the world.
2d. It employs as contributors more able writers at home and abroad, than any other weekly newspaper.
3d. It gives its readers a wider range of topics and more and fuller departments than they can find elsewhere in any journal.
The Independent consists of 32 pages, neatly cut and pasted. It is printed from clear type (we stereotype the pages weekly, and hence every issue is really printed with new type) and on good paper, and mechanically it is unexcelled.
There is no question of prominence in religion, politics, science, education, finance or any other department of human knowledge which the Independent does not discuss. It has regular departments devoted to Biblical Research, Missions, Religious Intelligence, Home Business, Literary News, School-Teaching, Education, Science, Sanitary Questions, Fine Arts, the movements of ministers, Personalities, News of the Week, Financial and Commercial matters, including weekly Prices Currents, Market Reports, Cattle Market, Dry Goods Quotations, Flowers and Farming, and Insurance. In its religious department it gives news and statistics of all denominations of Christians, everywhere. In fullness, accuracy and comprehensiveness this department is unequalled. Several pages of Stories and Poems adapted to Old and Young are given every week, with a column of Puzzles.
From time to time sermons by eminent ministers are published. The current topics of the day are discussed in our editorial columns freely and vigorously. We are not afraid to state our opinions.

Casting the Vote.

Despatches from all the States of the Union show that, with the exception of New York, where Cornelius B. Agnew was chosen to fill a vacancy caused by the absence of Mr. Alken of the Thirtieth district; Virginia, where Major Baker P. Lee took the place of Thomas Croston in the First District; Louisiana, where vacancies were filled, and Georgia, where there was no meeting, there was a full attendance of Electors at the various Colleges on Wednesday last. The total vote cast was 214 for James A. Garfield, President and Chester A. Arthur for Vice President, as against 144 (leaving Georgia out) for Winfield Scott Hancock and William H. English. In detail the result was as follows:

Table with 2 columns: State and Number of Electors. Includes Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Total.

The State law of Georgia requires the Governor to call the Electors of that State together on the first Monday of December to count the vote on the first Wednesday. This year, the first Monday occurs after the first Wednesday; therefore, no meeting of the Georgia Electors has been held, hence, their vote was not cast.

JOHN ALLEN'S WIFE'S NEW BOOK—A RARE TREAT.—F. C. Bliss & Co., of Newark, N. J., (as per advertisement in another column) have in press and will soon issue a new book entitled "My Wayward Partner," from the pen of the popular author Josiah Allen's wife, who has hitherto so pleased the public with her story books, "My Opinions and Beliefs," "The Girl of the Olden Time," "The Boy of the Olden Time," and an immense number of others. This new volume promises to surpass in many respects her previous works, and we, with other readers, may expect a new treat when the volume is out. The book will contain about 500 pages with over 100 illustrations. It will be sold only by subscription. Agents are wanted.

Editorial Selections
Every new fact that comes to light about that forged Chalmers letter makes the guilt of Chairman Barren and his committee clearer. The whole concern had better join Blitting Bull before any more evidence in the case is made known.

The Democrats haven't found out yet that a Republican President can be at the head of his party and yet remain an independent man. The men they were accustomed to elect to the Chief Magistracy were so completely controlled by their party that they are unable to understand the difference between a statesman and a politician.

The electoral system is a method of choosing a President which the people appear to know less about the more they know it. It has now been employed at twenty-four Presidential elections, and yet the masses increase quadratically. It is a strange method of election in which some stupid printer or ignorant chairman of a county committee may vitiate the whole count by some childish oversight.

Blaine of Maine had a long private interview with General Garfield. The conversation between them was of the most frank and friendly character. It is understood that Blaine gave his views of matters and things with great freedom, as it is probable those gentlemen will not meet again until about the time of the inauguration. Such being the case, Garfield was anxious to have now whatever suggestions the Maine Senator wished to make. After their interview Garfield was asked a question in regard to his prospective Cabinet, and replied that he should not agree in his own mind as to members of his Cabinet before February; that he thought this abundantly soon to come to a conclusion upon the important question.

An intimate friend of his supplement Blaine by saying that General has not a single man in his mind eye whom he has considered to ask into his Cabinet.

HEAVY BOOTS.

The season is fast going for the sale of heavy boots. Our sales have been unusually large in men's and boy's sizes, owing to the reputation our specialties have obtained. We still have a full line of our best heavy boots and have just restocked in boy's sizes of best boots. In men's sizes we have a few pairs left of 10s and 11s of extra stock and make orders especially for our trade.

MARKED DOWN.

Owing to the difficulty in selling anything but our best boot we have marked down our stock that we carried over from past seasons from $3.50 to $4.50 down to $3.00, and are now offering some splendid bargains, especially so in sizes 6-7-10 and 11s.

THOSE CALF BOOTS

have arrived that we are not afraid to guarantee for wear against any sale boot ever offered in this town. Parties have waited over a month for them (owing to delay in getting our order filled) because they knew what they were for wear, and would have nothing else. Don't fail to look at our stock before purchasing.

able dealing, valuable and trusty clothing, ease and safety in getting it, OAK HALL is the place for you to go to, or to send to; and it is worth your while to know how you can send, if it is inconvenient to go.

Write; say what your occupation is; say what sort of use you intend to make of the clothes you want, whether for every-day wear or otherwise; what color you prefer, or what color to avoid; say about what you want to pay; say everything that you think may aid a stranger in choosing for you. You will get in reply samples of cloths and prices of whatever you want made from those cloths. You will get also the means of having your measure taken by an unskilful person.

There is only one difficulty left. Somebody has got to take the risks of the dealing; for there are risks. Send your money along with your order. That covers the risk as to your good faith. We risk everything else; the fit, and your satisfaction every way.

Our trade by mail amounts to half a million dollars a year; there's no reason why it shouldn't amount to five millions.

OAK HALL, PHILADELPHIA.

Worth Knowing.

There is a place in Philadelphia where a stranger may buy his clothes, and fare as well as if he knew the whole city by heart; and if he knows nothing about the value of cloths, or of clothes, he is as well off, as if he were a good judge of both.

The reason is that everything to be found there is made there—made and sold under a system which rarely allows mistakes to occur, and which corrects them, if they do occur.

OAK HALL is the place; and its practice may be summed up in a few words. If you get there what you don't want to keep at the price, you return it, and get your money back.

This means a great deal more than appears on the surface. It means that you are not going to get what you will not want to keep at the price, if the merchant can help it. It means that the clothes you get there will be of honest cloths, honestly made; and that they will cost you less than as good clothes can be got for elsewhere. It means that they will be every way better worth your money than you can get elsewhere for the same money.

If it means anything less than these things—if it means poor cloths, trimmings, cutting, sewing, or in any way dishonest or illiberal dealing; the return of his goods will plague the merchant, injure his credit, and dissipate his trade.

If it means these things—if it means liberal and honest dealing, valuable and trusty clothing, ease and safety in getting it, OAK HALL is the place for you to go to, or to send to; and it is worth your while to know how you can send, if it is inconvenient to go.

In Unconsidered Trifles the New York World says: "Mr. Longfellow can take a worthless sheet of paper and by writing a poem on it make it worth $50. That's genius. Mr. Vanderbilt can write fewer words on a similar sheet and make it worth $50,000,000. That's capital."

A certain Chinaman gave a dinner party. The viands were not to his taste. He rose from the table, asked to be excused for a few moments, and left the room, with the remark: "Much lickee wife." This was not in China.
It is suggested by the Springfield (Mass.) Union as a fit and graceful thing that President-elect Garfield's old teacher, ex President Mark Hopkins, of Williams College, should be asked to officiate as chaplain at the inaugural ceremony next March.

A Chicopee, Mass., small boy declined to eat soup at dinner the other day, on the ground that he hadn't any teeth that were little enough for soup.
A little boy, weeping most piteously, was interrupted by some unusual occurrence. He hushed his cries for a moment, the thought was broken, "Ma," said he, resuming his snuffle, "what was I crying about just now?"

Indiana Democratic editors want the New York election investigated. They are so anxious about it that they would be willing to see the Morey letter forged investigation dropped.
The backbone of the straw hat trade is broken.
If you want to enjoy a green old age live on your income while you are young. A debt is like a drizzling rain which makes you uncomfortable all the time, while bills all receipted and a lucky penny laid up for bad weather make the heart warm when the mercury is at zero.

The estate of an English miser named Rhodes was lately wound up. It realized $390,000. The sale of his effects in his residence resulted in $28,76. The property goes to two charities—the London Free Hospital and the National Lifeboat Institution.
"No, marm," said the shoe dealer; "I would like to give you a smaller pair, but to sell you anything below eight would render me liable under the statute for the prevention of cruelty to animals." He didn't sell her anything under eight or over it. Some women are so touchy about the size of their feet.

The ingenious Congressman from the Altoona (Pa.) district is alleged to have promised the Post Office of that city to several individuals. He cannot very well gratify them all, and so he proposes that citizens, both Democrats and Republicans, shall ballot for the Postmaster, the candidates being all Republicans and the one receiving the most votes be appointed. It is not a bad idea.
In Europe the usual sign used by barbers is not the striped pole, but one or more brass disks or dishes, suspended over the street. The origin of the use of these signs is not, perhaps, generally known. Until the time of Louis XIV., in France, and George II., in England, the offices of barber and surgeon were united. The sign then used was the streaked pole, with the basin suspended from it. The former was to represent a bandaged wound, and the latter the basin into which the blood flowed. The barbers, after their separation from the surgical profession, appropriated the sign, apparently without appreciating the joke they were playing upon themselves.

Insurance.
CUMBERLAND MUTUAL Fire Insurance Company.
BRIDGETON, N. J.
Conducted on strictly mutual principles, offering a perfectly safe insurance for just what it may cost to pay losses and expenses. The proportion of loss to the amount insured being very small, and expenses much less than usually had, nothing can be offered more favorable to the insured. The cost being about ten cents on the hundred dollars per year to the insured on ordinary risks, and from fifteen to twenty-five cents per year on hazardous properties, which is less than one-third of the lowest rates charged by stock companies, on such risks—the other two-thirds taken by stock companies being a profit accruing to stockholders, or consumed in expenses of the company.
The guarantee fund of premium notes being now Three Millions of Dollars.
If an assessment had to be made of five per cent. only, twice within the ten years for which the policy is issued, it would yet be cheaper to the members than any other insurance offered. And that large amount of money is saved to the members and kept at home. No assessment having ever been made, being now more than thirty years, that saving would amount to more than
One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars

The Losses by Lightning.

The Republican.

(Entered as second class matter.)

ORVILLE E. HOYT,
Editor and Publisher.

HARRINGTON, ATLANTIC CO., N. J.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1880.

If we were a member of the New Jersey Legislature, we are free to confess that the choice of a man for whom to cast our vote for United States Senator to succeed Mr. Randolph would be one of the most puzzling things imaginable. New Jersey has many men of whose ability and worth we have no question; but prominent among them are Gen. Sewell and Hon. Geo. M. Robeson. As we remarked last week, Gen. Sewell's chances seem to be improving; yet Mr. Robeson's services to the State and the Republican party entitle him to consideration; while his abilities as a Constitutional expounder, and in debate, as shown these past two weeks, show him to be worthy in every respect of promotion to the higher branch of Congress. We have been feeling the public pulse somewhat, during the past week—that is, in Atlantic county in particular—and find that there is a strong desire to have Mr. Robeson chosen for our next Senator.

An Address to the People of New Jersey.

By the Committee of the Prohibition Party.

In 1856 all organized effort to secure the prohibition of the liquor traffic was abandoned, because the moral forces of the country were needed to insure victory on the side of human freedom.

Nine years later the people rejoiced over the victory at Appomattox and the overthrow of slavery. Recently some have feared that that blood bought victory was incomplete. In a solid South they saw a menace to the republic and read the declaration, "This is not a Nation." But the conquest of the bayonet has been supplemented by the victory of the ballot, and to day the momentous issues of the war are decided.

That party which was intrusted with the Republic during the war has received an unparalleled manifestation of confidence, and can now complete its work, if it will.

Under such circumstances, the people who are the sovereigns, may well employ the ballot, the sceptre of their power to compel the recognition of a new issue.

The people will accept no question that shall array section against section, but desire a question that will divide the solid South and prevent a similar combination in the North. They demand an issue that will command the attention of every citizen; and enlist the sympathy of every patriot; an issue whose success will contribute to the happiness of every home and conserve the highest interests of the Nation.

In the prohibition of the liquor traffic such an issue is presented.

That traffic imposes greater burdens of taxation than the most profligate administration could necessitate.

It has done more to corrupt the public service than all other causes combined.

It produces greater waste of blood and treasure than war.

It paralyzes industry, promotes pauperism, breeds crime, sows the seed of discontent, yields a harvest of discord and is the precursor of national overthrow.

To prove this let facts be submitted to a candid world.

During the past twenty-five years it has decreased the wealth of the United States more than $38,000,000,000.

It has added more than two hours to the daily task of every toiler.

It has robbed over 400,000 persons of sanity.

It has added over 300,000 to the list of idiots.

It has reduced 2,500,000 people to a condition of pauperism.

It has made more than 2,750,000 criminals.

It has prematurely taken the lives of more than 1,500,000 citizens.

Against such a foe of domestic peace, individual prosperity and national progress, the best morality of the day may well combine.

The prohibition of the traffic would protect our industries, give security to our public schools, rob bigotry of its danger, insure a liberal religious education, promote peace, enhance prosperity and insure the tranquility of the nation.

To secure such results, every Democratic patriot and Republican philanthropist can consistently clasp hands.

To all who are willing and ready to use the Ballot as well as the Bible to secure the emancipation of the race from the bondage of the drink curse, we appeal for a recognition of this issue as the most momentous question of the present.

Believing that it is as great a wrong to disfranchise a citizen by constitutional provision as to secure that result by intimidation, we demand the immediate enfranchisement of woman that we may receive at her hands a purified civil service, and an efficient administration that will guard with jealous devotion the equal rights and best interests of the whole people.

W. H. H. BARTMAN,
H. P. DAVIDSON,
H. B. HOWELL,
Committee.

Editorial Selections

Acting immediately upon the President's suggestion, but changing the form of the provision, with the President's approval, Representative McCook has submitted a bill to place General Grant on the retired list with the full pay of General. This disposition of the matter is apparently preferred by the Republicans at Washington because it does not involve the creation of a new office, and simplifies the official procedure of putting General Grant in possession of a deserved honor and a comfortable income. If the bill does not pass at this session, it will be pretty sure to find a front place among the enactments of the next Congress.

The credit of the United States abroad to-day may well excuse somewhat of self-gratulation on the part both of President and people. It is worth something to every citizen to read in the London Times such words as these: "The finances of the United States may excite the envy, not only of England, but of Europe. The unprecedented rate of redemption is having its natural effect in raising the credit of the United States to a level with the most staid and best paying communities of the Old World. In reaching that level the United States will only attain the rightful to its engagements, whose resources are so limitless; and whose population increases with such remarkable rapidity, ought to enjoy—the best credit accorded to any State."

The richly illustrated November number of Scribner's Monthly, the Decennial Issue, appears in a new cover, and begins the twenty-first volume. The increasing popularity of the magazine is strongly evidenced by recent sales. A year ago the monthly circulation was about 90,000 copies; during the past nine months it has averaged 115,000, while the first edition of the November issue is 125,000.

The first Part of the now-famous serial by Eugene Schuyler, "The Life of Peter the Great," was finished in October. With November begins Part II, "Peter the Great as Ruler and Reformer," which will be an advance, in point of popular interest and wealth of illustration, upon the part already published. To enable readers to secure Part I, the publishers make the following special offers to new subscribers after October 20th, who begin with the November number.

(1.) New subscribers may obtain, for $5.00, Scribner's Monthly for the coming year, and the previous nine numbers, February to October, 1880, which include Part I of "Peter the Great," Mrs. Burnett's "Louisiana," etc. In accepting this offer, twenty-one numbers will be had for $5.00.

(2.) They may obtain the previous twelve numbers of Scribner's, elegantly bound in olive-green cloth (two volumes), containing Part I of Peter the Great, all of Gable's novel, "The Grandchildren," with the numbers named above, and a year's subscription, for $7.50. (Regular price, $10.00.)

All book-sellers or news-vendors will take subscriptions and supply the numbers and volumes mentioned in the above special offers, without extra charge for postage or express; or the publishers, Scribner & Co., 743 Broadway, New York, may be addressed direct. The regular price of Scribner's is $4.00 a year, 25 cents a number.

It is not "one-man power," but one woman's power, that the average citizen suffers from.

OAK HALL, PHILADELPHIA.

Worth Knowing.

There is a place in Philadelphia where a stranger may buy his clothes, and fare as well as if he knew the whole city by heart; and if he knows nothing about the value of cloths, or of clothes, he is as well off, as if he were a good judge of both.

The reason is that everything to be found there is made there—made and sold under a system which rarely allows mistakes to occur, and which corrects them, if they do occur.

OAK HALL is the place; and its practice may be summed up in a few words. If you get there what you don't want to keep at the price, you return it, and get your money back.

This means a great deal more than appears on the surface. It means that you are not going to get what you will not want to keep at the price, if the merchant can help it. It means that the clothes you get there will be of honest cloths, honestly made; and that they will cost you less than as good clothes can be got for elsewhere. It means that they will be every way better worth your money than you can get elsewhere for the same money.

If it means anything less than these things—if it means poor cloths, trimmings, cutting, sewing, or in any way dishonest or illiberal dealing; the return of his goods will plague the merchant, injure his credit, and dissipate his trade.

If it means these things—if it means liberal and honor-
